The Edison Co. by-law was then taken up. The clerk read the returns of the vote taken last Thursday. By-law No. 617, to aid the Edison General Electric Company, was then, on motion of Mr. E. H. D. Hall, seconded by Mr. Kelly, given a third reading and finally passed without dissent.

THE AGREEMENT SIGNED.

The MAYOR stated that he had received the contract from the company, signed by the officers, which he had handed over to Mr. Edwards, town solicitor.

Mr. EDWARDS said he had had a copy of the agreement made, which would require to be signed by the necessary town officials and sent back to New York, the corporation retaining the one signed by the officers of the Edison Company.

The agreement was then read over by the Clerk.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly—That the Mayor and Clerk sign the agreement with the Edison General Electric Company, and affix the corporate seal thereto. —Carried.

EXEMPTING THE LANDS.

The first step towards carrying out the town's portion of the agreement was then taken, Mr. E. H. D. Hall presenting a by-law to exempt the Edison Company's lands from taxation. It passed through its several readings, Mr. Rutherford in the chair, and was passed.

DEBENTURES TO BE ISSUED.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall moved, seconded by Mr. A. Hall,—That debentures in sums of $1,000 each be issued and disposed of in accordance with by-law No. 617, and the purchase of the land therein mentioned, be carried out, and the conveyance thereof in accordance with the contract executed by the Mayor and Clerk on behalf of this corporation.—Carried.

AND WATER PROVIDED.

Mr. A. Hall moved, seconded by Mr. E. H. D. Hall, that the Peterborough Water Works Company be instructed to lay an 8-inch water main on Park street, from Sherbrooke to Lake street, and that the Fire, Water and Light Committee place the hydrants on the same street.

Mr. Hall explained that this was principally for the purpose of bringing the supply of water within reach of the Edison Co's lands. The motion was adopted.

THE RAILWAY SIDINGS.

Mr. Moore also introduced a by-law to authorize the laying of the transfer siding from the C. P. R. and G.T.R. lines. He said a by-law was necessary to give the railway lines permission to cross the streets. The siding to the Edison Co's grounds would cover Bethune, Rink and Park streets. The by-law was passed.

THE BROOKS BONUS.

Mr. MOORE then brought up the matter of the Brooks Co.'s securities, and said that since the last meeting of the council the papers had been looked into by the town solicitor, who had approved of them as being of legal form. Mr. Moore wished to emphasize the fact, (and he wished the matter correctly reported, as one of the town papers had misrepresented the council before) that the security taken by the town was a first mortgage on certain materials, fixtures and plant which were insured under a policy in favor of the town for $6,000; and that the Central Canada had released all claim upon the security held by the town; and that the town would also have the joint bond of four directors of the company—Arthur Stevenson, Thos. Brooks, J. W. Taylor and Geo. Stevenson, for $2,500 and the single bond of Mr. Geo. A. Cox for $500. Mr. Moore was satisfied the security was such that the council would approve of it.

Mr. Moore moved, seconded by Mr. Dawson, ordered, that having heard read the mortgage executed by the Brooks Manufacturing Company of Peterborough (stated) the joint bond of Arthur Stevenson and others and of George A. Cox in favor of the said town of Peterborough, the agreement of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Co., of Ontario, and the declaration of John Braden as to the first named Company and the interim receipts for $6000 insurance, it is declared that the above securities for the performance of the terms of the bylaw granting a bonus to the said Brooks Manufacturing Company, is satisfactory and that $5,000 of the said bonus be now paid to the said Company and the balance the Company is entitled to be paid to the Company as soon as the debentures for $6000 shall be disposed of. Carried.

THE OPTION ACCEPTED.

Before the council adjourned this resolution was passed:

Moved by Mr. Moore, seconded by Mr. E. H. D. Hall, that the option given by Peter Hamilton for the sale to the town of Peterborough of Park lot No. 14, in lot No. 13, in the 12th concession of North Monaghan, and by Jemima Chamberlen, Mary Robinson and Mrs. Winch, for sale to the town of park lots 15 and 16 in said lot No. 13, be accepted, and that the Mayor and Treasurer be authorized to issue the necessary cheques for down payment on said purchase.

Copy of the Contract.

The Agreement between the Edison Company and the Town.

Following is a verbatim copy of the agreement made between the Edison General Electric Company and the Corporation:

Memorandum of agreement made in duplicate the 24th day of September, 1890, which the Edison General Electric Company, hereinafter called the company of the first part, and the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario, hereinafter called the corporation of the second part.

Whereas, negotiations have heretofore taken place between the Company through its authorized agents, J. C. Henderson and John Kruse and the Corporation, for the location in the said town of Peterborough of the Canadian branch of the manufactures of the Company, and in pursuance thereof an informal agreement was executed by the said agents of the Company on its behalf, and it was amongst other things agreed that this agreement should be executed under the seal of the Company and under the seal of the said Corporation respectively for the more effectually carrying out and perfecting such informal agreement;

And whereas in pursuance of such agreement the Corporation has submitted a by-law to the electors of the said Corporation to provide for a bonus to the said Company, and it is expedient that this agreement should be executed for the purpose of securing the performance of the conditions required by such by-law.

This agreement therefore witnesseth that the said corporation covenants and agrees with the said company in the manner following, that is to say:—

1. That upon the erection and establishment by the company of its manufactory as aforesaid, its manufactory and its property used for manufacturing purposes as aforesaid, shall be exempted from all taxation, including school rates and assessments, for the period of ten years; and that a by-law of the said corporation shall be passed for that purpose in accordance with and subject to the municipal law in force in the said Province.

2. That the corporation shall lay or cause to be laid or furnish to the company a sum of money sufficient to lay a ten-inch water pipe and a sixteen-inch sewer from the lands hereinafter mentioned to the river Otonabee, and give to the company the exclusive use of them free forever or so long as they shall be required for the purposes of the said manufactory, and the same to be maintained by the corporation.

3. That the corporation shall provide or cause to be provided a railway siding or railway sidings to the said lands from the lines of the Grand Trunk Railway Company and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, or from the transfer siding common to both railways, so that the cars from and to the said lands and connecting with either of the above railways, need not pass over lines or tracks under the exclusive control of the other railway company.

4. That the corporation shall convey or cause to be conveyed in fee simple free from encumbrances and with full covenants for title to Donald McMaster, Esquire, of the City of Montreal, as trustee, the lands following:—

Lots number fourteen, fifteen and sixteen, in lot number thirteen, in the twelfth concession of the township of Monaghan (now within the town of Peterborough), in the county of Peterborough, excepting thereout the northerly fifty feet of said lot sixteen, to be purchased and used as a street, and convey to the said trustee that portion of Townsend street lying between said lots number fifteen and sixteen, to have and to hold the said lands upon the trusts following:—To the use of the said corporation until the company shall erect thereon the buildings hereinafter mentioned, and to allow and permit the said company to erect thereon such buildings and to do all the necessary work in connection therewith and upon trust, so soon as the said company shall have erected on said lands brick or stone buildings for the purposes of its said manufactory of the value of thirty thousand dollars, to convey the said lands to the said company or to a trustee or trustees named by it on its behalf, or if the said company shall so desire to hold the said lands upon trust for the use and benefit of the said company.

The company covenants and agrees with the corporation that in pursuance of the premises and in consideration of the covenants hereinbefore contained, the company shall and will upon the corporation causing the said lands to be conveyed to the said trustee upon the trusts aforesaid, forthwith proceed to and within a reasonable time thereafter erect upon the said lands buildings of brick or stone for the purposes of its manufactory of the value of thirty thousand dollars.

In witness whereof the parties hereto have hereunto caused their corporate seals to be affixed, and these presents to be signed by their officers thereunto respectively authorized.

Range and Rifle.

Redcoats hold their Annual Rifle Matches —Good Scores Made.

The first annual rifle matches of the 57th Battalion took place at the ranges Monday. They were highly successful, and have established a precedent which will be followed up still more successfully in future years.

The weather was delightful and the attendance large and enthusiastic. Some new shooting talent was brought out, showing that the Battalion possesses some good marksmen.

All the matches were well contested, the skirmishing being particularly good. The troops excelled in volley firing.

Major Edwards and Capt. Dennistoun, Adjt., were range officers.

The scores at the different matches were:

GENERAL MATCH.

100, 200, 300 and 400 yards; 5 rounds at each range; military target and scoring. The first ten receive gold cross guns:—Pte. D. Cameron, 68; Pte. J. B. Pentland, 66; Pte. G. Fitzgerald, 66; Sergt. Thrown from a Buggy.

This afternoon Mrs. Theo. Clementi and Mr. John Rubidge were driving eastward on Dalhousie street, when the horse bolted suddenly, throwing out Mr. Rubidge and severely injuring one of his shoulders. Mr. Rubidge was taken into the residence of Mr. Robertson, corner of Bethune and Dalhousie streets, and subsequently taken to his home, 328 Charlotte street. Dr. King was summoned but up to this writing has not had time to examine closely enough to decide whether there is fracture or dislocation.

BIRTH.

STEVENS.—At 118 Aylmer street, Peterborough, on Tuesday Sept. 20th, 1890, the wife of Mr. Geo. Stevens of a daughter.

DIED.

STETHEM.—At "The Birches," 227 Sherbrooke street, on Saturday, the 27th of September, 1890, of heart disease, Catharine Beatrice (Trixie), eldest daughter of Mr. George Stethem, aged 16 years.

The Babies Take a Back Seat.

The mothers of Peterborough took a deep interest in the baby show at the Exhibition. Their hearts are wrapped up in the chubby little cherubs who appeal so strongly to their maternal instincts. But the matter of most intense, absorbing interest to all ladies is the question of tea, that delight of feminine hearts. The ladies all know that Hawley Bros.' teas are unsurpassed for quality and price. Everybody should patronize a house which makes a specialty of fine teas. d

The Great Trial Ended.

The jury met again at the usual hour this morning, when several witnesses were examined, also the testimony of several experts being taken in the matter, the verdict of jury, experts and public in general being that W. WILL REMAIN TO THE END

MRS. BIRCHALL WILL NOT LEAVE CANADA THIS MONTH.

What the Murderer Had to Say About His Impending Fate. The News Broken to the Unfortunate Wife He Will Be Closely Watched.

Woodstock, Sept. 30. There was a lull in the excitement over the Birchall trial tonight, but all day the streets were crowded with people discussing the last act but one in the great drama. Mrs. Birchall was kept quiet all night under the influence of powerful opiates, but to-day the terrible news was broken to her by her faithful sister, Mrs. West Jones, and Mr. Blackstock. The heart-broken wife bore the revelation as she has borne all her trouble, without display of unnecessary emotion. She received the word in silence, and whatever her feelings were she did not give way to them.

It is said they will not leave Canada in October next. Mrs. Birchall having trodden the path of sorrow for so long will not leave it now when the influence of her presence will be especially required by her unfortunate husband.

Birchall spent last night in a discussion of the trial in a calm, cool manner with Guard Entwhistle and Turnkey Forbes. He slapped Tom Young on the shoulder, and wished him good luck. "We have all got to go some day," said the condemned man, "and I might as well go now as later. Don't worry over me, boys," and with a broad smile on his face the man with the iron nerve said, "Good night." Birchall appeared especially talkative, and for this reason two officials remained in his cell until the grey dawn of morning. He was perfectly resigned to his fate and quite unconcerned in his conversation. He treated the verdict as philosophically as he would a horse race.

Satisfied With the Trial.

Birchall had no fault to find with the jury, the press or the public. He said he had a fair and just trial and upon the evidence was not surprised that the jury found against him. When he heard His Lordship charge the last ray of hope vanished and he was resigned to his fate. He thought the judge was too severe in his comments, still he did not complain. But Birchall was sorely disappointed with the evidence for the defence. He had hoped that the medical testimony and the evidence of John Robb would have saved him. He talked in this strain with his two attendants until after 4 this morning. Once he took a glance back over his life's career and with a deep sigh remarked he was not astonished that his end was drawing to a close. "When I had money I had friends," he said, "but now I have neither. For years I was in luck, but two years ago the wheel of fortune turned and since then I have been on the down grade. It's all right though. I can't grumble," and in this meditation he whiled away the night.

About 1 o'clock Rev. Rural Dean Wade arrived and spent an hour with the doomed man.

This morning he was up at the usual hour and ate a hearty breakfast. Mr. Bamfield and a few reporters called to bid him a last farewell.

Birchall will not be asked to don prison clothing, and his meals will be furnished him as usual from the hotel.

A change has been effected in Guard Entwhistle's duties, whereby instead of keeping a general supervision over the prisoner he remains confined with him and keeps constant watch.

Twenty minutes after the verdict was received Douglas Dolly was en route to the Old Country. He sails from New York tomorrow on the Majestic. Every out going train to-day carried its quota of witnesses, lawyers and jurymen, and the town has settled down to its normal state. Mr. Justice MacMahon left at noon to open the assizes at Walkerton.

The Jury Was as a Unit.

Your representative had a talk with several of the jurors this morning and learned that not only were they unanimous on the first ballot, but that the ballot was taken within four minutes after the court-room was cleared. One of the jurors expressed the opinion that it would not look well to bring in the verdict so promptly, and suggested that they remain "out" until this morning. After 15 minutes' discussion a ballot was taken as to whether the verdict should be returned last night or held over until this morning. The vote stood 10 for last night and two for this morning, and the minority were finally induced to accord with the views of the 10.

Foreman George Christopher is a cousin of Miss Choate, whose evidence as to identity was criticized so severely by Mr. Blackstock, and the manner in which the defence alluded to her testimony did not have the effect of strengthening the justice of its cause in Mr. Christopher's mind. The two members of the Alan Murray on the jury also became more set in their views owing to what they considered the uncalled-for reference to the government detective, whom Mr. Blackstock characterized as "the crown in this case."

He Sees the Reporters.

A number of newspaper men had an interview with Birchall at the jail this afternoon. He appears to treat the matter with the same nonchalance as heretofore. "What difference does it make how a man dies?" he said in reply to an interrogation. "One man dies from consumption, another is attacked with congestion and passes away in 24 hours, a third falls over a precipice, or a fourth is run over by a street car. Sudden deaths are frequently happening, what difference does it make as to the manner?" All the same the general opinion is that, should the opportunity offer, Birchall will adopt a different mode of making his exit than that which justice says he shall take. Of course every precaution will be taken to prevent the condemned man from committing suicide, but however careful his guards may be they cannot avoid this finis to the most sensational series of chapters of modern criminal history which Canada has ever furnished. The condemned man will still be allowed to have his meals furnished from the outside and will be permitted to eat anything that the money at the disposal of his friends can buy, and no human vigilance can prevent his securing the means necessary to expedite his journey hence if the prisoner is so inclined. A death watch has not been appointed, but his special guard, George Entwistle, will now occupy the same cell with him and keep constant watch of his movements.

After being removed to the jail last night Birchall expressed a wish to his spiritual adviser, Rev. W. H. Wade, that Mrs. West-Jones should be sent for. She arrived at the jail at 2 and spent over an hour with him. What the nature of that conversation was is of course unknown.

The newspaper men who saw him this afternoon are unanimously of opinion that little change was noticeable from yesterday in the appearance of the condemned man.

She Will Visit Him Often.

Mrs. Birchall will visit her husband as often as the jail regulations will permit of. One reporter was "enterprising" enough to be guilty of the indelicacy of requesting the exclusive use of any "confession" she might have to make. While no person actually believes that the unfortunate woman knew of the wickedness of the man who has wrecked her life, there are plenty who believe that a statement from her would clear up many circumstances in connection with the checkered career of Birchall since he induced her to link her young life with his. That she knew Birchall was a scoundrel before the murder is abundantly proven by a letter which is in possession of the crown written by her father to Birchall about a year ago in which he upbraided him for past "indiscretions" and pointed out that unless he amended his ways he would wind up in a felon's cell. How prophetic that warning was the outcome of the trial proves.

Mr. Hellmuth called at the hotel last evening to apprise Mrs. Birchall of the fact that her widowhood was approaching, but she had retired, and not until this morning was she apprised of the verdict by her sister, Mrs. West-Jones, to whom the intelligence had been conveyed by Rev. Mr. Farthing shortly after the jury announced it. The result was no surprise to the wife of the prisoner. She abandoned the hope which she had clung to tenaciously for all these months as soon as she heard the opening address of Mr. Osler. Since the opening day of the trial she has calmly watched the result that she knew must come, and when the knowledge that it had come was conveyed to her she received it with a feeling akin to apathy—as a dying woman who had known that her hours were numbered might receive the intelligence that the end had come. There was no weeping—the anguish of the past week had dried that fount and no tears were left to well out; there was no hysterical emotion, no giving way to lamentations. Her heart had been broken long before and no additional pang of anguish could affect it now. She received the news in silence, without a word, without an indication that she realized all that it means to her.

Broke Another Woman's Heart.

Crewe, Eng., Sept. 30.—Much melancholy interest is felt here in Birchall. He was once well known in this town, having been engaged to be married to Miss Reid, sister of the rector of Coppenhall. The wedding was twice postponed after all the arrangements had been made, and the lady died suddenly, evidently of a broken heart. She was buried in her bridal dress, with a wreath of orange blossoms on her head. Birchall, it appears, was born in Church, Lancashire, England, about 25 years ago. His father was for years the rector of Church Lawton, and rural dean of Whalley. He was the Rev. Joseph Birchall, and he died in 1878, after a residence at Church of 28 years. He was wealthy, and at his death his property was divided by will between his four children, three sons and a daughter. Reginald was the youngest son. He was educated at Harrow and Oxford. In the pursuit of Reginald's biography the detectives found at every step evidence that he had always led a wild life, and that his associates, almost from the moment he was trusted about alone were of evil character. A draft of a letter found among his effects, addressed affectionately to "Dear Agnes," gives a fair view of the kind of a man he was. One passage ran like this:

"Of course, you have heard of Sallie Reid's death; also, no doubt, you heard the right story. She wasn't to be trusted out of my sight for a moment. Very dreadful state of things, wasn't it? Death was the best and kindest thing that could happen. I should never have married her at any price—and you know me well enough to know my ways. Very unfortunate, the whole connection with those girls, don't you think so? I was most certainly glad of the turn things took. I shall, I daresay, be blamed too much, but at the same time I am innocent. It appears that a certain fellow named Davis, or some such thing, used to be an intimate friend of hers. This I only found out a few months before she died, also a good many various things as were of a various description and better not be mentioned. Of course, I refused to go to the funeral, which I consider was the right form to pursue, as I could not have the slightest sympathy with the departed. She died on May 10 and was buried on the 20th at Comenham, Crewe—miserable ceremony and no decent people. It was put in Tid-Bits as a curiosity."

Detective Murray To Take a Vacation

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Mr. Murray arrived in Toronto from Woodstock last evening and will leave to-morrow for New York to enjoy a well-earned vacation. Mr. Murray was engaged all of yesterday paying the crown witnesses in the case. The cost of the trial will be less than was generally supposed. Mr. Murray states that, considering the amount of work on the case, it is the least expensive of any with which he has been connected. The aggregate expenditure will not, it is thought, exceed $3000. This is of course exclusive of the costs of jurors and court expenses.

Mr. Osler also got back to the city yesterday morning from Woodstock. He looked somewhat tired, and it is said that he expressed himself as almost completely fagged out, not so much by the work in the case as by the anxiety.

Mr. Blackstock could not go back to court on Monday night to hear the sentence passed. He remained at Judge Finkle's residence and a physician had to be called in. Mr. Blackstock, after his 5-hour address, coupled with the terrible strain consequent upon the importance of the issue, was completely used up.

SEIZE ALL SEIZERS.

The Order Given the Commander of a United States Revenue Cutter.

Port Townsend, Wash., Sept. 30.—The revenue cutter Wolcott has received final and definite orders to proceed at once to Behring Sea and seize all schooners found there.

A further step towards the artificial production of the diamond has been made by passing an electric current through carbon electrodes in a cell containing a fine white sand and electrodes, the whole being under considerable pressure.

THE THREE-MILE LIMIT.

DID THE CROCKETT VIOLATE THE TREATY OF 1888?

She Is Towed Into Charlottetown By a Canadian Cruiser—The Supposed Charge Is Violating the Three-Mile Limit Statutes.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Sept. 30.—The American fishing schooner Davy Crockett, seized at Souris last week, was brought to Charlottetown this morning by Captain Gordon of the Government cruiser Acadia. Shortly after her arrival Marshal Hindman of the Vice-Admiralty Court went on board and formally arrested the vessel under a warrant which had been taken out by Edward J. Hodgson, the agent of the Department of Justice in the island. The schooner was shortly afterward docked at Peake's wharf and the sails were housed. A reporter visited her after she came to the wharf and read the warrant and summons which the marshal had nailed to the mainmast. It was learned that the crown claimed the condemnation of the vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, fishing gear, cargo, seines and boats for violation of the treaty of 1888 and of the Imperial statute 99, George the Third, chap. 58, and also of the Canadian statutes, chap. 94, respecting fishing by foreign vessels. It is difficult to obtain definite information regarding the evidence upon which the vessel was seized.

The captain and crew of the Davy Crockett state that information was given by two seamen who deserted in August last. This may or may not be true, but it is certain that Captain Gordon did not act on their information but other evidence which leaves but little doubt as to the guilt of the schooner, although the charge as specified appears in the papers in the Vice-Admiralty Court.

It is generally known that the offence charged is for fishing off the port of Malpeq, P.E.I., within the three mile limit; also for landing baggy bait at the same place.

The crew still remain on board, and no doubt will until after the arrival of the managing owner, who is expected here this week, when the vessel will likely be bailed, pending the hearing. The Crockett is a well-built schooner, 80 tons measurement. She is 80 feet long, 22 feet wide and 8 feet deep. She was built in Bath, Me., in 1876, and is owned by David Tarr, James G. Tarr, D. S. Tarr and B. N. Tarr of Gloucester, Mass.

SEVERAL RAILROAD SMASH-UPS.

Costly Collision on the M.C.R. Sixteen Carriages of Freight Burned.

Dutton, Sept. 30.—Consequent upon the first section of "C" freight on the M.C.R. breaking in two 3 miles west of here yesterday, the second section crashed into the hind end of the foremost train. The caboose was knocked into splinters. Nine cars were derailed. The wreck caught fire from the caboose, six cars and their contents being burned. The engine, No. 406, plunged into the ditch, burying itself half its length in the ground. Two cars were laden with boots and shoes, two with cotton, one with household furniture, one with china, and one with cutlery. Nearly everything was destroyed. The track was torn up for about twelve rods. The trainmen escaped unhurt, by jumping.

Wreck on the Intercolonial.

St. John, N.B., Sept. 30.—A serious accident occurred on the Intercolonial Railway last night. The fast express from Halifax for Montreal, in charge of Conductor Gunn and Driver Carr, left Moncton 25 minutes late. In order to make the time up speed was made up to 40 miles per hour. After leaving Petit Codiac, near Anagance, a pile of sleepers thrown across the track was encountered. The train struck the obstruction and the locomotive was derailed and made a complete wreck, but the engineer and fireman were unhurt. There were a large number of passengers on board but all escaped unharmed.

The Operator Arrested.

Canton, Pa., Sept. 30.—Frank Glosser, day operator at Leighton, was arrested today on the charge of having caused by his negligence the wreck on the Jersey Central railroad last night by which three men lost their lives.

TWO MINISTERS ELECTED.

The Minister of Agriculture and the Provincial Treasurer Elected by Acclamation.

Whitby, Sept. 30.—Hon. John Dryden, farmer general for Ontario, was re-elected by acclamation in South Ontario to-day. Besides Mr. Dryden there were nominated but withdrew: Messrs. Robert Miller, Dryden's opponent in the general election, F. Howard Annes, Dr. R. J. Gunn and ex-Mayor Long.

Welland, Sept. 30. A large gathering of the electors of Monk took place to-day at Wellandport to nominate and congratulate Mr. Harcourt upon his recent appointment to the treasurership of Ontario. As there were no opposition candidates the meeting was smooth and pleasant. The prominent men of the county congratulated Mr. Harcourt upon his appointment, also Mr. Mowat and Ontario upon having him in their cabinet. The Conservatives had decided to not oppose Mr. Harcourt's re-election.

PROLONGING THE STRIKES.

The Scotch Iron Masters Will Not Come to Terms

London, Sept. 30.—The Scotch iron masters have definitely refused to accede to the terms demanded by their men. The Cumberland iron workers, who are now on strike in Scotland, offer aid to the Scotch iron workers, on condition that the latter insist upon eight-hour shifts. The abandonment of all hope of a settlement of the trouble has stiffened the pig iron market at Glasgow.

IRELAND'S GREAT FAMINE.

Reading Extracts from the Speeches of the Accused Men.

Dublin, Sept. 30.—In an application today made before Judge Holmes of the High Court for a writ to prohibit the Tipperary magistrates from proceeding with the hearing in the case of the Nationalists on the ground of bias against the accused, Timothy Healy made an elaborate argument in favor of the writ. Judge Holmes postponed his decision on the application.

At Tipperary the reading of extracts from speeches of the defendants was continued to prove that tenants were incited by them not to pay rent.

An Important Excommunication.

Rome, Sept. 30.—A sensation has been caused by the action of the Vatican authorities in excommunicating the theological faculty of the University of Coimbra, Portugal, and prohibiting a new ordination of priests in 1890. It is feared serious consequences will ensue, owing to the critical political state of Portugal. The Vatican is blamed generally on the ground that it has acted rashly.

John Morley at Bawarden.

London, Sept. 30.—John Morley has arrived at Bawarden, where he will remain two days conferring with Mr. Gladstone.

A Railway From Bangkok to Korat.

Rangoon, Sept. 30.—Owing to the influence of the German consul here a German engineer named Bestige has been entrusted with the construction of a railway from Bangkok to Korat, a distance of 105 miles. The road will cost $13,000,000. German rails and machinery will be used and all the engineers will be German.

German Socialists Rejoice.

Berlin, Sept. 30.—There were great rejoicings among the Socialists in Germany to-day over the expiration of the anti-Socialist law. There were no disturbances.

The Iron Men's Congress.

New York, Sept. 30.—The iron and steel congress continued its session to-day. About 75 delegates were present. Important and interesting papers were read and discussed.

THE CONFERENCE BILL PASSED.

The End of a Long and Tedious Session of Congress

Washington, Sept. 30.—Throughout the afternoon there was in the house every appearance of an early dissolution of Congress. Members congregated in the space in front of the speaker's desk and earnestly sought for "recognition." Such as were "recognized" had for the most part only private bills to be considered.

At 6:20 p.m. the conference report on the Tariff Bill was adopted by the Senate by a vote of 35 to 27, Messrs. Plumb, Paddock and Pettigrew (Republicans) voting in the negative.

The conference report on the tariff bill was taken up in the Senate. Mr. Carlisle said it would be impossible to state the effect of the measure on the public revenue with any accuracy, but he could state approximately what its effect on taxation would be. The Finance Committee had stated that the reduction of revenue was $20,000,000 under the Senate bill. Of this reduction from articles placed on the free list nearly $56,000,000 came from sugar and molasses, leaving only between four and five millions as the reductions occasioned by the removal of other articles from the dutiable list. He asserted the bill, as it now stood excepting sugar and molasses, removed from the free list and placed on the dutiable list more than it took from the dutiable list and placed on the free list. He also asserted that the bill would reduce the revenues and increase the taxation of the people very many times the amount, by increasing the prices of articles of similar domestic production. If it were true that the revenue under the conference bill on the basis of importations of 1889 would be over $225,000,000 then the average rate of duty on dutiable articles would be 57 7-10 per cent. Without taking into account the effect of the ninth section of the administrative bill on dutiable articles, it would be 60 per cent. instead of 45¾ per cent. under existing law.

Mr. Carlisle then quoted from writers on jurisprudence and from decisions of courts in several states to the effect that taxation for private purposes was not taxation but plunder. He said the bill permitted the President to impose the duty on sugar unless the governments of sugar-producing countries "should do something that would be satisfactory to His Excellency." It was a proposition to confide to the judgment or caprice of the President alone the determination not merely of certain facts defined in the law but of the results and effects of those facts and circumstances. The amendment offered by Senator Hale had been substantially correct, but the amendment reported from the Finance Committee and embodied in the bill was not reciprocity—it was retaliation pure and simple. Coffee, tea and hides had been on the free list for many years and had been put there for the benefit of the people of the United States and not as an act of favoritism to any foreign country. Sugar and molasses had been put on the free list in the pending bill on the sole ground that it would be for the benefit of the people of the United States. The proposition was one to retaliate on the people of the United States by imposing a duty of 10 cents a pound on tea, 3 cents a pound on coffee and from 35 to 50 per cent. on sugar unless China, Japan, Brazil and Spain should do certain things.

Dr. Carlisle referred to the inconsistency of putting sugar on the free list, because the United States did not produce a large proportion of the amount consumed here, and putting a high tax on tin plate, because the United States did not produce any of it. He also ridiculed the pretension of opening the South American markets to the agricultural products of the United States. There was no market there for our agricultural products. The pretence that this would benefit the farmers was a false pretence. It could only benefit producers of such manufactured articles as the people of South America want. He did not think any Senator on the Republican side seriously contemplated that this reciprocity clause ever would be executed. Moreover, reciprocity with South America would be of no substantial benefit to our manufacturers unless combined with a stipulation that like privileges are not to be granted to any other country, because if other countries can send in manufactured goods on the same terms that ours are admitted we will stand in the markets of South America precisely as we stand now, unable to compete with Germany, France or England. The reciprocity contemplated was not of this sort. He regarded the proposition as a mere political device to check for the time-being a rising cloud of opposition to this extreme policy of protection.

Some of his statements were challenged by Mr. Aldrich. Mr. Allison also criticized several of Mr. Carlisle's statements and denied their accuracy. He believed the conference bill would reduce revenues between forty and forty-five million dollars. He thought that within five years the United States would produce substantially all the tin plate consumed here, and consumers would have it cheaper. He believed it was, on the whole, a fair bill to every section of the country as a protective measure. He still thought many of the duties were too high. The bill would now go to the country as an experiment in many features, especially as respected the sugar bounty. He hoped the bill would have a fair test, and if it proved beneficial, as he believed it would, it would settle the tariff for many years to come.

Mr. Aldrich closed the discussion. He congratulated the Senate and the country upon the approaching close of the long and wearisome struggle over the tariff bill. The discussion had been unusually prolonged, because it was the first time that a tariff bill had been discussed in all its items in either House. The first Congress that met after the signing of the constitution had imposed tariff duties and provided bounties. The increases of duty made in the bill were of four classes. The first might be described as a correction of errors and irregularities. To this class belonged tin plate and cotton ties, whereby erroneous construction of law or by bad legislation the duty on one article had been made lower than on corresponding or similar articles. Another class consisted of articles which it had not been supposed when the law of 1883 was passed could be made in the United States, and on which protective duties had not been levied. It included all the finer manufactures in the cotton, flax and linen and the iron and steel schedules. The third class consisted of articles on which small ad valorem rates had been levied. They were items of no great consequence. The fourth class comprised agricultural products. The duties on that class had been largely increased, for instance on wool. The farmers of the country believed the large increases were injuring that great industry.

To Redeem Nine African Girls.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—A hearty ovation was tendered to Bishop Taylor of Africa by the Rock River Methodist Conference. In his address the Bishop sketched the outlines of his great work, and said that thirty-five mission stations are prospering on the Congo. He said that they could easily get boys to enter the mission schools, but that polygamists bought up the little girls, and they could not be recovered without the payment of a ransom. This produced a sensation. Near the close a brother asked the missionary how much it took to redeem a girl. The Bishop answered, "About $30." Money was at once raised for the redemption of nine girls.

Killed While Looking from His Cab Window.

Buffalo, Sept. 30.—Engineer John Scanlon of Lehigh Valley engine 406 was killed last evening. While backing his engine down Hamburg-street he looked out of the cab window at some articles on the track, and his head was caught between a coal trestle and the cab and crushed to a jelly. Deceased was 35 years old.

CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys' Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

THE AMERICAN EGG MARKET.

Our good Tory ministers who have pursued a trade policy that has resulted in the adoption of the McKinley Tariff bill, which practically excludes a long list of Canadian farm products from the United States market—eggs among other things, coolly advise our farmers to send their surplus eggs to the United States market. They know that this is idiotic advice—merely adding insult to injury. No shipper, in his right mind, would think of paying 5 cents per dozen for eggs for shipping to the English market. The shipment would probably be both either foul or fowl by the time it reached its destination. A fine example is afforded of the beauty of the protective system that excludes Canadian produce from its nearest and therefore natural market, a market which is easy of access, and which gives good prices. The following brief circular, addressed to Mr. Clurton by J. R. Ellis & Sons, of Boston, wholesale dealers in butter, cheese and eggs will show what a good market is lost to the Canadian farmer.

BOSTON, Sept. 25th, 1890.

Many of the holders of limed, pickled and ice-house eggs in Canada, are shipping their stock to the United States and placing it in cold storage here to avoid being shut out of the markets of the United States, in the event of the passage of the McKinley bill, which places a duty of five cents a dozen on all eggs imported. From information received from the different sections, we should judge there was a shortage in limed stock of about one-third as compared with last year, while cold storage stock shows an increase of about fifteen per cent. Market to-day: strictly fresh, 22c; prime ice house, 19 to 20c. Limed, none offered.

Yours truly,
J. R. ELLIS & SONS.

Some idea of what this loss means to Canadian farmers may be seen when it is stated that in 1889, we exported 14,011,017 dozen of eggs, of which all went to the United States (except 37,876 dozen), the aggregate value being two million, one hundred and fifty-six thousand, seven hundred and twenty-five dollars.

A Run Through Manitoba.

An Interesting Letter From a Prominent Peterborough Man—The Crops and Condition of Manitoba.

DEAR EXAMINER—As this Canada of ours is somewhat extensive, it is not unnatural that many have but vague knowledge of its peculiarities. To one who for the first time crosses the continent many things will appear which will enlighten and interest.

As you are aware, a goodly company of excursionists started on the second of September for the Prairie Province. The weather was rather damp, but three train loads of Ontario people bowled into Winnipeg in very fair time, and in very good spirits. I noticed that North Bay had widened out and grown considerably in the two years which elapsed since I was last there, but the interminable rocks, woods, morasses, and shining but dismal lakes, which, without number, one passes between North Bay and Winnipeg, were there as of yore. For 800 miles a bit of fair country, such as would invite settlement with fair promise of agricultural development, is not to be seen. South of the railway, along the Rainey river, good land is said to exist, but from the railway one sees nothing except such as constantly caused the traveller to ask, 'What it was made for?' As one reaches within fifty miles of Winnipeg the forest and marsh give way to patches of prairie, and here and there the crops in the fields showed that a new land was reached.

East of Winnipeg, particularly along the railway, the land is not what is called good prairie. It is rather flat and wet, but is fairly well settled, and one municipality expended $50,000 in drainage with good results.

We found that for ten days there was rain every day or so—just sufficient to prevent cutting and to endanger the wheat that was out; there was no prospect of dry weather, the season was getting on and great anxiety existed on all sides. The was being dashed by the unusual rains and threatening frost. Two years ago the frost struck the province on the 8th and 18th of August. The result was a calamity. Such wheat as was caught in the milk never formed grain though the head was there, and it was only after the frost of the 18th that men began to examine the heads and realized the extent of the injury. This year fortunately when the little frost did come it found the wheat comparatively ripe and so the injury was trifling.

Though the weather continued cold and snow fell, yet this cold was the salvation of the wheat, for all that rain with warm weather would have started it growing. This result did come to a small quantity that happened to be cut very early and was followed by a warm rain. The wheat crop of Manitoba is safe, and it is a glorious crop. It has been cut and in the stook a month. It may be a little off color, but it will be hard and good, and such a crop! The average will not be less than 25 bushels to the acre, in many instances it will run 40 bushels.

There are no barns in this country so the glorious weather of the last week is taken advantage of, for men, women and children are at work stacking from daylight till dark. This stacking is a big business. It will take four men and two teams about three weeks to stack 300 acres of crop. Then these 300 acres of land are to be ploughed before frost comes.

THE FARMER'S LIFE IS A HARD ONE.

If the peculiarity of the country makes the work lighter to the acre than in Ontario, the increased acreage cultivated evens up the account.

A large part of Southern Manitoba was this season devastated by successive hail storms. The country which suffered is about 20x70 miles, or 1400 square miles. This is for the poor people a great calamity. Fortunately the call for labor to assist their more lucky neighbors in getting in their more than average crop will help many, for men, horses and threshing machines will all get a couple of months' remunerative employment. I learned of a man whose crop was completely cut off on July 1st, the wheat sprouted again, and on the 23rd of September he completed cutting a second growth yielding 20 bushels to the acre. He was more fortunate than many whose lands were visited twice by the destructive messenger. Some who escaped the first storm were wiped out by the second. This hail business is a fact, yet it has not seriously affected the country. The wheat acreage is so extensive and the crop so great that particularly as the price is so good; it rates at 85 cents. I notice great changes in the country since I last saw it. The great increase of settlement, the improved character of the dwellings and the vast expansion of cultivated lands show that the people have come to stay. In the Souris district I met numbers of Peterborough people who are rejoicing in their grand prospects. Sowden, formerly of Millbrook, is reported as having 15,000 bushels of wheat. Our friends the Scotts, Newtons, and the McEwans, late of Smith, are all happily situated with splendid farms, good houses and glorious crops. They speak kindly of their old homes, but a stump machine could not separate them from their present abodes.

James Argue, too, the councillor, well known to many in Peterborough, rejoices in the possession of one of the finest farms in the province. His neighbors are Smithtown friends. His crop consists of 300 acres of wheat, and fifty of oats, five of Hungarian grass, and wild hay without limit. He has five or six pairs of horses that it would be hard to match. He can show also a pair of children that would carry off the red ribbon at any show. The Grange lodge is not far from friend Argue's.

The Souris plains give a prosperous home to Wm. King and his sons, late of Peterborough, and to many Cavan men. All these are doing well. They are good stock to start a country with.

But enough for the present.

D.

An Explanation from Dr. Fraser.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—I dislike publicity very much but must ask you to kindly grant me space in your columns to reply very shortly to the report in Saturday's Morning Times, of the disastrous collision between Mr. Berry's horse and my pony upon the Peterborough Fair grounds Friday afternoon, and which resulted in the death of my horse. I was very much surprised as well as grieved to read such a report, and was at a loss to account for the apparent malignity of the writer until I remembered that a few seconds after the crash, an individual rushed up to me, seized me by the arm, demanded my name and a report of the whole affair, ending with the statement that he was a reporter for a paper. Feeling at the moment very much troubled and irritated at the demolition of the slender track carriage I was driving in (for it was not my own) I committed the unpardonable sin of snubbing him and refusing any information whatever, and to punish me and soothe his own ruffled feelings, he penned the spiteful and unfair report mentioned, in which he attempts to saddle the whole responsibility for the accident upon me. Now, I assert, and competent eye-witnesses will bear me out in the assertion, that no one person was solely to blame for the collision, for in the first place, I, as well as all the other gentlemen who were returning up the track, were driving too fast, though in doing so we were obeying an order from at least one director of the fair and some of the judges in the judges' stand, to hurry off the track into the grass plot to have the judging finished and to clear the track for another heat of the race which was going on. Mr. Berry was certainly to blame also for driving out in the middle of the track instead of near the inside of it as he should have done. However, I am not writing this to impute blame to any one, and I am pleased to hear that Mr. Berry suffered such small loss, but the Times report was so manifestly unfair and so different from the true and impartial reports in both EXAMINER and Review, that I was forced in justice to myself not to let it pass unnoticed as I was very much tempted to do. I certainly regret my hasty rebuff to the Times newsgatherer (I have not yet the honor of knowing his name) but at the same time, think it was not sufficient reason to cause him to report so unfairly, and it would have been a much more manly act on his part to show that he could under the circumstances, make some allowance for my irritability.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for your valuable space, I am

Yours, etc.,
J. R. FRASER.

Lakefield, Sept. 29th, 1890.

Woman's Will.

Men dying make their wills, but wives
Keep on a-working so sad;
Why should they make what all their lives
The gentle dames have had?—Sala.

We hold that it is unwarranted and unmanly to assert that woman is in any degree more wilful than man. Women often do seem wilful before men, but it is only when they have right and duty to pursue; in other matters, they are ready and willing to bow to, and acknowledge superior judgment.

In all matters pertaining to the care of the home, and its internal workings and surroundings, woman certainly shows her will; and, in no work is that mighty, but gentle will shown to such advantage as in the selection of dye stuffs to be used for domestic and fancy dyeing. Before this work is commenced, women buy Diamond Dyes. It, through circumstances, they are unable to shop themselves, then the order is given to husband or son, who often take anything that the dealer gives them. This, however, is not satisfactory to the wife and mother, and the inferior dyes are promptly returned. This is woman's will, but certainly wise and indisputable.

They are the best judges of package dyes, and are always extremely careful that they get Diamond Dyes. In this way all over Canada is woman's will exercised in the matter of dyes. Diamond Dyes are their favorites; and no persuasive eloquence of man could possibly change their will, or even induce them to try any other make.

'TWAS CLEVERLY DONE.

A Horse Thief Slips His Handcuffs and Robs His Captor.

PORT HOPE, Sept. 29.—In October last a young man named Fred Hardy stole a horse, buggy, harness and robes from a livery stable man named Michael Dee, in the state of New Hampshire. Fred came to this part of Canada and worked for a time with Mr. Kinsman, Canton. Mr. Dee got wind of the whereabouts of the thief, and arrived in town a few days ago with the necessary papers to capture his man. Yesterday he found out where Hardy was working, and after consulting a legal gentleman hired a liveryman to take him to the residence of Mr. W. J. Byers, lot 13, 8th con. Hope, and there found Hardy, who consented to go back to the States with him. The darbies were put on, linking himself to Mr. Dee, when they adjourned to Noble Brown's tavern to stay all night, intending to come to town quietly this morning and take the Norseman for Rochester. They both retired to rest, but some time during the night Hardy got the key and let himself loose, leaving the handcuff on his captor's wrist, taking the key with him. He went through the pocket of Dee, taking $50 and his new hat, leaving only $.50 for the American gentleman with which to pay his way home.

PROPOSED ON THE FIRST VISIT.

A Precipitate Wooer of Thurlow Has to Pay $50 Damages.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 30.—The first case tried at the Assizes was a breach of promise action, in which Miss Shaw sued Charlotte, aged George W. Hall of the same township for damages for breach of promise. Plaintiff is a spinster of 30 years and defendant is a widower of about the same age. Plaintiff swore that the proposal was made at the first visit and that defendant had visited her four times. Defendant denied the promise, whilst three witnesses swore that her reputation was not good and two that they would not believe her under oath. The jury gave plaintiff a verdict for $50. William Arnot was today placed on trial charged with manslaughter in killing Hannah Colson Feb. 14 last by a blow of his fist or causing her death from exposure.

DEADLY DRUGS OF DEATH

SOME CURIOSITIES OF POISONS, ANCIENT AND MODERN.

An Affection Which Came Regularly Every Month Caused by an Unknown Drug—a Remarkable Poison Which Paralyzed. Jaborl's Well Known Potion.

Until the past few years poisoning has been a study pretty much confined to savages—not, of course, exclusively the savages in paint and feathers, but to the naturally ferocious and criminal in all communities. Among savages, in the ordinary sense of the world, there has often been found a wonderful knowledge on this subject, and some very curious results have frequently been obtained or them. A very intelligent and trustworthy resident on the borders of a North American Indian tribe, for instance, tells a very singular story. He had a young Indian girl in his lodge for some years. When she first came to the service so many of her relatives and friends came to see her that he had to give her peremptory orders to admit nobody. Unfortunately, one of her first visitors after this decree had gone forth was an old medicine man of her tribe whom she steadfastly refused to admit to her kitchen, and who, consequently, went away furiously angry, and vowing all sorts of vengeance. Some months afterwards, the old doctor met the girl. He had apparently, quite forgotten the insult he had received, and very heartily shook hands with her. She happened to have a slight wound in her hand, and after the old man had grasped it, she saw, to her distress, that this wound was covered by a black patch, and she instantly suspected that it was a patch of poison, and she told him so. The old man frankly admitted that her suspicion was correct. She had insulted him when they last met and now he had paid her back in it. For one month in every year, as long as she lived he told her that her skin would break out in black blotches. Twelve months afterwards, the affliction predicted actually befel the girl, and every year, as long as she continued in the service of the narrator of this story, her skin became blotched and patched all over with black marks, which continued to disfigure her for a month, and then disappeared. A Government officer at Winnipeg mentions in one of his official reports a very remarkable poison, who had the effect of paralyzing the muscles of the face, speaking of a woman to whom it had been administered without her own consent or knowledge, this official says: "Only the eyes moved, and, as they were unusually black and rather sparkling, the ghastly deformity was rendered the more glaring. The most singular effect, however, was produced by her laugh. She was a jolly, good-natured squaw, and laughed upon the slightest provocation. Her eyes sparkled, and her 'ha' ha" was musical to a degree; but not a muscle moved to denote the merriment on that expressionless face. One felt that some one else laughed behind that rigid countenance. No idea could be formed of what she thought at any time." There is nothing incredible in this. Medical science has of late years been turning attention to poisons, and many effects quite as pronounced, if not perhaps, quite so striking, have been observed. "Experiments," says one authority, "have shown that certain poisons are so potent and subtle in their action as to almost equal the wonders in tales told of charms condensed into necromancer's phials. The animal body can be played upon as if it were a machine. The strokes of the central pump, the heart, can be slowed or quickened; the vital heat lowered or increased; the pupil of the eye expanded or narrowed; the limbs paralyzed or convulsed; the blood sent to the surface or withdrawn to the interior; even the natural hue and color of the body can be changed." One very interesting result of modern study of poisons is the discovery of some ground for believing that certain diseases both of body and mind, may be attributable to poison in the system. Dr. B. W. Richardson, for instance, says that somnambulism, he has not the slightest doubt, is produced by the formation in the body of a peculiar substance, which may be derived from the starchy parts of the body, and has the effect of the chemical substance known as amylene. I believe that," says Dr. Richardson, "because you produce artificial somnambulism by the use of that substance. Under its influence persons can be made to walk about unconsciously in the same way as the somnambulist does." The same respected authority affirms that there are substances known capable of producing extreme melancholy. "There is a peculiar offensive sulphur compound called mercaptan. A little of that administered to any one produces the intensest melancholy, tending almost to suicide. We can sometimes detect a smaller effect—a substance in the breath of patients who are suffering from melancholia." Similarly, there is a well-known poison which produces all the effects of scarlet fever. There is another, a fragment of which brings about all the symptoms of cholera; and there appear to be several poisons which produce idiocy or actual madness. The diseases are said to know a drug which, as Mr. Wanter Blyth tells us, has in Indian history often played the part of a State agent, and has been used to produce imbecility in persons of high rank whose mental integrity was considered dangerous to the despot in power. Among the most curious poisons of which there is any record in the past, or of which we have any knowledge at the present time, is that which knowledge at the present time, is that Shakespeare makes Friar Laurence give to Juliet as a means of enabling her to escape the proposed marriage with Paris. It would, he assured her, produce temporarily all the symptoms of death

HE LET THE WATER LOOSE.

The Strange Adventure of an Urchin o Fall River.

The Fall River Globe says: A boy with a wonderful capacity for cold water made a kind of Noah's ark time of it last evening for people who dwell around the South Park. There is a tall stand pipe near the park, where the sprinkling carts load up, and the pressure from the pond at that point is something like a million pounds to the square inch. Just what possessed the aforeside boy to climb that stand pipe while the band was playing gayly in the band stand will probably never be known. Possibly he had found life too slow at the drinking fountain, and it may be that he didn't think he could do the stand pipe any harm. At any rate he shinned up and began monkeying with the cap at the top. A full grown man with cold steel appliances would undoubtedly have experienced considerable difficulty in unfastening that tap, but the foot high urchin found it easy enough. His accomplishment will surprise him to the end of his days. He was bending stomach down, when the last thread of the cap-screw was loosened. There was a swish and a roar and the million-pound pressure sent a mighty volume of water a thousand feet into the air. It would have been a magnificent spectacle but for one feature which froze the blood in the veins of the assembled multitude. As far as the eye could reach, and almost at the very top of this tower of water, a tiny speck slowly revolved. It was the small boy, helpless, and feebly waving his hands and feet in his terror. Fortunately the tremendous force supported him, and the centrifugal power convexing towards the sides of the torrent kept him in the middle. It was wet work looking on, but for a few seconds nobody dared move. Then a brave member of the police department and darted to the Park House telephone. A little later Superintendent Kieran of the water works arrived on the scene, pale but determined. The same thought seemed to inspire the crowd at the same moment, for five hundred voices, exclaimed: "You must let him down easy." Superintendent Kieran needed no such warning. He knew that to shut off the supply suddenly meant a terrible fall for the half-drowned lad, who had ceased to move up there among the stars, and with a touch as light as a woman's he began to turn back the swift tide in the main artery. Inch by inch the tower of water diminished; inch by inch that small speck of humanity descended. The excitement was at concert pitch. Everybody spoke in hoarse whispers. Finally a joyous cheer rang out. The urchin was thirty feet from the ground, and scores of arms were outstretched to receive him. "Stand steady," was the order, and the last spoonful of water was turned off and the boy dropped safely into the network of hands. "That beats ballooning," he said, as he wiped his face with his dripping sleeve.

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The property of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefiting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase of $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a year when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,823	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,337	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,617	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.94
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	6,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.76 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons is will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The Babies Take a Back Seat.

The mothers of Peterborough took a deep interest in the baby show at the Exhibition. Their hearts are wrapped up in the chubby little cherubs who appeal so strongly to their maternal instincts. The ladies all know that Hawley Bros. teas are unsurpassed for quality and price. Everybody should patronize a house which makes a specialty of fine teas. d

Committed for Trial.

A session of the police court was held Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of disposing of the charge of larceny preferred against Alex. Wallace. The prisoner, though well connected, bears an unsavory reputation. W. C. Fourcette testified to having seen the prisoner taking the boots from the front of Mr. E. Neil's store, and the boots found on the prisoner were identified as having been stolen from Mr. Neil. Al. Haskell also identified the razor as having been stolen from him. The prisoner was committed for trial by the judge, the date of which has been fixed for Tuesday next at 11 o'clock.

Thankful White Ribboners

A meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held on Monday to finish business connected with the Fair work of that Society. The President thanked the ladies for their faithful and united effort. Reference was also made to the great kindness of our friends and the public in general, which contributed so largely to the success of our undertaking. On motion the following resolution was adopted: "That the sincere thanks of this Union be tendered the many kind friends who contributed money and provisions and lent their aid in other ways to our enterprise." On Monday next the ladies and a few of their friends intend taking a social cup of tea together at five o'clock in the hall. Members will please accept this intimation.

Wedded at Lakefield.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at Lakefield this afternoon, at "Mapleshade," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sherin, being the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ida E. Schofield, to Mr. W. P. Chamberlain, M.D., of Morrisburg, Ont. None but the members of the families interested were present, and the ceremony was conducted with as little form as possible. Rev. Mr. Johnston tied the nuptial knot. After the wedding the usual lunch was served. The bridal party will drive to Peterborough this afternoon, and Dr. and Mrs. Chamberlain will take the evening train for the west. The groom is a rising young physician of Morrisburg, and a son of Dr. Chamberlain, the newly appointed Inspector of Prisons and Asylums. The bride, a sister of Mr. Geo. Schofield, town, had an extensive acquaintanceship in both Lakefield and Peterborough, and, though her many social friends had not the pleasure of being present at the wedding, their handsome gifts to the bride were a practical expression of their good wishes and congratulations.

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit This Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmanship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be big business awaiting him this visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterborough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October. dw

Moore's jewelry store, stock saved, no insurance on building, total loss; Curry & Johnston's drug store, estimated loss above insurance $1000; Swanston, Brandon & Co.'s store, estimated loss $6000; Orange Hall, insured for $500; M. May's blacksmith shop, loss above $200.

More of the Patriots.

Since the start has been made, a number of the veterans of '37 are making themselves known. Those already heard from were Mr. Patrick Leinster, of Monaghan, who was station with Capt. Huston's company of the 46th at Port Hope and Cobourg; Mr. John McDonnell and Mr. Patrick Lynch, of Smith, and Mr. James Kearney, of Young's Point, who served along the Lake Erie front. To day the EXAMINER had a call from Mr. Samuel J. Carver, town, and Mr. Frederick Edwards, of Douro. Mr. Carver is 89 years of age. He was lieutenant of the company of recruits which was organized in this district, and did service guarding the Niagara frontier. Mr. Edwards enlisted when 18 years of age, and was in with Lieut. Carver's company, but did not get further than Toronto. Mr. Jas. Wasson, of town, was a sergeant in the same company. All these sturdy old veterans have their discharge papers still in their possession. Mr Edwards knows a number of other veterans residing in this county, among them Mr. John Hendren, of Dummer, and his brother in Norwood; Mr. John Kidd, of Dummer, and Mr. Jas. Girvin, of Otonabee, the latter eighty years of age.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Ladies Auxiliary resumed their regular meetings yesterday afternoon, Mrs. H. S. Griffin, President, presided. The attendance was fair and much interest was manifested in our work. The work to be undertaken by our ladies will be of much benefit to our association and the young men of our town. At a future meeting plans for helpful service will be put into active operation. The auxiliary have kindly offered to provide refreshments at the members reception, to be held on Thursday evening, October 9th. All young men are invited, when a short musical programme will be given and addresses by active workers. An outline of our work will be presented, and all will be asked to unite and make this fall and winter's work the best in the history of the association. We invite all young men who are desirous of forwarding the Lord's cause among their fellows to come to the help of the Lord against the mighty.

On Thursday evening there will be a farewell service, when we shall say good-bye to some of our young men who have been led to offer themselves for mission work. We invite the young men to come to this service and wish God's speed to our fellow workers.

The devotional and reception committees met last evening and transacted business that will be an important influence in our future work.

Dummer.

THE NEW BAPTIST CHURCH.—There were good congregations at the Dummer Baptist church to greet the Rev. P. C. Parker, who had charge of the re-opening services on Sunday. Liberal collections were taken up. On Monday evening a tea meeting was held and the whole district turned out. Tea was served in the Free Methodist Church, the public meeting held in the Baptist church. Rev. Wm. Peer, president. The choir rendered several pieces of music with great credit. Miss Cummings, of Norwood, presided at the organ. Speeches were made by Rev. Mr. Markwick, of Westwood; P. C. Parker, of Peterborough; and Mr. R. J. Colville, Sec. Y.M.C.A. The people were delighted with the meeting, and in a response to an appeal by Mr. Parker, sufficient money was raised to meet the remaining debt for paying for the church, $53 35. Thus the house of worship was re-dedicated free of debt.

The Alleged Dummer Scandal.

An Emphatic Denial Given to the Whole Story.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—Tuesday night the members of the Baptist church, meeting in the union school, had their annual tea meeting. There was ample provision made by those of all denominations and the large audience came together to partake of them. After the people had been served the Rev. Wm. Peer took the chair and called the meeting to order. After the devotional exercises, he called upon the pastor, Rev. Mr. Markinck, who gave an address on practical religion. Addresses were also made by Messrs. C. B. Routley, R. J. Kidd, J. Campbell, Nassau, M. McKibbon, Lakefield, and Rev. P. C. Parker, town. Pieces were rendered by the choir, and solos by Dr. Scott and C. B. Routley. A pleasant meeting was brought to a close about 10 o'clock by the Doxology. Proceeds, $20 25.

DR. GRANT'S GREAT LECTURE.

The Problems of the Colonies Discussed.

A Very Interesting Address upon the Condition of Cape Colony and the Australian Group by Principal Grant—The Social and Political Difficulties the Colonies Have to Grapple With.

The school room of St. Paul's Church was packed with people Tuesday evening, and it is safe to say that a better pleased audience never attended a lecture in there Dr. Grant, Principal of Queen's University, delivered an address upon the subject of his voyage around the world, though so extensive were his observations that in the hour and a half which he engaged the attention of his auditors he had but time to touch upon the three colonies of Australia, New Zealand and Cape Colony. Dr. Grant's lecture was admirable. A condensed newspaper report cannot do it half justice. The lecture showed that Dr. Grant's researches had been thorough and his observation keen. His happy style of delivery and the frequent dashes of humour which he introduced in his address, would have held the undivided attention of the audience, even if a less interesting topic was discussed. All things combined to make the lecture highly successful, and the words of thanks and expression of a wish that Dr. Grant may again favour the people of Peterborough, uttered by the mover and seconder of the vote of thanks, will find a warm reiteration in the hearts of those who listened to his masterly effort Tuesday evening.

Rev. E. F. Torrance was chairman, and introduced the speaker without any preliminary remarks.

In beginning his address Dr. Grant disclaimed all credit of being a "celebrated lecturer," as was advertised; he was simply one of the class of globe-trotters who are so frequently heard of, though he did not go around the world for the purpose of making time, as some of them did. But if the journey was taken not too hurriedly and with the eyes open there was no pleasanter mode of acquiring information. There is a great deal of prevalent ignorance of other countries, he said, even among the poets, and the speaker quoted Goldsmith as referring to the "gentle Indians" of North America, who before the advent of the murderous English and French had nothing to fear but "the prowdling bear and the ferocious tiger." If such mistakes were made by the best-informed people how dense must be the ignorance of ordinarily informed persons. This was exemplified in the people of the United States, who and still less of Canada, a country immediately contiguous to their own, than probably any European nation. The only remedy for this ignorance was travel. Travel as much as you can, said the speaker, and travel while you are young and keep your eyes open. A six months' holiday would allow of a trip around the world, though less than that time would permit of no more than a mere skimming over the route. For instance, the speaker would not attempt to "do" India alone in less than six months. In visiting countries of antiquity there was much more to be learned from a visit to the villages than to vast cities with their imm-asurable weariness. The first time Dr. Grant went around the world, he travelled by the Cape of Good Hope, for the express purpose of seeing self-governing countries of the East and comparing them with our Dominion; and to study the great problems arising there, especially in Cape Colony, New Zealand and Australia. None of these colonies, he said, had accomplished a political unification except Canada, the largest, and New Zealand, the smallest. An idea was prevalent that New Zealand was a part of the Australian group, but that was an error. The two countries had distinctly separate governments, and it took the speaker as long to go from one to the other as from Canada to England. The countries were totally different. Australia and Cape Colony were not yet politically united, but they were bound to become so in a short time. The speaker then began a graphic description of the scenes encountered on his voyage. Upon approaching Cape Town he was impressed with the beauty of its appearance, and his first impressions were not altered. But the great social and political problems of the colony engaged his attention more closely than natural beauties. Every country has its own difficulties and drawbacks, he said, and, therefore, it was folly to say that one country was so much better than another. In fact he had come to the conclusion that, after all,

THERE WAS NO PLACE LIKE CANADA.

Of course every man thinks the same of his own country, and naturally and rightly so. The great problem of Cape Colony was that arising from the bitter and complicated relations between the three elements in the population—British, Boer and black. The race problem in the United States did not compare to that of Cape Colony. There, instead of one in eight being black, there is only one in eight white. But, besides this preponderance of blacks, the half million whites are not at harmony with themselves. The Boers compose about two-thirds and the English one-third of the white population. The English, with a conscious superiority, do not make allowances for the historic development of the country and so were very unjust towards the Boers; just as the Boers looked down upon the Kaffirs and Hottentots. But these Boers were grand old Dutchmen after all. The speaker described the bold spirit of enterprise which actuated the sturdy pioneers who settled in South Africa, and who, in pushing into the heart of the country, came in contact with the natives, degraded mentally, physically and morally, and so far beneath them in the elementary principles of civilization, that they felt that if they wished to preserve their own standing they must keep aloof from the black mass. And if they had not been made of the sternest stuff and bravely clung to their principles and nationality, as they did to their lives, they must inevitably have been lost and swallowed up in the black tide. The speaker's admiration for the Boers was very great. It was unreasonable to suppose that they had the same ideas of liberty and civilization as had the English, when they were governed under such different circumstances. A better understanding was, however, growing up between the Boers and English, an indispensible thing for the safety of South Africa, as it was also necessary for the welfare of Canada that there should be an understanding and spirit of toleration between the French and English element here. Among the causes operating to bring about this improved state of affairs in Cape Colony, was the recent war in the Transvaal, which led to an inquiry into the circumstances and a consequent more generous treatment of the Boers on the part of the British government. Another force working in this direction was the fact that the Boers recognized that no nation would give them as the British. Then they besides see the necessity of all the white people becoming better united to resist the aggression of the black element. All these things gave the speaker great hope for a prosperous period for South Africa. The resources of the country were chiefly pasture, and min-rals and diamonds. Dr. Grant described his visit to the diamond mines at Kimberley, the best in the world, which produced immense quantities of the shining pebbles.

Tasmania, the loveliest and most healthy island of the Australian group, was next visited, and from thence the speaker went to New Zealand, which struck him as being the best of all the British colonies. For its size it has a greater variety of beauties than any other country under the sun. The Doctor grew eloquent in his description of the mountain, vegetable and water scenes of New Zealand, which comprised the beauties of every other country. Its resources are also more varied than Australia, though of course in Australia, the country being so much larger, all its products are on a huge scale. If New Zealand had Australia's size it would be the most wonderful country in the world. The natives, though cannibals, are a sturdy race, and the race problem has been settled more easily there than anywhere else. The Maori has representatives in the legislature, and the good fight the natives made against the British have ensured the respect of their conquerors. A good feature of New Zealand is the fact that it cannot feel the same danger from the centralization of its population, which threatens so many other countries. This danger, Dr. Grant considered, threatened the human race more than any other. In Australia this massing in centres was carried to extreme, the great cities like Melbourne and Sidney being altogether out of proportion to the population of the country. In New Zealand, owing to the country being so much cut up, there are four great centres, two in the north and two in the south; these cities as as it is possible to imagine, on account of the peculiar circumstances attending their colonization. The prosperity of Australia was laid out, on the contrary, on continental lines. Australia had the richest population of any in the world—though, in the speaker's mind, wealth was no indication of a country's influence. By sheep breeding in New South Wales wealth was easily doubled; but the great drawbacks were the terrible droughts and floods which visit that colony. The sheep-growing interests of New South Wales were immense. The wealth of Victoria was in its mines, from which there had been dug out in five years thirteen millions dollars in gold. So all these things were the means of bringing great wealth to Australia. A feature of Australia was the close trade relations which existed between the colonies. The speaker emphasized the immense advantages of trade between countries closely connected. It was to man's advantage to trade with his neighbour as much as possible. The idea that one country should not trade with another because one was the richer or poorer was a false idea. Both will be benefitted by trade; it cannot but be so. The speaker advocated extended trade relations for Canada with all parts of the British Empire and countries contiguous to ourselves. Dr. Grant closed with a patriotic allusion to Britain's greatness, past, present and future.

A vote of thanks was moved the speaker of the evening by Mr. E. B. Edwards, seconded by R. M. Dennistoun, and needless to say the resolution was carried with hearty unanimity. The speakers expressed the hope that Dr. Grant would favor the audience on a future occasion, to which the Doctor replied that he had the same hope himself. Rev. Mr. Torrance also added a few words of congratulation, and Dr. Grant replied briefly.

St. Luke's Harvest Festival.

A Bright and Joyous Service—A Beautifully Decorated Church.

The thanksgiving services in St. Luke's on Tuesday were well attended. The church, neat and beautiful as any time, was made additionally so by the very tasteful and elaborate decorations. These consisted of fruits, flowers, grains and vegetables, disposed in every possible position of vantage. From porch to chancel, including the altar, there were bright trophies of the fruits of the field and garden arranged with great taste and good effect. The service was special, the lessons, hymns and anthems, being pertinent to the joyful occasion. Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of St John's, took the service, and Rev. Alfred Spragge, rector of Cobourg, preached the sermon, taking for his text the 3rd verse of the 9th chapter of the prophecy of Isaiah.

THE SERMON.

The preacher said that the prophecy of Isaiah began to be fulfilled when the one hundred and twenty went abroad to spread the Gospel and reap its harvest. The joy of the harvest began with the incarnation. The "feast of the harvest" was pre-eminently the time of rejoicing, and the details of this festival were graphically brought out. Among them joy and religion were very intimately associated. The want of our religion of the day was joy. We Christians should be a very happy people, considering our great privileges. Holy Scripture, both old and new, abounded with injunctions to joyfulness. In the latter the cardinal virtue of joy was placed next in order to the one great virtue, love. Church people should in this respect live up to the spirit of the services of the churches. Even the sorrows and chastisements that are placed upon us are but a discipline for higher religious enjoyments. Meditation on God's goodness and the blessings enjoyed above our fellows would produce an increase of joy in religion. Our gratitude should take a practical form. We should return to God, in the shape of offering, of the abundance He has bestowed. The speaker closed by reference to the great harvest when the angels would be the reapers. Those who embraced in its fulness the religion of Jesus Christ would hail that as vest with great joyfulness, for the dispensation of Jesus Christ was a dispensation of great joy to all people.

THE MUSIC.

The musical portion of the services was also of an especial character. The hymns were appropriate to the season, and the anthems had been carefully prepared. Mammatis's beautiful arrangement of the "Beus Miseratur" was sung by a quartette and chorus. The anthem, Clarke-Whitfield's "Behold how good and joyful," was sung with good attack. During the offertory a setting of "Jesu, lover of my soul," was sweetly sung by Miss Lily Jackson.

Springville.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The ninth anniversary of the opening of the Presbyterian church was celebrated on Tuesday evening last by the congregation having a tea and social. Tea was served in Mr. Goodfellow's hall from five to seven. The tables were loaded down with delicious and tasteful edibles, which the ladies of this congregation always supply in abundance; in fact one of the speakers was so awe struck at the numerous high and rich looking cakes that were displayed at tea, that he was forced to make mention of them in his speech as having cakes all around him, only sorry that he could not permit himself to partake of some of them. No doubt he would have been complete. After the inner man was satisfied, reparation was made to the church, which was well filled. The chair was taken by Mr. J. Stevenson, M.P., of Peterborough. Speeches were delivered by Rev. Mr. McEwan, of Lakefield; Rev. Mr. McCamus, of Frazerville; Rev. Mr. Greatrix, of Cavanville, and Mr. R. R. Hall, of Peterborough, interspersed with vocal and instrumental music by the church choir; the Misses Campbell, of Warsaw, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Steer in a quartette; Prof. Ketchum, of Peterborough; and the Williamson brothers. The programme was well rendered. About half past ten the Doxology was sung, led by Prof. Ketchum, after which the audience left for their respective homes apparently highly delighted with the evening's entertainment. It is very gratifying to the promoters of the splendid and successful social event to find that their labors were crowned with success financially, the proceeds amounting to $60.

BIRCHALL'S DEATHWATCH

THE EASTWOOD MURDERER TO BE CONTINUOUSLY GUARDED.

The Wife of the Doomed Man Improving Her Physician Urges Her Return to England. Birchall Still Shows no Signs of Despondency.

WORCESTER, Oct. 1.—Birchall was today removed from the day cell which he has occupied since his incarceration and which bears so many marks of his life there to the one other day cell at the end of the corridor. The windows that his own cell might be subjected to a process of house-cleaning. The carpet was removed and dusted and the room thoroughly cleaned out and brightened up. When the cell is ready again Birchall will be put back in it and will occupy it perhaps to within a short time of the end.

The cell is still covered with pictures clipped from illustrated papers and some of them very artistically colored by the prisoner, but most of his own sketches which once adorned the walls have been torn down and handed out to echo hunters. In one corner hangs a fan, turned into a whisk holder and neatly tied with a bow of ribbon, the work of his wife, and on one of the walls hangs a pretty little match box, the work of the same loving hand.

John Magee has been appointed to share the prisoner's cell and keep the death watch, and a person seeing the both men in the cell and not knowing either would, if he judged by the expression on their countenances, be more apt to take Magee for the condemned man than Birchall. Except that an extra watch has been appointed and that the prisoner daily walks in the jail yard have been discontinued, there has been as yet no change made in his jail treatment. His food will still be brought in from outside the jail and he will be allowed the privileges he has always had of smoking, reading, writing, etc.

Under Cameron will not make any further changes until he is instructed to do so by the proper authorities.

No Symptoms of Despondency.

Birchall said this morning that he rested well last night, and when called at 8½ o'clock this morning he appeared to be sleeping well. He ate a good breakfast and smoked a cigar and showed no symptoms of despondency, though it is true he has a sunset perhaps a graver aspect than it has heretofore worn. If such a personal ink sketch for a newspaper can this in turn it has promised to make be more. His mind is turning, his spiritual adviser says, to the consummation of things eternal and the literature supplied him is principally of a religious character.

The prisoner denies that he ever asked to see Murray to come and call on him or says he is sorry his counsel maligned him. He declared that there was not one word of truth in it, any more than there was in half the other stories told about him.

Mrs. Birchall was somewhat better today. Her condition is, however, very low, though not at all critical, and it will take a long time for her to regain her accustomed physical vigor. Dr. Ivey, who is attending her says that she cannot expect to improve until she leaves the scene of her misery and until she begins to forget as far as she can the circumstances of her sorrow.

While Birchall's cell was being renovated upstairs Charles Benwell was performing the melancholy duty of packing up the trunks of his dead brother below. It was a touching sight to see Mr. Benwell picking up piece by piece the garment of his murdered brother, folding them up carefully and putting them away in the trunks, preparatory to having the baggage removed.

THEY STOP SHORT OF MURDER

But in Other Respects These Firm Pupil Sharks Resemble Birchall.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The World's London cablegram says: The most popular topic of talk in all England to night is Birchall's conviction. The news arrived too late to admit of much comment in the London evening papers, but all that did comment reflect the general opinion that the verdict is a just one. Birchall has simply sacrificed himself to greed for gain. He squandered his patrimony and came to London, where he fell in with a worthless gang of swindlers which for the last ten years has been playing on the gullible British public by sending the worthless sons of impoverished families to America under the promise that they could come fortunes in cattle ranches. These men swagger in London and in the large Provincial towns of England like crows in a corn field. They are shrewd enough to keep within the law so that the police cannot touch them.

The English newspapers dare not expose them by name because this would involve heavy damages for libel. Last spring when I went to see Ford & Rathbun, through whom Birchall operated, the head of their firm said:

"I do not care what you publish in America because it cannot hurt us. But if any part of what you say in the World is republished in any English paper we shall sue that paper for libel. Our business is a legitimate one and not gambling. We get no custom in England when we go out West and gamble on stag prospects of mining, but when we send them there is they have no income or clothing. If they succeed so much the better."

Of course these emigration sharks could not exist without pals in Canada and the United States, who write letters about bogus farms, receive so called pupils when they arrive and divide the profits of the plunder with the London swindlers. Birchall has not been without a few friends during his trial. Some pecuniary assistance has been sent him by old college chums, who believe in him and by his own and his wife's relatives in England. Birchall has one brother, the clergyman of a small parish in a suburb of Liverpool, who is almost heartbroken at the family disgrace. He has a sister living with friends near Oxford, who has impoverished herself so that her brother might have every chance to clear himself and escape the gallows. Some of the money has come from Mrs. Birchall's relatives. I went to Harue Hill to-night and tried to see Mr. Stephenson, but he was too much crushed by the news of the verdict and his daughter's disgrace to see me. He talks of sailing again in a few days to America and will try and induce his daughter to come home.

London's Interest in the Trial.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Probably no trial of modern times, certainly none occurring in a distant colony, has excited the interest that has been aroused throughout the length and breadth of the British Isles by the proceedings of the past week at Woodstock, in the Birchall case. To-day all the morning papers print yesterday's proceedings, many of them in full, as they have done daily for the past seven days. The London Times, touching the way with the speech of Counsel Blackstock [illegible] conclusion.

Although the verdict was received too late for first editions, the announcement of the fact in the second was accompanied by editorial comments, indicating hearty approval of the jury's decision.

The feat in telegraphing the account which began at 3 p.m. Greenwich time, and was only ended at 5 this morning, is an unprecedented one in the history of the Atlantic cables.

True to the Last.

[From The Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]

Birchall is true to himself to the last. On Monday The S. R. published an alleged poem of his. It came to us in his handwriting, the original being now in the possession of a well-known man about town. The Toronto World states that this poem is a plagiarism. It was sent by him to his wife as a piece of original composition.

Canadian Justice is Vigorous.

[From The New York Evening World.]

Birchall has been convicted of Benwell's murder. The sang-froid of this nervy impostor makes him a better dramatic study than object of sympathy. Happy Canada justice is pretty vigorous and Benwell will be legally avenged.

IT IS ALSO PROMPT.

[From The New York Sun.]

The jury at Woodstock, Canada, found Reginald Birchall guilty of the murder of E. C. Benwell. This verdict, though it was based upon circumstantial evidence, had been fully expected by nearly all of those who attended the trial and listened to the evidence of the witnesses. The murder was an unusually foul crime, the victim having been lured across the ocean to his death by the false promises and representations of his slayer. Canada justice is likely to inflict prompt vengeance upon the murderer.

A National Calamity Averted.

[From The Presbyterian Review.]

It is satisfactory to know that by the verdict of an intelligent jury, the perpetrator of a foul crime has been discovered and that the majesty of the law will be vindicated. A failure of justice in this case would have been nothing short of a national calamity.

THE COTTON CENTENARY.

A Sunday School Parade Opens the Rhode Island Celebration.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Oct. 1. The celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the introduction into the country of cotton spinning by power by Samuel Slater in the city of Pawtucket began here yesterday. In commemoration of the fact that Samuel Slater established one of the first, if not the first, Sunday school in America, to-day was known as Sunday school day, the morning being devoted to Sunday school exercises. The parade, consisting of the Sunday schools of this city and surrounding towns and villages, with music, banners and badges, marched to Bunnell Park, where there were speeches and music.

At 2 p.m. the formal opening of the Cotton Centenary Exhibition took place in Centenary Hall. George Mabbett presided. The program comprised addresses by Henry E. Tiepke, chairman of the City Council Cotton Centenary Committee, and Governor John W. Davis of Rhode Island. Hon. Albert R. Sherman, superintendent of the building, started up the big engine which runs all the machinery in the building.

To-day there was a military parade.

FOR FALSE ARREST.

She Promises to Pursue Those Responsible for Her Detention.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 1.—Superintendent of Police Morin was arrested by Sheriff Jenkins to-day on the order of Justice Daniels, Supreme Court Judge, in the case of Ellen Sessions-Tupper v. Martin Morin. He was immediately bailed out in $500. Mrs. Tupper was arrested in Toronto, it will be remembered, upon a telegram sent by Morin to the Chief of Police there. Afterwards Morin laid the blame upon Detective Patrick Mack, whose conduct was investigated by the Police Board and a report made in his favor, though Morin was censured. The arrest was made as a preliminary step to an action brought for illegal arrest. Mrs. Tupper has stated that she would sue for her detention in Toronto.

A Disaster Averted.

DETROIT, Oct. 1.—Another terrible street car accident was narrowly averted this morning. As an East Fort street car was approaching the crossing of the Grand Trunk Railway the crossing watchman signalled "All right," just as the car neared the gate the watchman saw a train coming and rang down the gate. The driver was unable to stop the car and it crashed through the gates, breaking them off. The trigger edge tore all the windows out. The driver whipped up, crossed the track and broke through the other gates just as the train thundered by. One woman was slightly hurt.

Hanged Himself in His Stable.

CHATHAM, Sept. 30.—John Orr, living in Selkirk-street, was found in the mow of his stable hanging by the neck and quite dead Monday. His wife had missed him and asked Mrs. Waters, a neighbor, to look into the stable for him, with the result as stated. Had his knees, which were drawn up, been straightened he could not have strangled, as his feet would have reached the floor. Deceased was a man of temperate habits, and there was no family or financial trouble to induce such an act, but of late he has been suffering from the results of a sunstroke.

Dr. Fulton Accepts a Call.

MONTREAL, Oct. 1.—Rev. Dr. Fulton of Brooklyn, N.Y., who had charge of the Bond-street Congregational Church, Toronto, during the absence of Rev. Dr. Wild, has accepted the call of the members of the Grace Baptist Church in this city. He enters upon his work at once and will remove his family here. The Queen's Hall has been rented for one year as a place of worship. Mr. George H. Brock, a graduate of McMaster Hall, Toronto, has accepted the invitation to be the pastor's assistant.

Chinese Laborers From Canada.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—In the House the Senate concurrent resolution was agreed to requesting the President to negotiate with Great Britain and Mexico with a view to securing stipulation for preventing the entry of Chinese laborers from Canada or Mexico into the United States.

The Growth of Two Cities.

HAMILTON, Oct. 1.—The assessors' returns show the population to be 45,414, an increase of 862. The total value of the assessment is $28,701,370, an increase of $1,331,405.

OUR MINERAL WEALTH.

SUFFICIENT NICKLE TO PLATE THE NAVIES OF THE WORLD.

The Members of the British Iron and Steel Institute Congress Accept an Invitation From the Ontario and Dominion Governments to Visit the Sudbury and other Mines.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The first day's session of the British Iron and Steel Institute branch of the Congress opened this morning in Chickering Hall. The attendance was very large.

Sir James Kitson, President of the B. I. and S. Institute, was in the chair. Andrew Carnegie delivered an address of welcome, to which Sir James responded. General Sherman received an ovation as he was being escorted to a seat on the platform. Sir James Kitson then said it was intended to present a diploma of membership and a gold medal to the Hon. A. S. Hewitt, but he was not present owing to illness. Sir James Kitson then introduced Mr. Archibald Blue of the Ontario Bureau of Industries, who, on behalf of the government, extended an invitation to the members of the institute to remain a short time in Ontario on their way home from the mining regions.

Mr. Blue said: The Government which I have the honor to represent trusts and believes that it will not be regarded as an intruder when it sends cordial greetings to the members of the Iron and Steel Institute and invites them to see Ontario and spy out some part of its mineral wealth before they have completed the American tour.

It would be a pleasure to the Government to have an opportunity of showing civilities to the members of the institute, representing as they do one of the greatest of the great industries of the Motherland. And I am also authorized to state that in this agreeable undertaking the Government will be heartily joined by the Board of Trade of the City of Toronto, the strongest and most representative organization of the kind in Canada. You gentlemen, are especially interested in iron and the supply of iron ores. You are now to a large extent dependent on foreign countries for the qualities of ores needed in the production of steel, and it may concern you to know that in Ontario we have immense ranges of iron ores, mostly of a magnetic variety, touched as yet only by the hammer of the prospector, and waiting for enterprise and capital to develop them and convert them to the best grades of iron and steel. You are expected to visit the famous Vermillion range in Northern Minnesota, the annual output of which mines has risen in 5 years from a thousand to more than half a million tons. Well, 60 miles away, in the province of Ontario, we have the same geological formation, and extensive ore bodies have recently been discovered there, while 100 miles to the northwestward, midway between Lake Superior and the Lake-of-the-Woods, there is a mountain of rich magnetic ore, several miles in length and claimed to be well suited for the production of Bessemer steel. We have also large bodies of clear magnetic ores in our eastern provinces and others not so clear, but after the demonstration witnessed on this platform two days ago there is little fear, I think, but that the ingenuity of man will succeed in exorcising the evil to the British iron masters, some of the greatest of whom are here present. A brief statement of these facts may not be without interest or value, even if they cannot all this time be persuaded to come and see and know for themselves. There is, however, another reason why the Government of Ontario and the Toronto Board of Trade desire that the institute should accept an invitation. You have heard something of the existence of nickel ore in our province and it is proposed, I understand, to spend a few hours at the mines and smelting works of the Canadian Copper Company of Ohio, the Hussey-Vivian Company of Wales, and the Dominion Copper Company of Canada, all of which are in the vicinity of Sudbury. The experiments of Riley and Hall with nickel and steel are familiar to members of the institute.

I know that here in the United States the impression appears to prevail that the ore exists in very limited quantities, and that unless it is at once secured a more favored nation may get in ahead and take all. It is, therefore, pardonable in the members of the Iron and Steel Institute, living 3000 miles away, if they are no better informed than our neighbors on the extent of Ontario's resources in nickel ore. The fact is we do not know their exact extent ourselves. But we do know that great ranges of ore have been discovered over an area of several hundred square miles, and from its occurrence in a particular formation we have reason to believe that it exists throughout a region several thousand square miles in extent. Within the Laurentian, Huronian and Anmenickian belts there are numerous assurances of gold, silver, iron, nickel, copper and apatite. In the nickel and iron ores it is especially rich, and we think the time is opportune for the British iron master to seek to do there in his own industry what the British farmer settler has so successfully done in agriculture. It is never safe to prophesy unless you know, but I verily believe we have enough nickel ore in the Huronian rocks north of Georgian Bay to plate the navies of the world for a thousand years and to serve many other and better purposes besides, assuming, of course, that the metal be economically separated from its compounds, and there is barely doubt that it can.

At the conclusion of Mr. Blue's remarks, the institute was addressed by Dr. Selwyn, chief of the geological survey of Canada, who conveyed an invitation from the Dominion Government to the members to visit Ottawa and other portions of the Dominion.

Both invitations were most heartily received.

Under existing arrangements they will reach Sudbury Junction October 25, Niagara Falls October 24 (at which point they are to be entertained at lunch by Mr. Erastus Wiman), then to Washington, where they are to be presented to the President. On October 26 or 27 they will return to New York and from thence go to Canada, via Niagara Falls, say about October 28 or 30. The number who have thus far expressed a determination to visit Ontario is about 50. As they will not sail from New York until November 5, by the Etruria, they will have nearly a week to spend in Canada.

THE NATIONALIST TRIALS.

The New York Sun's Appeal to the People of America.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The Sun to-morrow will publish an appeal to the people of America from the American committee for the relief of famine sufferers in Ireland. The most trustworthy information is that the complete failure of the potato crop makes another great famine in Ireland practically inevitable. The committee appeals for immediate contributions of money, provisions and clothing. The committee includes the chairman, General James Grant Wilson; honorary chairman, Rutherford B. Hayes, Grover Cleveland, treasurer, The New York Sun.

A Mysterious Death.

CLAYTON, Ont., Oct. 1.—Zip Lalonde, aged 30, in company with three other men, went out a few days ago on the river. On their return to Clayton, Lalonde took a large quantity of liquor and in a short time was found dead by his carsman in the boat house. A doctor says he died from congestion of the lungs hastened by a weak heart. An inquest is in progress.

They Will Go on With the Appeal.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 1.—A meeting of the clients in the St George disaster cases was held this morning in Mr. Beard's office, Mr. G. T. Blackstock being present. It was resolved to go on with the appeal from Mr. Justice Rose's decision.

SUICIDED WITH HIS SUSPENDERS.

A Ghastly Record of Tragic Deaths in Berlin.

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—Count Klaist, the sporting nobleman, whose recent adventure at a second-class hostelry here, when he threw the night porter over the stairs for refusing to admit him and a woman companion, created such intense excitement in sporting circles, has committed suicide by hanging with his suspenders in the Moabite Prison, where he was confined, on learning that his victim was dying, rather than be compelled to stand a possible trial for murder.

Baron Ischirschwitz and his sweetheart were found last evening in the Thiergarten bleeding from pistol shots in the forehead. As they were not fatally wounded they were taken to the station, where they were charged with attempted murder. They are now lying unconscious in the hospital.

Charlottenburg, the pleasant summer resort for Berliners on the Spree, was yesterday the scene of a mysterious and fatal affray. In an out-of-the-way public house Albert Siegmanowski and Sergeant Bruckner of the Sixth Artillery shot and killed each other without witnesses.

They left letters darkly hinting at some fearful crime, in which each had some time since participated.

On Sunday some miners at the Wolfschaft Moewke Iron Works, near Neurode, 46 miles from Breslau, in a spirit of revenge, threw Engineer Samen into the furnace. His charred body was raked out on Monday night. His murderers have not yet been identified.

MACARONI EATERS FAMISHING.

Some Districts of Italy Threatened With Famine.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Ireland is not the only country threatened with serious wants. In Italy the Government has been informed by several prefects that there is serious apprehension of trouble in their provinces from the number of unemployed workmen who live in the utmost misery. In some of the provincial towns the men have become troublesome and have done some mischief and threaten to do more unless work is provided for them. In Calabria a large number of peasants assembled in arms and shouted for the Pope and the priests. They were dispersed by a detachment of carabineers. The people in many districts feel keenly the transfer of the control of pious foundations from the clergy to civil authorities. The priests know the poor more intimately than the civil officers do, and they were better acquainted with the needs of the community. The situation in some respects is not dissimilar to that which followed the abolition of the monasteries in England, when the roads were thronged with beggars, and the relief given by the monks was succeeded by the stocks and the whipping post. The serious increase in Italian brigandage and general lawlessness is thought to be attributable in no small degree to the increasing poverty of the masses, which forces many of the more turbulent of the unemployed into the paths of crime.

A Lively Time at Limerick.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—At Limerick on Monday a series of Gaelic sports was wound up in a disgraceful riot. There were several games going on in different parts of the city and under different managers, who soon developed into rivals, and rioting was the result. At the railway station, which was crowded with excursionists, the first demonstrations were made, when a mob of boisterous roughs began fighting over the claims of the respective factions. A tumult almost unparalleled for viciousness followed. Sticks were used indiscriminately, rocks were thrown, windows smashed, carriages wrecked and a number of persons were seriously injured. The stationmaster and other railway employes were dangerously wounded. There were no police present, so matters were left entirely in the hands of the combatants, and skulls were cracked in the utmost fury. At New Pallas station some stones and bones were flung at the mail train, severely injuring two men. The railway company has announced that it will run no more excursion trains.

The Cathedral Suicide.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Easton, who killed himself in St. Paul's Cathedral during the service on Sunday morning, left a letter saying he would commit suicide in the Cathedral in order to destroy false Christianity. The coroner's jury has returned a verdict that the man was insane.

HELD BY A FLESHLESS HAND.

How Major Tracey Found the Skeleton of a Boston Man in Ocean Wilds.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Oct. 1.—During the visit of Major Reginald H. Tracey of the Cape Mounted Rifle Volunteers, Cape of Good Hope, to Mrs. H. Byron Porter of Sheldon-street, this city, there was told a story which reads like fiction. The central feature of the tale is a portion of a Boston newspaper, which was found in the fleshless hand of a skeleton in the heart of the wilds of the Dark Continent. When traveling across the country, fully 75 miles from the coast, the Major and his party of natives were attacked by a large body of savages, and nearly all his followers were slaughtered. He and other survivors were taken to the enemy's camp and kept without food six days. The captives, one by one, were brained, cut up and cooked by the savages to satisfy the hunger of their brother captives. At first they took the pieces and roasted them over a fire, devouring them with apparent relish and their hunger was somewhat appeased, when they rebelled against the unnatural food.

Seeing that the Major would rather starve than eat human flesh his captors provided him with other food, which proved not altogether unwholesome. He was taken further into the interior and brought before the chief, who ordered one of his ears to be cut off, which was thrown to a dog lying at the chieftain's feet, the animal devouring the piece of flesh with great relish. After a week of confinement the major was appointed water carrier, and while making a trip to the stream he came across the skeleton of a human being in a dense wood, clutching a fragment of a Boston newspaper. Its presence in that region remained a great mystery until after the major had escaped, when he learned that a party of whites several years before had gone on an exploring expedition and had never returned.

Cracksmen Strike Norwich.

NORWICH, Sept. 30.—Burglars have struck Norwich. Last night they relieved Henderson & Co., drygoods merchants, of $700 worth of goods. They effected an entrance through the front door by smashing it. The store was ransacked and goods and cash carried off estimated at the above amount. No clue as to the guilty parties has yet been brought to light, but the authorities are out on the search and they confidently expect to cage their men by night.

Another Scorch at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Fire in the Warren-Springer building and Lehman & Sons building here to-night caused $250,000 loss. Nine firemen were hurt by falling walls.

A Census Freak.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—An officer taking the census here to-day discovered Mrs. Lucy Ridley, who is 117 years old.

AS THE
Cold Weather
CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1890.

HAD Richard Cobden the relative positions of Canada and the United States in his mind when he said:—"Here are two countries, one capable of consuming a vast supply of raw material, and the other capable of producing it, and a demon rises out of the river dividing them, and holds in his hand an act of parliament and says, 'You shall not fill each other's wants?'"

JOHN MORLEY tells the people of England that the conduct of Balfour's bludgeonbearers at the Tipperary trials was cowardly and brutal, that the violence was all on the part of the police, and that there was no excuse for excluding the public from the court room while the examination of witnesses against O'Brien and Dillon was in progress. The responsibility for the outrages which Mr. Morley witnessed must rest upon the shoulders of the Salisbury Government, and the English people are the jury to whom Mr. Morley's testimony is addressed.

IN 1878 Canada's aggregate trade with Great Britain amounted to $83,372,719, and our trade with the United States was valued at $73,875,437. Then our trade with the mother country was much greater than with the neighbouring republic. But after eleven years of high taxation and Tory "loyalty" we find the order of things reversed. Last year the Dominion's trade with Great Britain, according to Mr. Bowell's customs returns, aggregated only $80,422,517, while our commerce with the United States amounted to $94,039,844, showing a decline of three millions in trade with Great Britain and an increase of over twenty millions in trade with the United States. That is how the present tariff encourages trade with the mother country.

ECCLES division of south-east Lancashire will elect its representative in the Imperial Parliament within a few days, and as there has not been a contested election for some time in the United Kingdom the result is awaited with a great deal of interest. It is held by the Unionists that the Home Rule cause has been waning for some time, but the Home Rulers say this is a mistake, and that a general election would show that the cause had the support of an immense majority. Even the Unionists admit that the proceedings of the Irish executive at Tipperary and Mr. John Morley's report of them are likely to prove injurious to the Government. Eccles election will afford a test. This division of Lancashire has been represented in the last Parliament by a Conservative member, the Hon. J. F. Egerton, who carried the constituency on both occasions by a majority of about three hundred. The Liberals will be much disappointed if they do not win the seat. The last by election in south-east Lancashire was that of Gorton division, which the Liberals carried by eight hundred and forty-six, increasing their majority as compared with the election of 1886 by over four hundred votes.

OBITUARY.—We are sorry to announce to the readers of the EXAMINER the death of Lila Collins, wife of Mr. John Cochrane, who died in Montana on Friday, September 19th, 1890, aged 31 years, of the mountain fever. She was the third daughter of Mr. James Collins, who resided here a number of years on a farm. He then moved to Port Hope to retire from the active business of life. The deceased there met Mr. Cochrane. They were married, and soon after went to Montana in the United States to reside, where they lived happily till the time of her death. The remains were enclosed in a metallic coffin and brought to Mr. Samuel Might's residence, Cavan, where her father and mother now reside. The funeral took place on Thursday, September 25th, at two p.m., and proceeded to the family burying-ground, Frazerville, for interment. Many relations and friends were present, also Mr William Collins, who has been absent from here for eight years. Deceased's parents and relatives, together with her husband, will have the sympathy of this neighbourhood in their bereavement.

BREVITIES.—Farmers here are drawing out their fall wheat to market. Peas were a very good crop here. Quite a few have threshed and taken them to Port Hope, a kind well known by the name of fancy peas. Mr. W. H. S. Martin is getting the foundation ready for the new store. We hope William's anticipations will be realized. A brick building here will not look amiss.

He was one of Our Best Marksmen.

At the Ranges Again This Year.

Canada, for a young nation can justly boast of a well conducted volunteer force, which for the advantages they have had in drill, field exercises, and rifle shooting, are second to none in the world. Our volunteers have always more than held their own as expert marksmen at home, and in England. Our Wimbledon and Bisley teams have always acquitted themselves creditably; and these annual contests have always been productive of great good.

Jack ——, is one of our best marksmen, and for several years was a member of our Canadian team at the Wimbledon contests, always coming out with good scores both in team and individual competitions. His grand work for two seasons he helped Canada to win the Kolapore cup, and he came back each trip considerably enriched with money prizes.

For over eighteen months our friend Jack was unable to take part in any of the local rifle matches.

His daily occupation was close and confining and his steady attention to heavy office work overtaxed his bodily strength, and he became weak, nervous and irritable, as well as very despondent. His physician wisely recommended quiet and rest for a time, and prescribed for his illness.

Jack missed his rifle shooting very much, and often spoke of it; but he knew well that an unsteady eye, a trembling hand, and unstrung nerves were not aids to good shooting.

Jack, who had been looking over the evening papers, read with astonishment about a remarkable cure effected by Paine's Celery Compound, and at once decided to give it a trial, more especially as it was a nerve tonic.

He manfully and honourably informed his physician of his determination, and would listen to no remonstrances from any quarter. He paid his physician for past services, and at once commenced the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

The first bottle produced a great change; he was able to eat fairly well and slept better. After he had used the third bottle he was able to resume his office work, and felt almost as well as ever before. He continued the use of the Compound for some weeks longer, and became as steady as a rock, and resumed his rifle shooting practice, and is making remarkable scores once more.

He says his condition is such as will enable him to compete for a place on the team that will go to Bisley next year, and that he thanks Paine's Celery Compound for it.

The Old Reliable.

In these days of humbug it is a relief to hear of something that can be depended upon. Wilson's Wild Cherry has been tested as a remedy for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs, for nearly twenty years with such success as to earn for itself the title of The Old Reliable cure for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis and other affections of the respiratory system. See that you get the genuine in white wrappers. Sold by all druggists. dw

General Farm Notes.

In London the milk of the goat is sold at three times the price of cow's milk, being in demand for young children. Goats in England are largely used for producing milk, and they are pedigreed and bred to certain lines or strains in the same manner as are cattle in this country.

It pays to have good roads, and the tax for that purpose is a small sum compared with the saving of the team. On a good road one horse can do more work than can two on a rough road.

Experiments made show that when celery and many other vegetables are packed in dampness and kept in a cool place they will keep well for a long time, and especially in winter.

A teaspoonful of liquid carbolic acid in a quart of water, allowing no other water to drink, is the best remedy for chicken cholera yet discovered, but it is not a sure cure.

A new roof may be expensive, but it is cheaper than damp stables or barns and sick animals. The animals have no warm stoves in winter, and dryness is therefore essential.

The Devon is one of the hardiest and best breeds known for hillside pastures. The cows are usually gentle and yield more than the average quantity of milk.

The sweet potato crop is being harvested. It is a bulky crop, and one of the most difficult to properly keep through the winter. The first thing to do is to assort the potatoes and use the small ones for fattening hogs, for which purpose it is superior to corn. What some method is discovered by which sweet potatoes can be evaporated and kept in that condition they will become an important article of winter consumption.

The amount of valuable fertilizing material that is carried off by the sewers of the large cities every year is greater in value than any crop produced in the country. Filthy as it may be, the sewage flowing into the rivers is so much wealth passing away, equaling the gold mines, and in the course of time impoverishing the nation. True, much is returned in the shape of fish, but the loss is far greater than the gain.

One of the difficulties in banking up all kinds of roots, or cabbage, is that of the ground becoming frozen, and sealing them up until the weather becomes mild. A farmer, who has tried the method, suggests that cabbage be packed in barrels, and the barrel covered with earth, the head of the barrel being so arranged so as to allow the cabbage to be taken out as required, and the barrel head covered with straw.

Labor as the great factor on the farm that gives the best return of all the expenses, but everything depends on how and where it is applied. It is not the number of hours labor performed that brings in the profit, for misapplied labor may entail a loss, but an intelligent arrangement by which every matter demanding attention receives its share at the proper time and with the least effort necessary.

"Fancy farmers" are blessings to agriculture. They search for the best, make experiments, and gradually lead the more practical workers to a realization of the importance of superior stock and better methods. But for the "fancy farmers" many of our best breeds would not now be known and agriculture would be behind other pursuits.

About one pint of grain per day is estimated as an average allowance for each sheep if plenty of straw and hay be also given. This is less than six bushels of grain per year. As the sheep produces mutton, lamb and wool, as well as returning a portion of the food as manure, it should give a large profit in proportion to cost.

Unbearable Agony.

For three days I suffered severely from summer complaint. Nothing gave me relief and I kept getting worse until the pain was almost unbearable, but after I had taken the first dose of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, I found great relief, and it did not fail to cure me. Luiz de Resende, a Rio Janeiro jeweler, has bought from Dom Pedro for $60,000 the jewels of the deceased empress.

A squash at Colfax, N. M., is under guard day and night. It now measures eight feet four inches around and is still growing.

Physical education has been suspended in the New York public schools this year from lack of an appropriation necessary for the purpose.

On Wilkie Collins' memorial stone appear these words under his name "Author of 'The Woman in White' and Other Works of Fiction."

Charles D. Young, a Denver boy of fifteen has just built the smallest coal-burning locomotive in existence. It is about five feet long and weighs 225 pounds.

A column of army worms invaded Woodbridge, Cal., recently. It was half a mile long and was followed by immense swarms of blackbirds which preyed upon them.

Very few people know that Georgia produces olive oil. A planter in St. Simon's Island has a grove of 500 trees, nearly in full bearing, from which he has made about two hundred gallons of oil besides the fruit picked.

Steel trinkets set off with artificial pearls are likely to be the rage in London next winter. An artificer of steel jewelry has made a bit with coronets, brooches, necklaces and garlands of steel beads mixed with artificial pearls.

A Russian captain has been sent on a mission through the country to collect opinions from generals, divines, wardens of prisons, etc., on a great variety of subjects. It is thought that this phonographic collection is intended for the emperor.

The salt works at Saltair, Utah, cover 900 acres. The vats are fifteen feet above the surface of the lake, and are filled by means of a huge rope driven at a high speed, which lifts the brine in a steady stream at the rate of 17,000 gallons a minute.

The postal savings banks of Japan, which for several years received but little attention from the people, have become a great success. They were established in 1875, but at the end of the year had only $15,230.00 deposit. In 1887, however, it amounted to $1,058,000, and in 1889 to $20,450,000.

A town in England, Skiddaw, Cumberland, stands unique as a township of one house and one solitary male adult inhabitant. This man is deprived of his vote because of the fact that there are no overseers to make out a voter's list, and no church or public building on which to publish one, if made.

According to a correspondent of the Topeka Capital, stock raisers have noticed in the last three years an apparent increasing sterility in bees. It is ascribed to the practice of docking. The locks on the cattle must fulfill some useful function or they would not have been provided by nature.

S. S. Kerr, of Almond, N. Y., claims that he was the last union prisoner to leave Andersonville prison. He secured the rebel flag which had so long floated over that prison and the wretchedness and misery it was meant to symbolize, and has it still in his possession probably one of the most interesting relics of the civil war.

A squad of Tenth Maine Volunteers, while out scouting at South Mountain, came across an old woman hoeing in a log cabin. After the usual salutations one of the squad named Spaulding asked her: "Well, old lady, are you a secesh?" "No," was the answer. "Are you union?" "No." "What are you, then?" "A baptist, and always have been." The scouting party was satisfied.

Secretary Johnson, of the Indiana State Board of Charities, reports that there is in one of the institutions of that state a girl who has a free and one of the characteristics of a pig. She realizes her affliction and avoids strangers in consequence. This is where she differs from many males, who resemble her in the possession of porky characteristics, which they always intrude on strangers.

Just as Henry George is now discussed here than at home, so Bellamy's "Looking Backward" finds its greatest army of serious students in crowded, discontented England. His notion of a public umbrella has been put into operation in a new street just opened at Buxton, where the sidewalk is sheltered by a glass roof ten feet wide, supported by slim, graceful pillars rising from the curb. Everybody hails this innovation with delight and there is a great clamor to have its use extended throughout London. Certainly nowhere on the habitable globe is such a contrivance more needed than here, where rain is the rule for seven months in the year and where silk hats are insisted upon by the severest decrees of fashion and commercial usage.

Here is the witty answer by which a hero, who on Bismarck's suggestion was commissioned by the emperor to decorate with the Iron Cross all the first class, discomfitted the chancellor's attempt to chaff him. "I am authorized," said Bismarck to him, "to offer you 100 thalers instead of the cross." "How much is the cross worth?" asked the soldier. "Three thalers." "Very well, then, your highness, I'll take the cross and 97 thalers." Bismarck was so suprised and pleased by the ready shrewdness of the reply that he gave the man both the cross and the money.

A fond story is told of the late Bishop Ullathorne, of Birmingham, who had absolutely no ear for music, and was continually endeavoring on his clergy the use of plain chant. During one of his visitations he came to a certain church where the choir gave a capital rendering of the "Twelfth Mass." After the service the organist was presented to him, and he ventured to hope that the bishop had enjoyed the music. "Not at all," was the startling reply. "Very poor stuff." "But," urged the poor organist, "Dr. Newman was here last Sunday, and he was delighted." "Oh, I dare say," said the bishop, "the fiddles."

They tell a story of Strauss, which he claimed was true. It is to the effect that an old lady admirer of the Strauss music, a Viennese, ordered in her last will and testament that a Strauss waltz should be played at her funeral, for which each member of the orchestra was to receive a ducat. The heirs objected at first on religious grounds to carry out this plan, but the provisions of the will were distinct and could not be violated without endangering their own claims, so Strauss and his musicians were engaged and placed in a circle around the grave, and while the coffin was being lowered they played the favorite waltz of their late lamented admirer.

In December an interesting centenary will be celebrated at Pawtucket, R. I., where Samuel Slater, on the 21st December, 1790, actually began the manufacture of cotton in this country. Slater was a pupil of Arkwright, and as the English law forbade the communication of models of cotton spinning machinery, Slater, working from memory reconstructed a machine previously completed in part by Arkwright. He was unable to reveal certain important details of the machinery, without which it was useless, and in his dilemma he lay down in his shop and fell asleep. Mr. Slater told his friends that during this sleep he saw the perfected piece of machinery in a dream, and on awakening he called at once to supply what was lacking [illegible] the machine upon which he was then

E. L. Brigham, of Worcester, Mass., who has made a reputation for himself as a whittler, has nearly completed his masterpiece in that line. It is a model of a summer house, stands about twelve inches high and is about six inches square. It was all cut from a block of white wood nine inches high.

At the Mont Saint Bernard Monastery the Cistercian rule, only a shade less severe than that of La Trappe, is rigidly observed. From 6 p. m. until 5:30 a. m. is the great silence, which none may break save under grave necessity. One meal in winter and one and a half, as it is called, in summer, is the daily allowance.

George E. Shaw, editor and proprietor of the San Benito, Cal., Advance, is a democrat. One of his sons is a democrat, while six other sons are stalwart republicans. Whenever a member of the family runs for office on the republican ticket the paper always supports him, for the editor says "blood is thicker than political water."

A showman billed a small town in Georgia some time ago with announcements that he would distribute "luck stones" gratis at each performance. These proved to be painted beans, but the recipient of one of them has since sent him $100, with the news that he had been notified the day after he got his "luck stone" that a deceased uncle had left him $2,000.

One of the soldiers of Fort Preble, Me., who got crazy drunk at Portland the other day, had an altercation with a man and blacked his eye and then took a ferry boat for the Cape. On the way he began to throw silver overboard and followed it up with bills until he had thrown some $40 overboard. Then he flung over his coat and was about to follow with his other garments when he was arrested.

Hong Tie is the Edison of the Chinese quarter in San Francisco. He has imitated and duplicated in a small way the telephone system of the city and has the Chinese quarter well supplied with electrical appliances, including telephones and electric lights, before the older companies found it out. He derives all his electrical power from storage batteries put up by himself, the dangerous quality of dynamos preventing their use in the hockery in which he lives and works.

J. Price of Savannah, Ga., has a curiosity in the shape of a young mocking bird entirely white. Price purchased the bird from a negro trapper on the Waters road, who brought it into town the other day. From the appearance of the bird's bill it cannot be over six weeks old. There is no doubt of the bird being a mocking bird, as it has all the marks of the species except the color, and has the peculiar chirp of the young mocking bird. A white mocking bird is a great rarity.

F. Holsten, of New York, enjoyed an unusual experience. He is an agent of the Retail Grocers' Union, and at a meeting of that body a motion was made to raise his salary from $75 to $100 a month. Then Mr. Holsten arose and declared that he had no knowledge that such a motion was to be made, and that he was satisfied with his present pay and that he didn't want an increase. The union thereupon, with great unanimity, resolved to respect Mr. Holsten's wishes.

The customs officials at New York seized a valuable lot of diamonds from W. A. Medhurst, who arrived by steamer from London. Mr. Medhurst is a wealthy young English man who visits this country with his carriages, horses, dogs and lackeys. He brought diamonds said by some to be worth from $15,000 to $30,000, but which will probably be appraised at a lower figure. He neglected to declare these as a part of his baggage, and they were seized as smuggled merchandise. A necklace of pearls and diamonds is one of the articles seized.

Stick to the Right.

Right actions spring from right principles. In cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, summer complaint, cholera morbus, etc., the right remedy is Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry,—an unfailing cure—made on the principle that nature's remedies are best. Never travel without it. 3w37d

Rash Knight.

Mr. Reuben Knight, of Morris, Man., states that he was troubled with a rash all over his body, which was cured with less than one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters. He highly recommends it as a blood purifier of the greatest efficacy. 2w37d

A Moseide Story.

I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters and pills and find them everything to me. I had dyspepsia with bad breath and bad appetite, but after a few days' use of B.B.B. I felt stronger, could eat a good meal and felt myself a different man. W. H. STORY, Moseide, Ont. 2w37d

The easy quiet way in which T. A. Slocum's Oxygenized Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil has won its way into public favor, speaks volumes for its merits. who ever gave a public Testimonial, and the following is

THE ONLY TESTIMONIAL HE EVER GAVE.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach; a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefiting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $313,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how much a condition of affairs was brought about.

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,823	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,827	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,630	10.66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,067,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30.12
London Life	1,644,286	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The Great Trial Ended.

The jury met again at the usual hour this morning, when several witnesses were examined, also the testimony of several experts being taken in the matter, the verdict of jury, experts and public in general being that W. Rifle Association Matches.

The Peterborough Rifle Association have changed the date of their matches from Friday of next week until Thursday, and Lindsay has changed from Thursday to Friday. The reason of the change is to have Bowmanville on Wednesday, Peterborough on Thursday and Lindsay on Friday, as it is found the railway connections are better when taken in the order named.

A New Firm.

A new dry goods store is being established Peterborough by Mr. F. Knowles & Son, late of Toronto, who has leased the vacant store in the Dolan block, next to Dolan & Hackett. Messrs. Knowles & Son are laying in a fine stock of dry goods and will be ready for business in a few days. They are both experienced men and will no doubt succeed. They will permanently locate here and share in Peterborough's prosperity.

Protestant Home.

The committee of management of the Peterborough Protestant Home acknowledge with thanks the following donations for September:—Mr. Giles, apples and vegetables; Mr. P. Connal, apples; Mrs. D Moore, milk; Mrs. Weller, apples; a friend, vegetables; W. J. Mason, basket of grapes; a friend, box of clothing; Mrs. Halliday, couch; Mrs. Hazlitt, factory cotton and flannel; Mrs. McWilliams, overcoat.

The Real Estate Market.

That a boom has struck Peterborough is evidenced among other things by the activity in real estate which has set in. This is apparent at the registry office, where transfers of properties are becoming more numerous and prices better. Among the latest real estate transactions is the sale of Mr. John Carlisle's terraces on George and Downie streets to Mr. P. W. Reynolds, of Norwood. Other sales are taking place every day, and the prices are advancing.

An Erratic Equipage.

A team of horses and lumber wagon were found on the road this morning, near the residence of Mr. Middleton, salesman of the Missing Link cheese factory. The horses were roan and gray respectively, and the wagon contained about $25 worth of groceries and domestic supplies, among them several parcels from Gough Bros. It is surmised the horses ran away from their owner, though the equipage sustained no damage. The owner will find his horses at a farm of Mr. Tully.

Among the Red Coats.

The first battalion drill since the holidays took place Tuesday night, Lt.-Col. Rogers commanding. There was a fair attendance of the men and nearly all the company officers were present.

Lieut. W. Hamilton, of the 10th Batt. (Principal of the Ashburnham school) has been added to "A" company.

The prizes awarded in the rifle matches Monday, will be given out next Tuesday night.

Inspection takes place Nov. 6th, Thanksgiving day.

Accident at Garden Hill.

On Wednesday as the Grand Trunk midday express was approaching Garden Hill a man named Snead was driving by. His horses took fright at the train and made a plunge running across the track and upsetting Snead's load of slabs upon him. He was severely hurt. Dr. Gray, of Baillieboro, happened fortunately to be at hand and gave the necessary surgical attention to the poor man's injuries. He was very badly lacerated about the face and head besides being bruised in other parts of the body. He is in a critical condition and his recovery will largely depend on the absence of severe inflammatory action supervening in the course of the next few days.

A Railway Accident.

Mr. John Pillar, section foreman on the C. P. R., and several workmen were returning from Cavan yesterday on a lorry, when the wheels were thrown off the track by a block falling upon the rails, and the vehicle was upset. Mr. Pillar had three or four ribs broken and was otherwise internally injured. Another occupant of the lorry had his nose broken.

Not Found Yet.

The old gentleman who has been missing from Mrs. Michael's residence, Downer's Corners, for a week, has not yet been found, and his friends are becoming anxious. The missing man is John Earle, aged 72 years, 5 feet 7 inches in height, badly stooped, blind in one eye, and wore a black fu rhak, gray pants and black coat. Any information concerning his whereabouts will be thankfully received by Mrs. Michael or the police.

Kidnapped Her Own Child.

In the Port Hope police court Wednesday Mrs. Bradley, of Rochester, was charged with kidnapping her own son, William Bradley, a boy of ten years, from John Keller, a farmer residing near Garden Hill. It seems that Mrs. Bradley was left a widow when the boy was a baby. She supported him for four years, when circumstances forced her to leave him, and the boy was taken charge of by Keller, who has taken care of him ever since. Mrs. Bradley returned recently and got possession of her son, and was about to depart with him when she was arrested and charged with kidnapping. The case has not yet been tried.

Dominion Illustrated.

The last issue of that fine pictorial weekly, the Dominion Illustrated, is fully up to the high standard which it long ago established. In portraits the public is favoured with a striking likeness of Miss Duncan, author of "A Social Departure," a Canadian lady writer of whom the Dominion may well be proud, while the new Consul-General also occupies a place in the number. The Sporting Scenes on the Jacques Cartier, Canadian Horses at the Detroit Fair, and the Artillery Competition at Quebec, are all capital. A picture of universal interest is the group of leaders of French Protestantism, taken on the 20th of June last, on the occasion of the Jubilee of the Mission on St. Helen's Island opposite Montreal. Altogether it is a good number. The Dominion Illustrated is published by the Sabiston Company, Gazette Building, Montreal, J. P. Edwards, Business Manager.

Charged with Procuring.

At the Toronto police court, Wednesday, Fred McNamara, the dentist was tried on a charge of procuring, the charge of seducing the girl Ellen McIntosh being withdrawn. The woman who kept the house of ill fame in which the girl was placed gave testimony, and a young acquaintence of McNamara's stated that the prisoner had told him he lived with the girl, that he wanted to get rid of her, that he owed for board and couldn't pay. He would put her in a house on Edward street, where she could make her own living. He did not say how she could make her living, but if she made money and he didn't have any he could get it from her without working so hard. The charge of seduction was withdrawn, and on the charge of procuring McNamara was sent for trial, bail being fixed in two sureties for $200 each. The girl is in care of the Salvation Army Rescue Home.

Other Veterans Report for Pensions.

Thomas K. Manning, Daniel Burgess and James Buckley.

The EXAMINER had a call to day from Mr. Thos. K. Manning, who resides at present with his daughter, Mrs. David Armstrong. Mr. Manning, who is eighty years of age, was at the time of the protest against evil government, a member of the volunteer cavalry troop under Capt. John Hall. He volunteered for service together with Mr. —— Moore, of Ashburnham, Mr. Wm. Stevenson, town, Mr. James Chalmers, town, Mr. Robert Thompson (Mr. Manning's mesmate), Mr. Samuel Wallace, Ashburnham, and Mr. —— Brisco, town. His troop acted as advance guard to the infantry detachment during the march from Peterborough to Toronto. The cavalry corps to which he was attached was under command of Col. Brown, Capt. Thompson commanding his troop. Mr. Manning was largely employed on orderly duties and as despatch courier. He killed a valuable horse by hard riding in carrying a despatch from Peterborough to Lindsay, and he received no compensation. He was personally commended for his zeal and activity by Sir Edmund Bond Head, Governor. Most of the names mentioned above now figure in tombstone epitaphs.

Later in the day two more veterans invaded the sanctum. One was Mr. Daniel Burgess, town, who joined the Peterborough contingent, and served in this district being stationed at different times at Port Hope, Cobourg, Omemee and Lindsay. The other was Mr. James Brickley, now of town, lived in 1837 in Bobcaygeon and came to Peterborough where with many other, he was attached to the sharpshooters under Capt. Frazer. The home detachment lay under arms all winter and was discharged in the spring of 1838. Mr. Burgess is aged 75 and Mr. Brickley 69, he beingabout 17 years of age at the time of his enlistment.

Mr. John Pope, town, also called to-day. He was living in Eoniomore in the year —, when he was drafted for service, but, having charge of the government ferry boat on Mud lake, he was released from military duty at the earnest request of the settlers, who did not wish to part with their skilful ferryman. Mr. Pope also frequently guided government boats through the northern lakes. His brother, Mr. Wm. Pope (now of Chippewa Falls, Mich.), was taken as a substitute, and he spent the winter in Peterborough, drilling every day and waiting to be called out to active service. Mr. Wm. Pope is 76 years of age and Mr. John Pope 74.

Centreville's Successful Show.

Happy Outcome of South Monaghan's Fine Farming and Enterprise—Splendid Weather—A Good Exhibit—Large Attendance—Fine Sports—Altogether a Successful Day.

Centreville had glorious weather for the exhibition of the South Monaghan Agricultural Society on both days, Tuesday and Wednesday. It was, to a townsman, a genuine treat to bowl over the fourteen miles of smooth road behind a spanking pair of Indian (River) ponies, the ribbons held by a professional. The soft haze of the mild September hung in the air and wrapped in a translucent veil the shifting landscape. In the distance, the trees, here and there, blazing with the first touch of the frost—the heetic flush of decay—warned their fellows, still green and hale, that their time, too, was at hand. The ploughman turning up the fresh mould; the sleek cattle grazing in the knee-deep clover; the hum of the threshing mill, and the scores of sights and sounds, incident to the farmers' work, made a delightful pastoral picture. Then, too, the presence in the carriage of three or four residenters, to whom the district of the journey was as their native heath; to have them point out where, through the now tight award, the old stage line route still shows where it dips into tiled fields; the fields near Scott's Corners where, in the good old days, there were steeple-chasing and hurdle-racing; to have pointed out the place—"there just about where that stone is, the horse I was riding took a tumble and crushed his shoulder;" The old buildings that served as staging houses; the sites of the old toll gates; the one single relic of old yellow Springville, still standing in rather dilapidated state, the hill where the schoolmaster, the night after his marriage to a girl in town was found hanging dead to the limb of a tree, cut down at once so it should not repeat the tragedy to the the terror of timorous nocturnal wayfarers; the "long swamp where foot pads in the early days lightened the pockets of the farmers, returning from Port Hope where they drew their wheat in consideration of getting a "York shilling a bushel more for it," to have the way beguiled with reminiscences like these, dashed with a running history of locally noted horses and horsemen that had run their race and had their day—apart from the beautiful weather, and the exhilarating pace of the spankers, made the journey a delight and formed a fitting prelude to the pleasure of the day at the exhibition.

The village was in a state of bustle, indicating that something unusual was in the wind. The officials of the exhibition took the reporters under their wing and extended them every courtesy, a flattering appreciation of the value of their presence, not always experienced on similar occasions elsewhere.

The first day (Tuesday) was devoted to the placing of exhibits in the Agricultural Hall. A visit to the grounds found them well filled with visitors. The show of live stock was not very large but there were some very fine animals. Pigs were sparingly represented. There were some splendid pens of Shropshires and some good Cotswolds. The cattle pens were filled with Durham and grades only. Of the former there were some very fine specimens. There was a very fine show of horses, especially young horses, in all the classes.

Mr. George McWilliams, of town, was present with samples of his first-rate fanning mills, and L. S. Clarry, of Millbrook, showed the "Banner Spring" buggy. The inside exhibit was exceedingly creditable. Grain and roots were unusually good. The domestic department, bread butter and other things, was very fine, and the display of cut flowers and growing flowers was simply splendid. The ladies' fancy work department reflected great credit upon the taste and skill of the ladies of South Monaghan, and the domestic manufactures, such as rugs, carpets, quilts, flannels, etc., developed a very practical side of their character. Fine arts were well filled, and there was in this portion of the building a very fair show of fruit.

SPEEDING IN THE RING.

But the great attraction of the day was the horse ring, a good half mile track, laid out in a field near the church, belonging to Mr. Geo. L. Fair, the obliging secretary. A substantial judge's stand had been erected and a cracked little school bell with a triangular segment missing from one side like the great bell of Moscow, was put into the hands of Mr. Harry Winch, who officiated as starter. The officials specially charged with this department of the exhibition deserve credit for the manner in which the several events were conducted. The different events were brought on alternately, everything was kept in motion, and the spectators had good sport.

THE OPEN TROT.

The first event was the open trot for a purse of $50, open to horses short of the 2:40 notch. For this there were four entries, M. Connor's "Mattie B," R. Croft's "Billy C," G. Mitchell's "Livery Maid," and Talbot Evans' "Little Fred."

The beginning of the first heat was a little unfortunate. Just after the "go" the wagons of "Livery Maid" and "Billy C" collided, taking a wheel off the latter, which of course shut him out of the heat and gave "Livery Maid" a very bad start. The heat was therefore between "Mattie B" and "Little Fred," but the mare took the lead and kept it. The other heats were without particular incident. Most of the racing was between Livery Maid and Little Fred, Mattie generally showing the way, without being much distanced by competition. In the second heat "Livery Maid" cut herself badly and was drawn after getting two third places. The following summary shows the standing of the horses:—

Connor's "Mattie B"	1	1	1
Evans' "Little Fred"	2	2	2
Mitchell's "Livery Maid"	3	3	dr
Croft's "Billy C"	0	4	3

"Mattie B," the winner of this race, does pretty work. She was first put to the track waggon the present summer. She has entered eight races, in which she took four firsts, two seconds and was unplaced in two. The secret of her success is her good breeding. She has her veins filled with "Clear Grit" blood.

THE FARMERS' TROT was a very sporty event. The entries were W. Barnard's "Grey Johnny," H. Nesbitt's "Baillieboro Boy," Dr. Fisher's "Flora S," and W. Barnard's "Billy K." The first heat was largely processional in character, the horses coming in as per summary. In the second heat "Baillieboro Boy" put on a spurt and led the procession. Throughout the other heats there was little incident, though the third heat was relieved by hot spurts. The race results are shown by the following summary:—

Barnard's "Billy K"	1	2	3	1
Fisher's "Flora S"	2	3	1	2
Nesbitt's "Baillieboro Boy"	3	1	2	3
Barnard's "Grey Johnny"	4	dr.

The race went to "Billy K." 1st, "Flora S." 2nd, and "Baillieboro Boy" 3rd.

THE STALLION TROT brought out three entries, as follows:—D. Lusk's "Warrior Chief," Geo. Wallace's "Canada Southern," and J. Hunt's "Little Billy." The first heat "Canada Southern's" stock was at the top of the market for the first half, but his stock dropped when "Warrior Chief" took first place and kept it till the finish. In the second heat "Little Billy" put in a good deal of running thus pocketting "Canada Southern," and spoiling his chances, which many thought good, for first place in this heat. The third heat was a pretty smug race between the two big stallions, "Little Billy" having been "sent to the barn" for running, but "Warrior Chief" won the heat and the race, "Canada Southern" taking second money. Summary:—

Lusk's "Warrior Chief"	1	1	1
Wallace's "Canada Southern"	2	2	2
"Little Billy"	3	3	dr

During the intervals between the heats there was considerable speeding, and there was a decided sensation when Mr. Jas. Baptie's "Boxer" bowled along the track in front of his owner. He was let out for a few furlongs and made the best show of speed given during the day, the only flyer that came up to near his mark being "Mattie B." "Boxer" has boats of friends all over the country, and the people were disappointed in not seeing him enter into the stallion race, but Mr. Baptie did not think the course safe enough for so heavy and valuable a horse. The exhibition throughout was a very gratifying success. The prize list will be printed in a later issue.

"Paddy" Sauvais Attempts Suicide.

A Bartender Whose Dissipation Led to a Desperate Deed.

"Paddy" Sauvais, a young man well-known about town who follows the vocation of bar-tending, had a loose hold upon life last night. He was within an ace of death, and but for the assiduous efforts of the physicians, the dose of morphine which he took would have sent him into the long sleep which knows no waking. Sauvais had been drinking hard the last few days, and was on the verge of desperation. As those who know him are aware, liquor makes him wild, and when under its influence Sauvais is scarcely responsible for what he does. He has several times it is said tried to take his life, but never came so near succeeding in the attempt as he did last evening. He had been involved in a row during the afternoon, and about half past six o'clock he stepped into Greatrix's drug store, said he was awful sick, and the doctor had advised him to get some morphine pills to quiet his nerves and induce sleep. Mr. Greatrix was home taking his tea, and the clerk, Will McCamus, thinking that Sauvais had a physician's order, gave him a couple of the pills, no more than enough to have a soporific effect. Sauvais, however, snatched the bottle from the clerk's hand and emptied part of its contents into his pockets. The clerk was was alarmed and asked him to give them up. Sauvais refused, and then the clerk warned him not to eat any more of the pills for fear of fatal consequence, and he promised; but as soon as the clerk's back was turned Sauvais began eating the pills one by one and finally, as Dr. Moher chanced to enter the store, put a whole handful in his mouth before he could be stopped. He must have swallowed altogether fully a dozen of the pills. Sauvais then left the store and the police were summoned. In a few minutes Sauvais returned with a companion, whom he told what he had done and remarked he "was going to die now, and was d—— glad of it." Before Mr. Greatrix and the Chief of Police had arrived, Sauvais managed to slip out of the store and get away. He was not found again till about a quarter after seven o'clock, when he was traced to St. Peter's Cathedral. P.C. McGinty entered the church and brought out Sauvais, who protested in a sleepy way against being interrupted in his devotions. He was going to die, he said, and wanted to make his peace with God. Sauvais was immediately taken to Dr. Brennan's office, where Dr. Brennan and Dr. Moher worked for several hours with their patient, who appeared to be too far gone for recovery. After the stomach had been relieved of the poison, Sauvais was taken out on the street and walked round and round at a fast pace till after midnight. The struggle against the overpowering influences of the morphine was a hard one, and about half past eleven o'clock Sauvais collapsed completely and it was feared he had entered the death sleep; but the physicians never ceased their labours and had the satisfaction of seeing him revive. To-day Sauvais is out of danger. It was a close call. No blame, of course, attaches to Mr. Greatrex or his clerk. The same thing might happen to any one. Sauvais could not be prevented from snatching the deadly bottle, and, in his condition, to have attempted to wrest it from him would have been folly. Persuasion was used, and while he was watched and argued with Sauvais did not try to eat the morphine. His sudden swallowing of the handful of pills could not be prevented either. However, all's well that ends well; and probably Sauvais will be satisfied with this experience and not try it again.

Extraordinary Memory.

Lipsius made this offer to a German prince: "Sit here with a pollard, and if in repeating Tacitus from beginning to end I miss a single word, stab me. I will freely bare my breast for you to strike." Instances of extraordinary memory are often found among the users of Diamond Dyes. Some ladies who have used these dyes for years, can, without the aid of the Diamond Dye book, entitled "Reliable Home Dyeing," or even reading directions on each package of dyes, mix up and prepare any of the many beautiful colours that may be required. Of course this requires not only memory, but practice as well. All colours of Diamond Dyes are so uniform in power and quality, that at the present time, dyeing with them is quite a simple operation.

Ladies are often inclined to give up home dyeing owing to bad failures; this is because inferior dyes are used, put up to look like Diamond Dyes. No failure, ladies, when the genuine Diamond Dyes are used; comfort, pleasure and success is the result.

The Babies Take a Back Seat.

The mothers of Peterborough took a deep interest in the baby show at the Exhibition. Their hearts are wrapped up in the chubby little cherubs who appeal so strongly to their maternal instincts. But the matter of most intense, absorbing interest to all ladies is the question of tea, that delight of feminine hearts. The ladies all know that Hawley Bros. teas are unsurpassed for quality and price. Everybody should patronize a house which makes a specialty of fine teas. d

SEVERE STORMS RAGING IN NORTHERN GERMANY.

Heavy Fire in Sydney—Sensational London Divorce Suit—Terrible Fate of a Ten-year-old Child—The Asphwall Disaster—General Cable News.

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—A severe storm prevails throughout Northern Germany to-day. In this city serious damage was done to property. At Hamburg five persons were drowned. The lower portions of that city were flooded and the new Muhlen bathing establishment was destroyed.

Boasts That She Is a German Spy.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—Madame Bonnet, who was arrested at Cannes on suspicion of being a German spy, and in whose possession were found plans of the defences of that place, has confessed she was in the employ of the German Government at a monthly salary of 300 francs, besides which she received 15 francs daily for her traveling expenses.

The Tipperary Arrests.

DUBLIN, Oct. 2.—The Limerick corporation to-day adopted a resolution censuring the Government for the recent Tipperary arrests. The meeting was attended with stormy scenes. The members who opposed the resolution were threatened with ejection.

A London Concert Singer Causes a Divorce Suit.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Society here will be thrown into a great state of excitement when it learns that Isadore Delara, the favorite drawing room and concert singer of the season is about to be made co-respondent in a divorce suit. Petition for such an action was filed on Friday last by Captain Noel Norcott Winters, on the retired list, residing at 100 Piccadilly. His wife is a fashionable lady and named in the petition as Constance Mary Winters, while the alleged fault is supposed to have occurred at 10 Clifton Gardens, Folkestone.

Delara, whose real name is Cohen, pretends to be an Indian, is tall and large, wears long hair and is noted for singing passionate Italian airs at fashionable gatherings. He is accordered one of the most noticeable figures in society and enjoys the distinction of being a close friend of Lady Colin Campbell.

Massacred While Fishing for Pearls.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Advices from New Guinea state that Mr. Hadley, the owner of the cutter Isabel, belonging to Hartlepool, and the crew of the vessel, which was engaged in fishing for pearls off New Guinea, have been massacred by the natives. The cutter was looted and then scuttled.

Terrible Fate of a Ten-Year-Old Girl.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—A despatch from Grenoble states that a horrible crime has been discovered in the village of Vaucluse. A little girl, 10 years of age, named Zoe Buisson, the daughter of a farmer and keeper of a coffee house, was missed two nights ago from her father's house. Diligent search failed to find her until to-day, when her body was discovered in a stream called the Tabaret, just outside the village.

A medical examination revealed the fact that the child had been violated, then dismembered and decapitated, while not content with this, the wretch had mutilated the face. A piece of wood smeared with blood was found near the spot where her body was discovered. There is absolutely no clue to the murderer at present.

$2,500,000 Fire at Sydney.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 2.—Fire broke out in this city last night and despite the efforts of the firemen it still rages, the flames spread rapidly and extended over a large area in Pitt, Castlereagh, Moore and Hunter-streets. Among the buildings destroyed were the City Bank and a number of warehouses. A number of other business houses were injured. The damage is estimated at $2,500,000.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 2.—There is an insurance of £1,000,000 on property destroyed.

Russia's Cruelty to Hebrews.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—A measure is now being framed by the Minister of the Interior and will probably be approved by the Czar which will greatly add to the misfortunes of the Hebrews. It provides that persons of foreign blood who are ordered to be expelled from Russia for any cause, and who do not renounce the recognition of their native or any other government, shall be sent without trial to Siberia, and kept there for the remainder of their lives. This act principally affects the Hebrews, who can seldom claim any particular nationality, even if any government would care to bestir itself of their behalf.

An Advocate Assassinated.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 2.—An Armenian advocate has been assassinated in Stamboul by order of the Armenian Revolutionary Committee, who suspected him of betraying them to the Porte. Many arrests have been made in Stamboul and Pera.

Lord Rosebery at St. John.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 2.—At noon to-day the Atlantic fleet arrived at St. John. The party was met by Sir Leonard and Lady Tilley, Mayor Gordon, Mayor Armstrong, Major Lockhart and Lieut.-Col. Peters. Attended by the mayor the party took lunch in a private room. This afternoon the Governor-General was presented with an address by the Common Council.

Mr. Longley Again Blackballed.

HALIFAX, Oct. 2.—Hon. J. W. Longley Attorney General for Nova Scotia, who was recently blackballed from the Halifax Club and for whom, in consequence of an alleged irregularity, a ballot election was ordered was voted on yesterday, when he was literally snowed under by blackballs. This is the third time the Attorney-General has been blackballed from the Halifax Club and he can never again be proposed.

The Time Extended.

OTTAWA, Oct. 2.—It will be interesting to intending exhibitors at Jamaica to learn that it has been ascertained the Department of Agriculture will extend the time for receiving applications to the 20th inst. The date originally fixed was Sept.

A Murderer Lynched.

PRINCETON, Ky., Oct. 2.—Yesterday Ernest Humphreys shot and killed Dic. Moller. Both were colored. Humphrey was jailed. Last night a mob of negroes took him out and hanged him. Humphrey had killed a man previously.

The prizes for the Industrial Fair this year will amount to $15,000, as against $8000 last year.

THE BIRCHAL - EXECUTION.

Sheriff Perry Receiving Applications for the Job

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 2.—Sheriff Perry has received one application for the position of hangman at the Birchall execution. For obvious reasons his name and postoffice address are not given. The application is unique. It reads: "Seeing the report of Birchall's fate to be hung, I feel much pleasure in offering my services to do it." The use of the words "much pleasure" may be purely conventional, but they sound horribly heartless.

Will Birchall make a statement before he dies? is a question that is now being discussed. Those who judge by Birchall's past conduct argue that he will die without a word, but there are others who think he will make a statement of some kind, whether a confession of guilt or an assertion of innocence or an explanation of his whereabouts on Feb. 1; they do not pretend to say.

There is little change apparent in the conduct of Birchall since the death sentence was passed upon him. He slept very well last night and appears to eat as heartily as he ever did. He is not averse to a little amusement and this morning he enjoyed himself for a time throwing a pebble at a crazy Dutchman in the jail yard, the Dutchman acting as retriever and returning the pebble to the cell window. Guard Magee keeps watch during the day and Guard Entwhistle during the night.

Mrs. Birchall has not seen him since the passing of the sentence and will not be likely to see him for some days yet, though Dr. Ivey reports that she is very much better this morning. Neither Mrs. Birchall nor Mrs. West-Jones is positively excluded from seeing the prisoner, but Jailer Cameron thinks it advisable that they should not resume their visits until he has received definite instructions as to the regulations which are to govern the prisoner from the Inspector of Prisons.

Crown Attorney Ball wrote to Jailer Cameron, instructing him to have Birchall removed from the cell he had previously occupied, if another cell equally safe was available, and in any event to have the carpet removed and examined twice a day. He also advised that the prisoner's meat be cut before served to him and that he be allowed only a lead spoon with which to eat his meals. Mr. Cameron, however, has thought fit to wait until he receives instructions direct from Toronto.

Although no one is allowed to see the prisoner except the jail surgeon and his spiritual adviser, the jail bells are kept constantly jingling by curious visitors who would just like to get a glimpse at the man.

To-day one of the jail officials fastened an envelope at each entrance having the words "No admittance," but the notices have not had the desired effect.

Douglas Pelly Sets Sail for Home.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Among the Teutonic's passengers sailing yesterday was Douglas E. Pelly, the young Englishman who so narrowly escaped sharing Boswell's fate at Birchall's hands. He occupied stateroom No. 11 in company with another man about his own age.

"Poor fellow," said he on board the steamer yesterday just before sailing. "I cannot but feel sorry for him. The verdict, however, was unquestionably a fair one. Oh, I can't think of that date—November 14—without a shudder. It has been a terrible experience and one that I'll never forget as long as I live."

At this point the last gong sounded for "All ashore" and in the rush which followed our conversation was brought to an abrupt close.

Mr. Pelly had another experience to take home with him. At 5 o'clock shortly after the Majestic left her dock, she collided with the Dania of the Hamburg Packet Co., which headed a flotilla of outgoing European steamships. The Dania's starboard bow smashed into the port side of the Majestic, striking her directly amidships. Fortunately the Dania was not going at a high rate of speed. The Dania had three of her starboard lifeboats smashed into splinters and her bridge was also broken. The Majestic had the varnish scraped off her side, but was not injured. She lost one boat. It proceeded to sea, while the Dania anchored off the bar for a couple of hours to clear away the wreckage.

DEATH IN THE STARCH.

The Late of a Girl Who Tried to Beautify Her Complexion.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Maggie Fulmer, 14 years of age, who lived with her step-father Joseph Lacy, at Bennington, has been for some time in the habit of eating starch, as she thought for the benefit of her complexion. Last week the family had a supply of starch of the same brand they had been using. Whether or not Miss Fulmer took an overdose of the starch is not known, but in the evening, as she was going home, she suddenly became ill. She died the next day. The doctors say starch killed her.

BOLIVIA INUNDATED.

Damage to the Extent of $3,000,000 Occasioned—2000 Persons Homeless.

PANAMA, Oct. 2.—The river Ormoco has recently risen and flooded an enormous extent of country. In the town of Cindad, Bolivar, hundreds of houses have been washed down and upwards of 2000 persons have been rendered homeless and destitute. The losses are estimated at $3,000,000, but the amount will be much larger, as the river subsequently rose higher and many plantations were then damaged and a large number of cattle drowned. Fevers are prevalent, and it is feared when the water goes down the smell from dead fish and cattle will cause an epidemic.

Burned to Death.

QUEBEC, Que., Oct. 2.—At St. Apollinaire yesterday Leontine Moreau, a girl aged 9 years was burned to death. Her clothing took fire while she was cooking.

Developing Canada's Mineral Wealth—Coal Takes a Jump.

TORONTO, Oct. 2.—The price of coal was advanced 50c per ton yesterday.

A meeting of mineralogists was held yesterday, when it was unanimously decided that opinion that associated effort was necessary for the development of our mineral resources and for the dissemination of reliable information relative to the value of mineral properties which may be placed upon the market. The co-operation of prospectors will be enlisted.

The assessors quote the population at 167,430 an increase of 7000, while the assessment reaches $138,155,849, an increase of about $10,000,000.

THE END OF A WILD LIFE.

$100,000 SPENT FOR CHAMPAGNE IN 20 DAYS.

A Wealthy New Yorker Suicides in Japan—He Squandered His Means in Riotous Living and Then Sent a Bullet Through His Brain.

TOKYO, Japan, Sept. 13, via San Francisco, Oct. 2.—Leonard Tobias, a young New Yorker, who claimed to be the son of a millionaire, shot himself through the head at the Grand Hotel in Yokohama on Sept. 12 and expired almost immediately. He was only 23 years old.

The handsome fellow came on Aug. 17 by the steamship China, accompanied by his wife, a pretty young woman with short black, curly hair, whose maiden name was Mamie de Cossirs.

Tobias sprang into immediate popularity with curio merchants and silk dealers because of his princely extravagance. His expenditures amounted to over $5000 a day, bringing the total up to considerably over $100,000. His passion was for silks, bronzes, wood-carvings, porcelain and expensive embroideries. He paid no cash, but told the merchants he would settle all his bills on Sept. 5. As the French mail steamer was to leave on that date and he had secured a passage by forgery it is evident that he counted upon getting out of town before his creditors besieged him.

Tobias told one of his creditors that he had $200,000 or $400,000 in his own name in New York, and that his father was worth from seven to ten millions. He had one draft cashed at the Chartered Mercantile Bank for $1300, and had several others in his possession. Champagne suppers were common, and his general extravagance excited much comment.

Tobias became more and more unsettled in his ways. He pretended to like Yokohama very much and said he would probably remain until October. He purchased a revolver from the clerk of the hotel, but did not commit suicide with this weapon, using instead a double-barrelled pistol.

Early on the 12th Mrs. Tobias went through the corridor on the second floor of the hotel, in company with her Japanese maid, to the bath-room. When she returned to her rooms she made the startling discovery that Tobias had shot himself.

Tobias is the son of a well-known New York wholesale clothing dealer.

KILLED BY A CAT.

The Mother of a Dead Child Believes Tabby Sucked Its Breath Away.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 2.—What is believed to be a case of a cat sucking the breath of babe until it had killed it was reported here to-day by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Woyda, who reside at No. 1046 North Hoyne-avenue. On Monday afternoon the mother placed the babe upright in the cradle, putting the family cat—a large one—beside it. Although the mother noticed that the cat was keeping very close to the infant the greater part of the time she thought nothing of it. Some hours later she went to the cradle and was horrified to find the infant dead. The appearance of its face bore every indication of having been choked to death. Mrs. Woyda says she is now certain that when she saw the cat so close to the child it was sucking its life away. The coroner will hold an inquest.

A Woodstock Merchant Charged with Fraud.

MONTREAL, Oct. 2.—High Constable Bissonette returned from Woodstock this morning, where he had not, as the western newspaper men surmised, visited to gain pointers from the Birchall trial by which he might continue the clues in the Kimber case, but to arrest Mr. James Hay, jr., one of the largest furniture manufacturers in Canada, whose name has been mixed up with the George Stewart failure. Mr. Hay was absent on business in New York, but as soon as he heard from his clerk that he was wanted in Montreal he left, arriving here this morning and appearing in court accompanied by his attorney, where he furnished the necessary bail. The charge laid against him by Mr. Desmarteau, curator of the estate, is that of having assisted Stewart to dispose of his stock in Ottawa, thereby defrauding his creditors. Mr. Hay denies that he had any interest in the sale whatever. Stewart, who had for a long time been a large customer of the firm, represented to him that he wanted money to meet overdrafts for which his bankers were pressing him, and he asked Mr. Hay to purchase the furniture, which the latter did on those representations.

Tarred and Feathered the Bridegroom.

TROY, N.Y., Oct. 2.—An employe of one of the railroads leading into this city was tarred and feathered on the Hoosick road last night by a party of masked men, led on by an indignant and outraged woman. The man is charged by those who took him in hand with having treated his wife cruelly, compelling her to procure a divorce from him. In defiance of the mandate of the court he was married again a few days ago. On his way home last night with his bride his carriage was stopped by a dozen masked men, who dragged him struggling into a adjoining field and gave him a coat of tar and feathers.

The Sarnia Tunnel Approaches.

SARNIA, Oct. 2.—The large steam shovels at the tunnel approaches on either side are making good headway. An immense amount of earth has been removed during the past week from the enormous cuts. The brick work of the tunnel lining at the west end was begun last week. A large quantity of stone is being brought from Beamsville and lowered into the pumping shaft on the river bank on this side, to be used in building the lining of the shaft, which for some distance upwards from the bottom is to be of stone.

The Iron and Steel Congress.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The delegates to the Iron and Steel Congress early this morning visited one of the Gaslight Company's works in this city and then assembled in Chickering Hall and began their second day's session. Sir James Kitson presided. The paper read by Mr. Galey on "Blast Furnaces" was discussed at length. Sir James Kitson presented Hon. Abraham S. Hewitt, who was in attendance, with the Bessemer gold medal for distinguished service to the iron and steel trade.

BOLD TRAIN ROBBERS.

They Make a Haul of Several Thousand Dollars.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 2.—A special from Carey gives an account of the train robbery this morning on the C. S. & C. railroad between that place and Urbana. Immediately after the train left Urbana two masked men with revolvers entered the express car and compelled the Adams express messenger, A. L. Scudder, to throw up his hands. They then tied him securely and robbed the safe, containing several thousand dollars. While they were at work a brakeman attempted to enter the car and was shot at by one robber. He gave the alarm and the train was slowed up to capture the robbers, but they jumped from the train just as it was entering West Liberty and disappeared in the darkness.

A Wholesale Forger.

MARKHAM, Oct. 2.—Thomas Williamson, who recently levanted, was a wholesale forger. He was a prominent local preacher in the Methodist Church, had been deputy-reeve of Markham township for a number of years and reeve for a short time and was for a long period president of the East York Conservative Association. The forgeries he committed that have come to light will figure up to nearly $10,000, and consist of two mortgages against his brother John's two farms, one for $1800 and the other for $1500, held by the Western Loan Co. In these mortgages he forged his brother's and brother's wife's name and the commissioner's name. He also forged a discharge of a second mortgage held by Newbarry Button against his own farm, and on the strength of the discharge borrowed $1000 on another second mortgage. He forged five notes of $500 each against Christopher Wideman of Mongolia and several others for mostly large amounts against his brothers John, William and George. These notes are nearly all held by parties in Toronto.

SUDDEN DEATH ON A TRAIN.

A Well-Known Toronto Captain No More—Other Queen City News.

TORONTO, Oct. 3.—Owing to dissensions in the Wesleyan Congregational Church the pastor, Rev. A. F. McGregor, has resigned.

Walter G. Cooper, formerly a bartender at the Palmer House, was locked up yesterday on a charge of horse-stealing. Cooper hired a horse and buggy from John Telford, livery stable keeper, Southampton, on the 27th ult. and subsequently sold the turnout.

Captain John E. McCorquodale, the well known commander of the steamer Cibola, was called away awfully suddenly while coming to Toronto in a Northern Railway train last night. The captain had boarded the evening train at Allandale intending to come to the city. He had been at Barrie on a visit. He was in the best of health apparently when he got on board and spoke to several acquaintances. Nearing Craigville he complained of sudden illness, and he requested that Conductor Williams be called at once. The conductor was soon at his side. When the train got to Craigvale the conductor telegraphed to Bradford for a doctor, and it was intended to leave the captain off for treatment if the physician so decided. At Bradford the captain was removed to the waiting-room, but he expired just as he was laid down.

Captain McCorquodale was not only a well-known mariner, but he was also a familiar figure among the ice-curlers, being a member of the Toronto Curling Club. He has commanded the Cibola during the two seasons that she has been in commission, and also superintended her building at Deseronto. For four years previously he was the commander of her sister ship the Chicora. Previous to that he had commanded several lake steamers and propellers.

FEMALE MORMON PROSELYTES.

Elders with Their Flock Not Allowed to Land Until Examined.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The authorities at the barge office this morning used an immense amount of persuasion on the 22 young Mormons that arrived yesterday on the steamer Wyoming to induce them to forego their intention of becoming proselytes to the Mormon faith. The girls were separated from the other passengers as they landed and placed in a room by themselves. Three female missionaries from the Emigrant Girls' Home went among them to convince them of the folly of the course they proposed to follow. One of the girls, Karen Sylvestein by name, who acted as spokeswoman for the party, frankly acknowledged that they were all willing to be one of seven or eight wives, and were fully aware of the principles of Mormonism. The girls are all young and some of them remarkably pretty. The attempt of the missionaries to influence them proved an utter failure, and as all the barge officers can do is to use persuasion the party will proceed on their journey to-morrow. The party comprises 225 souls, of whom 32 are children. Among the lot is a married English woman, who left her husband in England to take up the Mormon faith. She said she was called and compelled to go, but refused to give her name.

ILL-ASSORTED TWINS.

One is a Pure Mongolian and the Other a Caucasian.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 2.—Bert Lee, an educated Chinaman, who is in charge of the electric light plant at Sewickley, is the happy father of twin boys that have just been born. One of them has all the features of a Mongolian, while the other looks like a full-blooded Caucasian.

The mother who was Ida Newman of Providence, R.I., is, of course, proud of her offspring. When seen at her home, on Duquesne Heights, she said she felt a slight disappointment because both did not posses Mongolian features. The future lives of the oddly mated pair have already been planned by the happy parents. Bert, who looks like his father, will go to China as a medical missionary if he shall live to reach the proper age, and Alexander, his twin brother, will probably be kept at home unless he shall develop a desire to accompany Bert.

Alexander is a lively little fellow and has light hair, blue eyes and fair complexion while Bert has coal-black hair, almond eyes and genuine Chinese features.

Mrs. Lee first met her husband at Providence, where she was teaching a Chinese mission school. He was one of her pupils and she fell in love with and married him.

ONLY THE WALLS REMAIN.

The Aspinwall Fire More Serious Than First Reported—Loss $1,000,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A letter from Panama gives particulars of the fire at Aspinwall. It says the loss was over $1,000,000. Official reports assert that the fire originated from a kerosene lamp which exploded or was overturned in a small house in Bolivar Street, near the Electric Light Company's works. There it spread southward along the peninsula on which the city is situated and defied all efforts until 7 a.m. when the flames reached the market and there died out. The section consumed embraced the whole of the city front and everything consumable was destroyed, leaving a few stone walls where stood buildings in which for years a large general business had been done. The railroad company is a heavy loser in cars, while shippers and consignees of through cargoes report a loss of at least 5 carloads of freight. The Pacific Mail dock suffered no damage but several of the others were damaged. All the principal business houses were destroyed. The suffering and destitution resulting everywhere from the fire strike with extreme bitterness and severity on a population which is at present totally dependent on transient work for means of subsistence. If means of transport free to other sections where work offers be not afforded to the unfortunate sufferers by this calamity a crisis is certain to ensue. There is nothing on which to employ the homeless and starvation stares them in the face.

Was the Strike Responsible?

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The police are investigating a mysterious shooting which occurred last night and which they think grew out of the recent railroad strike. John Doyle, 19 years old, a brakesman on the Hudson River Railroad, was going home through 59th-street when he passed three unknown men, one of whom drew a revolver and fired twice at Doyle. The second shot shattered his left arm. The men then fled and Doyle was taken to an hospital.

Steerage Passengers Robbed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Many of the steerage passengers on the Wyoming complained to-day at the barge office of having been robbed last night of money and jewelry by thieves who got aboard the vessel. They also complained of the bad food furnished during the voyage and the filthy condition of the ship. The vessel broke down twice on the passage.

British Columbia Strikers Found Guilty.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 2.—The six striking miners on trial on a charge of intimidating miners working at the Wellington colliery were found guilty by the jury. The Chief Justice bound each of them in $200 to appear for sentence when called, remarking that the full effect of their act was probably not yet developed. In rendering judgment he said: "I suppose you never think, read or write, or if you do get newspapers edited by men just as ignorant as yourselves, who only write what they know you will buy." The strike is still unsettled.

An Iceberg 300 Miles Around.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—The British steamer Bushmills from London reports that on Sept. 21, 300 miles east northeast from Cape Race, she passed an enormous iceberg, which was about 300 miles in circumference and 150 feet high. From the time the berg was sighted the ship steamed five hours before coming abreast of it.

CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

Stick to the Right.

Right actions spring from right principles. In cases of diarrhœa, dysentery, cramps, colic, summer complaint, cholera morbus, etc., the right remedy is Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry,—an unfailing cure—made on the principle that nature's remedies are best. Never travel without it. 3w37d

Unbearable Agony.

For three days I suffered severely from summer complaint. Nothing gave me relief and I kept getting worse until the pain was almost unbearable, but after I had taken the first dose of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, I found great relief, and it did not fail to cure me. WM. T. GLYNN, Wilfrid, Ont. 2w37d is at Sambro, N. S., whence Mr. R. E. Harst, writes as follows:—"Without a doubt Burdock Blood Bitters has done me a lot of good. I was sick and weak and had no appetite, but B.B.B. made me feel smart and strong. Were is virtues more widely known, many lives would be saved. 2w37d

The Sambro Lighthouse

Mr. Henry Graham, Wiogham, writes: "I was in North Dakota last May, and I took a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery with me, as I did not feel safe without it. While there a lady friend was suffering with Indigestion, Biliousness and Headache. I recommended the Vegetable Discovery to her and she tried it, and the result was that it did her so much good that I had to leave the balance of the bottle with her." w40

A MAN'S wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, and use Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they make her "feel like a new person person," so they all say, and their husbands say so too! dw

A Letter From Emerson.

"I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and I think it the best remedy for summer complaint. It has done a great deal of good to myself and children." Yours truly, MRS. WHITELY, Emerson, Man. 2w37d

The Old Reliable.

In these days of humbug it is a relief to hear of something that can be depended upon. Wilson's Wild Cherry has been tested as a remedy for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs, for nearly twenty years with such success as to earn for itself the title of The Old Reliable cure or Coughs, Colds, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis and other affections of the respiratory system. See that you get the genuine in white wrappers. Sold by all druggists. dw

Dyspepsia and Indigestion.—C. W. Snow & Co., Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Please send us ten gross of Pills. We are selling more of Parmelee's Pills than any other Pill we keep. They have a great reputation for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint." Mr. Chas. A. Smith, Lindsay, writes; "Parmelee's Pills are an excellent medicine. My sister has been troubled with severe headache but these pills have cured her." w40

As a tonic and relief to sufferers from Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, loss of appetite and general debility, Dyer's Quinine and Iron Wine is highly recommended. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6163

TRULY A TERRIBLE TALE.

EXPERIENCE OF A PARTY OF HUNTERS IN A HAUNTED HOUSE.

Their Story Graphically Told—A House full of Spooks—They Were Roused by Awful Shrieks—The Wail of a Mournful Ghost

An old-fashioned farm house, located two miles west of Barry, a small town in Missouri, is attracting much attention just now because of the revival of an old story, dating back to the old days of the late war. The old farm house has stood tenantless and deserted for nearly twenty-five years. During this period it has had several transient tenants, but the longest stay ever made in the house since 1865 was made by a party of hunters from Kansas City, who camped there for a few hours not long ago. They were in the house from 9 o'clock until midnight. This was quite long enough, however, for the nerves of the members of the hunting party. Their experience is related by "Uncle Billy" Newcome, a resident of Kansas City, for years a car repairer on the Burlington road and a thoroughly reliable man. The story related by Mr. Newcome is as follows:

"Not long ago," said he, "four of us were out in Clay County on a hunt. It was a dark, cloudy day, and about 5 o'clock it began raining. We were then about two miles from the little town of Barry. It was too far to think of driving in the rain, and as we had been out in the fields all day we were tired and anxious to reach shelter. The only house in sight was an old, dingy, stone building, standing well back from the road, about a quarter of a mile away. We rode up to it, found it was deserted, and prepared to spend the night, well pleased at the prospect of such snug quarters. The rain has lessened some, what, and my three companions said that if I would go and get together materials for a fire in one of the old-fashioned stone chimneys of the deserted house they would go down to a farm house some distance away and get some bacon and eggs for supper. I went in the house and the others proceeded on their search for grub.

A TERRIBLE SCREAM.

"It was about 6 o'clock in the evening, and the rooms in the old house were in half twilight, half deep shadow. The house itself was an old-fashioned stone one, two stories high, with enormous old fireplaces in the end of each of the two large rooms on the ground floor, and in one of these I soon had a fine brightly blazing. Pending the return of the others with the materials for a meal, I sat down before the blazing fire to dry my damp clothes and to enjoy a good smoke. I do not know how long I had been thus occupied, when I was startled by a scream of agony apparently issuing from the big deserted room across the hall. The cry was like that of a woman in mortal distress, and it kept growing louder and louder, until my blood ran cold. I must have been half dozing, but as soon as I recovered my wits I grabbed my gun and ran through the hall into the next room. The cries were growing faint, and hinter and apparently further away. I found nothing in the room, and as the cry was again repeated this time in the orchard, just back of the house, I dashed through the side door and ran in that direction. The orchard covers probably three acres of ground. As I ran I could hear the screaming, shrieking cry growing more muffled, until as I came last departing, scream it ended, and I was brought to a stand still right at the foot of one of the largest trees in the orchard. I could see nothing, could hear nothing, could find nothing, and although my nerves were strung to their highest tension through excitement, no thought of the supernatural entered my head. I searched as well as I could through the orchard, and finally returned to the house terribly worked up. I was sure that foul murder had been done almost before my eyes. I could do nothing more, however, and I replenished the fire so that its blaze made the rooms as light as day, determined that as soon as my companions returned I would tell them what I had heard, and together we would make a thorough search of the premises.

THE WAILING SPIRIT.

"I was listening for any further noise that would indicate the presence of any one in the deserted house, when the cries began again, but now, as it seemed, right at the door of the room in which I was sitting. This time the cries were low and wailing, so suggestively mournful and sad that I felt fascinated and frozen to my seat. If you have ever heard the mournful wail of a dog, just exaggerate it say a dozen times in its intensity, and you can form some idea of the sound that was making the perspiration start out like beads on my forehead. I can't say that I was frightened, but there was something so unreal that I felt as though I was bound to my chair.

"The mournful wail continued, and it seemed to go from the first floor to a room on the second floor, directly above me, where it ended in one long-drawn-out sob. Just as soon as the sound ceased I recovered myself, and ran up the stairway leading into the room where I had heard the last cry. I could find nothing, although I searched all over, and through the two rooms. By this time I began to realize that there was something wrong either with the house or my nerves, and I bolted down the stairway, determined to go in search of my companions. I seized my gun as I ran through the room with the fire in it, and then went down to the road through the trees. I met the three almost at the gate, returning with eggs, butter and bacon enough to insure a meal for a dozen. I said nothing to them of what I had heard for fear they would laugh at me. We returned to the house and soon had bacon broiling on spits and eggs roasting in the ashes in the big fireplace. The three were wet and damp, and their coats were placed around the big fire to dry, while we feasted on broiled bacon and roasted eggs.

A HOUSE FULL OF SPOOKS.

"I had heard nothing more of the mysterious cries, and we were congratulating ourselves on the fact, when suddenly there arose from the room above us a perfect babel of unearthly shrieks, groans, wails and cries. It was as though a dozen demons had suddenly been turned loose in the room above us. We sprang to our feet, and I know that I turned pale. The others were badly frightened, and for a moment we stood looking at each other in blank amazement. Then we grabbed our guns and rushed out of the house. We stood in the road for a few moments, and then, as the noise ceased, we crept back to the house and looked in the room where the fire was burning. Everything was as we had left it, and we began to feel ashamed of our fright. We decided that we should go down to the farmer who had sold us the butter and eggs, and ask him to give us lodging for the rest of the night. It was nearly midnight when we reached the house, and our request for lodging was at once granted. We said nothing to the farmer that night of what we had heard in the old stone house.

"Just before we left the next morning, however, I asked him what was the matter with the old house up on the hill. He seemed reluctant to say anything, but at last he told me the story:

"'There's something wrong with it. There has been something wrong with it for nearly twenty-five years. For years and years it has been offered rent free to any one who would live in it. The house has sixty acres of land attached, there is a good orchard and excellent water on the place. But every person who has tried to stay there has got enough of it in one night.'

"'What's the story?' I asked.

THE STORY.

"'It is about this way: In the early '60s a Baptist minister owned that farm and lived with his wife and only son in the old building in which you had such a lively experience last night. They were always considered well-to-do people, and were commonly reputed to have money in the house at all times. They owned several negroes and were well respected in the neighborhood. Just before the war the old man sickened and died. When the war broke out the negroes ran away. The son was drafted in the Union army and was killed at the battle of Bull Run. The old lady lived on in the house alone with the exception of two old negro servants. A story was current at that time that the old lady had buried all her gold in the orchard. One morning in the fall of 1863, a farm hand, making an early trip from the town to his work, passed the old house. He heard screams and cries for help, but, instead of going to the house, ran in the opposite direction. He told his employer what he had heard. He was a busy man, and paid no attention to it. Two or three days afterwards the mangled corpse of the old lady was found lying in the orchard near one of the largest trees. She had been stabbed and cut in many places. The house was torn and ransacked, and the earth in various places in the orchard had been upturned as if in a search for the buried gold. The negro servants were never heard of again. Ever since the finding of the old lady's body, the house is reputed to be haunted, and it is said that every night until midnight the unquiet spirit of the foully murdered lady haunts the house and orchard, enacting again the scene in which she lost her life in an attempt to shield her buried treasure.'"—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,708,512 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,537	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	28.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30.19
London Life	1,644,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The Buggy Broken Up.

Mrs. Geo. Henry and a young lady friend were driving in the country yesterday, and near Chambers' hill their horse ran away. The buggy collided with a grain wagon driven by a farmer, and the vehicle was badly shattered and the ladies thrown out, both being pretty well shaken up and bruised.

Curling and Skating Rink Co.

The annual meeting of this company took place at the Charlotte street rink last night. The Secretary-Treasurer reported that last year had not been very successful on account of unfavourable weather, but the company had nevertheless cleared expenses. This year if the season was good the prospects were encouraging for a most successful winter's business. The Directors were elected for the ensuing year as follows:—Messrs. W. G. Ferguson, Dr. Boucher, R. S. Davidson, A. Hall and C. McGill. Mr. Ferguson was elected President and Mr McGill Secretary-Treasurer.

Wedded in Port Hope.

Mr. Oren M. Ellsworth, an old Peterborough boy, now in the Sante Fe R.R. offices at St. Louis, Mo., was married yesterday afternoon at five o'clock in Port Hope to Miss Ettie Wallace, daughter of Mr. Jno. W. Wallace. The ceremony was very quietly performed at the residence of the bride's father by Rev. Mr. Baker, Miss Minnie Wallace was bridesmaid and Mr. W. H. Clement, of Toronto, groomsman. Among the guests were a few relatives and friends of the bridal couple from Peterborough. Mr. Ellsworth will will be remembered in Peterborough by numbers of people with whom he associated before leaving town, and all will heartily wish him a happy wedded life. Miss Wallace is also known to a number in Peterborough through her annual visits to Stony Lake, where she was the frequent guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. Pipelow. After a charming supper had been served the young couple took the eight o'clock express for the west. They will reside in St. Louis.

The Telephone War.

The Globe says:—A telephone war is now raging in Ontario. The Bell Company, which is the original occupant of the field, advertises a reduction of $10 a year, but adds "This reduction on our part is intended to be made only to those who are not stockholders in or subscribers to an opposition company, and of course any assistance given by you to the present attempt to ruin the business established by this company in Peterborough, will be taken as indicating that you do not intend to take advantage (or to continue taking advantage) of this offer, and as a cancellation of the reduction as far as this company is concerned." The Ontario Telephone Company of Peterborough replies that its fees are $15 annum for a single instrument, and $12 50 for an instrument where a subscriber takes two or more, and that its prices "are permanent and apply to everybody." The charter of the new company applies to Toronto, so that we may expect an interesting contest here.

At the Opera House.

The "Running Wild" Comedy Company gave a performance at the opera house last last night. It wasn't positively the worst that has been seen in Peterborough. The dramatic work didn't exactly make the empty benches groan, nor did the singing quite melt the eave-troughing on the roof, while it cannot be said of the plot that it was deep as the sea or quite as fresh; and the rollicking fun which was advertised didn't split any waistcoats nor bring on an attack of tetanus. Still the play wasn't so awfully, terribly bad—but pretty bad nevertheless. The manager's brain must be running wild if he imagines his company gives an entertainment worth the prices charged. It is nothing better than a dime vaudeville. If the manager's pretensions were not so ambitious and he advertised the troupe on its merits and charged accordingly, the company would not come in for the unanimous condemnation it is receiving from the press all along the line. The performance is all right in its way, but it is preposterous to charge 75c. and 50c. for admission to what is no better than a ten-cent variety entertainment.

Curlers in Council.

Annual Meeting of the Curling Club—Preparing for the Season's Sport.

If there is one class of men who retain and develop their enthusiasm in the game they love from one season to another, it is the curlers. Their interest in the grand game never slackens, and when the call comes for the annual gathering to prepare for the winter's sport, they are all there if it is within range of possibility for them to be present. At last night's meeting there was a good attendance, and the utmost enthusiasm and harmony prevailed throughout their deliberations. Mr. T. P. Attrill occupied the chair, and there were present Messrs. T. Rutherford, W. G. Ferguson, Dr. Boucher, R. M. Denniston, C. McGill, T. E. Bradburn, R. S. Davidson, A. Hall, Robt. Hall, E. B. Edwards, J. B. Pentland, S. Clegg, A. Stevenson, Jno. McClelland, Jno. Stanger and some others.

THE OFFICE BEARERS.

After the reading of the minutes the officers were elected as follows:—

PATRON—Judge Weller.
PATRONESS—Mrs. Weller.
PRESIDENT—R. S. Davidson.
VICE PRESIDENT—R. M. Denniston.
SEC.-TREAS.—C. McGill.
MANAGING COMMITTEE—The officers and Messrs. W. G. Ferguson, T. Rutherford and T. E. Bradburn.
CHAPLAIN.—Rev. S. J. Shorey.
FIRST REP. MEMBER—Dr. Boucher.
SECOND REP. MEMBER.—E. B. Edwards.

THE SKIPS AND THEIR RINKS.

Twelve skips were appointed as follows:—Dr. Boucher, W. H. Budden, T. Rutherford, W. G. Ferguson, T. P. Attrill, C. McGill, S. Ray, R. M. Denniston, Judge Weller, T. E. Bradburn, J. B. Pentland and J. H. Connal.

It was decided that the rinks should be selected the same as last year, viz, each skip to choose his vice, then draw for choice of seconds, and finally for leads. A meeting of the skips will be called in due time for this purpose.

THE SEASON'S PROSPECT.

With more favourable weather than has been enjoyed the past two years, the coming winter's sport will be a most successful one. An effort is to be made to have one or more matches played here every week during the season, and the secretary was instructed to correspond with the following clubs and arrange dates with this end in view:—Lakefield, Millbrook, Campbellford, Toronto Granites, Toronto, Port Hope, Whitby, Bowmanville, Oshawa and Belleville.

The same system of local matches, which were such a success last year, will be followed this season. There will be also the usual 13-point game.

Six skips are to be selected to play in the Lindsay-Peterborough challenge cup series.

It May be Murder.

A Drunken Row in Ashburnham which Has a Serious Termination.

The notorious Jimmy Farley and his wife have been at their old tricks again. They became so obnoxious in Peterborough that they were driven out of town some time ago, and they settled in the village across the river. Yesterday the Farleys, including the daughter Nellie, got gloriously drunk and raised a ruction around their shanty at the corner of Lake and Elizabeth streets. Their drunken brawl attracted crowds of small boys who peered in at the windows and regaled themselves with the scenes enacted within. About noon the disturbance culminated in Farley making a murderous attack upon his wife, it is presumed with the club which he held in his hand when he made frequent sallies from the house to drive the boys away. A number of people were attracted to the spot by the daughter rushing from the house shouting "murder," and at once several men entered to lend such assistance as was necessary. A shocking sight met their eyes. The house was LITTLE BETTER THAN A DEN.

Broken dishes, old pieces of furniture, piles of rags in the corners for beds, everything filthy and disordered—it was a terrible instance of the most abject poverty. On a table lay a shank of beef from which a slice had been cut. The family had evidently been preparing the dinner upon the rickety stove when the final deed occurred. Beside the table on the floor lay Mrs. Farley, moaning and writhing, blood flowing freely from a cut in the back of her head. The daughter Nellie reeled about the room crying, "Och, he's murdered her," while the old man still grasped the stick with which he had knocked down his wife, and muttered something about her being drunk. Mrs. Farley was carried into a bedroom and laid down on the floor with an old quilt for a pillow. A physician was summoned and the woman's wounds dressed. It is feared fatal results will ensue, as the blow was a severe one.

Farley was arrested and and locked up by Constable Craig, and this morning transferred to the gaol. He was brought before P. M. Edmison and remanded till Monday, to await the result of Mrs. Farley's injuries. If fatal, which the magistrate was given to believe was a possibility, a charge of murder will be preferred. Those who have seen Mrs Farley, however, do not anticipate anything serious and predict that she will recover in a few weeks at most.

Farewell to Their Friends.

Four Young Men Leaving Town—The Y. M. C. A. will Miss Them.

The Y.M.C.A. hall was crowded last evening by the young men and friends who gathered to say farewell to Messrs. Wallbrook, Smart, Hanna and Saunders, who are leaving town to prepare themselves for work in the foreign mission field. Each of the young men spoke earnest words full of joy at the prospects for enlarged usefulness for the Master, urging Christians to be more out and out for Christ. Their addresses made a marked impression on all present. Mr. G. J. Early, President of the Association, then addressed the young men, thanking God for what they had been enabled to do for Him in our work, commending them for their zeal, and assuring them they would have our prayers for their future life, and closed an address full of love and thankfulness by presenting each with a pocket Bible on behalf of the Association members.

Messrs. Turnbull and Smart, sr., also added words of encouragement to the young men and showed the joy there was in working and living for Christ, urging the young men present to come and fill the vacant places, and by consecrated lives show the world what a power Christ can be in our lives in the work of the church and Association. The General Secretary, on behalf of the Association, said good-bye in heart-felt words. He spoke to each, giving them a Scripture text as a motto to encourage them in the life work for Christ, wishing them the richest blessing our Father can give. It was a solemn meeting. The Holy Spirit spoke to each heart present and many were visibly affected. Mr. G. M. Roger led in an earnest prayer for God's blessing on the young men who were going forth and that those of us who remained at home might from this night give ourselves to Christ and then to His work. It was a blessed meeting and made a marked impression on all. Many remained for prayer and conference and to personally say good bye and wish our young fellows God's speed in their enlarged field of usefulness for Christ Jesus.—[COM.

News Nuggets.

The annual meeting of the West Peterborough Farmers Institute takes place in the council chamber to morrow afternoon at two o'clock, for the election of officers and regular business.

—Mrs. Bradley, of Rochester, who was charged at Port Hope with kidnapping her own child, won her suit and departed for home with the boy in her custody.

—Larry McCormack, and Edward Frederick, charged with burglarizing Bintz's restaurant at Campbellford, were allowed to go on suspended sentence.

The Hours for Visiting.

In a former issue it was stated that patients would be admitted to St. Joseph's hospital on certain days. This was a palpable error. Patients are taken in at all times. The limited hours are for visitors. The days for admitting visitors are Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m, and on Sundays from 3.30 to 4.30 p.m.

The Future of Winnipeg.

The Western Metropolis will be the Chief City of the Dominion—The Progress Made in the Past Few Years.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Winnipeg has now a population of 27,000. It shows evidence of progress. Many of the streets are block paved—some are planked, for the heavy, sticky mud of Winnipeg is not to be trifled with in wet weather. It is not only the political, but it is the educational, commercial, financial and railway centre of all this North West country. What that means it is hard to estimate, for the country is vast and will in fifty years be the home of two millions. Our children will see Winnipeg the largest city in the Dominion. This may appear exaggerated language, but the head is always proportioned to the body, and this body is greater by all odds than any country tributary to Montreal or Toronto. The Hudson Bay railway will undoubtedly be built and the commerce of the country will come and go by that route and not by the lakes.

At present the depression which followed the boom 1881-2 has been dispersed by the development of the country, and Winnipeg without effort, and almost against the will of the people, is bestirring her hands and awakening to a realization of her destiny. Shrewd Americans who are able to compare her and her surroundings with the American cities have recently and invested largely in property which was stagnant and far below the legitimate value. A number of rich Canadian capitalists, men living in Montreal and other Canadian cities, have taken stock of the place and put in their capital by hundreds of thousands. The block at the corner of Main and Portage Avenue—a part of which was recently owned by our old friend James Navin, was bought the other day at $80,000. Yesterday all the unsold lots on Portage Avenue, east of Colony Creek, were bought at one purchase for over $147,000. Real Estate men are alive and very busy—for no such move has taken place here for years. The city is full, few houses are vacant. Very fine residences are going up in the best part of the city and all mechanics are busy.

The new railways built and being built and the stimulus of a magnificent crop have put and men move quickly under a pressure of business that reminds one very much of the summer of 1881. Our friend John Wells has a fine stand, a good stock and a prosperous business. George Mitchell, in well rounded proportions and with his old time genial face, greets one as cheerily as of yore. Mr. Fee, who is in the employ of the government, with our old friend William Toole, meets a Peterborough man as if he was one of the family. H. H. Smith, Esquire, always genial, is as kindly as ever and ever glad to do a kind thing for a Peterborough boy. The Bensons are as young as when they left us twelve years ago. They say it is in the air, but I think it is not less in the good fortune which their energy and pluck have enabled them to accomplish in this new land. In fact all who come west did well if only they minded their business and seized the chances as they passed.

The main street of the city is in the form of an arc—composed of three straight lines. It is, in fact, which followed the river bank. As in bad weather the roads were bad, plenty of room was left so that every man could take a fresh path to himself. The street is two chains wide, and makes an imposing thoroughfare. One more street, Portage Avenue, is also two chains wide. Few of the side streets are at right angles to Main street, and so there are many angular lots. The new Northern Pacific Hotel is the pride of the city. It is seven stories and a high basement—an American building which overtops everything else. It, the post office and the city hall are the finest buildings in the city, but there are many of cut stone and brick that would be a credit to Toronto. The city is a large wholesale centre and very many have been erected by the merchants. There are but 25,000 people in the entire North-West. What will this city be when there are millions there? It has much to give promise of future fortune, but with all its advantages, in many respects it is far behind Peterborough. Our advantages are in our clean, good streets, our beautiful trees, cheap fruit, and our more moderate winter. Indeed, after seeing a good deal of this continent, I have come to the conclusion that, for comfortable conditions of life our own good town offers as favourable inducements as any part of the continent. If we live slowly, we hope to live all the longer.

THE OLD TRAIL

Yours,
O.

Canadian Iron Resources.

The Trenton Courier thus refers to the deposits of iron in Canada and the prospects of their development:—

There are immense deposits of good ore in this country, but no one seems inclined to invest any money in its development. We believe the iron mines at Marmora, forty miles from Cobourg, can only be worked when we have free trade with the whole of North America.

The United States duty on ore is 75 cents per ton. This year the iron mines on the American slope of Lake Superior will, it is said, produce six million tons of ore. A duty of 75 cents on this output would amount to four and a half millions of dollars, a fine which would quickly put an end to mining, were the Esconaba district excluded, as Canada is, from the United States market.

Ontario possesses large deposits of iron on Lake Superior. Dr. Jacobs, of Lacrosse, Wis., a mining expert, says we have enough ore there "to supply the world for many centuries." At any rate we have quite as much as they have on the American side of the Lake. There are rich deposits, as we all know, in the adjoining county of Hastings. The Cobourg, Northumberland and Pacific Railway will run through this iron region. Mr. C. J. Ritchie, of Akron, Ohio—himself an iron-dealer—owns several of the Hastings mines, and is prepared, he says, the moment we get unrestricted reciprocity, to invest five million dollars of his own money, and that of Ohio friends in getting out ore and establishing blast furnaces. The Esconaba ore is chiefly sent to Pennsylvania, nearly a thousand miles distant, and Mr. Ritchie says it would pay, and pay well, to bring coal from Buffalo and Oswego to Belleville and Cobourg and fill the cars on the return trip with pig iron. The surplus ore he would ship across the lake by boat. There are also iron deposits in Quebec. Some of the mines were opened and worked before the British conquest of Canada, the French settlers using charcoal as a fuel. Iron abounds in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. In the latter it lies alongside coal and limestone. We can do nothing with the source of wealth, however, until we obtain full access to the American market. The iron duties imposed by Sir Charles Tupper three years ago have utterly failed to promote the manufacture of iron, or the production of ore. If they were twice as high they would still fail, for all Canada does not consume more than 300,000 tons of iron a year, which three or four good furnaces could easily produce, and there is no means of disposing of any beyond that quantity. The duties simply exalt the price of iron, and iron and steel manufactures, to the Canadian consumer. Free Trade with the States would reduce the price to a reasonable figure, and enable us to furnish employment to a large number of our own people, who, under present conditions, are compelled to emigrate.

THE largest sailing ship in the world was landed a few days ago at Partick, on the Clyde. She is a five master, named the France, and is the property of a Bordeaux firm engaged in the nitrate trade. The France is 350 feet long, 43 feet 9 inches broad and 30 feet deep, with a gross tonnage of 3,750 tons and a dead-weight carrying capacity of 6,150 tons. She is fitted with steam gear for loading and discharging. In order to preserve the nitrate solution, which is formed in large quantities, and which is usually discharged overboard, tanks are fitted in the hold, thus inviting the shippers against loss resulting from this waste. John Bull can beat the world at building ships, at sailing them, and at finding trade for them to do. John is a free trader. All's fish in the way of trade that comes to his net which covers the entire aquatic area of the earth.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

CENTREVILLE.—The Rev. Dr. Grant, Principal of the Queen's University, Kingston, gave a lecture here on Monday night, Sept. 29th, at 8 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Bennet, Pastor, of Springville, and Rev. Mr. McOmmus, of Frazerville were present. A very large audience gathered to hear the very interesting and instructive lecture. It was opened by a recitation by the choir which was executed in excellent style. The reverend gentleman said the Canadian Pacific railway gave a much shorter way to Japan than there need to be. The customs of the Japanese, he said, were entirely different from ours. In manners they were very polite, but in habits were very unclean. The Japs, he said, were very eager to learn our language. When passing through the streets of Tokio, signs like the following could be seen, "machines for taking the wrinkles out of pants," "hair pulled," "intoxicating liquor for sale here." He said a person visiting Japan would be impressed with the beauty of the country. The trees are only let grow a short height, and other peculiar things too numerous to mention. The speaker also said husbands there often divorced their wives for a bad tongue or temper. A family council was called and the husband laid his complaint before them. Rice is called rice there. He said he had something for the young people present, which was that the young Japs married very early in life. He spoke of a father who had a son who wanted to get married, and the father said to him, "You have no money, no clothes and no rice." But the young fellow replied, "Do without money, do without clothes, do without rice, but no do without wife." (Laughter.) A vote of thanks was given and the audience dispersed.

WARSAW, Sept. 27th, 1890.

Council met in Warsaw. Present—all the members. Minutes of last meeting read and signed. On motion an order for $6 12 was issued to Samuel Hamlin for fifty one loaves of bread furnished Wm. Wilson. The treasurer made a statement re settlement of collectors' roll of 1889. On motion, this council hereby empowers Jacob White, treasurer, and Robt. McCracken, collector for 1889, to make a supplementary return to county treasurer of Samuel Smythe's taxes. Against lot 23, concession 9, 200 acres, $4.10; " " 24, " 9, 200 " 4 05; " s ½ 22, " 8, 100 " 3 08; arrears on s ½ lot 22, concession 8, 100 acres, $5.85; 4 per cent. interest on the whole, 67c.; total, $17.80; and that the treasurer give Robt. McCracken a certificate that the collectors' roll of 1889 is settled, that his bond may be given up. On motion, the clerk was instructed to notify H. Wynne to remove the stones off the road opposite the Presbyterian church, on lot 12, con. 1. Dummer, without delay. On motion, that the grant of $50 to the Stony Lake Road is available at any time, the Council reserving the right of appointing their own commissioner for expending the same, on condition of the Ontario Government giving the $100 promised. Moved by W. J. Doughty, seconded by Richard Crowe, that this council give a grant of $25 to fix the sidewalks in Warsaw. Moved in amendment by Thos. Webster, seconded by H. A. Moore, that $15 be granted for said purpose, under W. J. Doughty, commissioner—Carried. On motion, $8 was granted to George Grant, senior, opposite lot 29, con 12, to open the road on boundary, under H. A. Moore, commissioner.—Carried. Council adjourned to Saturday, the 1st November next.

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit This Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmanship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be big business awaiting him this visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterborough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October. dw

The Babies Take a Back Seat.

The mothers of Peterborough took a deep interest in the baby show at the Exhibition. Their hearts are wrapped up in the chubby little cherubs who appeal so strongly to their maternal instincts. But the matter of most intense, absorbing interest to all ladies is the question of tea, that delight of feminine hearts. The ladies all know that Hawley Bros.' teas are unsurpassed for quality and price. Everybody should patronize a house which makes a specialty of fine teas. d

DEATH LURKS EVERYWHERE.

A Clinton Fireman Run Over by a Hose Reel.

CLINTON, Oct. 2.—During the firemen's race at the Huron Central Fair here to-day one of the Clinton firemen named John Miller fell and was run over by the hose reel and received injuries that resulted in his death a few minutes afterwards. He leaves a widow and small family.

Two Babes Held Fast in Their Dead Mothers' Arms.

MASKINONGE, Que., Oct. 2.—The wife of Dr. Dostaler, accompanied by Mrs. Piche, Miss Heroux and two young children about five years old, were returning from Lesheville in a carriage last evening about 9 o'clock, and while crossing the track at a point known as the third crossing above Louisville, the carriage was struck by a freight train of the C.P.R. bound for Montreal, and all three ladies were instantly killed. The two children escaped. When the dead and mangled bodies of the women were picked up by the train hands the children were locked in their mothers' arms and complaining bitterly of being held too tight.

Death Due to a Rusty Nail.

ACTON, Oct. 2.—The death yesterday of Miss Etta Bingham, daughter of Mr. Robert Bingham, was due to lockjaw. Four or five weeks ago deceased stepped upon a board containing a rusty nail which pierced the sole of her slipper and wounded her foot. Though painful at the time she paid little attention to it and in a few days the wound healed. Three weeks ago she was taken ill and the medical men who were called in discovered unmistakeable evidences of lockjaw.

Killed on His Way Home.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 2.—Robert Walton, toll-gate-keeper on the Norwich road, not far from town, was struck by the 6 o'clock Port Dover express two miles south of here and instantly killed last night. Walton, who was known to be deaf, was walking along the track and paid no heed to the whistle or bell. His neck was broken and nearly every limb when the body was found on the pilot platform of the locomotive. Deceased, who was a blacksmith, was aged 63. A son of Walton died at London a few hours before the old gentleman was killed.

Mutilated by a Mower.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 2.—William Wahl, near St. Agatha, was cutting clover with a mower when one of the horses kicked over the tongue and broke it off. The boy was not strong enough to hold the horses and was thrown off the machine on to the knives. The left hand was cut off and found in the field and his leg was so mutilated that it had to be amputated above the knee. The victim lived 22 hours.

Killed by a Falling Derrick.

SARNIA, Oct. 2.—James Temple of Marthaville and Frank Wills of Osborne were raising a three-pole derrick over a newly-sunk oil well yesterday, when the derrick fell upon them. Temple was instantly killed, his neck being broken, and Wills is in a critical condition, his spine being injured. Temple was prominent in the neighborhood and superintendent of the Methodist Sabbath School at Marthaville.

Mother and Babe Injured.

BURLINGTON, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Henry Douglas of Burlington, with a child in her arms, was walking across the track at the Grand Trunk crossing Monday morning, when she was struck by the 8½ train coming into the station over the Toronto branch and thrown forward against a post by the roadway. The child was thrown from her arms some distance further and painfully injured. Mrs. Douglas was picked up bleeding and senseless. It is thought she is internally injured.

A Mexican Military Execution.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 2.—Sergeant Zeferino and Corporal Trinidad Martinez were executed at San Lazaro plain this morning in the presence of the entire garrison, which formed in a parallelogram, the sides measuring ¾ of a mile and the ends ½ a mile. The streets leading to the scene of the execution at an early hour were thronged, and when the execution took place fully 30,000 people were present.

The sergeant manifested great composure and tied the handkerchief about his eyes, but the corporal showed signs of weakness. Twenty-two soldiers fired at them, and they fell at the first shot, but each was shot through the head afterward. The garrison, after the execution, was marched past the bodies, and when opposite them were commanded to look at them. The crime which the men expiated was the murder of Lieutenant Chapuz Santiago of the custom house here, about a month ago.

MEMOIRS OF A MURDERER.

M. Eyraud, Who Is Charged With Murder, Employing Himself in Prison.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—M. Eyraud, who was arrested at Havana for the murder of M. Gouffe is spending his time in prison, prior to his trial, in drawing up his memoirs. One of the wardens, who is an artist in his way, is illustrating the text. Eyraud has made a rough sketch indicating the relative positions of the victim, of himself and of Gabrielle Bompard, his accomplice and mistress. The latter is playfully putting the noose around Gouffe's neck, while Eyraud is in the rear. Gabrielle is living high in prison: her meals, which are sent in from a restaurant in the Place St. Michael, by order of M. Garonger who brought her back from America, costing 20 francs a day. This includes a bottle of champagne for her dinner, the prison rules allowing any kind of wine, and Mademoiselle Bompard finds that champagne takes away low spirits. Eyraud's food consists mostly of boiled beef and vegetables with a half a pint of red wine with each meal. The trial of the couple has been fixed for the first week in November.

FORSAKEN AT THE ALTAR.

A Hamiltonian Successfully Imitates Lochinvar and Jock o' Hazeldean.

HAMILTON, Oct. 3.—The marriage of Herbert Muir Morton of Hamilton to Miss Elizabeth Mercer, step-daughter of Sheriff McKellar, contains a tinge of romance in the manner in which the handsome barrister won his bride. Miss Mercer is a beautiful brunet, with a well-rounded figure and eloquent dark eyes. She and Mr. Morton were both members of St. Thomas church choir, and have been on very friendly terms for some months. It was the general impression among the lady's friends that she was engaged to be married to a gentleman residing in Vancouver, B.C.; indeed, she led her friends to believe that she intended to leave yesterday for Banff, where she was to meet her fiance, and they were to be married at the residence of a mutual friend.

The sister of the Vancouver gentleman came out from England to attend the wedding and was to meet Miss Mercer and accompany her to Banff. Miss Mercer had been receiving congratulations for several days, and not congratulations only, but substantial wedding gifts as well. On Wednesday she bade good-bye to several friends. If the young lady did intend to make the trip she changed her mind very suddenly for the gossipers say that Mr. Morton proposed to her and was accepted on Wednesday night. Be that as it may, Miss Mercer and Mr. Morton were married at St. Thomas' Church at 1 p.m. yesterday by Rev. Canon Curran.

So secret and so sudden were the new arrangements that a number of Miss Mercer's relations and intimate friends called on her yesterday afternoon to bid her good-bye and wish her a pleasant trip to the coast and were dumfounded to discover that she had "gone with a handsomer man."

It is said that the poor prospective bridegroom in Vancouver had a house all ready furnished to receive his bride.

The deserted prospective groom is James Townley, formerly with the H. & N. W. R. at Barrie. He and Miss Mercer would have been married last spring, but for the fact that the death of Miss Mercer's sister caused a postponement of date of the wedding.

Mr Townley had left Victoria and arrived at Banff to meet his bride. Before leaving Victoria he was given a gorgeous sendoff by his fellow employes in the C.P.R. offices there. It is several years since he and Miss Mercer or Mrs Morton as she must now be called have met, and the anticipation of marrying after such a protracted separation had, it is said, been wearing on the prospective bride for some time.

STRATFORD'S UNFATHOMED MURDER

The Inquest to be Resumed at Stratford on Monday next.

STRATFORD, Oct. 3.—The mystery surrounding the death of John R. Potter of Toronto, who was found dead in this city on Sept. 1, deepens. The inquest will be resumed on Monday. Potter, according to the evidence of three witnesses, was seen on the fatal Monday night with Maria Piner between 10 and 11 o'clock. They turned down Romeo-street—the street on which the body was found the next morning—but past that no trace of his movements can be found. On the body when found was the leaf of a pass-book in which was written in lead pencil:

Woodstock, September 1st, 1890
Her
Mary x McCartay
Mark

and Detective Greer of Toronto, who is working up the case, has been in Woodstock endeavoring to find Mary McCartay, but in vain. According to the Piners Potter left on Monday, Sept. 1, to go to Woodstock to purchase a cow from a Mary McCartay, the bovine to be brought to Stratford, when Piners would buy the animal. Potter was seen in Stratford on Monday afternoon of the day he left, which proves conclusively that he could not have been in Woodstock on that day and it is a puzzle to the authorities who wrote that note dated Sept. 1. When Potter's brother was in the city shortly after the body was found he said the writing was not that of his brother. One rumor circulated is that Caleb Piner carried the dead body away on horseback and left it where it was found, but no reliable evidence has been adduced to prove the story.

A TIMBER LIMIT SUIT.

An Essex Lumberman Says He Was Euchred out of $500

HAMILTON, Oct. 3.—The attention of the Wentworth Assize Court has been engaged the past two days trying an action brought by Francis F. Jones of Comber, Essex County, against James Sharp, M.L.A. for the Parry Sound District, James Regan and George Paget of the Crown Land Department, and Peter McDermott, a timber dealer. The suit was instituted to recover $500 paid by plaintiff on account of the purchase of a timber limit. According to plaintiff's statement of claim the defendants entered into a scheme to induce plaintiff to purchase timber limits. Defendant McDermott, so the plaintiff alleges, took him up to Spence and Armour Townships and showed him the wrong limits. The defendants introduced Regan to plaintiff as an American timber buyer, and by this and other means induced him to purchase a limit from defendant Sharp for $2,500, of which plaintiff paid $500. The timber limit, it is alleged, turned out to be worthless, and the plaintiff brings this action to recover the $500 paid down. The case is not concluded.

A Scotch Lassie Who Had a Funny Story to Tell About Herself

TORONTO, Oct. 4. Dorothy Finlayson, a Scotch lassie, 20 years of age, arrived in this city from Edinburgh nearly ten days ago. According to her own statement her life there had not been as moral as it should have been, and in order to give her an opportunity of following the path of rectitude a number of benevolently-inclined ladies fitted her out with clothing and shipped her to this country. Unfortunately for herself on her arrival here she struck up an acquaintance with an old man named John Kendall, who induced her to live with him as his wife, promising to get the matrimonial knot tied later on.

Yesterday afternoon the couple, both slightly intoxicated, went down to the Union Station to procure the girl's trunks, which had remained there since her arrival. While in the depot she suddenly professed to take a dislike for her aged lover and complained to the policeman on duty that he was filling her up with liquor against her will. The result was that Kendall was sent about his business while the girl remained at the station.

Scarcely, however, had Kendall vanished up York street before Finlayson upbraided the police for parting them, remarking, "What did you do that for? Sure he was kind to me. He gave me this ring, this brooch and these earrings, and he promised me a new dress. He got lots of money I tell ye and I want to hang on to him" she concluded, as she walked off endeavoring to take Policeman Robinson with her, to whom she appeared to have taken quite a fancy notwithstanding that he had curtly sent her lover adrift.

Unable to Swallow, Yet Living for Weeks.

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Nelson-street was taken to the hospital about four weeks ago suffering from the effects of swallowing a quantity of concentrated lye, which she mistook for water in the dark. The draught did not reach the stomach, but passed to the lower extremity of the throat, terribly burning the whole passage. The result was that it became utterly impossible for the sufferer to swallow solid food. Finn has practically lived on milk for the last three weeks, and the milk has to be injected through a slim tube. The other case is that of Mr. Roche, who died last night from a throat disease which prevented his swallowing even liquid food, for the last three weeks, the only sustenance being hypodermic alimentation.

CALLED HIM A SHADOW.

BECAUSE HE ESSAYED TO SPY INTO THE CONFESSIONAL.

Sensational Scenes in the Tiperary Trials Yesterday — Mr. Harrington Ordered from Court by the Magistrate—Broke Up in Confusion.

DUBLIN, Oct. 3.—Much excitement was occasioned in court at the Tipperary trial to-day by the evidence of one witness, a policeman, who testified he followed several of defendants into the vestry of the Catholic Church and tried to overhear what was said there by them. This testimony aroused the indignation of counsel for the defendants and he demanded to know if the penal days had returned when the sanctity of the confessional could be invaded. The court room became a babel of cries, and the confusion was so great that it was impossible to go on with the proceedings. The court was therefore declared adjourned for half-an-hour.

When the court reopened the policeman witness was cross-examined by Mr. Harrington, who called witness "a shadow."

The magistrate called upon Mr. Harrington to withdraw the expression.

Mr. Harrington refused to do so and was ordered to leave the court.

An uproar ensued, Messrs. O'Brien and Dillon commenting freely upon the manner in which the case was conducted.

Finally another half-hour's adjournment was ordered. During the adjournment Mr. Harrington's clients decided to defend themselves.

When the proceedings were resumed Mr. Dillon had just begun to address the bench when a cheer was raised for Mr. Harrington. This so exasperated the magistrate that he ordered the court cleared and the proceedings were adjourned abruptly amid the greatest confusion. A large body of police was massed outside the court. There was no rioting.

THE RECENT MASSACRE AT VITU.

Seven Inoffensive Men Butchered by the Natives.

ZANZIBAR, Oct. 3.—Particulars of the recent massacre of Germans by natives of Vitu have just been received. Four men were killed outside the gate of Vitu and three others after a pursuit of several miles. Kunzell was the last to be killed. Menshell was wounded, but escaped owing to the concealment afforded him by some long grass. The murderers then escaped to Kunzell's camp and killed Horn, who had been left in charge, destroyed all the German plantations and murdered a planter named Debnke. The bodies of all the murdered persons lie where they fell, permission for the burial of the remains being refused. It is stated that those who lost their lives were all inoffensive industrious persons, with the exception of Kunzell. The Sultan summoned them to his presence and disarmed them on Sept. 14, the day previous to the massacre, when Kunzell violently abused the sultan, thus determining the fate of the party.

Troops to be Disarmed.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The order to keep the troops at Chatham under arms has been countermanded.

The Cholera Scourge.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—It is denied at Lloyd's that cholera has appeared at Aden. Nevertheless quarantine has been established at the French and Algerian ports against vessels from Aden. Forty cases of cholera were reported in Aleppo Wednesday, 28 of which proved fatal. The inhabitants are flocking from the place.

MARSEILLES, Oct. 3.—Cholera has reappeared in Toulon. Four cases of the disease, one of them fatal, have been reported at Jerez.

The Czar's Yacht Ashore.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 3.—The Czar's yacht Erdlik is ashore at Nicolaieff. All ordinary measures to float her having proved unsuccessful, it has been decided to dredge a channel for her through the shoals.

Five Vessels Gone Down.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—A terrific gale prevailed in the North Sea yesterday. Five vessels foundered during the storm.

Fatal Fancy.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Gertrude Brown, aged 24, daughter of an Australian merchant, sailed from Melbourne in May last to visit her uncle, the Vicar of Hereford. Ever since her arrival here she appears to be possessed of an inexplicable melancholy that culminated yesterday in suicide by cutting her throat.

In a letter left by the girl she gives as a reason that while on the steamer coming from Melbourne she was drugged, assaulted and had become enciente.

An autopsy was held to-day which proved that none of these statements had the slightest foundation in truth. It was an instance of unfortunate imagination.

Hundreds Dying of Starvation.

SUAKIM, Oct. 3.—Great discontent continues here owing to the stringent precautionary measures taken by the Government against cholera. All trade is completely paralyzed. Hundreds of natives in the interior are dying of starvation.

To Settle the Armenian Question.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 3.—Kismil Pasha, the grand vizier, has invited several Sheiks of Anatolia and three Armenian beys to a conference in Constantinople to try to effect a settlement of the Armenian troubles. This plan is approved by Russia.

St. Petersburg Flooded.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 3.—The Neva has risen seven feet owing to a hurricane. This city is flooded.

May Destroy Birmingham's Button Trade.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The McKinley bill is likely to destroy the Birmingham button trade. Many orders have been cancelled and the employes in most of the button works have been put on short time.

No More Wild West Shows.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 3.—Orders were issued by Secretary Noble to-day that no more Indians will be allowed to leave their reservations, and all Indians now employed as exhibitions, either here or abroad, will have to be returned. General O'Beirne, Assistant Superintendent of Immigration at New York, and Father Croft, a priest among Indians, were directly responsible for the order.

Caught His Foot in a Frog.

BETTON, Oct. 3.—Thomas Fowler of Bolinbroke caught his foot between the plank and rail of the G.T.R. crossing in such a manner as to defy his efforts to release himself. He threw his body clear of the track and his companions tried to pull him away. The engine struck his foot, crushing it so that it had to be amputated.

Grapes Rotting in Southern California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—For the past three days the rainfall has been general throughout the state. Considerable damage has been done in Sonoma County and in the San Joaquin Valley to the raisin and grape crops. At Napa grapes are reported as rotting badly, and they will be saleable only for distilling purposes if the rains continue. The raisin crop of El Cajon, Sweetwater and other southern fruit valleys promised nearly to double the output of last year and continued rain means a loss of over $100,000. Estimates have placed the loss as high as 8 per cent. of the entire crop.

Lobster Fisheries Closing Down.

HALIFAX, Oct. 3.—The herring fishery in the vicinity of Currant's Island and Flower Cove, where large quantities of fish are usually taken, is almost a complete failure. Lobsters have been doing somewhat better for the past fortnight, but the storm of Saturday destroyed a large number of traps, which will no doubt cause a large number of the factories to close down for this season.

Eliminating the Reserve Rule.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—The officials of the National Baseball League have prepared a new form of contract. The reserve rule is stricken out and other changes to the advantage of the players are made.

AN AYLMER BURGLARY.

A Merchant Loses Four Hundred Dollars Worth of Goods.

AYLMER, Oct. 3.—Some time during last night burglars effected an entrance into the dry goods establishment of J. M. Farthing's store. About $400 worth of silk handkerchiefs, kid gloves and neckties were taken. They gained access to the building by forcing the lock of the front door with a chisel.

This is the third time this store has been robbed. The perpetrator of one of the burglaries was the notorious Ed Beattie, now serving a term in Jackson, Mich., prison. Beattie's alleged wife, Annie Serbie, and Mary Macdonald were arrested as accomplices and confined in Elgin jail at St. Thomas. Beattie climbed over the jail wall one night, released the women from their cells, and the whole party escaped. Beattie afterwards received a ten-year term for burglaries in Michigan, but the women were never recaptured.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW OF TRADE.

Seasonable Activity in the Distribution of Staple Goods.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's report very general and seasonable activity in the distribution of staple goods. At several points the volume of September business is in excess of that for September, 1889. Rains have continued to affect the cotton crop but the wine and raisin yields in California instead of being short it is now reported will equal expectations. Hides are dull and tend lower in price after recent activity. Provisions have been a shade lower. The passage of the new Tariff bill appears to have had an influence in enabling producers and others to advance prices of wool and carpets, barley, tin plates and pearl buttons in spite of some temporary favorable appearances, share speculation at New York continues subject to bearish influences, unfavorable earnings of granger roads and financial stringency abroad checking bullish activity. Dry goods are in fair demand east although the movement is quieter. Clothing woollens are improved in tone and in slightly better demand. Special offers by jobbers are more numerous. Wool is in moderate manufacturing demand and very firm. Spot cotton is unchanged, speculation is fairly active. Reports to Bradstreet's of mercantile failures throughout the United States during 9 months of the current year show a total of 7538 against 8,634 in the first nine months of 1889. The aggregate liabilities of failing traders are $92,541,956 against $101,755,518 and actual assets $44,450,715, against $50,551,994 in the first nine months of 1889. The nine months clearings at all cities aggregate 44,856,658,187, a gain of 9.2 per cent over 1889. New York city clearings show a gain over last year of 7.2 per cent., while in 36 other cities the gain is 12.7 per cent. Available stock of wheat increased only 3,115,062 bushels during September east of the Rocky Mountains in the United States and Canada as compared with an increase of 5,514,436 bushels in September, 1889, and 13,229,884 bushels in September, 1888. Stocks available Oct. 1, 1890, were not materially larger than on July 1 last, while in 1889 they were 6,330,963 bushels larger on Oct 1 than on July 1, and in 1888 they were 4,096,218 bushels larger.

Exports of wheat, both coasts, this week are 1,260,941 bushels, against 1,155,121 bushels last week due to heavy Pacific Coast shipments, and 1,024,433 bushels in the like week of 1889. The aggregate exported July 1 to date is 25,760,301 bushels, against 25,850,307 bushels in a like share of 1889 and 33,301,921 bushels in 1888. Exports of Indian corn this week equal 856,449 bushels, against 747,773 bushels last week. Sugar is dull and raws are 1-16c lower, while refined is steady and unchanged. Low prices for refined the below last years have aided consumption heavily. Recent tariff changes tend to depress prices. Coffee is in only fair demand at unchanged prices. Case oil is higher owing to the advance on tin. No thracite coal prices have been advanced and promise to go higher. Iron is barely steady in price; demand is no better. Rails are no stronger after last week's concession of 5c per ton.

LEAGUE MEN TO CONFER.

A Holding Clause in the Contracts of Philadelphia Club Players.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—John I. Rogers of the Philadelphia League Club says representatives of the National League clubs will meet at New York about Thursday of next week for a general conference. A. G. Spalding of Chicago will probably be back from England by that time, and the policy to be adopted by the League will be mapped out. Mr. Rogers says it is too early for prediction regarding the League circuit for next year.

Regarding the rumors of League players signing with Brotherhood clubs, Mr. Rogers said: "I know nothing about it, but do not believe half I read on the matter. I feel no uneasiness over the players of the Philadelphia club, for we took the precaution to insert in every one of their contracts the clause which Judge Thayer said was wanting to make the regular League contract binding. Many of our players signed for two and three years, and we have legal opinion on the services of every man on the team for next year."

Ed Corrigan's New Race Track.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Edward Corrigan and several capitalists whose names are not made public have secured 160 acres of land close by the village of Hawthorne, and it is here that the new track will be established. It is something like two miles southwest of West Side Park, and is in all respects well situated and well suited to the uses to which it is to be put. The Burlington, Santa Fe, Sioux City branch of the Illinois Central, and Belt Lines of railway all run close to the track, so that abundant facilities for reaching it will be provided.

Arrested for Bigamy.

GUELPH, Oct. 3.—Peter Dingman, aged 47, of Luther, was arrested at Acton yesterday, on a charge of bigamy. Dingman had been boarding with George Lovell and worked for John McDonald, sawyer. He was a man well on in years, but Lovell's daughter, aged 16, a simple minded thing, listened to his stories and on Friday last, during her father's absence, eloped with Dingman. He produced some kind of a paper at Arthur which he made the girl believe was a marriage certificate, or a divorce paper, and she accompanied him to his mother's in Acton, thinking she was his wife. Dingman, it appears, has a wife and large family living in Drayton. The authorities here at once saw that there was no second marriage and the charge was altered to seduction.

Disgraced Heaven's Livery.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 3.—One of the most sensational cases ever heard in the courts of this county ended this morning when the jury in the breach of promise case of Annie Husabeal against Rev. Peter Roberts of Plymouth Congregational Church came in with a verdict of $4,000 damages for the woman. Pastor Roberts' resignation will be peremptorily demanded. Roberts is a graduate of Yale and met Miss Husabeal at New Haven in 1888. He wooed, won and betrayed her, and when she demanded immediate marriage he suggested a criminal operation which she finally consented to. While she was recovering he fled to Wales. She followed him and he again promised to marry her, but wooed and married another woman.

Peculiar Death of a Boy.

KINGSTON, Oct. 3.—The eight-year-old son of William McGrath, South Algona, was chasing some cattle yesterday when he fell on a stub which struck him on the lower part of the abdomen. He went into the house and told them of his fall. During the night he complained of pain and his mind began to wander. A doctor was summoned but the lad only lived a short time.

Increased Handling Facilities.

MONTREAL, Oct. 3.—A meeting was held this afternoon to consider the best means for increasing the facilities for handling cattle at this port. The cattlemen ventilated their grievances and a committee was ordered to be appointed by the city council and harbor commission to impress upon the government the necessity of carrying out harbor improvements at once.

CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

PETERBOROUGH'S IRON ORE,

The Belmont, Blairton and Haliburton Mines.

Magnetite Deposits in this District—An Analysis of our Mineral Wealth—Enough Iron to Supply the World—A Bigger Market Needed.

The following paper was presented to the American Institute of Mining Engineers at its recent meeting in New York, by Mr. T. D. Ledyard, of Toronto:—

This paper will be confined to a short description of certain ores found in the counties of Peterborough and Haliburton, and in the more easterly portions of the Province of Ontario. Those which will be mentioned are probably among the most important, yet comprise only a few of the ores which have come under the writer's notice. Magnetites only will be here taken into account, although hematites are found in these districts in deposits of considerable importance and sometimes of great purity.

Prof. E. J. Chapman, Ph.D., of the School of Science and University College, Toronto, says:—

"This area of Ontario is traversed in a general north-east and south west direction by belts of elevated rocky land, consisting of unstratified, probably eruptive, syenites or syenitic granites of a prevailing red colour. Between these belts lie rugged tracts of essentially synclinal structure, occupied in ascending order by strata of red and grey gneiss and by some crystalline graphitic limestones, succeeded more or less irregularly by dark green amphibolic and pyroxenic rocks, with which the iron ores are chiefly associated."

THE BELMONT IRON MINE.

About 110 miles east of Toronto, six miles north of the branch of the Canadian Pacific railway between Toronto and Montreal, on lot 19, in 1st concession of the township of Belmont, county of Peterborough, is found a large deposit of rich magnetic ore closely resembling in mode of occurrence some of the Lake Superior mines. Experts estimate that this ore bed contains at least 1,000,000 tons of ore within 100 feet of the surface, from which there should be no difficulty in producing 400 or 500 tons a day. The ore is very high in metallic iron, and by no means refractory in the blast furnace. Samples taken from the pits possess a fine texture, and show but small traces of phosphorus and sulphur, with a high percentage of iron constituting an almost ideal Bessemer ore.

The stripping is so light that the ore could be mined by the use of compressed air drills, at a cost of 50 cents per ton, being so free from rock matter that little culling will be required. No trouble with water is to be anticipated, the ground possessing a natural drainage to the west, which can be improved and utilized at a slight expense.

A special feature of this deposit is its proximity to the surface, necessitating but little expense for stripping, as mining can be done in pay rock almost from the commencement. Some hematite is found on the east side in conjunction with soapstone.

Prof Chapman says: "This is an exceedingly good ore, not too dense in texture, rich in metal, quite free from titanium, and practically free from phosphorus, and sulphur and is well adapted to the Bessemer process."

The following analysis have been made, the first being from surface samples:—

Metallic Iron.	Phosphorus.	Sulphur.	Silica.	Manganese.
64.26	Faint trace.	0.04	.....	.....
65.76	0.002	Trace.	1.5	.....
66.29	0.024	Trace.	3.19	0.42
68.88	0.006	Trace.	3.18	.....
68.83	0.008	Trace.	1.96	.....
69.99	0.014	Trace.	3.10	.....

Much of the rock matter surrounding this ore deposit is composed of epidotic diorite.

THE BLAIRTON IRON MINES.

Four miles south of the Belmont mine are the Blairton iron mines, at the village of that name, on lot 8, in 1st concession of Belmont, about two miles from the Canadian Pacific railway.

At this place, originally known as "the big ore bed," there are large deposits of magnetic iron ore, averaging probably 50 to 55 per cent. metallic iron, and low in phosphorus, and no titanium. Analyses have shown 0.035 phosphorus.

A considerable amount of ore has been taken out of these mines, as much as 300 or 400 tons daily having been produced here at one time. A large and deep excavation has been made, 150 feet wide by 250 feet long, and a second opening 150 feet deep lies south of the first.

On the east side the deposit is capped with Silurian limestone, while the west wall is a jaspery quartzite. The strike is west of north. In the wall, quartz and serpentine predominate. The ore is much mixed with rock necessitating a good deal of culling, which renders mining expensive; and there has been sulphur in some parts of the deposit from the beginning.

This is one of the many iron mines in Canada which cannot be worked at a profit for export under the present United States duty of 75 cents per ton. If there were no duty this mine would doubtless be worked; it is capable of producing largely. At present the only use that can be made of such ore is to smelt it in a local charcoal furnace, there being plenty of hardwood in the neighborhood from which charcoal can be cheaply made, and limestone for flux not being far distant.

CENTRAL ONTARIO RAILWAY MINES.

There are several large deposits of magnetic ore on or close by the Central Ontario railway in the north part of the County of Hastings. Some of these ores are of Bessemer quality (after roasting out the sulphur) but unfortunately the mines are now lying idle, owing to serious dissensions among the owners. The statement has been made that these ores are worthless, and that the mines are not worked on account of the sulphur in the ore; but this is surely not the true reason. Nearly 800,000 tons of magnetic iron ore are annually taken out of the Cornwall Hills in Pennsylvania and used as Bessemer ore, although containing on average of 2 per cent. sulphur and only about 45 per cent metallic iron; and nearly 700,000 tons of other sulphurous ores, some of them being hard magnetites from the states of New York and New Jersey, very similar to Central Ontario ores, are annually used in the United States. The sulphur entails an additional cost in roasting; but where other injurious elements are absent, a sulphurous ore, after being properly roasted often can be used in the manufacture of Bessemer iron.

The roasting should be carefully done in Davis-Colby or other suitable roasters, where plenty of oxygen is supplied during the process. The ore should be broken up fine enough and plenty of time given to make the roasting effectual. This should be done, where fuel is cheap, at a cost not exceeding 25 cents per ton. The cheapness of mining and freight would much more than counterbalance this expense on some Ontario ores.

Many of the Central Ontario ores could be conveniently shipped to furnaces in Pennsylvania by returning American coal cars, which bring coal into Canada, but now usually return empty.

SNOWDON IRON DISTRICT.

The townships of Snowdon, Galway, and Glamorgan, in the County of Haliburton, about 40 miles north-east of Lindsay, contain several valuable deposits of iron ore.

Lots 25, 26 and 27, in the 4th concession, Snowdon, on the south side of Burnt river, contain several outcrops of magnetite extending about three quarters of a mile. This ore is on high ground, overlooking the river and railway track, and most conveniently situated for mining by drifts or tunnels run into the hill side, the mine cars running by gravity to the shipping platforms or pockets at the railroad.

The following analyses show these ores to be very low in phosphorus:—

Metallic Iron	Phosphorus.	Sulphur.	Silica	Titanium
61.48	0.01	0.10	.....	None.
62.	Trace.	0.025	1.7	None.
62.57	0.025	Trace.	3.1	None.
63.	Trace.	0.025	3.1	None.

Concerning analysis No. 1, Dr. Chapman says:—"A fine-grained, magnetic ore from the Howland mine, lot 26, in 4th concession, Snowdon. The ore near the surface is very pyritous, but becomes almost free from pyrites in descending. The sample was taken from a depth of 91 feet from the surface. A second shaft has been sunk on another part of the deposit to a depth of about 30 feet. The deposit is apparently an elongated stock-formed mass of large extent. It has been opened over a length of about 80 feet."

The railway passes though lot 20 in 1st concession, Snowdon, on which are several outcrops of magnetite, one of them cross-cutting the Monck road, where it was first discovered. Prof. Chapman has analysed a surface sample and found it to contain metallic iron, 60.18; phosphorus, 0.08; sulphur, 0.04; titanic acid, 0.73. He describes it as a black magnetic, fine-grained ore, somewhat porous in texture. The deposit is apparently a stock-formed mass of large size, as shown by recent borings and excavations.

Another analysis is given, showing metallic iron, 61.02; phosphorus, 0.052; and still others have shown metallic iron as high as 5 per cent.

This district is about 200 miles from Buffalo, N.Y., to which point the ores could be delivered very cheaply in returning coal cars. Moreover these deposits are not much more than 100 miles from Midland, Ontario, whence ore could be shipped by boat to Chicago in returning grain vessels. Limestone suitable for flux is found in close proximity to the ores, and there is abundance of hard wood suitable for charcoal. There is also brown hematite in the neighborhood, yielding 45 to 48 per cent. metallic iron iron, which would mix well with the magnetic ores in a charcoal furnace.

The Paxton mine, in the adjoining township of Lutterworth, has produced several hundred tons of ore yielding 55 to 60 per cent. iron with no titanium and traces only of sulphur and phosphorus.

Ores from different parts of Galway township, south of Snowdon, have given the following analyses:—

Metallic Iron.	Manganoxide.	Phosphorus.	Sulphur.	Titanium
62.37	Trace.	0.012	Slight trace.	None
62.90	1.27	0.008	Slight trace.	"
6[illegible]	.....	0.04	0.02	"
70.40	.....	Trace.	Trace.	"

KINGSTON AND PEMBROKE DISTRICT.

The following analysis have been made of magnetic ores from the country tributary to the Kingston and Pembroke railway:

No.	Metallic Iron.	Phosphorus	Sulphur.	Silica.	Titanium
1	65.33	0.017	.....	.....	None
2	66.	Trace.	Trace.	2.14	"
3	62.	0.006	Trace.	4.12	"
4	60.	0.009	.....	6.31	"
5	54.	0.055	0.107	6.53	"
6	65.07	0.07	0.05	6.66	"
7	66.34	0.11	Trace.	1.04	Trace.

In Minden, the township lying north of Snowdon, there are large quantities of magnetic ores containing a considerable amount of titanium. A black granular, strongly magnetic ore from near Lake Kushog showed by Dr. Chapman's analysis the following results:—Metallic iron, 51.56; titanium, 15.64; sulphur, 0.17; phosphoric acid, trace; silicious rock matter, 4.08.

Similar ore is found on several adjoining lots, and there appears to be a good deal of titaniferous ore in this and neighboring townships.

There is an enormous deposit of black, strongly magnetic ore in the township of Glamorgan, about half a mile south of Burnt river. The deposit rises abruptly to the form of a succession of ledges to a height of from 80 to 100 feet above the general level of the ground, and is exposed in an easterly and westerly direction for at least 1,800 feet, with an average width of 140 feet. The analysed sample contained 52.04 metallic iron, 8.11 titanium, 0.005 phosphorus, and 0.06 sulphur.

Another deposit of similar ore has been found some distance from the one just described. The ore carries from 8 to 10 per cent. titanic acid, which appears to be persistent throughout the whole ore bed, the yielding of metallic ore being nearly 60 per cent., phosphorus 0.007, and sulphur 0.08.

It may be remarked that titaniferous ores in these districts are generally very low in phosphorus, and if some treatment could be found whereby the injurious effects of the titanium could be got rid of they might be used in making steel.

Dr. Chapman remarks that "the presence of these titaniferous ores in close proximity to deposits in which no traces of titanium can be detected is a fact of much interest hitherto apparently unrecognized in the iron districts of Europe."

The writer feels warrated in protesting against the habit, which has prevailed in some quarters, of characterizing all Canadian ores as titaniferous. Nothing could be more unfair. Canada is a country of great extent, and it is just as absurd to class all Canadian ores as titaniferous because those objectionable ores are found in some places, as it would be to condemn Lake Superior ores because titanium is found in some parts of Northern Minnesota. Ontario contains, as I have shown many ores perfectly free from titanium, although there are certain ranges or belts of territory in which titanium prevails to a considerable degree.

Many of the magnetic deposits in Eastern Ontario are rich in iron, and carry, too, very low percentages of phosphorus and sulphur with no titanium at all. Others are high in sulphur, but still free from other impurities, so that they require roasting only in order to make them available as exceedingly pure 60 per cent. ores. Finally, the rates of wages in these districts generally range from $1 per day for labourers to $1.25 for miners; and, as has been observed, the commercial conditions of transportation are exceedingly favorable. Nothing seems to be lacking but access to the market of the United States.

Lived 27 Days on Water.

KINGSTON, Sept. 30.—A woman 70 years of age, named Morris, has completed the remarkable feat of fasting for 27 days. Her only nourishment was a few spoonfuls of water a day. After the respite she took a longing for hard boiled eggs, and on them she is now maintaining life. She is very feeble.

Sir Terence and Lady O'Brien of Newfoundland were in the city yesterday, and inspected the Royal Military College.

The Holton Murder Recalled.

WINDSOR, Sept. 30.—Told Quick, charged with stealing cattle from Colchester farmers, has been committed to stand his trial at the Fall Assizes. Quick, it will be remembered, was charged with the Holton, Tilbury Centre, murder and was set free through a disagreement of the jury.

The Earl's Spanking Bloom Team

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—The Earl of Aberdeen has purchased from Messrs. Macgregor & Currie the magnificent team of black geldings which they exhibited at the Central Canada Fair and which carried a prize of $30 for the best team of matched carriage horses. His Lordship will send the horses to his estate in Scotland. The price paid was $1000.

Detroit's Big Jump.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE

ARE NOT a Patent Medicine. They are a BLOOD BUILDER, TONIC and RECONSTRUCTOR, as they supply in a condensed form the substances actually needed to enrich the Blood, curing all diseases coming from POOR and WATERY BLOOD, or from VITIATED HUMORS in the BLOOD, and also invigorate and BUILD UP the BLOOD and SYSTEM, when broken down by overwork, mental worry, disease, excesses and indiscretions. They have a SPECIFIC ACTION on the SEXUAL SYSTEM of both men and women, restoring LOST VIGOR and correcting all IRREGULARITIES and SUPPRESSIONS.

EVERY MAN Who finds his mental faculties dull or failing, or his physical powers flagging, should take these PILLS. They will restore his lost energies, both physical and mental.

EVERY WOMAN should take them. They cure all suppressions and irregularities, which inevitably entail sickness when neglected.

YOUNG MEN should take these PILLS. They will cure the results of youthful bad habits, and strengthen the system.

YOUNG WOMEN should take them. These PILLS will make them regular.

HIS GREAT WORK DONE.

SKETCH OF CANON LIDDON THE EMINENT DIVINE.

St. Paul's Great Preacher has Passed away His Sermons Will Not Die—Words for all Time of Christendom's Profoundest Preacher.

Beyond question the greatest preacher of this generation, of this century, and not unlikely of Anglican Christendom, has passed away. It seems but a day or so ago when heavily laden telegrams flashed the sorrowful news all over the world, and the world has not yet awakened to the exalted dignity of the man, the measure of his superlative power or the irreparable loss that has befallen us.

Such men as Canon Liddon are phenomenal. They appear at long intervals, and generations elapse without any token of their presence. "The month's mind," as the Catholics put it, will prove equally inefficient. The judgment and even years will hardly compass it, since such men demand a generous parallax before their true proportions are disclosed to the observer.

As Englishmen go Liddon died parmaturely, in his prime, in the noonday of his power and in the perfect maturity of his marvellous sovereign talents. The roster of great men is crowded with octogenarians in England, and always has been. Palmerston, Derby, Gladstone, Newman, Manning, like Moses of old, have grown stronger and greater under the multiplying decades, and will them and their like there is no aftermath, but the fields stand thick with corn and the sheaves are many and are heavy laden. Liddon, as his equals go, left twenty years of his splendid work for others to take up, but where is the man among his contemporaries to do it?

His departure was sudden and unexpected. Born August 20, 1829, he had only reached his sixty first year.

An Oxford man, graduated from Christ Church College with classic honors, ordained in 1852, served as vice principal of Cuddesdon Theological College, made a prebendary of Salisbury Cathedral in 1864, elected "preacher" of his university in 1865, 1868 and 1870, and afterward in 1870, 1872, 1874 and 1876 accepted as the foremost academic preacher of his time. His connection with St. Paul's Cathedral, the seat of his largest and most splendid triumphs, dates from 1870, when he was made Canon Residentiary, an office burdened with the delivery of six sermons a year, and the pulpit of St. Paul's, the foremost in Anglican Christendom, became thenceforth the field of his triumphs. This is the brief outline of his story, and complaice enough it is.

It is not altogether an easy matter for the general reader to take in the large significance "Sermon" and "Preacher," as Liddon exemplified them.

Occupying the firmament of late years by three principal figures stand out in high relief, dwarfing and eclipsing all the rest, and they were, until a few days ago, Canon Knox Little, of Chichester Cathedral; Archdeacon Farrar, of Westminster Abbey, the successor of Stanley, and Henry Parry Liddon, of St. Paul's. In all this galaxy of many generations and centuries Liddon shines out a principal star among all the rest.

"Guns are "big guns" heard from at long intervals. And no home-made metaphor has lasted, and indeed grown in favor like this, and Canon Liddon was biggest among these.

The sermons preached by Liddon have illimitable range, they have an irresistible penetrative force, they are for all men and for all time, so long as the vitality and continuity of historic Christianity are imperilled. No foeman withstood them, no conquest awaits them, and for these things it is that our poetry, minnie-but so it runs small calibre ecclesiastics intuitively make way for the preacher of them all, and give him precedence. So much for sermons that are alive.

Berkeley.

Following Fagin's Calling.

To the eccentricities of the confirmed collector there is no end, says the London Globe. Collectors collect everything, and the possible limit to the list will only be reached when every collectable article under the sun shall have its band of enthusiastic gatherers.

Collectors of postage-stamps, book-plates, play-bills, broad-sheets, coins and medals have attained a recognized standing; those of the decanal walking-sticks will soon do so, and there is an indication that they will be followed by victims of the pocket-handkerchief mania.

The late Mr. Fagin and his compeers were scarce of sufficiently respectable standing to give vogue to the cult of the pocket-handkerchief collector, but now that the pursuit has been shown to be the life passion of a man who was once a wealthy tradesman, the proper impetus will be given.

Casper Eltes is the gentleman's name, and an absorbing passion for pocket-handkerchiefs would seem to be his whole nature.

Starting as a wealthy man, so set up his business he paid whatever price was asked by the ladies of his aquaintances for whatever pocket-handkerchiefs they might be carrying. He was delighted, we are told, "at their weight and flavor"—an odd expression which might bear some further explanation.

Sometimes he had to pay enormous prices, but this never deterred him. We are not good whether the thing was ever actually done, but it would be almost an insult to Mr. Eltes acuteness to suppose that no good an opportunity to acquire a respectable dot by the purchase and sale of a dozen or more pocket-handkerchiefs was never observed and taken advantage of.

By this channel all Casper Eltes's money gravitated, and as he could buy no more handkerchiefs for his museum the obvious course was to steal them, which he did. He has now been caught for the second time, his confidence in his own dexterity leading him to attempt two pockets at once, after a fairly successful career as an amateur Artful Dodger extending over several years.

"Collectors" of purses, watches and chains and diamond pins may henceforth be expected to appear in great force at our police courts.

INSANITY FROM ABSINTHE.

How the Insidious Poison Slowly Destroys the Mind of the Drinker.

The severest case of delirium tremens resulting from whiskey is nothing compared to the delirious madness caused by absinthe, says a New York letter to the St. Louis Globe.

Absinthe is a drink of French invention, but is now used more extensively in America than in France, and in this country the peculiarities of the climate make it far more deadly than it is in its native home, where it is taken with more care than it is here.

The Frenchman knows that an overdose should be avoided. Americans want to drink as much of it as they would of whiskey, thus making no allowance for the increased risk of taking this Circelian cup. This liquor consists essentially of brandy or alcohol, into which the volatile oil of wormwood has been incorporated by distillation. It is flavored with the oil of anise and sweetened, and several other less important flavors are added to give it its peculiar aroma.

The drinker of absinthe at first does not observe anything especially unusual in his general health, but as the drug gets his system more fully in its grip sleeplessness and unsteadiness of the nerves come on.

He soon loses all mental will power and is unable to focus his thoughts on any subject for ten minutes together. The eyes are early affected by the drug. Double sight, and even blindness, is an early symptom of the hopeless stage of this habit.

Not long ago I was consulted by a well-known dramatic writer who had become the victim of the absinthe habit. He had all the symptoms referred to, but when under the influence of drink he also had a wonderful power of mental concentration, in which he was enabled to write articles for the press and even parts of plays.

He had been a well-known playwright, and it was during the writing of a well-known play that he first took the drink that kills. I was unable to help him, and soon after, a mental wreck, his friends had him put into an asylum, where he recently died.

The lord mayor of London receives an allowance of $50,000 a year, but as his annual reception alone costs him $25,000, he complains that he is one of the poorest men in the town.

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit This Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmanship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be big business awaiting him this visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelps Hotel, Peterborough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October. dw

THE ONLY TESTIMONIAL HE EVER GAVE.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefitting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,708,812 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $313,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,820	10.68
Temperance and General	2,964,972	17.54
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,722,100	30.12
London Life	1,644,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Diseases Cured Without Medicine by the New (Orificial Surgical) Treatment.

DR. WM. E. BESSEY

Consulting Physician, Orificial Surgeon, and Specialist,

192 KING ST. WEST, TORONTO,

Will visit PETERBOROUGH every Fourth Saturday at the Snowden House. (Next visit October 11th.)

Offers a sure and certain cure to those suffering from PILES and other rectal diseases; Womb, Kidney, Bladder and Sexual Troubles; Heart Weakness and Imperfect Circulation; Dyspepsia and Imperfect Nutrition; Lung Troubles, Asthma, Bronchitis and Imperfect Respiration, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Sciatica and Rheumatism. In short, Orificial Surgery affords a means of relief to all those suffering from Chronic, Nervous and Organic diseases which medicine has failed to cure.

But it will not cure Constitutional Troubles, such as Physical Deformities, Syphilis, Cancer, Scrofula or Consumption in an advanced stage. Such need not apply, but the list of troubles which may be relieved by Orificial work is too long to mention here. If you doubt it—try it—and watch the marvellous effects produced. The latest advance in scientific medicine—no miraculous cures promised—no unreasonable things attempted.

Market Mems.

There was the usual large market to-day. Not much doing in grain on account of wet weather. Wheat sold at 91 to 92c. for spring, 96 for fall; barley, 45 to 48c.; oats 37c. and peas 58 to 62c. The prices of apples, potatoes and other roots were unchanged. Butter brought 19 and 20c.; eggs 15 and 16c; chickens 40 and 50c. a pair; ducks 60 and 75c. a pair.

The Butchers Remove.

The market butchers, Messrs. Winch and Laplante, are now in their new premises in the new arcade. The removal was made yesterday. Mr. Winch has the whole of the north side, and Mr. Laplante the half of the south side. Both stalls are fitted up with all modern conveniences known to the trade. Messrs. Winch and Laplante expect to begin a new era of prosperity in their new stands.

Not a Serious Matter.

A report was current about the streets to day that Mrs. Farley, the victim of the Ashburnham brawl on Thursday, was dead. The rumor fortunately proved untrue. Nor is it likely that she will die from the effects of the wound. Mrs. Farley is so accustomed to these little conjugal caresses such as she received from her husband Thursday, that no serious results are feared. Yesterday she was so far recovered that a gallon of beer was ordered to the house. The testimony will therefore be charged in court on Monday with common assault.

Peterborough's Higher Percentage.

If the extent of exports is any standard for judging the thrift, enterprise and prosperity of a town, the returns of exports to the United States from Peterborough, place this town in a very favorable light. Compared with Hamilton's exports to the same market Peterborough's showing is vastly superior. The total exports of Hamilton for the quarter just closed, amount to nearly $130 000 and those of Peterborough to nearly $53,000. Taking the relative population, Hamilton's exports amount to $2.75 per thousand, while on the basis of population Peterborough's exports equal $8.34 per thousand.

Slaughter of Wall Paper.

This week the Peterborough Bookstore has made a big stroke of luck in securing a job lot of wall paper at a tremendous reduction in price, and this will be placed in stock in our wall paper rooms and sold at a reduction of 40 per cent., for ten days only, on current prices. Remember that this lot of paper is all new stock—the latest patterns—and remember that it is not marked up for the sake of reduction, but that the discount of 40 per cent. is a bona fide reduction of that amount from regular prices. Now is the time to seize upon the biggest bargains in wall paper ever presented in Ontario.

A Pair of Purses.

A purse found at the Central Exhibition Grounds is awaiting an owner at Mr. W. J. Green's clothing store, and thereby hangs a tale. Mrs. James Haggart lost her brown leather purse, and it was found and left at Mr. Green's store. Before Mrs. Haggart called for it an old lady visited the store and reported that she had lost her green leather purse, and thought that this might be the one. This was not the case, so she left. Later on Mrs. Haggart came in for her own purse, bringing with her a green leather purse, which she had found at the grounds. Mrs. Haggart recovered her own purse, but the green one still awaits an owner, who is doubtless the old lady with white curls, who called first. In both cases the purses had probably been stolen, as there was very little left in them when found.

A Worthy Entertainment.

It is to be regretted that a larger attendance did not greet the Swedish Ladies at the opera house last night. The entertainment given by them was one of the best we have had this season, and was worthy of a larger house. What the audience lacked in numbers, however, it made up in enthusiasm, and the ladies were obliged to respond to an encore to every number on the programme except two. There was a rich harmony in all the octette and quartette numbers, but if praise is given to one more than another it should be awarded to the octette, "Wedding March," by Soderman, which was loudly applauded. Miss Sundius, in her soprano solo "Parais a la fenestre" and Miss Brace in her contralto solo "C'est L'Espagne" were warmly received. The humourous recitations by Mr. Melvin Day, were well received, in fact each one was encored, certainly a compliment to his ability as a recitationist, as his part of the programme was the same as given on the occasion of his former visit here.—Brockville Recorder, Oct. 2nd 1890. 1d

New Real Estate Firm.

A new real estate firm is embarking in business in Peterborough. A partnership has been formed between Mr. A. V. R. Young and Lt.-Col. R. Z. Rogers, late of Grafton, who will conduct a real estate business in Peterborough upon a large scale. The offices of the firm will be at 343 Water street, the premises now occupied by Mr. Young. The EXAMINER wishes the new firm success. Mr. Young is a rising and energetic young business man, whose abilities are making a way for him in the world, while Mr. Rogers is also very well known in Peterborough. He has had a large business experience, and for the last three years he has been Inspector of Agencies for the Equitable Life Assurance Society, but is now of course giving up that position to enter business with Mr. Young. The Dominion Building and Loan Association of Toronto, which Mr. Young has represented here for some time, will now be represented by the firm as general agents, and this combined with the real estate business, will occupy the attention of the firm. Mr. Young still retains the position as District Manager of the Standard Life Assurance Company of Edinburgh, Scotland. The new firm will be a strong one, and as Peterborough's prospects are brighter than ever, we predict a brilliant future for the partnership.

A Fine Exhibition at Lakefield

The Annual Exhibition of the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Agricultural Society A First Rate Exhibition Dismal Weather but a Fine Attendance.

The annual exhibition of the Smith, Ennismore and Lakefield Agricultural Society was held at Lakefield on Thursday and Friday. The first day was beautiful weather, and the exhibits were placed in the skating rink, which makes a splendid exhibition hall, and the space was well filled with a tastefully arranged and very meritorous exhibit. In the evening the electric-lighted rink was thrown open to the villagers, and large numbers attended to admire the display.

The second day's weather was exceedingly dirty. There was heavy rain during the night, with a slight intermission for an hour or so in the morning, but it resumed, and there was a steady drizzle which lasted till afternoon, and the outlook for a good attendance was very dark. The streets were deep in mud, and the decorations left over from Lord Stanley's visit made a brave attempt at dignity in the drizzling rain. Three arches still remained—the lumber arch at the town hall, the evergreen arch at the St. Lawrence Hall hotel and the canoe trophy opposite Mr. Gordon's residence. But about one o'clock the clouds desisted, and from that till about five o'clock there was a steady inpour of visitors into the hall, through which admission was gained to the grounds in the rear where a track had been staked out, but with the rain and the tramping of horses it more resembled a canal than a race track. Judging by the receipts, there were at least a thousand visitors to the grounds, something extraordinary, considering the weather. And the visitors were well rewarded. The show inside the hall was excellent. The display of grains was good and that of roots and vegetables unusually so. There was a large exhibit of cheese, butter and domestic goods, bread, etc., The farmers' wives made a fine display of home-made carpets, flannels and allied goods. The ladies' department held a brilliant display of fancy goods. There was great variety, and a great deal of really artistic work, a most creditable display for a much more pretentious exhibition.

Mr. J. N. McCrearry, town, made a display of the superior Singer sewing machine. His collection included a beautiful drop cabinet and two fine family machines. Mr. G. A. Mitchell, town, showed a New Williams sewing machine and a Dominion organ. Mr. R. Chapin had on exhibition a fine ash bedroom set. Mr. James Brown and Mr. T. Gordon had each an exhibit of canoes. Mr. McWilliams, a buggy, waggon and road cart. Mr. David Smith, a waggon and a fine case of knives his own make. Mr. A. Cook, Peterborough, showed a collection of Percival ploughs. Mr. Thomas Nichol's, Lakefield, a scuffler and collection of ploughs made by the Peter Hamilton Agricultural Works.

The stock exhibit was very fair. There were a good many good horses and some very fine cattle and sheep. Taken altogether the exhibition was a great success. The number of entries fell a little short of last year but the financial success was very encouraging to the directors. The management of the show was systematic and smooth. The prize list will appear on Monday and in the weekly.

The Y.M.C.A. Work Defended.

To the Editor of the Examiner :

SIR.—Permit me space for a few lines. To-day while inviting a young man to attend the Saturday night meetings of the Y. M. C. A., his father, who was close by, and who is a professing Christian spoke up in an angry manner and said, I'd rather my boy would go to the taverns than attend that institution. Why, I asked? Because, he said, so and so belongs there who are not just the thing, and continuing he unmercifully handled with his unsanctified tongue, members of the association who did not agree with him in all points of the doctrine. I said there will be tares among the wheat right up to the end and the word of God says let them grow together until the harvest. The harvest is the end of the world. There will be hypocrites and tares in all our churches and Y. M C. Associations until the end, but because this is so, are we to turn our back on all Christian effort, and organization? Never. I imagine I see that father's boy come home some night, staggering into his home with flashing eyes, hot breath, and the once innocent, chubby face now demonized by the devil of strong drink. Where have you been? asks the father, and the words almost choke him. The answer comes between hiccoughs, down to the tavern. Why did you go there? why pa I heard you say you'd rather I would go there than to the Y. M. C. A. Heaven forgive the professing Christian father who will talk as this one did in the presence of his boy in such a manner about the only home in this town which is open every day in the week, from early morn to late at night, and which has alone for its object the allurement of young men from sin—the pool-rooms, the card-rooms, the bar-rooms and billiard-rooms, and win them, if possible, from the paths of vice and set their feet upon the solid rock Christ Jesus. Instead of discouraging this work, though imperfectly done, let the Christian public rally around this little refuge city, this noble little life-boat, which is picking up and saving unto eternal life young men almost every week. Young men, come, who have been deep down in the cesspool of sin and iniquity. Young men who have been almost beyond the reach of hope—who were caught in the treacherous, silent, powerful undercurrent of immorality and licentiousness, which is sweeping at a stupendous force right through the heart of this respectable town, carrying thousands of the youth to endless misery and despair—have been helped out of the mire and filth of sin and are now washed and made clean vessels, sanctified and meet for the Master's use. In our meetings they hear nothing about theology. All doctrinal questions and sectarian differences are left out and Jesus Christ alone is lifted up, with the result, pronounced by Himself, that young are drawn to Him while contemplating His amazing love, and they soon fall in love with Him, and are proving thereby the way to live henceforth. Young men come into our meeting who are struggling in the breakers of sin and iniquity. The floods of temptation are drowning them in despair and ruin. They come with earnest, anxious faces, and enquire, how can I be saved from the power of the devil? I want to be a good man—I am sick of sin, how can I get converted and have my sins forgiven? They are at once pointed to the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sins of the world. Feeling their lost condition and their soul-sickness, they are persuaded out of the Scriptures, aided and illumined by the Spirit of God, that Jesus loves them, and that they are the very boys that Jesus came to save, for "He says He came to seek and save that which was lost;" and very soon into the broken up fallow ground of their sin-sick hearts falls the good seed, the incorruptable seed of the Word of God, and watered with the tears of repentance and quickened by the Holy Ghost, and they are saved by Jesus Christ, the mighty one, the only one who can save the sinner. And He gets those young men into His almighty arms and carries them in His bosom; and as they step out in by faith His promises, they realize that the Gospel is the power of God unto salvation, and that just as Christ and His words abide in their hearts by faith, just to that extent do they overcome the wicked one. This is the kind of work that is being done by the Y.M.C.A. of our town. I speak of what I know and have seen. The earnest desire of the directors and the Association is, I am certain, that nothing unholy or unchristian shall be tolerated in the Y.M.C.A. May the Lord open the hearts of the people of this town to give their sympathy, prayers and money, unsolicited, for the work of snatching perchance their own boys as brands from the burning.

JOHN CARLISLE.

A Montrealer Returns.

Thoroughly Cured and Strengthened.

Henry M——— was, eighteen months ago, as strong and as sturdy a man for he age as ever lived in Montreal; indeed he was for several years one of Montreal's noted athletes, and for a period was champion as "heavy hammer" thrower.

Owing to very close office work which necessitated much mental exertion, and considerable worry and excitement, he became about a year ago, a changed man.

He was only twenty-eight years old, but as previously remarked, from great mental exertion, together with over-work, and close confinement, he looked more like a man of fifty.

He had for some time been confined to his home, and was regularly visited by his physician, a man of great ability and sterling honesty.

He often received visits from his many friends who were extremely solicitous regarding his condition. They strongly advised him to try a change of air, and recommended the Chateauguay district, where he had some friends.

After receiving his physician's permission he consented to try the change, and preparations were made for his departure the next week. Just the day before starting, he visited his physician, who it may be stated had been one of Henry's friends in their school days.

"Harry," said the doctor, "you are going off to the country in quite a serious condition, but if you take strict heed to my advice and counsel, combined with the pure country air, and change of scenery, all will be well, and you will return to your home and business a new man. I have done almost all for you thus far that a medical man can do, but from to day, in your case, I will adopt a new treatment, simple yet I believe effective. Your great trouble is Nervousness: your nervous organism is out of gear, you are irritable, despondent and morose; you also require more nature's balm—sound, restful sleep."

"Here, Harry, are three bottles which I was going to take to your house this evening, as I was aware that you were going to start to-morrow morning. It is a thorough nerve tonic and strengthener and well known to all physicians as possessing very valuable powers for the cure of insomnia, langour and weakness; it is known as "Paine's Celery Compound," and is everywhere a popular remedy. You must use it daily while you are away; it will not interfere with your out-door exercises in the country, and I am satisfied you will come back in a few weeks very much improved in mental vigor and bodily strength."

Henry ——— left next day for the country, and implicity followed his physician's orders. He found himself getting stronger from week to week, and his friends were amazed and pleased with his progress. He returned to his home and business after seven weeks, a healthy robust, and sun-browned man; thoroughly fitted for hard work, all through the agency of that great remedy—Paine's Celery Compound."

A Stalwart Goal-Keeper.

"Billy" Stirling, of London, Eng., in a Sketch.

Amateur Sport, a London journal, last week published a biography and portrait of Mr. W. Stirling, a famous English football player. The subject of the sketch is a brother of Mr. John Stirling, Principal of the South Ward school. Sport says:—

The subject of our sketch this week is Mr. "Billy" Stirling, the well known London Caledonian goal keeper. The modest youth was born some 28 years back, at Galashiels, Roxburghshire. Weight in football costume, slightly over twelve stone, and stands in his stockingless feet, 5 ft. 11 in.

When fourteen years of age he commenced his football career with the local Rugby Union Club, and then two years later he transferred his affections to the Melrose Rugby Football Club.

After being several times half killed, Stirling forsook his first love in favor of the Association game, and having crossed the Border, he in 1885 was leading his comrades of the United London Scottish on to victory.

After a time the United London Scottish ceased to exist, owing to their being far too little unity among the members thereof.

Stirling then joined the London Caledonians, and first played in goal for them in December, 1887. Since then he has always been found between the uprights. Like other mortals "Billy" has been known to make mistakes, but they, like angels' visits, are few and far between.

That he is looked upon as a sound custodian is evidenced: he is invariably first reserve for London Association matches, and has always played for the "Village" against Oxford and Cambridge, Sheffield and Herts, whilst for Middlesex he has been selected on several occasions, and also last season kept goal for the South of England v. Preston North End.

Stirling is very popular with his fellow-clubmen, and is a boon companion when off the field of strife.

A Combination of Interests Between These Two Great Lines Possible.

MONTREAL, Oct. 3, 1890.—From time to time rumors have gone forth that negotiations were on foot between the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways looking to a union of these two great trunk lines—or, if not a union, at least to closer relations, and, perhaps, a pooling of receipts. "Is there anything in it?" Is the question an interested public has asked? Thus far apparently there has not, but once more the attention of the public is conspicuously drawn to these roads, and the knowing ones assert that this time some united move is contemplated. The prolonged visit of Sir Joseph Tyler; his visit to the Northwest, and the proposed hostile legislation threatened by the United States towards these two great roads, give rise to various rumors, and the question is again asked, "What will be the result? Will they combine to protect their mutual interests?" Time will tell; but, in the meantime, there is one matter upon which these connected with these great railways unanimously agree, namely, that Nasal Balm is the only remedy for the effectual cure of cold in the head and catarrh, in all forms and stages. The following testimony from two well-known officials of these lines bear out the assertion: Mr. J. D. Kennedy, G.T.R. agent at Brockville, says:—"A short treatment with Nasal Balm radically removed all symptoms of my catarrh. The preparation is pleasant and easy to use, and gives immediate and permanent relief." Mr. Gordon Starr, C.P.R. agent at Brockville, says:—"For some years I was troubled with a severe case of catarrh, and was seldom free from catarrhal headache. I tried many remedies, but without avail. I procured a bottle of Nasal Balm, and in less than a week my headaches had disappeared, together with all other symptoms of catarrh. I believe Nasal Balm is a boon to all suffering from this terrible malady." Every sufferer from cold in the head or catarrh should at once procure a bottle of Nasal Balm. No other remedy can possibly take its place. For sale by all dealers, or sent, post paid, on receipt of price (50c. small size, and $1. large size bottles), by addressing FULFORD & Co., Brockville, Ont. 1d1w

PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES.

A New Yorker who Carried his Funeral Directions in his Pocket.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—William H. Spencer of this city dropped dead at the breakfast table in Chicago this morning. He had a card in his pocket giving his name, residence, and the address of his wife and relations and asking that they be informed in case he was taken ill. The card also bore these words: "I wish to be cremated when dead, not buried. Be sure I am dead first." Mr. Spencer went to Chicago last week to consider a business offer. He was under the impression that his death would be sudden from heart disease, hence the card.

Laing Awarded Two Years.

WHITBY, Oct. 3.—Ex-Treasurer Laing, who was arrested in Toronto recently, was brought up before P. M. Harper for the second stage of his trial yesterday. At the opening Mr. Dow for the prisoner pleaded guilty to two charges of embezzlement and the others were withdrawn. The magistrate then sentenced Laing to two years in Kingston Penitentiary. Laing was somewhat surprised, and stated if he had known the county was going to prosecute him he would have gone to the States. He thought if he assisted the guarantee company out of the hole as much as possible he would not be troubled.

The Great Trial Ended.

The jury met again at the usual hour this morning, when several witnesses were examined, also the testimony of several experts being taken in the matter, the verdict of jury, experts and public in general being that W. BIRCHALL'S CONFESSION.

HE MAKES A STATEMENT ABOUT THE MURDER.

He Merits the Punishment of Death, He Says He Did Not Commit the Crime—Who His Accomplishes Were—Some Startling Developments Expected.

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—A special to The Globe says in effect that Birchall has thrown light on the Benwell murder at last. The tragedy is no longer a great mystery. His confession, however, is only a partial one, and is not probably true. It is said the statement was made to the jail chaplain. Birchall acknowledges that he merits the sentence of death. He confesses directly that he took Benwell to Eastwood and beyond, in the direction of the swamp. He says he was not at the killing.

Birchall mixes Pickthall, the mysterious Englishman, up in the case. He says he was only an accessory. Further sensational developments are expected.

He may take this statement back in 24 hours, but at present adheres to it. He does not name the actual murderer.

Birchall says he lied to his wife and he relived her throughout. He connects the name of one Graham with the case, insinuating that Graham was his accomplice and the actual murderer.

The correspondent states that he has Mrs. Birchall's and her sister's authority for making public the statement. Birchall is weakening visibly and it is hoped that the whole story in detail may soon be known.

SUFFOCATED IN THE FLAMES.

A Mother and Her Daughter Suffocate Clasped in Each Other's Arms.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 5.—This morning at 1 o'clock the residence of ex-Alderman John McRae was discovered on fire. A neighbor ran across and tried to arouse the family. Wade he was knocking at the door a window in the upper story crashed and McRae fell to the ground senseless. When he recovered he began crying that his family were upstairs. The flames were quickly extinguished and the firemen entered the house. Mrs. McRae and the oldest daughter Rose, aged 18, were dead. The young daughters Gertha aged 16, and Charley, a year old, were still alive. The boy died this forenoon. The girl cannot recover. McRae is not dead, but is completely prostrated from grief. It is claimed that Lucas, a negro, suffocated and roused his wife. They groped in the smoke and darkness until McRae struck the window, through which he leaped or fell. The mother was with him but remembering her children went back to save them. When found the family were in a group with their arms about each other's neck.

DEATH OF MRS. GEN. BOOTH.

The Wife of the Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army No More.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The wife of General Booth, commander in-chief of the Salvation Army, died yesterday.

The deceased lady was the General's helpmeet in a deeper sense than the word is generally used. She was intensely attached to the Salvation Army and its work. In fact her laborers have been so abundant that her health has several times given way under the severe strain. She was a graceful, earnest and pathetic speaker. She worked to mean literary ability and her sympathetic gift in a high degree. She won friends for the Army in the highest ranks who would not have been secured by its equally enthusiastic but ultimately adequate class of the leaders of Salvation Army work were of her origin, notably the Peer Brigade, the work amongst fellow women girls' refuges and cognate missions. Mrs Booth traveled many thousands of miles and has spoken in all the principal cities of Great Britain and some of the European capitals. So widespread have the operations of the Army become that in all quarters of the globe thousands will regard the death of the general's wife as a personal loss. Her articles in The War Cry were highly prized.

THEY WERE TIRED OF LIFE.

The Different Routes Selected by Two World-be Suicides.

PARKDALE, Ont., Oct. 5.—C. W. Mason aged 20, who for the past year has been employed as bartender at the Bradley House committed suicide yesterday afternoon at the Lake just two miles west of town, by taking a dose of laudanum mixed in a cup of tea he has no friends or relations in this locality

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Oct. 5.—J. E. Timm aged 35, a cabinet maker from Erie, Pa., arrived in the city last evening and put up at the International Hotel. About an hour after his arrival he made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide with a small pocket knife in the wash room of the hotel. He managed to cut his windpipe and inflict a deep slash at the jugular vein before the proprietor arrived on the scene and took the weapon from him. Timm was taken to the hospital. He will recover.

A Brakeman Falls from a Train.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5.—As a C. P. R. passenger train was passing Walkerville yesterday T. W. Groom, a brakeman, was thrown from the train and badly injured. An hour later he was found in an unconscious condition by one of the section men and taken to the Crawford House, where it was found that Groom had sustained severe internal injuries and a couple of bad cuts on the head. He was taken to his home in St. Catharines.

Cardinal Hergenrother Dead.

ROME, Oct. 5.—Cardinal Hergenrother the Catholic historian and the champion of the Vatican decrees against Dr. Dollinger, died to-day at the Nonren Monastery.

The Dying King.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 5.—The condition of the King of Holland shows no signs of improvement. He is continually confined to bed. He suffers from insomnia and can take no nourishment but milk.

The King of Dahomey Signs a Treaty

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Admiral Cureville has telegraphed to the government that he has concluded a treaty of peace with the King of Dahomey and has raised the blockade. According to the terms of the treaty the King will respect the rights of the French as to the possession of Kotonau and will also recognize the French protectorate over Porto Novo.

Sixty Leper Convicts Escape

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Intelligence has been received here from Noumea, New Caledonia, that sixty leper convicts confined in the penal establishment there made their escape on June. The authorities have been unable to discover their whereabouts.

EVENTS ACROSS THE SEA.

GEN. BARDOVSKI AND 370 SOLDIERS DROWNED

Owing to the Collapse of a Bridge at Kovno, Russia A Number of Lives Lost near Toulon Through a Bursting Reservoir.

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—The Vossische Zeitung asserts that it has received positive confirmation of the report of the drowning of Gen. Bardovski and 370 soldiers through the collapse of a bridge at Kovno during the recent army manœuvres in Russia. The same journal adds that the Russian censor of telegrams has suppressed all messages in regard to the disaster.

Deaths Due to a Bursting Reservoir.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Through the bursting of a reservoir at Lalonde, near Toulon, to-day, five persons were killed and 30 injured.

An Active Volcano.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—Honolulu advices say the Volcano of Kilauea shows renewed activity. It is stated that a new lava lake has been formed and that the cones which sank some time ago rose fifty feet in one day.

Did Morley Distort the Facts.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Col. Caddell, the magistrate who presided at the hearing of the cases of Messrs. O'Brien and Dillon at Tipperary, is writing a long letter in which he charges Mr. Morley with having distorted the facts in his recent speech relative to the Tipperary affair.

Why He is Delaying.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A London correspondent says Senhor Ferrolo is delaying the definite formation of a new cabinet until he has exchanged views with Lord Salisbury, whose consent he desires to the arbitration of the whole question in dispute between England and Portugal.

Mother-of-Pearl Workers Starving.

VIENNA, Oct. 5.—Thousands of mother-of-pearl workers are camping in the Galizynberg forest near Vienna in a destitute condition. Several funds have been started for their relief.

Mellerish Feels Very Bad.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Mr Mellerish, whose connection with the Birchall case will be remembered, and who was engaged in the business of sending young Englishmen out to Canada, writes to the papers to complain of certain portions of counsel Osler's summing up, in which he says that the prisoner and Mellerish had been trying to dupe the pupils so. Mellerish characterizes these assertions as an outrageous slander of the Irish, and declares that he has letters from Col. Benwell exonerating him from blame. He then gives a detailed explanation.

To be Beneficial, it Should be Prompt.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Smallboy's cables. The appetite of the English public for murder trials was gratified in the Birchall case, the reports by cable sometimes exceeding two columns a day. The subject was followed by long editorials in all the leading papers, all agreeing with the judge and jury. What the people here do not understand is the length of the interval between the sentence and the execution. The English notion of just hanging, to be beneficial, should be prompt.

After Six Days of Wedded Life.

REGINA, Oct. 5.—A woman named Lida Freese, after being engaged for ten years to a man named Cumie, married him last Friday, and this morning when she awoke she found her husband dead, hanging by a rope in front of the bed. The deceased had pinned an open letter on the cushion, which said: "Nobody knows a woman until he is married to her."

A Peddler of State Secrets Confesses.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The mystery as to how various Vatican secrets have leaked out for some years past has been discovered. An emissary of the Papal palace who has just died confessed on his last hours that he had been in the habit of exchanging gossip with a relative and his confession was published by Premier Crispi as a sequel to the way many leaks of the Papal diary fire as well as occasionally an item of information as to the official actions of the Church have become public.

Cable Brevities.

The Scotch iron masters carried into effect yesterday their threat not to work and all iron workers except those in the counties of Durham and Northumberland are out.

The Queen has conferred the honor of knighthood upon Mr. Thomas Lipton, the well-known provision merchant. The municipal delegations to the princes with offers of costume work at the old world capitals have been received.

A Chicago syndicate has been formed for organizing the proposed world's fair.

SUICIDED ON HER WEDDING NIGHT.

Maud, Wife and a Corpse in a Single Night.

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—Last night Louise Eastinger aged 20, was married to George Wohlfing. The wedding was attended by a large number of friends. At 4 o'clock a.m. she and her husband went to their residence. She refused to allow him to enter her room and he was compelled to return to the residence of Mr. Gromer where the wedding had taken place to pass the remainder of the night. On again entering his house at 6 a.m. he was horrified to find his bride lying dead in bed. In the bed were some grains of a crystal substance that resembled watch has not yet been determined. She left no letter of explanation. Miss Eastinger had been in Redwood six weeks and was engaged to Wehrling only four weeks. It is conjectured that a former lover in Portland, Ore., proved false to her.

Object to Negro Watchmen

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 5.—The Houston & Texas Central Railway has employed negro watchmen in its yards for several years. About two weeks ago a demand was made for their removal, the places to be filled with whites. The demand was refused and the firemen all struck. Grand Master Wilkinson has been in the city trying to adjust matters amicably, but without avail, as the officials of the Central argue that if the colored men are good enough to sit in the Council of the Knights of Labor they are good enough to work with. Wilkinson has wired to all members of the executive of the Railway Federation to come here at once. The impression is that a general strike is imminent.

Captain Reprimanded, Engineer Dismissed.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 5.—The warship Comus arrived from Bermuda to-day. Captain Atkinson reports that a court martial was held at Bermuda concerning the stranding of H.M.S. Pylades at Jamaica, when the captain was reprimanded and the chief engineer dismissed from the ship.

A Druggist Held for Manslaughter.

HALIFAX, Oct. 1.—R. T. Stark, druggist of Digby, has been indicted for manslaughter in causing the death of Mrs Crozier by putting up a fatally poison in her of a harmless drug in dispensing a prescription.

M'KINLEY TARIFF BILL.

THE LONDON TIMES' OPINION OF THE ACT.

Immense Quantities of Goods Being Rushed into the United States by Importers—Premier Mercier's Views on the Situation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The most intense excitement prevailed in and about the custom house yesterday. Whole troops of importers and brokers kept coming and going. As 3 o'clock approached the numbers increased until finally the rotunda of the custom house was filled with a solid mass of humanity, who perspired, jostled, pushed and yelled. All carried large sums of money. They were on hand to enter goods that were expected to arrive late in the afternoon.

Each moment after 3 o'clock the excitement became greater. Those in the rotunda appeared to be going crazy. They shouted, yelled and made futile efforts to move about. The scene was not unlike that of the Stock Exchange. The clerks of the various divisions were swamped with business. Not for years has such a scene been enacted in the custom house. Every few minutes whole delegations of importers and brokers invaded the collector's office and importuned him to keep the custom house open till midnight. So great was the crowd that the office had to be kept open until midnight.

Sir John Macdonald's Speech in England.

[C. W. Stanley in N.Y. Sunday Tribune.]

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The Halifax speeches of Sir John Macdonald and of Sir John Thompson arouse less enthusiasm here than their authors probably expected. Canadian loyalty is appreciated in England in pretty strict proportion to its moderation. English ministers are keenly aware of the difficulties in which the Canadian policy not frequently involves them. Many public men would view the gravitation of Canada toward the United States with perfect equanimity. The two Sir Johns happen to discourse on a topic where for once they are in harmony with the English feeling of the moment. Yet even at such a moment the Daily News tells the Canadian Prime Minister that he is absurd, that he has overdone his loyalty, that his prophecy of a revolution in the United States is unworthy of the Prime Minister of a friendly nation, and that Mr. Blaine and his friends will simply conclude that Sir John is angry. Very mark that home rule zeal reached a point whence to the leading English home rule organ Canada seems a nation.

To Discriminate Against the United States.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A Vienna dispatch says that Germany and Austria have come to a substantial agreement to discriminate against exports from the United States, and that Italy, the third member of the Triple Alliance, will probably join the movement. In pursuance of this new policy Austria and Hungary have already relaxed the prohibition on Servian swine, and changes of a restrictive character are proposed in the existing tariff on products imported from the United States.

Both in Germany and Austria the industrial conditions have been much disturbed by the new American tariff bill, and many thousands of working people heretofore employed on goods for the American market are out of employment with winter close at hand. Thousands of these are preparing to emigrate, but the many who have not the means to do so cannot escape suffering. On the continent the prospect for the poorer classes this winter is very bad.

The Last of the Harvest.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—From many quarters come evidences of commercial disturbances more or less serious in their effects. In the Staffordshire Nail Works the employes have been subjected to a 10 per cent. reduction in wages and a similar blow has fallen upon the small army of laborers in the steel works of Barrow-in-Furness. The Yorkshire mining and manufacturing operators contemplate a considerable reduction in the number of their employes and have dispatched traveling agents in all directions to endeavor to secure new markets in place of the American. The button makers of Birmingham have sent agents to America to see if it would be prudent to attempt to retain their market in that country by establishing factories there in conjunction with the England house.

It is believed Leeds will almost entirely escape any ill effects from the new law. Her cloths are too highly finished and specialty in character to be much affected in demand by slight variations of price, or to be competed by American goods. Bradford, how ever, with her lower grades of stuffs will be hard hit and the worsted and coating industries of Dewsbury will be almost wiped out.

Fires Quenched in All Scotch Furnaces.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Fires have been quenched in all the Scotch iron furnaces, with the exception of a few furnaces which do not belong to the masters' combination and which manufacture iron for private purposes. The lockout will reduce the market supply 20,000 tons weekly.

Fined for Intimidation.

MELBOURNE, Oct. 5.—An agent of the Shearers' Union, tried on twenty nine charges of inducing men to break their agreements, was convicted and fined £355. Similar actions against other persons have been suspended pending an appeal by the agent. The case has made a great sensation among union men.

The Eight-Hour Day Impracticable.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The Dockmen's Congress adopted a resolution declaring it impracticable to limit the working day to eight hours. The delegates, however, were strongly in favor of a proposition that 48 hours of labor should constitute a week's work.

Mercier on McKinley.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Mr. Mercier, Premier of Quebec, in an interview here gave a doleful view of the effects of the McKinley bill on Canadian trade. "I should like to see international reciprocity in commercial matters," said Mercier. "Is there anything in the clauses of the new tariff law providing for reciprocity under certain conditions which can be made to apply to Canada? It should be inclined to think some of the clauses were capable of application in that direction if our Canadian Government would accept the conditions named. Canada has had a protective tariff many years now. It has, I believe, as a rule, prospered fairly well during this time, but in my judgment a great mistake was made in not securing at the beginning an equitable reciprocity with the United States. This idea of trying to rigidly separate commercial relations of nations providentially designed to trade with each other is fundamentally wrong and can only work mischief."

The London Times on the McKinley Bill

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The Times of to-day says: The McKinley tariff is a demonstration of hostility against this country hardly less decided than the Berlin and Milan decrees of Napoleon, and no reason can be assigned for it except a desire on the part of the politicians in power to inflict injury on British interests. The Times, however, does not favor retaliatory measures against this entirely unprovoked act of unfriendliness."

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Daily News says: The European expectation of a revolt among the American farmers is not the artificial dearness caused by the tariff has never been realized. It is always threatened but always postponed. The idea that the new American tariff is a blow at Canadian independence is absurd as the talk of excited people here, who hysterically declare that it is intended as an attack upon England. Few signs yet exist that Americans are awaking to the unwisdom of high tariff.

The Austrian Press Angry.

VIENNA, Oct. 5.—The Austrian newspapers are full of angry articles on the new American tariff law, which receives more downright abuse than general criticism.

The Government is trying to allay the excitement over the measure. The Minister of Commerce, addressing a deputation, frankly declared he was unable to exercise pressure in Washington because American imports into Austria were so small, but he promised to try to induce America to grant facilities for the mother of pearl industry.

The Cathedral Suicide Cremated.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The body of the man Easton who shot himself in St. Paul's Cathedral last Sunday was cremated at Woking Saturday. Mr. Forder, secretary of the Secular Society, who conducted the funeral, read a portion of Bryant's Thanatopsis instead of the regular service.

The Cholera in Spain.

MADRID, Oct. 5.—Cholera is believed to have broken out in Barcelona, where five suspected cases have been reported, two of which have proved fatal.

UNEASY LIES THE HEAD

THE TERROR-STRICKEN AND REVENGEFUL CZAR.

Barbarous Punishment Meted to the Unfortunates Suspected of Complicity in the Recent Train-Wrecking Attempt Upon His Life

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Advices from Russia represent the Czar as taking new precautions for the protection of his person. None except Cabinet Ministers are admitted to an audience without the presence of an officer of the guard, and the eastern custom of tasting food before it was placed on the sovereign's table has been revived after having been in disuse since the days of Emperor Paul. The Russian autocrat seems suspicious of everyone around him, and even his favorite advisers are said to dread interviews with him. The recent attempt to wreck the train on which he was supposed to be riding has greatly added to the Czar's terror and moroseness and he is known to have given orders for the immediate deportation to Siberia of the large number of persons arrested on suspicion of having been connected with the act. Among these unfortunates are two sentinels whose duty it was to guard the part of the line where the obstruction was placed. They were sentenced by court martial to be hanged, but they have had their doom commuted to a lingering death in the mines. Three peasants who were arrested near the spot have been terribly knouted, one of them fatally, although there is said to be no ground whatever to suppose them guilty of any connection with the train-wrecking. The two others, half dead, had their lives spared for the time in order that a confession might be extorted from them. The wife of the peasant who died under the knout went mad when she heard of his fate. The further statement is made that Nihilists are active and that the friends of the victims of Siberian massacres do not mean they shall go unavenged.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 5.—Thirty arrests have been made in connection with a workman's political movement. The prisoners have been secretly examined by the police department. In the interior others have been arrested charged with the manufacture of bombs.

Silver Wedding of the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 5.—The court officials are preparing a program for a national celebration of the silver wedding of the Czar, Nov 9, 1891.

Russia's Friendly Overtures to Turkey.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 5.—Russia is making friendly overtures toward the Porte and has thereby aroused more anxiety at Vienna than a hostile invasion of Turkey would have done. What there is in these overtures is not clear, but they are being made, and the purpose apparently is to detract the Sultan from his growing intimacy with Bulgaria by arousing his apprehensions of Bulgarian power and ambition. The development of Bulgaria as a political factor is surprising, and the principality is now in the field as a rival of Greece for the control and ultimate annexation of Macedonia, with the signs decidedly in favor of Bulgaria.

OTHER THAN COMMONPLACE.

One Day's Peculiar Happenings in Various Walks of Life.

CANTON, O., Oct. 5.—Mrs. Charles Brummer gave birth to triplets here to-day. The infants are of a diminutive size, but are strong and healthy.

Killed by Sauerkraut.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Fred. Marback, East Huntington-street, died suddenly yesterday. Two physicians who were summoned state that all the symptoms of strychnia poisoning were visible. The coroner's physician held an autopsy yesterday afternoon and says he found no poison in the stomach, but found raw sauerkraut and stomach worms, which caused convulsions and death.

Poisoned by a Caterpillar's Bite.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 5.—Charles Swatzbaugh, a lad near Bowlersville, is in a critical condition from the bite of a caterpillar. The worm bit him two days ago while he was asleep in an orchard, and his right arm is swollen to three times its normal size and may have to be amputated. Local surgeons say that a case of poisoning from the bite of a caterpillar has been heretofore unknown in surgical history.

Severed Hands Clasped Together.

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Oct. 5.—An excursion train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad struck and killed two men near Delano yesterday. When their bodies were picked up it was evident they had become frenzied-stricken and in desperation clasped each other in a deadly embrace. One arm of each was wound about the body of his companion and the other hands were found a short distance away clasped together. The men were entire strangers in the vicinity and their bodies have not been identified.

Killed by Her Sister.

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 5.—An accident happened at Henry Fitzpatrick's in the 10th concession, Sandwich East, resulting in the death of one of his children, age 16 months. In company with an elder sister the child was playing in the barn, and the elder sister, who was on the mow, allowed the fork to slip, and going down the first, struck the little one on the head, one of the tines penetrating the brain to a depth of three inches. The child only lived a few minutes.

Fatally Injured at 91.

DRESDEN, Oct. 5.—Mr. Neil Campbell of Wallaceburg, while visiting her son here, fell from the top of a staircase, a day or two ago, having missed her footing. She received several deep wounds on the head. Mrs. Campbell is nearly 91 years of age, and her recovery is doubtful.

Swallowed a Quarter.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—A 2-cent piece nearly caused the death of 5-year-old Gertie McQuigg of No. 245 West Somerset-street last evening. She picked up a a silver quarter, and put it in her mouth, when it slipped down her throat, and she was nearly strangled when discovered. The child was taken to St. Mary's Hospital and was black in the face when it arrived there. Every available method was tried to dislodge the coin, but it was at last found necessary to make a slit in her windpipe, when the coin was removed.

A 75 Pound Baby.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—At Central Park last evening "Miss Murphy," a dainty little hippopotamus, presented her 2 ½ ton consort Caliph with a 75 lb. baby.

A Somnambulistic Preacher.

READING, Pa., Oct. 5.—The alleged sensational somnambulistic preaching of Rev. David Kauffman in Lancaster county continues to attract wide-spread attention. Rev. Kauffman's mode of preaching is very peculiar. He lies down, and he says goes to sleep. As soon as he is in deep slumber he arises and preaches for several hours both in English and German. When he has finished he appears to awake, and he says he has no recollection of what he preached.

A movement is on foot in Scotland to build a memorial to William Wallace at Wallace Stone at a point where the patriot is supposed to have viewed the approach of the English army to the battlefield of Falkirk.

Should Do as the Romans Do

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—The editor of The Mayence Volks Zeitung has been arrested for ridiculing the celebration of the battle of Sedan and eulogizing France.

Austrian-German Trade.

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—The North German Gazette, commenting on the Kaiser's reception in Austria, gives a hint which appears to confirm the renewed rumors concerning a new commercial treaty with Austria.

Reciprocal Trade Relations With Cuba

MADRID, Oct. 5.—A rumor is current here that the Spanish Government intend to enter into negotiations with the United States for reciprocal concessions touching Cuban and American products. It is also reported that the Government has instructed its agents abroad to notify the Home authorities of any measures that may be taken by foreign governments with respects to the U.S. tariff law.

The Constitution Will Be Revised.

BERNE, Oct. 5.—The revolutionary party in the canton of Vicino won a victory on the question of a revision of the constitution. The popular vote shows 11,928 for and 11,88 against revision.

AS THE
Cold Weather
CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do no need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

NEWS OF THE LABOR WORLD.

One Thousand Employes of Armstrong's Shipyard Strike.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—One thousand men at Armstrong's shipyard have struck as a protest against the employment of strangers to replace the joiners on strike.

A Short-lived Strike.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—All the freight conductors and brakemen on the Illinois Central Railway between this city and Champaign, about 500 in number, struck last night demanding the reinstatement of 20 of their number who were discharged yesterday. To-day the strikers asked the co-operation of the engineers and firemen. This was refused, and the strikers seeing their case was hopeless decided to return to work.

Silk Ribbon Weavers Strike.

PATERSON, N.J., Oct. 3.—A reduction of 40 per cent. was ordered to-day in the wages of the ribbon weavers of Johnston, Cowlin & Co., one of the largest silk ribbon firms in the city. One hundred and thirty weavers immediately struck. They afterwards appointed a committee to confer with the superintendent and endeavor to effect a compromise. No satisfactory terms could be agreed upon and a protracted strike is probable. Silverman & Co., another large firm, ordered a 25 per cent. reduction to-day, but the weavers remained at their looms. General all round reductions are expected in several other mills and operatives are greatly agitated.

The Brick Famine Ended.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The New York and New Jersey Brickmakers' Association to-day resolved that as the walking delegates had raised the boycott upon the four yards at Weehawken Point, the association would resume the curtailment of the shipment of brick to the city. There are now afloat on the Hudson and New Jersey waters 50 barges, each containing on an average 200,000 brick of various grades, which upon their arrival here and at Brooklyn will end the brick famine hereabouts. A committee was appointed on incorporating the association.

The Old Reliable.

In these days of humbug it is a relief to hear of something that can be depended upon. Wilson's Wild Cherry has been tested as a remedy for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs, for nearly twenty years with such success as to earn for itself the title of The Old Reliable cure for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis and other affections of the respiratory system. See that you get the genuine in white wrappers. Sold by all druggists. dw

Oft in Peril.

LIVES of children are often endangered by sudden and violent attacks of cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentry and bowel complaints. A reasonable and certain precaution is to keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry always at hand. 2w40-d

The Stump Fence.

I don't know who made the stump fence. It was there when I got the property, and as the deeds show about twenty removes I cannot blame it upon any one of the possessors in particular nor do I need to, for it is a never-ending source of pleasure to me. The hands that made it are probably now among the silent ones under the waving grass in the unkempt churchyard which I can see from here on the rise of the hill over beyond the concession line. I fancy I see the rounded shoulders and the gnarled hand of those that patiently, laboriously grubbed these stumps from these now level and tractable fields, and set them here in row to mark the boundary of the farm lane, interlocking them so that swine could not burrow under nor kine break through—work hard old fellows who never knew a joy save that which toil may bring. It is ugly, crude and uncouth, this stump fence, but what unremitting effort it shows, standing here in mute testimony to the primitive ways of those who have gone out of a world they would not now know. I notice that the stumps are all laid the same way, with the ragged roots overlapping, and there is method in it all. I have seen the hounds thrown off and the huntsmen baffled by this barrier, so rude and common place, and I have often thought that riflemen behind such a breastwork could present a stubborn front to an assailing foe, but its ways of peace and sedate quiet is more suited to its pastoral presence than the bullets of the huntsmen or the rattle of musketry. The roots are imbedded in the earth and the moss of ages clings to the damper among them, and some are decked with frog-green lichens fondly rooted in their sun-greyed sides. Some of them are charred by fire and the marks of the borer, which follows the forest fire as one of the instruments of decay, tell me that the tree was burned standing and that the stem lay sometime afield. Under the fence's sheltering sides raspberry bushes struggle along, here and there overtopped by scrub larch and lozel but how they got here Nature alone can tell. Once in the early spring I found a narcissus hiding its chaste loveliness under the shadow of a comforted stump over there, where some wayfaring bird, perhaps, had dropped the ripened seed. All through the season wild flowers come up amid the tangle and try to hide the scarred roots. In the early months violets, and down at the creek where the road dips over the hill, cowslips mingled and the wild lily of the valley nodded its head in the breeze, while convolvuli spread their bell-shaped blooms, whatever their tiny tendrils can hit them to the light. In under the dark arches of the overhanging roots wrens live, and as I walk along they fly before darting in and out with a shrill twitter, which says plainly: "Stop, stop." I rap upon a root with my staff and they flee away while at the same time a ground-squirrel carries from beneath and, following a devious path known to his littleness alone reappear further down the lane, contemplating me from some eminence and chattering in amazing volubility. The watching crow perches upon a commanding point of this rude chevaux de frise, while his brethren are afield feasting on the newly planted corn, and at his coarse warning croak when danger appears they lift themselves on lazy wing and join him on his perch, standing like dusky sentinels on the outskirts of the field of foray waiting for the signal to renew the havoc. Meadow larks come up there too, from the pastures and disport themselves along the flanking grass and in the evenings wayward robins rest there and fill the lane with plaintive signals to their mates. When the grain is in the ear and when it rustles like silk as it bends to the ripening breeze, the catbird mews mysteriously in the half-hidden fence, and later, when the fields are in stubble, yellow and grey, along the stumps the feathered innocents gather to say their farewells before they rise on wing for their long flight south. A man of modern improvements has said to me, O, stump fence, that your usefulness is gone and that you are no longer considered serviceable, and, further, that he will supersede you with a mud-board structure for a small consideration. Out upon him. We will not disturb you. There you will stand, sheltering that which is simple, gentle and beautiful until civic waste reduces you to the dust from which you sprung. T. A. GREGG.

The Guerdon.

Lily and rose in my garden,
Why are you nodding at me?
Cannot I pass to my lover
But you are watching to see?

Lily and rose—in sweet pity,
Do not keep barring my way!
I was so happy at starting—
Can't I be happy alway?

Jealous rose, clinging and clasping,
Think you such bonds are secure?
Painful may be—but not lasting.
Love hath taught how to endure.

Lily and rose, you are jealous.
Heard you my love, I suppose,
Call me "Of lilies the tallest,
Roses, the sweetest blush rose."

Lily and rose, don't be angry.
Spare this one lover to me;
You have so many—I've watched them,
Butterflies, birds and a bee.

If you'll release me—as guerdon
Promise I just at the least—
Morrow is fixed for my bridal,
You shall be plucked for the feast!

Two Famous Yachtswomen.

A London special to the Philadelphia Telegraph of August 17 says: There are two famous yachtswomen at Cowes, Mrs. Ratsey Reed and her sister, Miss Cox, who both sail their own boats. The former lady's is called the "Troublesome" and the latter's the "Miss." No sort of weather seems to make any difference to them and they frequently carry off the prize. On fine days they wear blue serge frocks and yachting coats and a man-o'-war's cap, but "when the breezes blow" one sees them in a stout pea jacket and tight-fitting racing cap. Both ladies are good looking, with slight, graceful figures.

A SILENT DRAMA.

Singular Dramatic Performance Scene in Paris

A singular performance is to be seen just now in Paris at the Bouffes Parisiens Theatre, near the great boulevards, says the London Daily News. It is a little domestic drama, partly comic and partly pathetic, enacted entirely in pantomime.

The story is a sort of modern version of the prodigal son. The father and son are Pierrot père and Pierrot fils, both appearing with the whitened face of the old French mimes.

In the first scene one sees the father and Mrs. Pierrot at dinner. They are evidently comfortable, well-to-do people, and they manage to convey to the spectator the fact that if they have any anxiety at all it is simply on account of the rather flighty disposition of their son.

Presently they fall asleep, and by the dim light of the expiring lamp one sees Pierrot fils creep in on tiptoe and steal from an escritoire a large sum of money. With this money he is seen in the second act leading a life of riot and dissipation, until ill-luck pursues him at the card table, and duns become clamorous. Then the scene changes again.

The old couple are once more at their dinner. They sit in moody silence, for their is a third place at the table vacant. Pierrot takes up the wine-bottle mechanically and is just going to fill the glass opposite the place where his son should be sitting when his wife gently arrest his hand.

The old lady weeps silently and Pierrot pushes away his food from him. He can eat no more that day. All this is translated into action by the performers with consummate art, and is really full of pathetic action, as is also Pierrot's angerat return and his son's his eventful reconciliation with him.

Between the two wings of the castle of Sant'onetta, two miles out from Milan, the report of a pistol is repeated sixty times; a single musical instrument produces the effect of a full orchestra.

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit This Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmanship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be big business awaiting him this visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterboough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October. dw

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,812 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $316,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,684,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,823	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,337	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,320	10.66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	20 19
London Life	1,944,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company above under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 16.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

ORIFICIAL SURGERY

Offers Hope to the Afflicted and Distressed.

Diseases Cured Without Medicine by the New (Orificial Surgical) Treatment.

DR. WM. E. BESSEY

Consulting Physician, Orificial Surgeon, and Specialist,

102 KING ST. WEST, TORONTO,

Will visit PETERBOROUGH every Fourth Saturday at the Snowden House. (Next visit October 11th.)

Offers a sure and certain cure to those suffering from PILES and other rectal diseases; Womb, Kidney, Bladder and Sexual Troubles; Heart Weakness and Imperfect Circulation; Dyspepsia and Imperfect Nutrition; Lung Troubles, Asthma, Bronchitis and Imperfect Respiration, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Sciatica and Rheumatism. In short, Orificial Surgery affords a means of relief to all those suffering from Caronic, Nervous and Organic diseases which medicine has failed to cure.

But it will not cure Constitutional Troubles, such as Physical Deformities, Syphilis, Cancer, Scrofula or Consumption in an advanced stage. Such need not apply, but the list of troubles which may be relieved by Orificial work is too long to mention here. If you doubt it—try it—and watch the marvellous effects produced. The latest advance in scientific medicine—no miraculous cures promised—no unreasonable things attempted.

Every Fourth Saturday at the Snowden House—Consultation Free. dw

THE STREETS OF PETERBOROUGH.

If the condition of the public streets and highways of a town are, as claimed by many writers, an index of the degree of its civilization, it must be admitted that Peterborough is not so high in the scale as it might be. We are accustomed to regard Peterborough as "no mean town" in general, but there are some details upon which it is hardly safe to invite critical scrutiny. It is our boast that this town has the best natural streets in the Province. Whilst this may be the case, it is painfully apparent to those who have to do much driving that this natural goodness is not the thing for heavy and continuous traffic. With the advent of wet weather a have our streets, over which heavy traffi takes place, as genuine sloughs of despond. And this condition is not due to parsimonious expenditure. Every year the expenditure on our streets is very large, and this least captious cannot resist the reflection that in the way of results full value is not received for this expenditure. In the first place there is no sufficient road bed prepared, and the street metal applied to the surface is notoriously unsuitable. As the EXAMINER has often had occasion to remark, our usual mode of street treatment consists of putting on a certain amount of mud in the summer and scraping it off the next spring. But with the best system of street construction good results cannot be expected without proper drainage, and drainage depends on a proper system of sewers. In this respect Peterborough is by no means ahead of the age, and it is time the situation should be looked squarely in the face. We must have sewerage or we shall lose that lead in the race of progress that we now hold. If we had begun to practically deal with the question a few years ago we should have now had several streets in a well drained condition. We may become an overgrown town, but we shall never become a creditable city without the conditions that go to make a first-rate city. We must have first-class streets, and these we cannot have without efficient sewerage, and this we cannot have without making a beginning, and to make a beginning, our civic authorities must wake up and face the situation boldly and promptly.

There is no point gained and no wisdom shown in the council postponing dealing with this matter year after year. This work must be done, and it should be attacked in a business spirit. If years ago the matter of block paving and sewerage had been attended to and but one block done a year, the aggregate result would have been considerable without any appreciable addition to the yearly expenditure. If we can't afford to make one grand job of the undertaking we must do it year by year. The drainage of one street a year, excepting that selected for a trunk sewer, is not a very heavy matter, and paving a block or two a season would not constitute a burden. But something must be done a beginning must be made and immediately or valuable time will be lost. The subject is one that should engage the immediate attention of the authorities, with a view of taking some immediate practical action.

Still Other Veterans.

On Saturday afternoon the EXAMINER was favored with a visit from two men, veterans of '37, who called to report for pensions: Mr. John Bennett, of Otonabee, in '37 entered for service, and the march was from the 12th con. of Cavan to Toronto. He was under Col. Boulton, and acted as surgeon for the time he was in service. As he drew only a British shilling per day he thinks a substantial pension would balance the respective accounts of service and reward. Mr. Richard Hiles, at present of town, was another to report for pension. He is now living in town, but enlisted in Toronto, and under Col. Hill did frontier duty with a force of 600 men, who performed the march from Niagara to Fort Malden, in the extreme west of Canada.

Mark Street Methodists

Celebrate Their Anniversary—Sermons by Rev. Wm. Burns President of Conference.

Another mile stone has been passed in the history of the Mark street Methodist church, Ashburnham. The cycle of time has brought around again the anniversary, with the special events which designate the close of a most successful and prosperous church year. Since the last anniversary they have, in the ordinary course of things, been a number of changes in the Mark street church and its congregation. Under the benevolent and energetic pastorate of Rev. Mr. Wilson the little church has prospered amazingly well and kept pace with its more pretentious sisters in the work of advancing the cause of Christ. Here indeed is illustrated the aptness of the Psalmist's song, that "out of the mouths of babes and sucklings hast Thou ordained strength." The Mark street church is but a babe in comparison with some of the large churches around it, but there is no estimating its potency for good in the community. The congregation has increased in the past twelve months, and although a few familiar faces have been removed by the hand of death, others have stepped into the breach, and the Christian ranks are marching on to victory, unserried and undaunted. The building, too, has been improved in several ways; but the day is not far distant when the Mark street Methodists will require additional accommodation for their increasing numbers.

The anniversary services on Sunday were conducted by Rev. Wm. Burns, of Millbrook, President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, who preached morning and evening and addressed a mass meeting of children at the Sunday school in the afternoon. Rev. Mr. Burns' addresses upon all three occasions were of the plain, practical, Gospel character, full of stirring appeals to the sinner and radiant with the light of divine love which the preacher forcibly and earnestly urged upon the acceptance of his hearers. In the morning his text was Psalm cxviii. 22, 23:—"The stone which the builders refused is become the head stone of the corner," from which he placed before the congregation a picture of Christ the rejected of the people, and Christ the exalted of God; and in the evening, John, i, 46:—"Come and see." His address to the children in the afternoon, when Mr. H. S. Armstrong, superintendent, conducted the meeting, was also of an interesting and instructive nature.

Large congregations attended both morning and evening, the seating capacity of the edifice being taxed to the uttermost.

An admirable feature of the services was the special music rendered by the choir. The manner of rendering the anthems evinced careful selection of the music and diligent practice. The Mark Street Church choir boasts of some very fair voices and a good chorus.

The anniversary will be concluded to-night by a grand tea to be served by the ladies of the congregation in the old town hall, from half past five to eight o'clock, at which hour the lecture by Rev. Geo. Weber will begin in the new town hall. Rev. Mr. Weber is known to quite a few in Peterborough, and his subject, "The age in which we live," is one of importance and interest, which he knows well how to handle.

Church Chimes.

A successful mission was closed at St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday. The services have been well attended throughout the past week.

In the absence of Rev. Mr. Locke, who was away from town preaching anniversary sermons, the pulpit of the George Street Church was occupied Sunday by Rev. Mr. Orser and Rev. Mr. Davis.

The annual educational sermons of the George and Charlotte street Methodist churches will be preached next Sunday. Rev. D. Potts will be one of the speakers.

Rev. A. C. Wilson occupied Rev. Mr. Burns' pulpit in Millbrook Sunday.

THE FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Annual Meeting of the West Riding Institute.

An Able Estimate of the Crops by the President—The Secretary's Report of The Past Year's Operations—Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute was held Saturday afternoon. There was but a small attendance. Mr. Dawson Kennedy, President, occupied the chair. There were present Messrs. Hugh Davidson, J. Stothart, T. E. Bell, H. C. Garbutt and John A. Davidson, Secretary.

THE PRESIDENT, in opening, regretted the small attendance, as it was to the advantage of farmers to take an interest in the Institute. There was yet lots to learn, as was evidenced by the condition of the crops in this county. Mr. Kennedy said he had made a run through the county and had gained a reliable estimate of the crops, not from the farmers, but from the threshers, who certainly ought to know better than anyone else. The result of Mr. Kennedy's enquiries had been that he had learned that the crops were not half what they should be, though this had been a fair all round year.

In SMITH, supposed to be one of the best townships in this county and certainly one giving the largest return in wheat and barley, the average product of fall wheat would be 22 bushels, which was placing it at a high figure. Spring wheat would yield only 12 bushels, which was no return at all. This was an unfavourable year for barley, which produced only 18 bushels per acre. Peas were 25 bushels, which was rather above the average. Oats were placed at 30 bushels an acre.

DUMMER.—Fall wheat 25 bushels, exceptionally good; barley 20, peas 25, oats 35. Hay unusually good crop. Rye, a crop grown only in this township, yielded 15 bushels.

ENNISMORE.—Fall wheat 22, spring 18, barley 18, peas 25, oats 35.

NORTH MONAGHAN.—Fall wheat 20, spring wheat 11, barley 15, peas 22, oats 25. Potatoes 150 bushels. Hay good. Straw only ½ of last year, the same as all over the county.

Otonabee had some exceptionally good crops, but others were the reverse, so that all round the average was low. Fall wheat 20 bush., spring wheat 10 bush., barley 14 bush., peas 20 bush., oats 25 bush. Roots full average and hay abundant crop.

ASPHODEL.—Fall wheat 20, spring wheat 10, barley 12, peas 20, oats 25, hay 2 tons to acre. Roots full average.

With these figures, said Mr. Kennedy, was not there room for an improvement, and should not farmers take greater interest in these Institutes? In his opinion farmers were tilling too much land. Mr. Kennedy believed that less land could be cultivated with better results. The Farmers' Institutes were one of the means of diffusing agricultural knowledge, but sufficient interest was not taken in them. Some men, successful farmers, refuse to attend and give any information as to the cause of their success. They have succeeded and don't care to let any one know how they did it; if they only knew it, it was to their interest to publish all the knowledge they possessed and increase the general good.

THE DOINGS OF A YEAR.

The secretary then read his report as follows: Mr. President, officers and members, in submitting my annual report for the year ending 30th June, 1890, I regret that so few take an interest in our work. I have sent to the Department of agricul ure a concise and accurate statement of the addresses and papers presented at our meetings. Our first meeting was held in the Peterborough council chamber, Jan. 10th and 11th, we had present with us Messrs. J. J. Hobson, chairman of the College Board; J. Rayner, B.A., and Jas. Carll, representative of the Horticultural Association. The subjects discussed were:—summer fallowing vs hoed crops; the farmer's orchard; manures; feeding and breeding of cattle; parasite life on the farm; the farmer's garden; and also a paper on the horse by Mr. Birdsall.

On the evening of the first day Mr. Rayner addressed the meeting, taking for his subject, the Ontario Agricultural College. He was followed by Mr. Hobson on Agricultural Depression. I am very sorry to have to state that the evening meeting was poorly attended.

At a meeting of the directors March 15th, held in Peterborough, it was decided to hold the next meeting at Lakefield March 27th. At this meeting the subjects taken up for discussion were:—The two-rowed barley question; a paper on the apiary by Jas. Baptie, of Springville; butter and cheesemaking; and farmers' boarding mills. These various subjects brought out a lively discussion, and the following resolution was passed unanimously, on tax exemptions:—That all kinds of real estate (whether religious or secular) should be made to bear a fair share of the burden of taxation. This meeting was decidedly an improvement, as it was much better attended and a greater interest was shown in the work. I would like to see more of the farmers become members of the Institute (particularly farmers' sons). Our membership last year was 61. It should be far greater.

I might say that the subjects taken up for discussion are read through the newspapers (thanks to the press), and a great many receive information in this way, although they do not attend our meetings. I feel sorry that so few avail themselves of the opportunity presented to them through our Institute meetings, as I consider this the farmers' school, and it should be better attended.

On the 12th of June a union picnic was held at Idyl Wild, of East and West Peterborough Institutes. A large number availed themselves of this outing and had a delightful sail and good time. Everything passed off pleasantly.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN A. DAVIDSON,
Secretary.

SOME COMMENTS.

Referring to the picnic mentioned in the address, Mr. ED. H DAVIDSON remarked that there was some dissatisfaction among the ladies about the disorderly conduct of some town roughs who made themselves obnoxious. He feared the ladies would not patronize the excursion so well another year.

The PRESIDENT remarked that though there was some trouble in that way it could not very well be helped. The excursion had been very successful.

Mr. STOTHART gave as a reason for the presence of so many rowdies on the excursion, that a large factory in town was shut down that day, and the employees took in the excursion for a day's fun. This would not likely occur again.

THE FINANCES.

Mr. STOTHART, treasurer, presented his annual report, which showed a balance on hand of $89.30, against which there was only a small account of $6 85. On Mr. T. E. Bell's suggestion, it was decided to appoint auditors for future years, and to look over the books from the beginning. The report was adopted.

THE OFFICE BEARERS.

The officers were then elected as follows:

PRESIDENT—Dawson Kennedy (re-elected by acclamation).

VICE PRESIDENT—Hugh Davidson.

SECRETARY—John A. Davidson (re-elected).

TREASURER—Jno. Stothart.

AUDITORS—Geo. E. Elliott, appointed by the Institute; another to be subsequently appointed by the Directors.

DELEGATES TO CENTRAL INSTITUTE—The President and Secretary.

DIRECTORS—H. C. Garbutt, G. J. Galvin, Geo. Hilliard, M. E. Sanderson, Wm. Rutherford, Wm. Collins, T. E. Bell, R. H. Braden and Jos. Barnard.

Before the meeting adjourned the arrangement of meetings was talked of, and the Secretary stated that he had written for assistance of College Professors.

The Farley Fracas.

Who is the Injured Party in the Case?—Farley Claims He Acted in Self-Defence.

Before Police Magistrate Edmison at the court house this morning, James Farley was charged that he "did assault, beat and ill-treat" his wife on Thursday last. The old man, pale, haggard and trembling, was brought from the gaol into court and asked to plead to the charge.

"May I be allowed to spake, mister?" asked the prisoner.

The magistrate said he would hear what he had to say.

"Mister," continued the old man, "I was bate, and sore bate, too, and I just took the stick from them. They are always batin' me, and you know I was up to your office twice to see about them. That girl (pointing to Nellie Higgins) and my wife bate me sore. If you will give me leave to talk I'll tell you how the whole thing transacted. If I get out of this I'll get away and never drink liquor nor go near them again."

"They say that you struck your wife a hard blow?"

"Yes, mister, but they were batin me."

"Who was beating you—your wife?"

"Yes sir; she and that girl there bate me with the stick and the little boy came up with his handsful of stones to throw at me; and I took the stick from her, and just gave her a little rap. I didn't intend to do no harm."

"You say then, you acted in self-defence?"

"Yes sir, I was being bate by them all and abused dreadful."

Farley then proceeded to relate the circumstance which led up to the assault. He came home Wednesday, and found Nelly Higgins (Mrs. Farley's daughter) at the house. They were drinking beer, so he took some too. He gave them a dollar and a half and they bought more beer. That night they had a carousal, but the next day everything was quiet when he went and found his wife lying on the floor drunk. Then both women "went at him" and beat him. Farley offered to substantiate his words by exhibiting the many bruises which he said were hidden by his clothes.

Farley wished to be let off this time and he would not go near "them" again, nor drink any more.

Nelly Higgins was called, and stated that her mother was not able to be out of bed yet. The witness contradicted Farley in almost every particular, swore there was no beer in the house till he brought it; that he got drunk and abused the women by calling them names and beating them; and that on Thursday he smashed all the dinner dishes and struck Mrs. Farley while they were doing nothing to provoke him. Miss Nelly denied the old man's insinuation that she drank, or her mother either. They were not drunk at all, she said, and it was Farley himself who was responsible for the "racket."

In the absence of the principal witness, Mrs. Farley, the case was adjourned till Wednesday.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The young men's meeting Saturday evening was the largest we have ever had for some time. Mr. W. Anderson spoke on the turning point in David's life, which found a response in many hearts. Others followed and much blessing resulted in the after meeting. We are realizing "It is more blessed to give than receive."

Consecration meeting, led by Mr. Albert Hamilton Sabbath morning, was a season of great joy and refreshing to all present.

The earnest and impressive addresses of Messrs. Cunningham and Richardson were listened to by the immense crowd with interest and we trust profit at the open air service in the Central Park. The Y.M.C.A. band was out in force and led the singing very acceptably.

The Gospel and song service last evening was addressed by Rev. P. C. Parker, whose address was full of warning to the Christian and unsaved, and made a marked impression on the large audience which crowded the hall. We praise God for these tokens of favour and blessing.

Was Devotedly Attached to Her But a Voice Said "Kill Her."

Paris, Oct. 6.—A drama of love and murder has just been enacted at Le Vesay. The story begins some time ago, when a hand some Russ fell in love at St. Jean de Luz with Peter Vladimiroff, who was traveling in France. In his wanderings he met a remarkably beautiful widow, Mme Carmine Freycinet, who, with her two young children, was also traveling for pleasure. They became acquainted, and he devoted himself entirely to her, while she willingly accepted his homage. They walked together, rode together, stood together and spent the long summer days wandering in the woods together, while the children were left in the care of a nurse.

Mme. Freycinet has many friends in Paris, and these she invited them to the dinners which were all given at the most expensive cafes and served in the most exquisite manner. They took these friends to the theatres and gave most delightful little suppers after ward. Mme. Freycinet was supported by her handsome boy. She sang his praises to her friends, and she dressed him superbly and made a great show of her devotion. Every body was happy and bright in their society. The couple decided this morning that they would go to Ville D'Avray for a time. Arriving there they engaged a room at the hotel and then went for a walk. On their return they ordered a sumptuous dinner. When the meal was over they went to their room. In about a quarter of an hour a pistol shot was heard, and the servants, rushing in, saw Ivan standing in the doorway with the revolver in his hand. He had a wild manner, and appeared dazed. Breathing the pistol at the servants, he exclaiming "I have killed my mistress. Go for a constable, arrest me." He then added, "I could not resist it. A sudden impulse came over me and a voice seemed to whisper in my ear. Then it struck me. I fired and it was done." Take the revolver, he did and bent over the corpse. Then I said Carmine, her breath is gone. Then a second voice said, "She is dead. My poor Carmine, her breath is departed, is dead and I have killed her."

On entering the room in which the dead was done Mme. Freycinet was found lying on the floor with a little wound in her breast. The bullet had undoubtedly gone through her heart and death must have been instantaneous.

Nationalist Convention.

Dublin, Oct. 6.—The proceedings at the Nationalist convention today were private. There was a very large attendance and most of the prominent members of the National party were present. Mr. Parnell addressed the convention. He urged the adoption of the resolutions which were had previously been submitted to Mr. Parnell. The list of these pledges the fullest support of the National League to the tenant who are threatened with ruin in consequence of the course adopted by the Government and landlord syndicates. The second resolution demands that certain distressed districts in the south and western parts of Ireland be given special consideration by the Government and that measures be taken at once for the relief of the inhabitants. The Government would appoint a non-partisan commission for the purpose of giving employment to the people and enable them to support themselves without charitable assistance. The third resolution condemns in emphatic terms the conduct of the Government in causing the arrest of O'Brien, Dillon and the other Irish members arraigned at Tipperary.

The fourth resolution appeals for funds in behalf of the evicted tenants from which they are struggling. The world. Neither Dillon, O'Connor or Harrington was present.

In a speech Mr. O'Connor congratulated the party upon the necessity of Parnell from an illness which had threatened to be fatal and to paralyze the whole movement. Both sides, he said, seemed to be ashamed to forget that he stood as high as ever in the affections and confidence of the Irish people and that they desired to express their appreciation of his unfailing genius and indomitable courage.

BASEBALL RECORDS.

The Players Who Lead in Different Departments

New York, Oct. 6.—Dave Orr has the honor of being the leading batsmen in the Players' League for the first season of its existence. He has been about the most constant hitter in his league, averaging well in every week's play, but doing his best work in the latter half of the season.

Up to the time he was injured, June 17, his batting average in 48 games was .359. Since resuming his team, July 7, he has played 79 games, in which his record is .397, Dave's average for the season is .377. Pete Browning has the tremendous average for the last week's play of .555, enabling him to take second place on the list, with a season's record of .374.

Jim O'Rourke and Roger Connor rank third and fourth, their records being respectively .356 and .347. Then come three of the Boston champions. Kelly .345, Hardie Richardson .344 and Brouthers .342. Ryan, who leads the Pirates with an average of .340, is eighth. Then come Ward .337, Buck Ewing .336, Van Haltren .335, Larkin .325, Duffy .324, Beckley and Sutcliffe, each having a record of .323.

Gore is sixteenth with .322, Crane .320, Slattery .320, Hatfield .318, Bill Brown .315, Vaughn .310, Dan Richardson .301, Johnston .295, O'Day .294, Shannon .290, Whitney .289, John Ewing .282, Keefe .277.

Bauer has an average of .376, Knadow .328, Sunday .320, Joyce .320, Con Daily .294, Andrews .292, McGeachy .291, Cook .282, Seery .282, Con Murphy .280, Sowders .278, Wesling .279, Hemming .261.

Hardie Richardson has a total base average of .600. He leads the Players' League on this point, and in home runs with 16. Beckley, Shindle and Visner lead in three-base hits, each having 22. Pete Browning leads in two baggers with 41. Dan Brouthers being second with 36. Hardie Richardson has made 195 base hits and Duffy 191.

Duffy has made the most runs, 162. Tom Brown 149, Storey 141, Connor, Hardie Richardson and Ward 140 each.

The leading sacrifice hitters are Dan Richardson 60, Quinn 57, Beckley 50 and Sunday 50. Stovey is the champion in base running with 90 stolen bases. Tom Brown second with 72. Joyce holds the record in fielding with 1.53 in 32 games.

There are four in the National League with a batting average of .400 or better. Johnson leads the National League at the bat with a record of .552. Kinzie of Cincinnati is second with .455, Hamilton and Burkett have .436 and Tiernan Thompson and Virtue come next with .406. Then follow: Clements .386, Brodie, Reilly and O'Brien .394, Marr .391, Pinkney .389, Daily of Cleveland .386, Ester brook and McKean .385.

The rest of the Brooklyn champions have records as follows: Daly .375, Burns .347, Collins .345, Terry .344, Corkhill .341, Tom Daly .340, Donovan .340, Smith .336, Clarke .333, Bushong .331, Lovett .328.

Whistler has a record of .285, Ritzie .285, Horning .283, Bassett .282, Clarke .280, Buckley .278, Henry .278, Denny .276, Murphy .276, Shannon .272, Welch .271, Howe .269, Sommers .269.

Dalton has the largest total base average of .600. Burkett is next with .540. Tiernan and Wamsley lead in home runs with 14 each. Reilly has made 30 three baggers, and Sam Thompson 29 two baggers. Hamilton is the star base runner in the National league with 92.

New York, Oct. 6.—The talk about a confederation of the association men of the National league, Players' League and American Association has given the cranks satisfaction. It is known that the latter have failed in their attempt to get the Players' League to go into a combination with them, and that the Players' League will not go into a combination with the association. The Players' League will not go into a combination with the association. The Players' League will not go into a combination with the association.

Eleven Persons Injured.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—A Lake Shore train was derailed at Ashtabula, Ohio, this morning, and eleven persons injured, some of them seriously.

Eloped With Two Married Women.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 6.—Edward Waters of Wheelerville, Ala., near Mobile, who on Thursday performed the surprising feat of eloping with two married women, Mrs. Tanner and Mrs. Tanner, was captured today at Logtown in the turpentine orchard of the relatives of one of the women, who tracked them from Mobile. Waters was taken at the point of the pistol and forced to do a double walk when his captors released him in response to his piteous appeals. The women were less gently treated, one of them being kicked and beaten, and were taken to Bayou La Batre, Miss., 20 miles away, whence they were sent back to Mobile to-night.

THE END OF POLYGAMY

THE MORMON CONGRESS OBEY THE LAW.

The Greatest Reform in the Church During the Past Quarter of a Century—A New Constitution Adopted by the Utah Leaders

Salt Lake, Utah, Oct. 6.—At the general conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints this morning the official declaration of President Woodruff, forbidding in the future any marriage in violation of the laws of the land, was read before an audience numbering 1000 persons, including the apostles and bishops and leading elders of the church. The audience by unanimous vote recognized the authority of the president to issue the manifesto and accept it as authoritative and binding. George Q. Cannon publicly announced his endorsement of the manifesto and his recognition of the Supreme Court of the United States. The conference also adopted the original articles of faith, among which is this:

"We believe in being subject to kings, presidents, rulers and magistrates in obeying, honoring and sustaining the law."

This action taken settles the vexed question and places an effective bar against future polygamous marriages in Utah. It is the most important step taken by the church for more than a quarter of a century.

Another Exposee of Mormonism.

New York, Oct. 6.—Miss Inez Coulter of Grove City, Pa., who recently arrived from Salt Lake City, Utah, where she has been doing missionary work, to-day submitted a statement to General O'Beirne, Superintendent of Immigration, at the barge office, with a view of aiding those who are interested in stopping the immigration of Mormon converts to this country. Miss Coulter says that having been a resident of Salt Lake City for two years, and during that time having made a study of the Mormon people, she desires to aid in suppressing the traffic now going on with ignorant, unsuspicious foreigners by the Mormon elders. The Mormon Church, she says, pays for the passage to this country of the converts and then pays their railroad fare to Salt Lake City. The ignorants go to Salt Lake City filled with promises of a life of ease and luxury and with an idea that the church will aid in their support. Instead of this they are housed like animals in miserable little adobe huts. Upon the grinding labor of the converts the Mormon Church flourishes. They have to pay one-tenth of all they possess and one-tenth of all they earn to support the church. In many of the Mormon settlements the converts burn sage brush for fuel and have to subsist principally on fish, which they dry and keep for food in the winter. How they manage to exist is a mystery to all. Why the elders bring over many young ignorant girls is only too well known to those who have investigated the matter. These girls have no voice in the matter of their disposal and they soon learn they are to be sealed as "spiritual wives" to some of the basest creatures the church produces. There is very little hope for them after they are once in Utah. They should be stopped at New York before they are imbued with vice and are beyond our power to help.

A VALUABLE "FIND."

Discovery of a Rich Vein of Blue Quartz at the Sudbury Mines.

Sudbury, Oct. 6.—Mining circles here are very much excited by the discovery of a rich vein of blue quartz in lot 10 in the 4th concession of the township of Creighton. The vein runs from three to four feet wide and the surface indications are remarkably good. Assays show that the quartz carries over $40 per ton of gold. The gold is in such fine particles as not to be visible to the naked eye and is evenly distributed through the vein matter—a most favorable indication. The vein has a very well-defined wall and has a dip of 50 degrees. The facilities for mining are exceptionally good. The ores is fine milling ore and the property is only about three miles from the main line of the C. P. R. Mr. J. R. Gordon, who made the discovery, is enthusiastic over his success. The property has been secured by a syndicate of capitalists represented by J. M. Clark, a Toronto solicitor.

Precaution at Clonmel.

Dublin, Oct. 6.—One hundred hussars and 350 extra policemen have arrived at Clonmel. It is believed their presence there is due to the fears of the government that a collision may occur between the Berkshire and the 18th Irish regiments.

Will Explore the African Coasts.

Berlin, Oct. 6.—Capt. Trivier, the French traveler, will start for Africa Nov. 10 for the purpose of exploring the east and west coasts of that country. The chief aim of his journey will be to discover channels of trade by which the commercial interests of France may be advanced.

Shoot on Seal Skins.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 6.—All but three of the sealing fleet have returned to port and their winter quarters. The others are expected soon. All the schooners report unusually rough and boisterous weather in Behring Sea. For 14 days they were unable to lower their boats for the purpose of hunting seals. In consequence of this unusually rough weather only half a catch has been made and prices for seal skins have advanced accordingly. As soon as the catch is definitely reported a further heavy advance in the price of seal skins is authoritatively predicted.

Cut His Throat With a Razor.

Napanee, Oct. 6.—John Card was found this morning walking up and down the kitchen while blood spurted from a big gash in his throat. Card may live, though he is now very weak. His windpipe was partially severed. He lost an enormous quantity of blood. Card is a laborer about 35 years of age and a married man. He has been a sufferer from fits, and these have been so frequent and violent that he has become mentally unbalanced. Some time ago he was an inmate of Kingston hospital. The evidences are that the razor was used on the roadway, for the blood is traced from there to his home, with the footmarks in the proper direction. The razor has not yet been secured.

A Verdict for $1000.

Belleville, Oct. 6.—At the assizes to-day, Laura Beckwith obtained a verdict of $1000 against George W. Rose for seduction.

Chinamen Chase Some French Military

Paris, Oct. 6.—From Tonquin comes news of a serious encounter between French military and a band of Chinese. The French force, 500 men, was compelled to retreat losing their sub-commandant, Lieut. Margaine, besides two others killed and eight wounded. The pirates cut the heads off the slain.

Col. Stewart's Murderer.

Cairo, Oct. 6.—The murderer of Col. Stewart has been discovered and executed.

Lausanne, Oct. 5.—Nastioni, the radical, who shot and killed Councillor Rossi at Ballin zona, canton of Ticino, Switzerland, during the [illegible] was arrested today at a house in Chelsea, in which he had secured [illegible] lodgings, and was arraigned in the [illegible].

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 6.—A. Wannamaker, a cousin of the Postmaster-General, committed suicide here yesterday in a room at the Eldorado House. He left a note saying "My life is nothing to me and more." Wannamaker had been drinking freely and brooding over his troubles.

Bruno Rosher, champion wrestler of Germany, and Henry Young, the favorite of the Central Turn Verein, wrestled in Greco-Roman style at Sea View last night for a purse of $500 and a gold medal. Rosher won three straight bouts in 1.19 and 3 minutes respectively.

AN ILL-FATED FAMILY.

One Child Killed by a Fall, Another Drowned, the Third Burned to Death.

St. Catharines, Oct. 6.—The 4-year-old daughter of Joseph Johnston, Niagara-street was fatally burned on Saturday evening. The little girl's clothes became ignited by matches she was striking. Her mother, who was in the yard, succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but the child died 24 hours afterwards, suffering terrible agony during that time. Mrs. Johnston lost a child by falling down stairs two years ago, and a son by drowning about two months ago.

WELLAND ASSIZES.

The Rochester Bigamist on Trial For Wife Murder.

Welland, Oct. 6.—The Assize Court opened here to-day, Justice Rose presiding. The principal case of interest is the trial of Arthur Hoyt Day, charged with murdering his wife by pushing her over the bank of the Niagara River. The Grand Jury found a true bill against Day, who when placed in the dock pleaded not guilty and said he was ready for trial, which will commence to morrow.

The prisoner, Arthur Day, who is about 35 years of age, lived with his wife and little girl in the Sibley block, Rochester. He was a carrier of commercial travelers samples. The couple, it is said, did not live happily together. They had been married about eight years, and before her marriage she was known as Deseriah Chalterton of Saratoga, N.Y. She was about 26 years of age. On July 12 last the prisoner, who had been secretly courting a young girl named Lizzie Breen of No. 228 Plymouth-street, induced her to go to Canandaigua, N.Y., where he married her under the name of White. The girl a few days later discovered that her husband was a bigamist and he was arrested. While he was in jail detective discovered that on the 27th of July Day purchased three tickets for Buffalo, and went there accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Quigley. At this place they found he had purchased three other tickets for the Falls and that in the evening only two of them returned. Satisfied that one crime had been committed to hide another, the detectives went to Mrs. Quigley and questioned her as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Day. She stated that her brother had shoved his wife over the cliff into the rapids. She accompanied the officers to a point 4 of a mile past the whirlpool elevation station, and pointed out the place where she had seen Mrs. Day Forty-eight feet below, floating in the water, the body of Mrs. Day was found. The prisoner's friend, claim that Mrs. Quigley's story is not to be relied upon and that the deceased, who has been in a despondent mood for some weeks deliberately put an end to her life without her husband's assistance. Mrs. Quigley, who has been in jail ever since her "confession," detained as a witness, is a woman about 4 years of age, has been married four times and is now a "grass" widow, living with her mother in Rochester.

Mr. W. M. German has been retained to defend the prisoner, and Mr. E. F. B. Johnston of Toronto will conduct the case for the Crown.

As some confusion was caused in court today His Honor stated that to-morrow when the seats in the court room were filled the doors would be closed and no more spectators would be allowed in. It is not thought the trial will last many hours, as there are not many witnesses to be examined.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Mysterious Death of An Infant Rat Through a Furnace.

Toronto, Oct. 7.

An inquest was opened last night at the Dufferin House, Bloor and Dufferin-streets, by Coroner Lynd on the body of the infant, Edward Duggan, found dead on its mother's breast on Saturday night. Before the evidence was taken the jury viewed the remains at the home of the parents, 1199 Dufferin street.

Annie Duggan, aged 12, sister of the father of the dead child, testified to Duggan's bringing home a quart of beer about 4 p.m. on Saturday. She said that the latter had drunk one glass of the liquid and then went out, leaving the balance behind. Three glasses of this was subsequently drunk by Mrs. Duggan and the remainder by herself, from the result of which they both became intoxicated.

Teddy O'Brien, aged 17, living next door to the Duggans, testified that on Saturday night about 10 o'clock, in company with another boy named Thomas Bayley and a Miss Lappin, he had taken Duggan's 3-year old son home, the child having stated that he was afraid of his father. When they entered the house it was in darkness. On lighting a candle he found Duggan lying asleep near the stove, while Mrs. Duggan was asleep on the floor between two mat tresses with the child lying with its head on her breast. One of his companions having made the remark that the child was dead, he felt its hand and finding it cold, tried to awaken the woman, but could not do so.

Dr. McKenzie made a post-mortem examination on the child. He found that it had been apparently healthy and well nursed. There were no marks of violence on the surface of the body, and the interior parts appeared to be in a similar condition. He found that the cause of death was rupture of the stomach and from the condition of the heart and lungs he judged that it was almost instantaneous. The injuries which caused death could not have been from the result of a fall, for had such been the case there would have been external discoloration. The weight of the mother's body would have been sufficient to have caused death.

The jury retired at 11 p.m., but at o'clock this morning had not returned a verdict.

William A. Harold, the real estate agent Victoria-street, was charged in the Police Court yesterday with having assaulted his wife. Mrs. Harold told the Magistrate that on Thursday afternoon her husband came home drunk and struck her twice in the face. In the evening, he also struck her on the head. She said he was 5ft. 8½ins. in height, father two years ago, which he had wasted in dissipation.

The funeral of Captain John F. McCorquodale, who commanded the steamer Asia, took place from the residence of deceased, Maple avenue, yesterday.

Died for Love

Denver, Col., Oct. 6.—The details of the suicide of James McKee, a cowboy of 15, near Fort Laramie show that McKee killed himself because a 15-year-old girl refused to marry him. The girl's name is Nellie Mason, and McKee met her while she was traveling across Wyoming en route to Oregon, and fell desperately in love with the girl. He followed the party, and while they were camped near Fort Laramie, proposed to the girl. She refused to marry him and told him to leave the camp. McKee mounted his horse and rode away. Half an hour later he was found hanging by the neck to the branch of a cottonwood.

Died to His Death

Syracuse, N.Y., Oct. 6.—Justin Glenn, a wealthy young man of this city, committed suicide this before daylight this morning by plunging head foremost from his windows. His widowed mother died in August, leaving an estate of several thousand dollars. By the terms of her will her son had an allowance of $200 a month, in addition to his living expenses. This amount was not sufficient to satisfy his fancy and was quickly spent each month.

Last night when he retired to his room he took the usual will and pored over it for hours, reading and re-reading the clause which kept the bulk of the property out of his hands. At 6 o'clock this morning a policeman found his dead body stretched on the side-walk under his window. His skull and neck were broken and the stiffened fingers of his right hand grasped the crumpled pieces of the will.

AS THE
Cold Weather
CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

WE NEED A STREET RAILWAY,

And will Likely get it Within Three Years.

The New Company say they Mean Business—A Slight Diversion in the Council Proceedings The Sanitary By-law to Come in Force in Six Months Other Civic Matters.

Every councillor except Mr. Cahill, who is still absent on the Pacific slope, attended the regular meeting of the Council Monday evening, and the proceedings were of some interest, though as usual a large amount of unnecessary talking was done.

Mr. John Grove applied for rebate of $2.60 taxes against him.—Remitted.

Mr. John Corkery, secretary of the Separate School Board, presented a claim for $14 41, a balance claimed to be due the board.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication was read from Stewart Howard, of Montreal, re sewerage.—Received.

Major Spooner, of the Salvation Army, applied for the location of a gas lamp in front of the S A. barracks.—Referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

A communication addressed to "Hon. George Stevenson, Mayor of Peterborough," was read from a Chelsea firm, Hatley Bros. & Granville, asking a small donation of $100 to assist them in placing stereoptican views of the town in the Canadian exhibit at the Jamaica Exhibition.—Received.

Rev. J. C. Davidson and twelve others applied for a hydrant at the corner of Brock and Sheridan streets.—Referred to the Joint Committee of the town and county councils;

Rev. Mr. Davidson and 15 others asked for an electric light on Hunter street opposite St. John's church. Referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee to report.

Messrs. A. P. Poussette and A. Stevenson, solicitors for the Street Railway Company, requested the town council to pass a resolution stating that they raised no objection to the granting of the charter to the Company, a necessary legal procedure before the charter was granted. The Company did not ask the council to bind itself to permitting the railway to be built; that was to be a matter for after consideration.—Received.

INCANDESCENT LIGHT.

The following unique letter was read:—

To the Mayor of Peterborough:

From T. Conroy.

DEAR SIR:—I have a wife and family that will want support while I am gone. She will want wood and provisions that is, if the town is going to keep me in gaol. And there is house rent due on the 15th of this month. I would like you two see after this.

Yours truly,

T. CONROY.

Mr. Moore, Mr. Davidson and others thought it better to forgive the fine than support the family, but Mr. Kendry contended, and others backed him up in it, that it was a wrong principle to interfere with the law. Mr. Moore replied that this was not temporizing with crime, but simply forgiving a debt. Mr. Rutherford argued that the fine was inflicted for a crime and Conroy should not be relieved of the punishment. Mr. Dawson also held that it was a bad precedent. Next if this was done the Chief might as well cancel all the old warrants he has has against people for non-payment of fine. On motion of Mr. Rutherford the matter was referred to the Charity Committee.

FINANCE.

Mr. Davidson presented the report of the Finance Committee:—T. E. Boddy, $1 25; G N W. Telegraph Co., $1 40; C.P.R., $1 73; Dickson Co., $280 15; J. H. Stratton, $14 05; Bell Telephone Co., $5; A. M. Boddy, $13 20; Hall, Innes & Co., $15 31.

The Committee also recommended the appointment of Mr. J. H. Stevens, jr., to the position of caretaker of the powder magazine at a salary of $20 per year, the same to be without prejudice to any defence of any claim he may consider he has against the corporation.

THE POWDER MAGAZINE.

Before the report was adopted, the question of fixing the rental for parties using the magazine was discussed. Mr. Davidson and Mr. Hall thought the council should give the magazine free of rent, for otherwise the hardware merchants would not use it. It was too far out of town for their convenience. Mr. Kendry wanted to see the council get some return for the $1,000 invested in the magazine; and Mr. Rutherford thought it outrageous for the merchants to ask the council to build a magazine and pay a caretaker for their benefit, because they claimed it was so far out of town the carting expense would be too great to allow them to pay rent. Merchants were allowed to keep only 25 pounds of powder on hand, and the law provides that powder must be kept outside the corporation anyway. Why shouldn't they pay a fair rental instead of having to build for themselves.

On motion the matter was referred to the property committee to report.

THE CHARITY COMMITTEE.

Mr. A. Hall, chairman of the charity committee, presented the report of the committee, showing the expenditure for the months of August and September to be:—No. 1 Ward, $6 00; No. 2 $8 25; No. 3, $12 50; No. 4, $8 00; total $34 75.

Mr. Rutherford demanded to know how much money had been spent in charity so far this year, and Mr. Hall replied about $400 of the appropriation for the year was $2000.

Mr. Dawson found fault with Mr. Hall for giving charity in No. 3 Ward without consulting him. Mr. Hall explained that very often the committeemen were not home, and the applicants came to him instead of applying to them.

Mr. Rutherford said the whole charity system was wrong. He had advised in the spring that the councillors give the money into the hands of a charitable board—say the Home—for disbursement. The councillors could not properly look after it.

Mr. Kelly and the Mayor spoke a good work for Mr. Hall's able efforts as chairman of the charity committee, and the report was adopted.

ANNUAL REPORT.

Mr. A. Hall read the following report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee:

Your Fire, Water and Lights Committee beg leave to report and recommend that the Peterborough Waterworks Company place a hydrant on Downie street, at the test of Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company's building; also that the corporation take over the hydrants on Brock street between George and Aylmer streets.

Mr. RUTHERFORD wanted the report amended. Since the all night lights were thrown out, he said, the chairman of the committee had ignored the 29 other lights which had been ordered. He thought Mr. Hall was undertaking to rule this matter to suit himself. Mr Rutherford went so far as to state that Mr. Hall had taken on himself to do things without authority of the committee.

Mr. HALL—I deny it, and defy Mr. Rutherford to show one instance.

Mr. RUTHERFORD said he could prove it if a committee was appointed to investigate.

Mr. HALL again denied it, and stated that if Mr. Rutherford did not choose to attend committee meetings to find out for himself, he should not accuse him of reporting things not passed by the committee.

Mr. RUTHERFORD gave as an instance to back up his charge that the Committee was authorized to buy hose, and he had never been notified of a meeting of the Committee for the purpose.

Mr. DAVIDSON said that there was a majority not only of the Committee but of the council when the hose was purchased. If Mr. Rutherford had attended the meeting he would not make this unmanly charge against Mr. Hall.

Mr. RUTHERFORD said that he always attended committee meetings of which he was notified; but in any case Mr. Hall should have report the purchase to the council and the amount paid for it. Then, he said, Mr. Hall had placed a number of electric lights different from the report.

Mr. HALL denied the charge, and said he had always consulted the committee in all he did. He demanded that Mr. Rutherford take back what he had said; it was no better than an insult.

An end was put to the discussion by the passing of a motion to adopt the report.

THE STREET RAILWAY.

A deputation of the Street Railway Company appeared before the council to explain the nature of their communication. The request was, as explained by M. Poussette, that the council should pass a resolution declaring that this town offered no objection to the charter being granted, without which it had just been learned the charter could not be obtained from the government. Of course, the question of giving the company permission to construct their lines was a subsequent matter altogether. Mr. Poussette answered some of the objections which had been raised against the granting of the charter. The company he said, was composed of good citizens and it was their honest intention to construct the railway within the next three years, probably next year or the year after, but at latest in three years. This would not prevent other companies getting a charter. It would not either bind the town to granting this company permission to build; but it was simply to express their opinion that a street railway was desirable.

Mr. T. G. Hazlitt said that unless Peterborough soon had a street railway she would be behind the times. She should try to keep her place amongst the foremost towns. If there were no reasonable objections to the building of a railway, the least the council could do would be to pass that resolution. If they did not, they would simply say by their action that they did not want a street railway. Mr. Hazlitt said this was no speculation. He would be glad to see every citizen who had $100 to spare take up stock in the new company. Mr. Hazlitt did not think any money would be made in Peterborough for the first five years, and a horse railway he did not think feasible at all. The company did not wish to speculate, but simply give the town the necessary accommodation.

Mr. Langford and Mr. Kelly appeared to think that there was a "nigger in the fence" somewhere, when it was being rushed through so fast and so protect the town they wanted the matter referred to the town solicitor, or at least left over till another meeting. Mr. Moore framed a resolution meeting the views of the petitioners. After much heavy, and for the most part useless, discussion, the resolutions were put as follows:

Moved by Mr. Langford, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that the matter of the street railway charter be referred to the town solicitor, to report at a special meeting of the council a week from Wednesday night.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Moore, seconded by Mr. Dawson, that this council is of opinion that a street railway would be of advantage to the town of Peterborough, and this council has no objection to the incorporation of a company for the purpose of operating such a railway; it being understood that this resolution shall not prejudice the passing of a like resolution in regard to any other company, and not as entitling the company to placing the railway on any street of the town without further resolution of this council.

The amendment was carried, Mr. Langford being the only "contrary" visible.

THE TAX COLLECTOR.

A by-law appointing Miss Bessie Cumming tax collector, and fixing the amount of her bonds, was passed.

THE SANITARY BY-LAW.

Mr. Moore again presented his sanitary by-law, in which it stated there had been some amendments made. The by-law now provided for the prevention of the opening of any more deep pits in any part of the town, and within certain limits (bounded by Brock, Aylmer, Charlotte and the east side of Water streets), the closing up of all pits at present used and the substitution of dry earth closets. Mr. Moore said that the health of the town was an important consideration in more ways than one, and principally as it would influence the location of manufactories here. The by-law also provided for the appointment of a public scavenger. The by-law was to come into force six months hence. The by-law was passed.

THOSE ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Dawson, that the Fire, Water and Light Committee have put up at once the electric lights already ordered and passed by this council, viz., 29 lights.

The motion was amended by referring it to the Committee to report at the next meeting, and passed.

Moved by Mr. Moore, seconded by Mr. Rutherford, that the council have 200 copies of the sanitary by-law and the same number of the building by-law printed.—Carried.

The council then adjourned.

Well Done Uncle Sam!

A Contemplated Reform in the Medical Department of the American Army.

Although the United States have probably the smallest standing army in the world, yet the soldiers are well cared for, and their moral and physical condition is closely watched and guarded. The American soldier is surrounded with many of the modern comforts which the European soldier has never heard of. The hospital arrangements of the American army are as nearly perfect as they can be; and sick soldiers are carefully nursed, and their diseases and ailments receive the attention of the most skilful medical men.

Soldiers of all nations are subject to the same diseases and troubles as their civilian brethren, and their lives are as precious to themselves and to their country as the lives of other mortals. The American soldier is not free from those terrible and dreaded troubles of nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, run-down constitution, as well as dyspepsia, indigestion and impoverished blood. It is rumoured that certain Medical Authorities in the United States, recognizing the immense value and curative powers of Paine's Celery Compound for such diseases, are quietly doing during the advantage of its use in the Army Hospitals. This is a step in the right direction, and proves conclusively not only to Americans, but to all other nationalities that this preparation is found worthy of confidence.

If the report is true it will certainly mark an important era in the history of medicine, and will be the means of dispelling an old and misleading idea prevalent in the world, that sickness can only be cured by nauseous drugs and ugly pills.

This great scientific remedy—Paine's Celery Compound, will no doubt if introduced, prove as valuable to the army as it has been to the thousands of men and women it has restored to life in all parts of the world.

Hasten on the good work Uncle Sam, and thereby show other nations your great good sense.

LORD BROUGHAM'S WIG.

What Became of the Great Lord Chancellor's Gift to Charles Sumner.

In these times when we keep so many relics of the bygone day and preserve, with almost sacred care, every souvenir of some departed giant of history, it is curious to look back and note how little importance was attached even in times just before the War, to articles which would now have incomputable historic interest. In this connection the following bit of information from a former librarian of the Harvard Law School is of interest. It seems that when Mr. Sumner was in London in 1838 he became well acquainted with Lord Brougham, the great English statesman, who was then some 60 years old. Lord Brougham, on his part, conceived a great liking for Mr. Sumner, and when they parted he gave him his wig which he had worn when presiding in the House of Peers. Mr. Sumner accepted it with the idea of presenting it to the Harvard Law School as a curiosity, and at the time he wrote in regard to the matter to George S. Hilliard, the historian:

"Lord Brougham has given me his full-bottom Lord Chancellor's wig, in which he made his great speech on the Reform bill. Such a wig cost twelve guineas, and then the association of it! In America it would be like Rabelais's gown."

When Mr. Sumner came back to America he gave the wig to the law school and also a case in which to preserve it. For some unaccountable reason care was not taken of it—in fact it was allowed to lie around the old law school. Dane Hall, and its associations were apparently entirely forgotten. The Hon. George S. Hale says that he found a fine old wig there one day, and, not knowing where it came from or whom it belonged to, used it for some private theatricals in Boston. Even the most democratic of Americans would hold up his hands in holy horror to know that the wig of the great Lord Brougham was so desecrated. Finally, at any rate, it appears that the wig was thrown into the cellar of Dane Hall by some careless janitor. There it lay for many years until the Harvard Co-operative Society, which now occupies the building, took possession of the hall. About this time the workmen were filling in Holmes Field for a new athletic ground, and a heap of rubbish was taken from the cellar of the old law school and buried in Holmes Field. There is little doubt that Lord Brougham's wig was thrown in with this mass of debris and that now this among the last remembrances of one of England's greatest statesmen lies the centre of the spot where the college boys stand and cheer the athletes of fair Harvard on to victory.—Boston Advertiser.

From an Editor's Waste Basket.

Out of the l. rest of manuscripts that come to an editor's desk, it is usually his laborious duty to select the wheat. For the present let us be satisfied with a few authentic specimens of the chaff. If by chance they fall on the soil from which they sprung, let its tillers know that their names are upon no black list, if indeed they are remembered at all, and that it is something to rise above the name whose works, with their names, perish.

The prince of blunderers was he who described a thrilling adventure, and brought his narrative almost to a climax with the assertion: "My breath came in short pants!" Spirit of Anthony Comstock, has modesty come to this?

Sometimes the limits of a sentence are sound enough, but the joints are looser for example: "Dogs and cats are very partial to butter, as well as human beings."

The eccentricities of spelling are beyond number. Perhaps more has never been done in a limited space than here: "They were very stricked on these wholy days." Mild in comparison are "midnite," "schoar" [score], and with extreme frequency, "villiage." In one narrative a "weekly mother" has figured—in sooth, a modern Hecuba!

Another author, with visions of the bird of night, describes the heroine's "masses of raving black hair." On a later page by the same hand appears a female figure, down which flowed a beautiful set of hair." If the Sutherland sisters could ferret out this writer his fortune as an advertising agent might be made.

Let no one, after reading these lines, attempt Shakespeare without a Familiar Quotations at hand:

"There is a divinity that shapes our ends,
No matter how we may rough-hew the outside."

A single instance will show, too, that a danger lurks for the untamed Yankee in foreign tongues: "G——V——was a brilliant society man, and had been the idol of the decollete of two continents."

These examples of what the ambitious illiterate can do might be indefinitely. If one might draw from the sacred treasures of verse and the confidence of letters, strange things would see the light. Songs of death and bereavement are distinctly the favorites, but the pathetic in incompetent hands is so often ludicrous that for every reason it is best that the waste-basket should not give up its dead. The letters accompanying manuscripts reveal a curious mingling of the desire for fame and for money, and the fear of detection as an author by friends and fellow-townsmen. It has been said that only an editor can estimate the number of fools in the world, and perhaps the man that said so was right.

Salt as a tooth-powder is better than almost anything that can be bought. It keeps the teeth brilliantly white and the gums hard and rosy.

Success is rarely a matter of accident always a matter of character. The reason why so many men fail is that so few men are willing to pay the price of self denial and hard work which success exacts.

Bacon says, "Suspicions among thoughts are like bats among birds they ever fly by twilight. There is nothing makes a man suspect much more than to know little, and therefore men should remedy suspicion by procuring to know more, and not keep their suspicions in smother."

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE STORMS IN GERMANY.

Cars Overturned and Their Occupants Killed—Many Shipwrecks with Loss of Life.

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—Terrific storms are reported in Schleswig and the East Sea provinces. The hail ruined the crops and smashed thousands of windows at Elmshorn, which was flooded by the sea. Numerous houses were unroofed and many of the inhabitants were injured. At Newstas a man was blown into a well and drowned. In the same town the tent and paraphernalia of a circus were destroyed. At Dantzic a car was overturned and several of the occupants crushed to death. Many shipwrecks attended by loss of life are reported.

SOCIALISM IN BRITAIN.

The Author of "Damn Your Sympathy, Give us Your Bob," Looms up Again.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The reception of the Comte de Paris in America and the extraordinary civilities shown to him are likely to produce a bad impression in France. His letter on the Boulangist conspiracy, his cynical avowal of a readiness to use all means against the Republic, and his confession of complicity in that vulgar adventurer's vulgar intrigues, have disgusted many of his own adherents and scandalized Europe. Not less scandalized is Europe to see the author of that letter the guest of America, welcomed by the President of the Republic and covered with honor by the American people.

This has been a jubilee week with the Socialists of Germany, where the anti-Socialist law expired on Tuesday. Much beer was drunk in Berlin in celebration of this event and much strong language used especially of the prophetic kind. Germany will now try an experiment which no other continental power has ventured on. The party of revolution is to have the same freedom of speech, freedom of press and the rest which other parties have.

The Socialists in England are growing bolder and bolder. The dockers talk at their conference as if the world were already theirs to divide. Mr. John Burns talks loudest of all. He has announced as his ultimatum to capitalists that every laborer, skilled or unskilled, must have $20 a week for forty-eight hours' work and 100 holidays in the year.

The Gas Stokers' Union has taken a step beyond even Mr. Burns; it is showing its hand perhaps rather too suddenly. This union addressed proposals to the Gas Light and Coke Company, the largest gas corporation in London, which amounted to an invitation to hand over the management of the company to the union. This corporation has a capital of $60,000,000 and lights all London north of the Thames. The directors listened civilly to the unionists' deputation and totally rejected their proposals. The threatened or expected strike thereupon collapsed.

The American proposals for relieving Irish distress are not very kindly received in England. "There is, or ought to be," says The Daily News, "something humiliating to a proud nation in this charity proffered by the stranger."

The Old Reliable.

In these days of humbug it is a relief to hear of something that can be depended upon. Wilson's Wild Cherry has been tested as a remedy for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs, for nearly twenty years with such success as to earn for itself the title of The Old Reliable cure for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis and other affections of the respirstory system. THE ONLY TESTIMONIAL HE EVER GAVE.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equaled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefitting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,512 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,684,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	12,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,067,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,844,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Destructive Fowl.

Mr. H. W. Watson, printer, was charged in the police court this morning with allowing hens to run at large. Police magistrate Dumble thought it was rather a case for the Division Court, and at his advice the case was withdrawn. An action in the Division Court will likely result.

Everything Satisfactory

Mayor Stevenson to-day received a letter from the rancher of the Elison Co., stating that the papers had been received by them, and were quite satisfactory. They also asked for further papers and information concerning the by-law and premises. Negotiations are progressing for the purchase of the 30 acres required by the Company, and it is expected the land will be formally deeded over to the Company in a few days. The Company will then, doubtless, proceed at once to build.

Where the Crowd Went.

One of our brother grocers had a man placed opposite the door of W. J. Morrow's Saturday with a massive pile of dodgers so anxious was he to attract the stream of customers which kept pouring in, the shop being packed with people looking for his big bargains, but we don't blame them. Why, our city papers are increasing their business greatly, others going into advertising every day trying to lure the public, but they cannot do it, the latter knowing where they can buy goods 25 per cent. cheaper than elsewhere. W. J. Morrow, 340 George st. dw

The Grove, Lakefield.

By reference to an announcement in another column it will be seen that that excellent educational home for boys, Mr. Sparham Sheldrake's school, "The Grove," Lakefield, is now open for the reception of students. Here boys find a home, cultured associations, careful training in the three departments of mind, manners and muscle. This school combines a great many advantages not obtainable elsewhere, and it is with confidence commended to the attention of parents desiring to place their sons so that they will secure home comforts, social advantages and high class mental and physical training.

Gay Brothers' Minstrels had a large audience at the Opera House, Saturday evening. The musical specialties were excellent, the barrel jumping was good, the rubber man was remarkably elastic, and the brothers Geo. and Will Gay were especially good at whatever they undertook.—St. Albans, Vt., Messenger Sept. 20.

Remember the celebrated Guy Brothers Minstrels at the Opera House next Monday evening. It is the only company traveling that contains a father and six sons.

A Choice Concert.

The Swedish lady singers' entertainment in the opera house was a pleasant success. There was a good sized audience present, and that it appreciated the programme was evinced by the frequent and enthusiastic encores which were demanded. Almost every number had to be repeated, Mr. Day, the humorist, coming in for his share of applause, as well as the solo and chorus singers. Considerable annoyance was caused the audience by the disturbance raised by some ungentlemanly young fellows in the back seats. Men of years and understanding ought to have better sense than to conduct themselves in such a manner in a public assembly.

Young People Meet.

An opening meeting of the Young People's Association of the George street Methodist church was held last night the pastor presiding. The following programme was rendered to a large audience:—

Reading "Dora" ..... A. E. Scott
Solo ..... Miss May Richardson
Reading "The Free Seat" ..... Miss B Griffith
Duet ..... Misses Sperry

Plans for the coming winter were discussed, and the advisability of organizing other societies was considered. It was decided to retain the Endeavor Society. A meeting for re-organization and election of officers will be held next Monday night.

Going to Winnipeg.

It will be a source of regret to the many friends of Mr. Edward Duff to learn that he is about to leave town. He has been offered, and has accepted, the Principalship of a new training school shortly to be opened in Winnipeg by the Baptist church for the advantage of young men studying for the Baptist ministry. Students of this school may also take an arts course in the Winnipeg University at the same time. Mr. Duff is to be congratulated upon receiving such an honorable and important position in the educational interests of the Dominion—a position which he is well qualified to occupy. While regretting his removal from town, Mr. Duff's friends will heartily wish him success. Mr. Duff has not yet decided what he will do with his private school, but he expects to make his arrangements so as to be able to leave town next Monday. His family accompany him.

Well Satisfied with Manitoba.

Mr. Wm. Ferguson, who removed to Melita, Manitoba, last spring, has returned to town for a brief visit. He has finished saving his grain, and the railway being only opened on Monday, he spends the intervening time between the housing and the shipping of grain re-visiting Peterborough. Mr. Ferguson had 200 acres in crop—190 in wheat and 10 in oats. The wheat will yield about 30 bushels to the acre, and the oats being a poor crop this year, only about 50 bushels to the acre. Mr Ferguson expects to get about 90c. for his wheat. He will return about the end of the month to thresh and ship the grain. He reports Mr. Forsyth and his family are well and doing well. He will have a crop of between two thousand and three thousand bushels of wheat. Mr Ferguson brought with him a collection of vegetables, which will be found displayed in the window of Mr. H. C. Winch's butcher shop, in the market block. These include the rare kohl rabbi grown for table use, cabbage, cauliflower, etc., etc. The size of these vegetables shows the extraordinary fertility of the soil. Mr. Ferguson is highly pleased with the Souris district of Manitoba and his first season's success in farming amply justifies his prediction for the Prairie Province.

Guarding the Public Health.

An important sanitary measure was enacted at the meeting of the town council last night, in the passing of Councillor Moore's by-law. The by-law declares that after the first of May next no more deep pits shall be dug within the limits of the town; any persons requiring new closet accommodation will have to provide a more modern system. And the by-law further provides that after that date all deep pits at present being used within a certain area must be closed up and dry earth closets substituted. This provision covers only the business part of the town, the boundaries being Brock, Aylmer, Charlotte and the east side of Water streets. Furthermore, no closets are to be placed except where sanctioned by the Medical Health Officer. An important feature of the by-law is a provision for the appointment of a public scavenger, who shall be a town official and perform his work at a fixed meeter rate. Mr. Moore pointed out the necessity of such a by-law in a large and thriving town like Peterborough. In the absence of sewerage dry earth closets were essential to health, at least in the more crowded portions of the town. Two hundred copies of the by-law were ordered to be printed and distributed among the ratepayers.

The Compliment Returned.

The Madoc lacrosse club determined to have satisfaction for their overwhelming defeat at Peterborough the first of September, and they got it yesterday. The Riversides of Peterborough were beaten by four straight games. There was a large crowd present, but the day was cold and cheerless. The game was a poor exhibition of lacrosse, both teams "shinnying" altogether too much. Harry Welsh was laid out in the middle of the game by a severe blow on his head, which made a deep cut that required stitching. The first two games were hotly contested for an hour, Madoc finally winning them, and followed up with two more in the next half hour of play. The Madocs were strengthened by three Toronto players, one from Pembroke and one from Ottawa. When it is taken into consideration that the Riversides have not practised since the last match, there is apparent cause for their defeat. The Riversides returned to town this morning. Following was their team:—

Personal Testimony.

Mr. R. T. Goodfellow in 1879 left Peterborough for the North West Territories, and after an absence of over ten years brings back a report of the land reminding one, in its favorable aspects, of the reports brought back by Caleb and Joshua in Hebraic days. When Mr. Goodfellow settled in Prince Albert it was to all intents and purposes a wilderness, but it is now a thriving and incorporated village of 1200 inhabitants. It is situated on the mighty Saskatchewan and has railway communication with the C.P.R. at Regina by means of the Regina and Long Lake Railway, 250 miles long. From the substantial manner in which this line has been built it is the opinion of the knowing ones that it will ere long be pushed on to Hudson's Bay, thus forming a seaport for the Northwest close at hand. Mr. R. T. Goodfellow and his two brothers for some time were engaged in building and contracting, running a sash factory in connection therewith. But he retired four years ago, and is now conducting with success a grocery and confectionery business, his brothers keeping up the branch of manufacture that originally engaged the three brothers. The country around Prince Albert is first rate farming land and is being filled up rapidly. A very large immigration is expected next year, as well as another new line of railway. The crops this year are splendid. The settlers are chiefly Ontario and Old Country people. The Peterborough population of Prince Albert consists of the three Goodfellows—R. T., Albert and William—William and Alex. Rogers and Isaiah McCall, son-in-law of Mr. John Douglas, town. Mr. Goodfellow would advise every young man who wants to be settled upon a farm of his own to come to Prince Albert. All the capital he needs will be sufficient to buy a team and plough—he can get the 160 acres of land free.

Mark Street Methodists.

Continuation of Anniversary Celebration—Tea and Talk—Tea in the Old Town Hall, and Lecture in the New One.—"The Age in which we Live"—The Votes of Thanks, and To-Morrow's Recital.

The continuation of the celebration of the anniversary of the Mark street Methodist church, began so successfully on Sunday, was conducted on Monday evening. From five o'clock till eight, tea was served in the old town hall. The splendid spread provided by the ladies was well patronized by a large number of persons, the tables having been filled and cleared several times. At eight o'clock the new town hall was well filled with an audience that listened attentively to the lecturer, Rev. Mr. Webber. Dr. Goldsmith occupied the chair, and on the platform were the pastor and Mr. John Burnham, reeve of the village, and the choir, which rendered several fine anthems during the evening. The chairman gave a brief introductory address eulogistic of the devotion of the congregation to the interests of the church, as demonstrated by the success of the anniversary services and the large attendance that was present to listen to the important address upon the interesting subject to be dealt with.

Mr. John Burnham was introduced by the chairman, and expressed his pleasure at being present, and said he was glad to see that the first time the new hall was used it was devoted to so good a purpose, which he hoped would form a precedent for its future use.

THE LECTURE.

The lecturer of the evening announced his subject as "The Age in Which We Live"—and defined it as the best age in the history of man—marked by wonderful developments in education and science, the possibilities of which was confined to the present age. The collegiate institute of the present day was equal to the highest university education in the not very distant past. Fifty years ago Great Britian spent £20 000 on public education; to-day the amount spent on five million pupils was about four million pounds. One of the most grievous faults of a government was neglect of the education of the people. The speaker went on to show that the spread of education in England had resulted in a great decrease in crime and pauperism. The great London strike was instanced to show that with the 126,000 men on strike during their weeks of idleness there was no breach of peace or order, showing that in spite of great provocation, the restraining force of popular education was evident in the orderly conduct of great masses of men in search for their rights. The speaker urged Canadians to stand by their national system of education, the best in the world, with the exception of one great fault, the Separate School system, and the speaker hoped that the day was not far distant when the words "Protestant" and "Catholic," in relation to our school system, would be unknown. Instances were given to show that great physical and scientific facts, which were the common knowledge of every school boy to day, were unknown to the most learned men of a past age. The progress of medical science had been so great in fifty years that the average of human life in England had increased from 33 years to 45 years. The advances made in the use of steam were a tremendous example of the industrial progress of the age. The universal building of railways and the important part they played in the national developments of the resources of civilized countries was eloquently referred to, as well as the agency of steam in bringing the different nations and climates closely together. In the course of elaborating this subject the speaker's declaration in favour of flat-footed free trade was loudly applauded. The triumphs of electricity as an element in the development of the higher possibilities of civilization were also eloquently insisted upon. The uses of electricity for producing light, for surgical, mechanical, telegraphic, phonographic and other purposes, were also referred to as examples of the marvellous advancement of the present age over all past ages. The question of labour and capital was touched upon, and the Christian advancement of the age was shown by the weakness of infidelity in attacking the great truths of religion, whose aggressiveness had been all opposition. Within the past century the increase of the English speaking Protestants of the world was marvellous—there were, the speaker said, twenty-five million English speaking Methodists and only fifteen million Catholics—a fact that should quiet the fears of those who fear the aggressiveness of a certain form of religion. The age in which we live needs men and women to take hold of its vast and limitless opportunities. We were now in an electric age, and there would be a great demand upon the capabilities of men and not brainless dudes. This age demanded the right sort of men, and to have these we must have the right sort of women—women who have the right to the ballot box. Women were urged to dress to please their husbands, to cook well and to make home happy, and they would keep their husbands at home. Make home so beautiful and cheerful that husbands and sons cannot leave it. When we had the right kind of men and women and the right kinds of homes we would have a glorious world—if we held on to the true conservatism that preserved the best elements of the past and adopted the true liberalism that seized the great things of the present. The audience was urged to be true to their convictions, and to their principles; true to their children; true to their country, and true to their God. (Cheers)

A vote of thanks, moved by Mr. John Burnham, seconded by Mr. Wm. Yeland, was tendered the speaker and briefly acknowledged. A hearty vote of thanks was also tendered the chairman and the choir, and the village council for the use of the town hall for the purposes of the present meeting, and to the ladies of the congregation for preparing the edibles for the tea.

The pastor announced a ten cent social for to-morrow evening.

An anthem by the choir, "God be with You," and the benediction pronounced by Rev. Mr. Webber, brought an interesting and instructive evening to a close.

Lincoln's Melancholy.

His Sympathetic Nature and His Early Misfortunes.

Those who saw much of Abraham Lincoln during the later years of his life, were greatly impressed with the expression of profound melancholy his face always wore in repose.

Mr. Lincoln was of a peculiarly sympathetic and kindly nature. These strong characteristics influenced, very happily, as it proved, his entire political career. They would not seem, at first glance, to be efficient aids to political success; but in the peculiar emergency which Lincoln, in the providence of God, was called to meet, no vessel of common clay could possibly have become the "chosen of the Lord."

Those acquainted with him from boyhood knew that early grief's tinged his whole life with sadness. His partner in the grocery business at Salem was "Uncle" Bill Green, of Tallula, Ill., who used at night, when the custom-rs were few, to hold the grammar while Lincoln recited his lesson.

It was to his sympathetic ear Lincoln told the story of his love for sweet Ann Rutlidge; and he, in return, offered what comfort he could when poor Ann died, and Lincoln's great heart nearly broke.

"After Ann died," says "Uncle" Bill, "on stormy nights, when the wind blew the rain against the roof, Abe would set there in the grocery, his elbows on his knees, his face in his hands, and the tears runnin' through his fingers. I hated to see him feel bad, an' I'd say, 'Abe, don't cry'; an' he'd look up an' say, 'I can't help it, Bill, the rain's a fallin' on her.'"

There are many who can sympathize with this overpowering grief, as they think of a lost loved one, when "the rain's a fallin' on her." What adds poignancy to the grief some times is the thought that the lost one might have been saved.

Fortunate, indeed, is William Johnson, of Corona, L.I., a builder, who writes June 25, 1890:—"Last February, on returning from church one night, my daughter complained of having a pain in her ankle. The pain gradually extended until her entire limb was swollen and very painful to the touch. We called a physician, who after careful examination, pronounced it disease of the kidneys of long standing. All we could do, did not seem to benefit her until we tried Warner's Safe Cure; from the first she commenced to improve. When she commenced taking it she could not turn over in bed, and could just move her hands a little, but to-day she is as well as she ever was. I believe I owe the recovery of my daughter to its use."

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.—The parish of St. George was favoured on the 19th ult. by a visitation from the Right Reverend Lord Bishop of the diocese. Matins commenced in the church at 10.30 by singing the processional hymn, "Forward be our watchword," A. and M., the Bishop and clergy marching in procession from the vestry in the west end of the church. Rev. Canon Harding said the introductory part of the service. The Psalms and first lesson were read by the Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of Peterborough; the second lesson by the Rev. Geo. Warren, of Lakefield, who also said the concluding prayers. The Confirmation service followed; fourteen presented themselves to receive that ancient and holy rite, conferring blessings on both candidates and people, as who could witness such a solemn function—the laying on of hands by a successor of the Apostles—and listen to such a practical and soul-stirring address as preceded it, without going back in thought to the time when we ourselves were dedicated to God in Confirmation, and our hearts thrilled with the reception of God's Holy Spirit. The canticles were sung to Gregorian chants, as is the usage in St. George's; and an appropriate selection of hymns A. and M. Dr. Grant presided at the organ. The church was tastefully and artistically decorated by Mrs. and Miss Ayling, aided by Mrs. A. Smith, and attracted the attention of the Bishop, who praised the good arrangement of the various symbols of our Holy Religion. In the afternoon there were services at St. Stephen's. First his Lordship proceeded to consecrate the church—to dedicate and set it apart for sacred uses forever. The Bishop was met in the porch by the clergy, churchwarden and leading parishioners. Mr. C. R. D. Booth, J.P., having read and presented to the Bishop the deed of conveyance, the consecration—a very impressive ceremony—was completed by His Lordship. Then followed Evensong in which the same clergy took part in the same order as in the morning. After which eighteen candidates were presented for the Sacramental Rite of laying on of hands. The church was crowded. A striking feature of the services was the hearty manner in which the people joined in the services and the singing. The hymns were 215, 270, 396 and 349. A. and M., Gregorian chants for the canticles, bringing pleasant memories of happy hours spent in the mother church in the Old Country. St. Stephen's has been made very handsome by the renovation it has recently undergone at the cost of the members of the congregation, Mr. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. R. Elmhirst, Mr. R. Hawkes, and others. The altar has been raised two steps above the floor of the chancel, and has an altar cloth of beautiful design and very churchly, having the sacred monogram and the cross in gilt material. The pulpit, lectern and altar rails are similiarly ornamented, the cushions and kneeler being of rich silk plush. The whole must have been very gratifying to the much respected incumbent and his co-workers, as it was to the Bishop and visiting clergy. The Lord Bishop and clergy, with Mr. Gilmore and other friends, were the guests of C. R. D. Booth, Esq., in the evening.

No Cheese Sold.

Ten and a Quarter Cents the Highest Offer—Adjourned for One Week.

Prices have fallen since the last meeting of the cheese board, and to-day no sales were made, though there was a good attendance of buyers and salesmen. To-day 10½ was the highest bid; two weeks ago Mr. Cluxton's offer of 10¾ was refused. Liverpool quotations were 47s. Last month's makes of cheese were boarded as follows:

Grand total, 3,210.

The first half was first offered for sale. Mr. Cluxton started the bidding with an offer of 10c. for Peterborough board, Mr. Cook raising an eight for selections, Mr. Cluxton bidding the same for the board. This was refused, and Mr. Cluxton further offered 10½ for selections, and named the first five factories on the list, but none accepted.

There were no other offers, and the board adjourned for one week, with the understanding that the factory-men would then be prepared to contract for October cheese.

More Veterans of '37.

To-day there are two more names to add to the EXAMINER'S muster roll of the veterans of 1837-38. Mr. John Rubidge, 328 Charlotte street, town, joined the band of loyalists in Peterborough under Col. Brown, and made the march with the others to Toronto. Here it was found that Col. Brown had enlisted an undue proportion as officers, and a great many of them returned to town, among others Mr. Rubidge, who at once enlisted in the home guard, holding the office of ensign under Capt. Frazer.

Mr. George Greer, of the second concession of Cavan, who is now in his 92nd year, also served in the troublesome times of 1837, and by virtue of such service, is entitled to government recognition in the form of a pension.

Mr. Jas. Beavis, of Ashburnham, enlisted in Capt. Kirkpatrick's company and did duty with the home guard in Peterborough. He is now 70 years of age.

FATE'S FATAL HAND.

DROWNED AT THE HOUR FIXED FOR A MURDERESS TO HANG.

Strange Story of a Horrible Murder and the Way it Was Avenged. A Montreal Sensation of Long ago Revived.

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—Susan Kennedy, serving a life sentence in the Kingston Penitentiary for a murder committed in Montreal eleven years ago, died this week of consumption, and with her life ends one of the most remarkable chapters in the criminal history of Canada.

The crime for which she suffered was the murder of Mary Gallagher under peculiarly atrocious circumstances, the body of the victim being found with the head and right arm hewn off and otherwise mutilated. After committing the deed the murderess went quietly to sleep in the same room with the body of the victim.

Susan's history is the old one of man's duplicity and woman's frailty; of gradual descent from respectability and comparative affluence to the lowest depths of degradation, a terrible murder, and ending with a lingering death in prison after a narrow escape from the gallows.

Twenty years ago she came to Montreal from Dublin, Ireland, leaving a comfortable home and parents who all but worshipped her. She came to relatives with whom she remained for some time, but she quarreled with them and secured a situation as governess with the family of a prominent citizen still in business here.

Young, more than ordinarily handsome, full of life and vigor, the spirited young Irish girl was courted and flattered to her heart's content. In an evil moment her employer accomplished her ruin. She consented to a marriage with Jacob Myers, a common laborer, and half imbecile, while her acquaintances wondered. She dropped out of their lives and was soon forgotten, or, if remembered at all, remembered with a shrug, a laugh, or perhaps from the more charitable a passing word of pity.

But Susan Kennedy, or rather Susan Myers, was destined to become notorious. Wedded to a man she could but detest, who united to a weak intellect all the detestable and contemptible qualities of which human nature is capable, wearied of life she took to drink. Going rapidly from bad to worse she eventually moved to the slums and became the most notorious of the characters which infested that quarter of the city.

Time and again was she arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and such a terror had she become that when the word was passed round that "Susan Kennedy is drunk again to-night" the policeman on that beat was reinforced by two or three others, as no officer was able to arrest her unaided.

On one occasion she threw a woman with whom she had an altercation from a second story balcony to the yard below.

She was invariably found to have a small hatchet with a razor-like edge slung to a girdle beneath her skirt. This she seemed to cherish greatly and always resisted violently when it was taken from her. For years she alternated between the jail and her miserable apology for a home.

Released on the same day, they proceeded to celebrate by a drunk of large proportions. Meeting a casual acquaintance, Michael Finnagan, they adjourned to Susan's apartments, where, turning the husband Myers out, they started to hold high carnival. Until an early hour the following morning the carousing went on, and it was only back before the noise quieted down and the nearly distracted neighbors had a chance to retire.

At the morning Mrs. Johnston, who lived underneath, noticed a reddish stain on the floor and another on the ceiling of her kitchen. Examining more closely she was horror stricken to perceive that it was blood trickling down from the room above, and gave the alarm. The police burst in the door of Susan Kennedy's room. On the bed on one side of the room lay Susan and Finnagan sleeping. On the table and around the room were broken and empty whisky flasks.

On the floor lay the dead and mutilated body of Mary Gallagher.

Awakening, Susan, the officer demanded, pointing to the remains: "Who is that? What have you done, woman?"

"Oh," she replied, turning calmly in bed, "that's Mary Gallagher. I cut her up."

Crying there and coolly eying the remains of the woman she had murdered she had nothing more to say, had apparently no remorse, and to the day of her death she is not known to have expressed the slightest compunction for her crime.

By the side of the body, or what was left of it, lay the hatchet which Susan had so long carried. In a washtub was the head and right arm, which had been chopped up. There were blood and small pieces of flesh all over the floor.

Susan and Flanagan were arrested and tried for the murder in the following June term of the Court of Queen's Bench. She was convicted, but in her confession exonerated Flanagan from any knowledge of the crime, stating that he was asleep and knew nothing of the occurrence until awakened by the police in the morning.

She was sentenced to be hanged, but was reprieved almost at the last moment and her sentence commuted to imprisonment for life.

And now follows the most curious incident in connection with this case. Flanagan, who had obtained employment as a lageman on the canal at Lachine while stepping from one barge to another on August 1, slipped, fell between the two into the canal and was drowned, thus meeting his death on the very day and hour originally set apart for Susan's execution.

A judgment from Heaven, said the religious, a singular coincidence, said the ungodly.

FOUGHT A DUEL FOR LOVE

AND THEN COMMITTED SUICIDE THROUGH REMORSE.

Killed Himself Here After Slaying His Rival Abroad. A Young Man Who Fled from His European Home Becomes Tired of Life and Takes Arsenic.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Forced to flee to this country because, in a duel, he had killed his rival in a love affair, and made desperate by his misfortunes here and the fact that he could not secure the employment to which his abilities entitled him, Leopold Fedra, a handsome man of 26 years, took poison Sunday and, rushing out of his house, died in a stranger's arms.

Fedra was born in Reichenberg, Bohemia, and was the only son of August Fedra, the Imperial Royal Counsel of the country courts of Austria, who is now dead. After studying at the University in Reichenberg, Fedra entered a medical school in Vienna. When within six months of his graduation time he met and fell in love with Wilhelmina Von Sicklim and his love was returned. He quarrelled with a fellow-student, who was also a suitor for Wilhelmina's hand. A challenge passed and a duel was arranged and Fedra killed his opponent with a pistol shot. This was a little more than a year ago, and Leopold at once came to this country.

He had no friends and was obliged to do all kinds of menial work in order to live. At first he worked as a porter, but lately he had been a waiter and helper in various restaurants but of late has been out of employment. While the Ross family were at tea on Sunday afternoon Fedra suddenly entered the room, looking wild and haggard. "Goodby," he said, and then left the room. He was seen to walk across the street and then stagger and fall. He was quickly taken back to the house, but was dead before medical assistance could be summoned. Death was due to arsenical poisoning.

Among Fedra's effects was found a lock of brown hair encircled with a piece of paper and placed unlabelled in his empty purse. There were also a letter from a woman who signs herself Laura and his citizenship papers, which he secured last March. Written in German was a will which was of recent date, in which he said that his personal property amounted to 12,000 florins, or cash, and this and other real estate consisting of two mortgages on houses in Reichenberg and Vienna he divided among his mother, his two sisters and Vincent Wagner of Reichenberg. The property bequeathed to the latter, the will directs, is to be delivered upon Dec. 24, 1891, which would have been Fedra's twenty-seventh birthday.

MANY LIVES LOST.

Another Conflict Between Guatemalans and Salvadorians on the Border.

CITY OF GUATEMALA, Oct. 7.—Advices received here say the Guatemalans and Salvadorians are fighting again on the frontier. It states war has again been precipitated owing to the inability of the Guatemalan Government to exchange prisoners with Salvador. The first named government shot every Salvadorian soldier captured in the late war. The fight occurred on the borders of the two countries. Barillas has not been satisfied with the peace treaty brought about by the Diplomatic Corps, and it has been a generally accepted opinion that a new war would break out at the close of the coffee gathering season, but no one was prepared for so early an opening of hostilities.

Guatemala's finances are at present in a very bad condition, but it is understood that a part of the Cotton loan will soon be delivered. She also backs generals to command her troops. In every way Salvador is in better condition to sustain war than her larger enemy. Ezeta has the full confidence of the masses, and the officers of her army are superior to those of Guatemala. It is stated about at Salvador has plenty of money and can get almost any amount she wants.

Some of the articles of the peace treaty have been considered by Salvador as not favorable to her dignity, and the Salvadorians are prepared to fight again, but more earnestly than ever.

A TALE OF TWO PRIESTS.

One Robs His Benefactor and Escapes From Jail. The Robbed Man also Arrested.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Oct. 7.—A shanty priest visited a clergyman at Garden River, enjoyed his hospitality and stole a portion of his library. The thief got away with his booty and was followed by a telegram to all stations along the Algoma Branch, but it failed to intercept him. Two days after the robbery the venerable divine started off along the line and was himself arrested by an enterprising officer, who refused to accept the statements of his prisoner that he was the party who had been robbed. Stipendiary McNaughton apprehended the real thief on the main line of the railway, but the fellow broke out of his temporary lock-up and made good his escape. The stolen books were recovered, which is only a slight solace to the feelings of the gentleman who started out to catch a thief and got himself locked up instead.

Mr. T. A. Mackinnon Banqueted.

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—Mr. T. A. Mackinnon, who recently resigned the position of manager of transportation of the Canadian Pacific Railway to accept the general managership of the Boston, Concord and Montreal Railway, was last evening entertained at a dinner at the St. James Club by the officers of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. Mr. W. C. Van Horne, president of the company, occupied the chair, having on his right the guest of the evening, and on his left, Sir Donald A. Smith, K.C.M.G., M.P., while the vice chair was occupied by Mr. T. G. Shaughnessy. Each of the gentlemen delivered addresses eulogizing Mr. Mackinnon.

Charged With Criminal Libel.

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—Fred. L. Jones, a writer for the American press, appeared in the Police Court this morning on a charge of criminal libel preferred by Messrs. Arnold & Co., proprietors of the Caledonia Springs in Prescott county. Jones telegraphed to The Boston Herald that the hotel people used hydrogen gas water in the baths instead of sulphur water. The company now sue him on a charge of criminal libel.

Took Snuff for 100 Years.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 6.—Mrs. James Coley, who died in Easton on Thursday at the advanced age of 110 years and 8 months, was probably the oldest snuff-taker in the world. She contracted the habit in 1790 and followed it up to the day of her death.

DAY DOOMED TO DIE.

THE NIAGARA FALLS MURDERER TO HANG NOV. 18.

A Wife Avenged by a Sister's Confession—A Murderer Who Was Haunted in his Sleep—Another Midnight Sentence of Death.

WELLAND, Oct. 7.—Another example of the speedy and effective character of Canadian justice was given here to-day in the trial, conviction and sentence of Arthur Hoyt Chamberlain Day, the Rochester porter who on July 27 last induced his wife Deserish to accompany him to Niagara Falls and pushed her over the precipice near the whirlpool elevated station.

The trial was held before Mr. Justice Rose and a jury at the Welland Assizes.

The trial opened at 10 o'clock to-day, and within twelve hours Day had been convicted and sentenced to be hanged on Tuesday, Nov. 18, four days following the time fixed for the execution of Rex Birchall, the other foreign murderer who sought Canadian soil on which to perpetrate his crime. Like Birchall, too, he was sentenced about midnight.

The prisoner has maintained a cool demeanor throughout the trial. He is rather good looking and dresses nattily. During the progress of the trial he sported a bouquet of daisies in his coat lapel. Day comes from a very bad source, however. Nearly every member of his family has been convicted of crime. He has three brothers, all of whom are ex-convicts.

The principal witness against him was his sister, Mrs. Quigley. The presence of a motive was clearly proven, as it was shown that on July 12 Day had married another woman named Mary A. Brien at Canandaigua under the name of Arthur Hoyt. The latter obtained knowledge of the previous marriage, and the crown claimed that it was to prevent being convicted of bigamy that he "removed" his first wife, who before her marriage was known as Deseriah Chatterton.

In addition to the story given in evidence by Mrs. Quigley and published below, the woman states that when her brother's crime haunted him in his sleep he would cry out, "There she goes."

After sentencing Day Mr. Justice Rose said he would make the case a reserved one, owing to Day's counsel having taken exception to the admission of certain testimony.

The principal witness for the prosecution was Mrs. Mary Quigley of Rochester, who is a sister of the accused. She has been held in Welland jail since the preliminary investigation on Aug. 11 last in default of security that she would appear at the trial as a witness against the prisoner. She has also been charged with being an accessory to the crime before and after the fact, which charge is still hanging over her.

A novel feature of the trial was the introduction of five photographs, showing the position of the prisoner and his victim at the time of the tragedy, and also the place said to have been occupied by Mrs. Quigley at the same time.

Day Pale and Nervous.

The prisoner looked pale and nervous. He was neatly dressed and wore a buttonhole bouquet.

T. B. Johnston, in addressing the jury, stated evidence would be offered showing that the prisoner, his wife and sister left Rochester for the Falls and only two returned. A short time after the body of Deserish Day was found below the bank and other facts gathered link by link showed that prisoner had to pay his deceased wife four dollars per week for support, that he had been arrested for bigamy, and other facts.

Mary E. Quigley, sister of the prisoner was called by the crown as a witness. She testified: "I live at Rochester. Sunday, July 27, I went with the prisoner and his wife to Niagara Falls via Buffalo. His wife and I had dinner at the Falls and then went over the river to the side and went down the bank towards the whirlpool. My feet got sore and I sat down to rest. The prisoner's wife wanted to see the whirlpool and they went on. I saw then both near the bank. Mrs. Day was near the water. I looked again and she was gone and the prisoner waved a black handker chief."

She Fainted for Effect.

The witness here appeared faint and she was given a chair. She said: "I went to the prisoner and he told me"—here the witness broke down completely and cried piteously and with tears in her eyes she said: "If I must I must. He said he pushed her over the bank, and she never moved nor knew what struck her. The prisoner gave me a ticket to Buffalo and we went there on the same train but in different cars."

The witness identified the dress and other articles worn by the prisoner on the fatal day.

Cross-examined: Am a married woman. My husband left me. Served 40 days in prison, charged with stealing, but was not guilty. Mrs. Day had a bottle with whisky in. [Prisoner here laughed; Mrs. Day would have been. I have kept a house of ill fame. Have not been friendly with my brother. I have.

Mrs. Quigley's evidence was not much shaken by the cross examination. She was in the witness box nearly three hours.

William Darling, gate-keeper at Rochester, testified to the three leaving Rochester on the Sunday.

John Grace, Globe Hotel, Niagara Falls, N.Y., testified to the party taking dinner there.

George McMicking of the Ontario police force, Niagara Falls, testified that he assisted in the finding of the body of deceased.

Addressing the Jury.

Dr. McGarry, coroner, Niagara Falls; Dr Oliver, Niagara Falls, Thomas H. Young, Chief of police, Niagara Falls; S. Frank Enos, Rochester; Patrick C. Kavanagh, Rochester; B. C. Furtherer, Rochester; John C. Hayden, Rochester; Mrs. Hulbert, Rochester, and Detective Rogers, Toronto gave testimony corroborating what evidence had already been given and court adjourned until 2½. Upon court resuming prisoner's counsel said he had no evidence to offer. Mr. German then addressed the jury. He pointed out that the crown had no evidence against prisoner except that of Mrs. Quigley, whose testimony he entirely discredited.

Mr. Johnston for the crown said that Mrs Quigley was testifying against her own brother and would not be likely to swear falsely against him that the prisoner had left his wife lying on the rocks and making no attempt to find whether she were dead or alive.

His Honor then reviewed the evidence, and told the jury to return a verdict upon the evidence. If it was a case of suicide or accident the prisoner was innocent; if not, he was guilty.

The case was given to the jury at 10¼.

The jury came to the judge for instructions, which were given, and they again retired and came in at 12 a.m. with a verdict of guilty.

His Lordship sentenced Arthur Hoyt Day to be hanged on Tuesday, Nov. 18.

Day took his sentence coolly.

Prisoner's counsel had taken exception to admission of certain testimony and the case was made a reserved one. Argument on objections taken will be heard shortly by a full bench of judges.

The Garter Must Go.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 6.—The edict has been issued, and by it the young ladies of the Oswego State Normal School are forbidden to wear the garters now in vogue. Dr. Mary V. Lee, who has charge of the physical instruction of the young ladies, will see to it that they wear their hosiery suspended by side elastic attachments to an undergarment at the waist, or by none at all. The old style, she says, whether worn above or below the knees, hinders free circulation, prevents development and is injurious. She believes a healthy, active mind should be supported by a healthy bodily development. Dr. Lee first made war on corsets, then she gave attention to high-heeled shoes, and both have been abolished.

LATEST NEWS BY CABLE.

Arabs Dying By the Score—Carrion Feeding on the Bodies—A Scullion's Crime—Other Cable News.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Arabs and strangers are dying of cholera by scores along the Red Sea coast. Many of those attacked die within an hour in horrible agony. The inhabitants are afraid to touch the bodies and birds and beasts are feeding on them.

A Scoundrelly Scullion.

VIENNA, Oct. 7.—A scullion named Lederer who was employed in the kitchen of Archduke Sigismond at Gmuend, in Illyria, has been arrested on the charge of putting arsenic in the food prepared for the tables of the Archduke. The Archduke and his suite partook of the food and all were taken sick a short time afterward. Medical aid was hastily summoned and the doctors arrived in time to neutralize the effects of the poison. Lederer's sole object was to effect the dismissal of the Archduke's chef, who had incurred his enmity.

THE GLADSTONIAN KITE.

How Herbert Flies It for the Benefit of His Papa.

[Edmund Yates.]

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Herbert Gladstone's speech at Bacup is another kite from Hawarden. The Grand Old Man knows that the working classes are growing more and more indifferent to his Irish policy, and he is going to take up in a general abstract way reforms in which he thinks the working classes are specially interested. Herbert has been more than once sent out to fly the paternal kite. Some months before the momentous conversion of his father to Home Rule his son began to speak and argue in favor of making terms with Parnell. His speech at Bacup means that Gladstone is going to seek the working class vote by loud professions of interest in the masses, and by a large and shadowy scheme conceived in their supposed interest.

THE NATIONALISTS AND THE HAT.

Speeches by McCarthy, Dillon and Redmond at the Convention.

DUBLIN, Oct. 7.—Sixty-four members attended the National Convention yesterday at the Mansion House. The convention sat in private for an hour and a half and adjourned to the City Hall.

Mr. McCarthy in a speech referred to the trial in Tipperary as grotesque. Mr. Parnell, he said, though absent, was in active co-operation with what they did. He studied and sanctioned all the resolutions.

The party, he said, had faith in the unconquerable Irish people, whom ages of despotic power had not subdued, and they were not likely to be greatly intimidated by the sham Cromwellism of the present day. They had faith in Irishmen abroad and in the great liberal democracy of England. They had faith in their leaders—Parnell, Gladstone and Morley—and the prospect ahead was full of growing light. [Loud cheers.] Mr. O'Connor inveighed against the "Unionist syndicate" working against the Ponsonbys and other tenants as a conspiracy extending from the First Lord of the Treasury to the miserable loafer who does the actual work.

Mr. Redmond said if Irishmen did their duty to themselves, and the Parnellites were able, as he believed they would be, to force the Government to do a small part of their duty, it would be possible to tide over the coming distress without the humiliation and shame of again appealing to the charity of the world.

There was a large crowd outside the hall. The trial at Tipperary having been adjourned until Friday, Dillon, O'Brien, Sheehy, Harrison and Condon returned to Dublin last night. They were met at the station and escorted to Dillon's residence, where Dillon made a brief address. He said he and his associates would be no party to parading the Irish people before the world as a nation of beggars. The people ought not to be driven to beg when there was food enough in the country.

The Woman's Liberal Association of Bradford, England, has given £30 to the National League. Thomas P. Gill, a member of the Irish mission to America, has sailed for the United States.

A Great Change in Scotland.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—While passing through Inverness the other Sunday, the Postmaster-General took the opportunity of paying a visit to the new postoffice, which was opened recently for public business. It is a curious instance of the change that has come over the Scotch feeling on such things, that this act of Sabbath desecration, which 15 years ago would have produced a howl of displeasure from end to end of the country, should have been passed over quite unnoticed by the papers and preachers.

Monument to Martyrs.

PESTH, Oct. 7.—A monument was unveiled yesterday at Arad to the 13 martyrs of the Hungarian revolution of 1849. The whole nation subscribed to the monument. At the unveiling a speech by Kossuth was reproduced by phonograph.

Dynamiters to be Let Go.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Government has decided, under certain conditions, to release a number of the unfortunate men now serving life sentences in British prisons for complicity in the earlier dynamite outrages. Recent investigations have proved beyond doubt that many of these men—probably the majority—were the victims of agents' provocateurs. This discovery, coupled with the fact that no blood was shed by the prisoners and that they have already undergone heavy punishment in convict prisons, has induced the Government to recommend to the crown to give merciful reconsideration to their cases.

"Jack the Ripper's" Threat.

LONDON, Oct. 7. The new threat of "Jack the Ripper" has once more produced a marked feeling of dread throughout the city. Last night the whole of the Whitechapel district was patrolled by hundreds of constables in plain clothes, and at the corner of every street one was on the watch. The police authorities believe that "Jack" is still living in the neighborhood, and it is feared that his mania is on the point of breaking out again.

After Russian Seals.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 7.—A number of Americans at Yokohama and other Japanese ports are fitting out vessels to go sealhunting under the British, German and Japanese flags. Next year the Russian Government proposes to protect the rookeries. Five Russian war vessels are now cruising in Behring Sea with instructions to seize any vessel found sealing within the prescribed shore limit, which is five miles. It is stated that vessels which recently started on sealing cruises will not cruise in the Behring Sea proper. They will station themselves at a narrow pass called Unimak, through which seals pass on the way to the rookeries, and then slaughter them by wholesale.

Canadian Lumber Duties.

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—A special from Ottawa to The Gazette says that J. R. Booth, one of Canada's biggest lumber men, had an interview with the Commissioner of Customs yesterday regarding the intentions of the Government as to the removal of the export duty on logs, so as to permit of Canadian lumbermen getting a reduction on imported sawn lumber from Canada into the United States, as provided by the McKinley bill.

Their Wages Increased.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Vice-President Webb of the New York Central Railway has issued his circular. On and after Oct. 1, 1890, all engineers of two or more years' experience running "mogul" or 10-wheel engines will be paid 4c a mile. All firemen firing "mogul" or 10-wheel engines will be paid 2c a mile. The increase in mileage rates, it is claimed, means an advance in their wages of from 25 to 30 per cent., and places the freight men on a level with the passenger men.

Rube Run to Earth.

LINDEN, Ala., Oct. 7.—Rube Burrows, the notorious train robber, was captured by John McDuffie near Myrtlewood this evening and is now in jail here.

AS THE
Cold Weather
CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millinery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1890.

THE VETERANS OF 1837-38.

A Mr. Merrill, of Belleville, is interesting himself in the behalf of the surviving veterans who did service in the rising of 1837-38, and the EXAMINER has done what it could in collecting, publishing and forwarding to Mr. Merrill the names of such surviving veterans as have reported themselves at this office, where they have received a warm welcome, and a patient and sympathetic hearing of their tales of prowess, services and sufferings. Most of them are old men, who have outlived the limit of the life prescribed by the Psalmist. Their days are in the "sere and yellow leaf;" many of them have outlived their strength, many have outlived their friends, and are but illy provided with this world's goods, and the country should make their declining days as comfortable as possible. One half a century has passed since these men served their country in the field, and hard service it was, and faithfully done. From the number of veterans whom the EXAMINER has the honour to report, it would seem that in this county there are from twenty to twenty-five veterans; taking this as a fair average, it would make the total number of '37 veterans in the country about 1,000. It is to be hoped that the Government will take the matter in hand, and do justice to these once hale, active but now decrepit veterans, who rallied to the defence of the country in time of danger. The pension bill of the Dominion is very small. Last year there was paid for pensions a total $116,030. Of this sum only $3,590 was was military pensions. The veterans of 1812 are rapidly fading away, and in a few years the pension list will be reduced to nothing. And the life of these veterans of 1837 will be necessarily brief. An appropriation of $100,000 a year would give these veterans of 1837 $100 per head, supposing the total surviving number is only 1000. This $100,000 is a very small sum, considering the fact that the United States pays an annual pension list of between seventy-five and one hundred million dollars to the veterans who helped put down their rebellion. Of course the United States is richer than we are. But Canada pays her Governor-General as much as the United States pays her President, and, though Canada would not be expected to pay a yearly pension bill of one hundred millions, yet she might pay her veterans one hundred thousand at least. If the Government at Ottawa, in its spirit of economy, thinks that $100,000 a year is too much for the veterans, no doubt the latter would accept the $150,000 a year which would be saved by the abolition of the Senate, which is composed of men who have never given the country the solid services which the veterans of 1837 have done.

YOUNG MEN, DON'T DESPISE THE OLD FARM.

An agricultural exchange gives the following valuable advice to young men, particularly necessary in the present unpopular condition of honest toil with too many of the farmers' sons.

There is a growing restlessness among the young farmers of this country. Not content with their situation they begin to look for a fairer and better land as soon as they arrive at manhood. The old farm is left behind for a cattle ranch, an orange grove, a cotton plantation, a great wheat farm, or for the factory or store in the great cities, and the happiness and comfort of early life on the farm is for a while forgotten. But the chances are that the young man will see his mistake sooner or later, and heartily wish himself back on the old homestead. No class of men should become so attached to the land that constitutes their home as a farmer, for he not only lives upon it but from it. Food and drink come to him from it, and he learns to read each foot of the surface as other men read a book. His children are born upon it, and there grow up to manhood and womanhood, receiving health, and strength and nourishment of their bodies from it, so that they verily partake of the soil, and it becomes a part of them. Young man, stand by the old farm, whether it be in the east, west, north or south part of this grand country. It has been a friend to you in the past, and will continue to provide generously for you if you give it a chance.

WHAT promises, says the Sanitary News, to be one of the most useful discoveries of the age, particularly in reference to sanitary science, and one affecting every living being, is that made by Mr. Woolheim, of London, England. This is a new method of precipitating sewage, and has been well tested in that country. Ammoniacal gas is the disinfecting power used, and it is said that when it is introduced into sewage it very quickly destroys the microbes of putrefaction and of many diseases; the odor of the sewage is carried away, and in less than an hour it is both deodorized and sterilized. Dr. Klein supports the discovery and confirms all the claims made by the discoverer. If the discovery should be thoroughly verified it will practically revolutionize the sewage system.

The Other Side.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—The Dairymen's Association has raised a great storm among the farmers of the county of Peterborough who have been sending milk to cheese factories, by sending men clothed with a profession to inspect the milk sent to these factories, and we are alarmed by the report they give showing how many farmers supplying milk to those factories have tampered with it in some way, to increase it in quantity or to reduce it in quality. But what alarms us most is the number that is said to be guilty of this fraud; and the men who are said to be guilty are men in whom we have the greatest confidence, and in whom we still have the greatest confidence, and will continue to have until it is clearly proved that they are dishonest. And is this likely to be done in the present case? I answer, no, although they may be convicted by the law that is now to be put in force against them. And why? Because they will not nor cannot (under existing circumstances) get a fair trial, nor was it intended that they should have. Allow me to prove this. First, we have two acts in force against the adulteration of milk supplied to butter or cheese factories—one passed by the Ontario Legislature, providing for the testing of milk at the factory and also of procuring milk direct as taken from the cows. So that if the milk supplied to the factory was found below the standard required by law, then procure milk as taken from the cow; and if it is seen by these tests that that sent to the factory was inferior or of a lower standard than that procured direct from the cow, then the guilt of the person sending the milk was established, and not until then can the fraud be proven. Although there may be many guilty, I have no doubt—I believe confidently that there are many accused or charged with tampering with it

WHO ARE NOT GUILTY.

The other act providing against fraud in supplying milk to factories was passed by the Dominion Government, providing for the test of milk at the factory only, and if found below the standard required by law a conviction may be procured, although every member of the household even to the cat and dog may testify that nothing has been done to the milk in any way by them that would reduce it in quality. Yet if it is not proven that it was not done by another, it will not avail anything, and in order to do this the milk must be taken in charge by some person as soon as it is taken from the cow, who will stand by it until it reaches the factory and see that it has not been tampered on the way to the factory. He may put it under lock and key and hold the key in his own possession, and not allow any other person to touch it, but if he does not sit up all night and watch it, it may be shown that it had been stolen from him while he slept or adulterated on the way to the factory. Now, Mr. Editor, this Dominion Act is a disgrace to the statute book in this enlightened age, and an insult to the intelligence of any people living in the nineteenth century, and a law that no man of honor would avail himself of to prosecute his fellowman; and yet, Sir, we are told that this is the very act under which the milk inspectors are seeking a conviction and will get it, for not a man of them when tried can prove himself not guilty. And then, Sir, that is not all, nor the worst of it. We are further told that the test was made in June, and not a word said about this wholesale fraud until September, three months after, thus depriving the accused of an opportunity of

as taken from the cow. O! no, this would give an honest man a chance of proving his honesty. I ask why do those professors take such an advantage of men or seek to destroy their good name? It is well known to them that there is great difference in pastures and food given to cows, as well as difference in cows, some giving stronger milk than others. This the inspectors tell us themselves, and cite cases where the milk was tested at the factory and found wanting, but the same thing was found by test of milk taken direct from the cow. And then, again, a cow will not give as strong milk in June, when she is at her greatest flow of milk, as she will in September, when the pasture is not so good, and she does not give near so great a quantity. In the absence of an answer given to the above questions, allow me to say that the only reason I can assign for them taking such a course is seeking to put down what they call fraud, is that these professional men think that the benefit they are to the country is underrated, and that they have not been considered of as much consequence, and do not get the respect of the community, and especially the thinking part of it, as they ought to have, and, indeed, this has been shown by a letter published in the EXAMINER some time ago, signed "A Patron of Cherry Grove Factory," in which the writer spoke of them in no measured terms. Perhaps this is their silent answer to that letter. But it may be that this is the way they take to show their importance to the country and the respect they demand. Or, it may be that their funds are low, and that they take this way to replenish them; and they have secured the very best means of doing it, for not a man accused can escape. So they may as well pay the fine, grin and suffer. But is this putting down fraud? I think not, for it is committing a greater fraud, inasmuch as a man's character is of more value than his money; and if they did not intend to defraud a man of his good name they would not have chosen a prosecution under an act where

JUSTICE COULD NOT BE OBTAINED.

But, sir, I fancy it will be the death knell to the professional milk inspectors in the county of Peterborough, at least, if it is not a death blow to the cheese industry as well. For I want to know if any man who has any respect for himself would furnish milk to a cheese factory to be tested by a set of sharpers (please excuse the expression) who would drag a man's character in the slum of public gossip, in order to raise or extol themselves? I think not, but, sir, if there is not something done to secure honest men (for they are not all rouges) from the treatment they are likely to get at the hands of such men the cheese industry in this country is killed, I fear; for I hear every day men declaring that they will never send milk to a factory again until they are secured against injustice in case their milk is found below the standard. Now sir, to meet this difficulty, and to protect the innocent, allow me to propose the following: Let every cheese maker provide a milk test, (for they can be bought in Peterborough at from $2.75 to $4.50) for the factory, and a code of-by-laws approved of by the patrons and cheesemaker, describing what are the duties, and what is required of each patron sending milk to the factory, and the managing of it when there; and appointing one or two of the patrons to assist the cheesemaker to test the milk themselves, and just allow these professional gentlemen to live on their profession until they learn to do right. There are three ways of testing milk which will show clearly enough to satisfy any one whether it has been tampered with or not, and if it is found not up to the mark, give the parties who test the milk power to go on the premises of the accused and procure milk as it is taken from the cows, and if found guilty of fraud, have him tried under your own by-laws and before a jury of the patrons and judged accordingly.

Now, Mr. Editor, I cannot be charged with writing in my own defence, as I do not send milk to a factory, neither are any of my friends accused of fraud; but I speak in defence of the innocent, and if you will kindly give it place in your valuable paper you will oblige.

A LOVER OF FAIR PLAY.

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit This Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmanship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be big business awaiting him this visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterborough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October. dw

A NEW STYLE OF CARRIAGE

The Convenient Mode of Infantile Transportation Adopted in Minneapolis.

[illegible] the rage just now among the ladies of the Northwest, since the fad was started in New York two or three months ago, has just been taken up in Minneapolis, and St. Paul nearly every woman is enthusiastic on the subject and is not to invest in one when her purse permits. Even the engineer of the Knights of the Road, and those who haven't been able to procure the necessary machine have decided that the sport is unwomanly.

Mrs. Florence Lawler of Minneapolis found no difficulty in getting a bicycle, but for a while she found considerable difficulty in getting away from her little 2 year-old child long enough to enjoy long rides on the silent steed. She has solved the problem now, however by an invention which makes the machine a combination between a bicycle and a baby carriage. A seat is securely fastened in front of the handle-bar, where the child sits, and both mother and babe enjoy the ride immensely.

WOMAN IN POLITICS.

A Lady Nominated for Office in North Dakota

The coming election in North Dakota attracts much attention owing to the fact that a lady has been solicited as the Democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction. This is a step of the Democratic leaders in the Northwest ahead of all parties and is attracting the attention of the whole nation. Politically, Under the constitution of that state all women of legal residence and upwards of 21 years of age can vote for any office [illegible] election, any school question and are eligible to any school office. Mrs. Laura J. Elsenhuth who has been thus honored was born in Canada in 1848, her maiden name being Kelley. When she was two years old her parents removed to Iowa, where she was educated in the best institutions of learning. She was for eleven years a teacher in the Iowa public schools and holds a state teachers certificate from the authorities of that state. About three years ago she came to Carrington, Foster county, N. D., as the bride of Willis H. B. Elsenhuth. In 1887 she was elected county school superintendent of Foster county and last June she was re-elected by an overwhelming majority, carrying eleven out of thirteen precincts. She is a woman of fascinating presence, tall and fair, an enthusiastic educator, charming conversationalist, and, above all, a woman of high executive and organizing abilities.

A NEGRO ORATOR.

A Noble Speaker Full of Dramatic Force and Illustration.

Isaiah T. Montgomery has attracted great attention to himself by a most marvellous speech made recently at Jackson, Miss. He is a born orator, judging from the powerful flow of thoughts to which he has given utterance. Mr. Montgomery is of almost, if not quite, unmixed African blood—having all the characteristics of the full-blooded negro. The only other orators of his race who have ever attracted attention were mulattoes—Frederick Douglas being almost white.

Mr. Montgomery was a born slave and was the life attendant, as a boy, of Jefferson Davis's brother. He educated himself, but had the inspiration of apparently a very intelligent father and the opportunity of Mr. Davis's magnificent library. He served in the gunboats of the Mississippi campaign under Porter, spent some years in Ohio after the war, and returned to Mississippi to purchase, with his father and brother, the plantation on which he had lived as a slave. After many vicissitudes—all most graphically told in his modest autobiography—he established a little colony in his State, and seems to have gathered a handsome competency for himself and family. He is and has always been a Republican in politics.

His Error.

Peddler (in a conciliatory tone)—I presume those lovely children in the yard are yours, madam?

Madam (frigidly)—I have no children.

Was Anxious About the Coffin.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—John Bowden, who committed suicide in London on Thursday, had one anxiety on his mind at the time he died. He was afraid the coffin would not be of that superior quality that his position entitled him to. So much did it worry him that he went to the undertaker's and dropped the following letter into the letter box:

GENTLEMEN,—I write this for you to come to 16 Abbey street to make me a good strong polished elm coffin with brass nails. I have sent you the key of the front door to avoid taking up body to the mortuary. My nephew will furnish you with papers and pay all expenses. Make the box as soon as you can. Yours, JOHN BOWDEN.

Then he hurried home, and when the undertaker and the police came they found John hanging to a nail behind the door, as dead as the projection to which he was appended.

Rats Chewed up His Fortune.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 6.—Steve Berger, a miner living on the Missouri River, near Chamberlain, S. D., had been in the habit for several years past of secreting his surplus cash in a cellar under his house. The pile, which was all in bank bills, had accumulated until the total amounted to $700. To-day he visited the cellar to count over his secreted horde, as was his wont upon Sunday, when to his surprise and chagrin he discovered that the rats had chewed up the bills until they were entirely worthless.

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

Life Insurance Policy Holders SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a year when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $818,204, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$49,964,376	2.07
Confederation	17,674,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,637	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,617	10.36
North American	9,470,230	10.66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Where the Crowd Went.

One of our brother grocers had a man placed opposite the door of W. J. Morrow's Saturday with a massive pile of dodgers so anxious was he to attract the stream of customers which kept pouring in, the shop being packed with people looking for his big bargains, but we don't blame them. Why, our city papers are increasing their business greatly, others going into advertising every day trying to lure the public, but they cannot do it, the latter knowing where they can buy goods 25 per cent. cheaper than elsewhere. The Late James Pollie.

The Kingston Whig says:—A service in memory of the late James Pollie was held in the hall used by the members of the Canadian Order of Foresters at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. In life Mr. Pollie was an active member of the society and highly respected by the brethern. They were all present and listened with a great deal of interest to an able address given by Rev. Mr. Mackie, pastor of St. Andrew's church. He spoke very flattering of the deceased and pointed out the necessity of young men following his example until they reached that higher brotherhood from which there is no departure. The speaker traced the life of Mr. Pollie from the Sunday school and told of the manner in which he had performed all his duties. As a son he was dutiful and kind to his widowed mother and as a brother he was loved by all around him. He was a kind husband and mindful of the responsability he had taken upon himself. As a member of the order he was always ready to work energetically for the court. He lived as he died and it could be truly said of him, "Well done good and faithful servant." The chief ranger thanked Rev. Mr. Mackie for his services.

The School Board.

Discussions on Various Subjects—Scholarships for the Institute—New School Regulations.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the school board Tuesday evening, there being present Mr. Stevenson, chairman, Messrs. Burnham, Boucher, McKee, Denne, Ferguson, Hamilton, Rutherford, Wrighton, Corkery, English and Dumble.

THE DISPUTED TERRITORY.

Under the head of enquiries, Dr. Boucher asked the chairman if he had taken any steps to settle the dispute regarding the ownership of the Central School property, as he had been instructed to do.

Mr. STEVENSON replied that he had not yet got any legal opinion, but the Deputy-Minister of Justice had given him to understand that in his opinion the property belonged to the Collegiate Institute. Mr. Stevenson said he intended to get legal opinion on the matter.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Mr. W. H. Walkey asked the Board to supplement his salary for extra services rendered during the past two terms, when he fulfilled the duties of Principal of the Public School during Mr. Smith's illness.—Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

Mr. John Jeffers, English master in the Collegiate Institute, asked for an increase of $100 to his salary, in accordance with the terms of his engagement.—Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

Mr. John Surling, headmaster of the South Ward School, called the attention of the Board to the fact that there were a number of children in the South Ward who did not attend school.

A check for $956.59 was received from the department, grant for the first half of 1890 for the Collegiate.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE IN SEPTEMBER.

	On Roll.	Av. Att.
Collegiate Institute	175	156

Fees for September in the public school were reported to be $5.

ACCOUNTS.

The following account were received and referred to the Finance Committee:

S. Sharpe	$ 75
C. Barrett	31 50
Miss Cameron	2 80
Miss Blown	5 00
A. Hall	67 22
A. McDonald	105 38
Jas. Payton	5 00

Water Co	10 50
H. P. McDonald	33 25
Cole Harrett	10 70
Wm. Wand	8 10
A. McDonald	37 14
Geo. Benson	50
J. R. Stratton	170 06

PAYING THE BILLS.

The Finance Committee recommended the payment of theses accounts:—Dickson Co., $19 50; G. Benton, 75; G.N.W.Tel. Co., 25c; Wm. Wand; $17.04. The committee recommended that G. Tighe be paid five dollars in full of his account, and your committee would recommend that any payment to the janitor for extra services at the examinations be discontinued in the future.

The report was adopted.

MUSIC IN THE SCHOOLS.

The following report of the committee on appointments was read:—

The Committee on Appointments having considered the application of Mr. Ketchum, beg to report:

That education in local music is provided for in all the most advanced schools. It is found that the training, besides giving a most refining accomplishment, greatly assists in securing good articulation and reading.

Your committee recommend that Mr Ketchum be paid $600 a year, he giving all his time during five days in the week to the instruction of the pupils in the several public schools, and so far as he may have time to the pupils of the high school.

Mr. Ketchum proposes that he shall give one lesson a week of one hour to all the pupils in the second, third and fourth books in the public schools, instead of half an hour, as at present.

We think the benefits to be derived justify the expenditure, and recommend it.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

D. W. DUMBLE,
Chairman.

The report was adopted, Mr. Dumble explaining that the singing classes did not interfere with the regular studies.

SCHOOL REGULATIONS.

Mr. Denne asked on behalf of Mr. George Powell that he be not compelled to pay fees for his children attending the town schools, as Mr. Powell had been compelled to remove his slaughter house outside the town by the Board of Health, and of course he moved his place of residence with it. Mr. Powell's school fees were remitted for this year.

Mr. Dumble brought up the case of a young lady, a most worthy person, he said, who wished to attend the Collegiate Institute but could not afford to pay the fees. On motion the chairman of the Supervision Committee was empowered to investigate the circumstances and if advisable remit the fees in this case.

A discussion took place regarding the attendance of ward pupils at the Central School, which was overcrowded. It was decided that no more outside pupils were to be admitted to the Central School, those at present there (about a dozen) to be allowed to continue only till the end of the term.

Mr. Dumble moved that the Secretary enquire of the Principal of the South Ward School if he collected fees from outside pupils attending the school, and if not, authorize him to do so.—Carried.

KINDERGARTEN ASSISTANTS.

The question of securing aid for Miss Warren in the kindergarten class was discussed. It was difficult, Mr. Dumble said, to get qualified young ladies to give their services there free of charge, and at present Miss Warren had too much work on her hands. On motion the Committee on Appointments was authorized to procure assistants for Miss Warren at a cost not exceeding $100 a year.

INSTITUTE SCHOLARSHIPS.

Dr BOUCHER brought up a new matter. He said that the late Mrs. Nicholls had left a bequest of $2,000 to the Collegiate Institute, the interest on which was to be expended as the board deemed advisible. He suggested that a special committee be appointed to expend it. His idea was that medals or scholarships might be bought with the money and given the pupils as a reward and stimulus. Of course this was rather premature, as the twelve months limit would not be up till May, but he moved that a committee, composed of Messrs. Dumble, Burnham and McKee (and the mover), be appointed to consider the question of establishing scholarships and report to the board. —Carried.

After some desultory discussion regarding school debentures, crowded rooms, improvements to buildings, and a short speech by the new principal of the Collegiate Institute, Mr. Fessenden, the board adjourned.

Telephone Organization.

The Shareholders Meet and Elect Officers and Receive Reports—The Meeting Largely Attended.

The first general meeting of the shareholders of the Ontario Telephone Company was held at the company's office, Simcoe street, last night. There was a large attendance of shareholders, including the following:—Messrs. James Kendry, President of the Provisional Board Directors, D. O. Frye, Geo. Edmison, C. H. Clements, A. L. Davis, Jas. A. Wright, Manager of the Federal Telephone Co., Montreal, F. E. Bell, Secretary, Thos. Brooks, J. E. Dolan, R. B. Rogers, W. Sailsbury, A. E. Dixon, J. I. Davidson, W. H. Meredith, Geo. W. Wyatt, Dr. Goldsmith, R. Malholland, Louis Fobert, Bridgenorth, J. T. Grange, Geo. McWilliams, R. M. Denniston, W. H. Hill, J. J. Hartley, J. H. Roper, R. Fair, Chas. Stapleton, R. Kingan, David Day, Geo. Walrath and Arthur Stevenson.

Mr. J. Kendry, chairman of the Provincial Board, occupied the chair and Mr. E. E. Bell, acted as Secretary.

The report of Mr. Frye, Superintendent, was adopted. It stated that there had been purchased 326 poles, and that over 300 had been placed. It was also stated that the first instalment of 100 telephones had arrived and would be placed at once so that on the arrival of the remainder of the instruments the completion of the exchange will be hastened.

In answer to the inquiry of a stockholder, Mr. Frye stated that the prices paid for poles, cables and other supplies was between $700 and $800 lower than the estimate, a statement that was received with applause.

The report was adopted.

The draft by-laws were submitted and adopted. In respect to the distribution of stock the chairman, in response to an inquiry, said it was pretty well distributed throughout the town.

In reply to Mr. J. J. Hartley, Mr. Frye said the number of subscribers for instruments was between 230 and 240, besides many verbal orders for instruments, and in reply to Dr. Goldsmith he said that the number mentioned included about 110 of the Bell subscribers.

A resolution was adopted approving of the action taken by the provisional board of directors, and the date of the annual meeting was fixed for the first Tuesday in October, the financial year to begin on September 1st of each year.

Mr. Wright, being called upon, said that he had no doubts as to the success of the company. In Montreal the service of the Federal was, he asserted, so much better than that of the Bell that they had no difficulty in getting $10 a year more for their instruments. The service of the local company will be equal in every respect to that of the Federal. (Applause.)

The ballot for directors resulted as follows: Messrs. Jas. Kendry, J. A. Wright (Montreal), Geo. Edmison, C. H. Clementi, Arthur Stevenson, R. B. Rogers and A. L. Davis.

At a meeting of the directors the following officers were elected:—

PRESIDENT—Jas. Kendry.
VICE-PRESIDENT—Geo. Edmison.
SECRETARY (pro tem)—F. E. Bell.

One Month in Gaol.

"Jimmy" Farley Receives Punishment—The Victim of the Assault Appears.

Once more the harrowing details of stormy life in the Farley household were made public at the court house this morning, when Farley was sentenced to a month in gaol for assaulting his wife.

Mrs. Farley (or Higgins, as she calls herself) appeared in court with her head swathed in a dirty white wool cloud, and her every movement was accompanied by painful grimaces and gestures intended to impress all sympathic observers with the severity of the injuries she had sustained. In the witness box Mrs. Farley's tongue never faltered as she unravelled a tale of woe that would strike terror to the human heart. She said that her life was made miserable by Farley, who had been in the police court for beating her more times than she could remember. He called her the most indecent names, never missed an opportunity to harass her, and had at different times broken her leg, fired a pistol at her, set the dog upon her, and done other inhuman deeds, all of which Mrs. Farley had borne meekly and humbly, without attempting any retaliatory measures. Her son had rented the house in Ashburnham and supplied her with fuel and money, and she sustained herself by doing washing and scrubbing, and all she wanted was to be let alone; but Farley got drunk and was always beating her and abusing her. On Thursday the day of the assault, she had not a drop to drink. She was cooking the dinner when Farley knocked her down, stepped on her shoulder and made it all sore, and then when she was lying on the floor struck her in the head with an axe handle (minus the axe.)

The daughter (Mrs. Flaherty, Otonabee,) also gave her evidence, corroborating her mother's story.

The prisoner then went into the box. He had been fidgetting around in his chair, and muttering to himself during the taking of the evidence. The evidence appeared to astonish him greatly, and of course his story was entirely different. He testified substantially the same as he did on Monday, said he had been abused for the past thirteen years by the women, who had gone through his farm and then lied about him. They got drunk and cut themselves in falling down, and then accused him of striking them. He did not deny using the stick last Thursday, but said they were all beating [illegible] and nagging him, and he did it in self-defence.

The magistrate said he could not understand why Farley did not leave the woman long ago; he was not compelled to live with her. The old man did not give any intelligible answer.

Mr. Edmison said that, upon the evidence, he would have to convict Farley, who, although the women may have brought down the punishment on themselves, had no right to use such a weapon.

The old man rose and melodramatically exclaimed in a broken voice:—"God is good, and He will give justice. Them that slyin' and persecutin' me will have to stand before God."

Farley was then sentenced to a month in gaol, and advised when he came out to take his tools and other property and leave his wife. They were not bound to live together.

The prisoner remarked:—"They ought to be all in. Break up the nest." After which he was led away to begin his term of imprisonment.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The President, Mr. Early, presided at the monthly meeting of the Board of Directors. The attendance and interest shown in the business was good. Very encouraging reports were presented from the Devotional, Invitation, Reception and Finance Committee's and General Secretary report, which showed the work accomplished during the month.

We have been very anxious for some time to clear off our indebtedness, and the circulars sent out, placing our position before the citizens, have brought forth fruit already; we are grateful, and sincerely thank the kind friends who have so promptly responded to the appeal. The Finance Committee will push the canvass until we can praise God, for "we will owe no man anything," but the sympathy and love God has shown us. Friends can help by remitting to Mr. G. A. Schofield what they would like to give to carry on the work among young men at once. We rejoice we have the manifested presence of God in our midst, and there are abundant signs of revival. We ask Christians to pray for us that the good work may go on in reaching and saving young men for Christ.

On Sabbath, November 9th, special sermons will be preached by all our pastors to young men, and meetings will be held each afternoon and evening during the week, it being the week of prayer for young men throughout the world. We are believing for great blessing.

We hope before many weeks the site of our new home will be settled. We are waiting on God for guidance, we want to build where he directs. We are getting crowded out and must have more room if we are to do the Lord's work properly.

Sergt.-Major Randle is conferring a great boon on the young men and blessing to the Association by the physical drill class.

The junior branch is flourishing and we are believing for much fruit from it.

On Thursday evening the first reception will be held. All young men welcome. Musical programme and short addresses.—[COM.

Prizes for the Volunteers.

Valuable Gifts Won by the Rodcent Riflemen.

The regular battalion drill was held last night, and though the muster was fair, some of the companies were short. It is absolutely necessary that there should be a full turnout of the men at the drills between this and inspection day, if the credit of the corps is to be maintained. After this week two drills are to be held a week, so that the most may be made of the time available.

After drill last night the prizes won by the volunteers at the rifle matches were distributed by Major Edwards, as follows:—

Farewell to the Despatchers.

Complimentary Supper by Grand Trunk Employees to the Despatchers' Staff.

The Grand Trunk train despatchers here received notice that they will be removed to Lindsay next Monday, and, much as they regret it, they must, of course, obey. The staff of despatchers will be greatly missed here, and their fellow employees in the station, yards and shops took the opportunity last night of tendering them a formal farewell. About twenty-five of the Grand Trunk employees assembled at the Snowden House, and sat down to an excellent oyster supper prepared by Mr. Snowden. Conductor Morris occupied the chair, and Mr. Brundrette, station agent, the vice-chair. The guests of the evening were the despatchers, Messrs. Geo. Stevens, despatcher in chief, Jas. Lowe, W. Lyons, Jos. Curran, R. McCauley and R. Strype. The two latter gentlemen leave for Lindsay to-morrow and the remainder follow next week.

Mr. Brundrette explained the cause of the gathering, which was to say farewell to their friends in the despatching offices. He was very sorry to lose their companionship and regretted that the company had seen fit to remove them from Peterborough. Other speakers followed in a similar strain, among them Conductor Morris, Mr. Payton, Mr. Somerville and Mr. W. Hogan.

The guests replied individually and all expressed their regret at having to leave Peterborough and their many and kind friends behind. They hoped, however, to have as happy a time in Lindsay as they had in Peterborough.

The proceedings were enlivened by songs from Messrs. H. Varcoe, W. Logan and T. Byan, and a recitation by Mr. T. Osborne.

The evening was brought to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

More than the Grand Trunk employees will regret the removal of the despatchers to Lindsay. Individually they were all fine fellows, who had many warm friends in town.

Mr. Lowe was secretary-treasurer of St. Paul's Sunday school, from the officers of which he has received a most cordial vote of thanks for his services.

WEATHER NOTES.—September, with all its fading beauty and premature falling leaf, has once more bid us farewell. The three first days were fine and pleasant. On the 4th it took a change, rain falling on four days, although not heavy, still it made all things disagreeable. But on the 11th we had a fine old-fashioned hand-in-hand storm, falling 1 inch and 30 100 of an inch, being the heaviest of the month, and, although rain fell on 13 days, still it only fell 2 inches and 30-100 of an inch, being rather below the average for September, with only one thunder storm during the month. The 7th was the hottest, but the thermometer only reached 87° in the shade. We had frost on five mornings, the severest being on the 29th, the glass coming down to 24°, leaving the mean temperature of the month at 53 9-30°. What we were deficient in thunder we got in fox, curtaining us seven times, and auroral lights, although only iv date, on the 14th and 16th nights. The following is the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month, respectively, namely: North-west, 9 days; south-east, 2 days; south-west, 11 days; north, 2 days; east, 2 days; south, 1 day, and north-east, 3 days.

KEMMLER'S EXECUTION.

THE OFFICIAL REPORT OF DR. MACDONALD.

The Man Was Dead at the First Contact, and His Exit from This World Was Instantaneous and Painless.

ALBANY, Oct. 8.—By the presentation to Governor Hill to-day of an official report of the execution of William Kemmler, the chances of condemned criminals escaping the electrical execution law are made very slim. The report is from the pen of Dr. Carlos F. Macdonald, who had charge of the execution, and recites carefully every incident of arrangement and consummation of the execution, giving graphic accounts and descriptions of all the details of machinery and its workings, together with the stenographic notes of the autopsy.

Dr. Macdonald says: For obvious reasons the only means of determining the question of death was by ocular demonstrations, so that it cannot be positively asserted that the heart's action entirely ceased with the onset of unconsciousness, though in all probability it did. Explaining the effect of the current, Dr. Macdonald says: "The instant the contact was made bodily sensation, motion and consciousness were absolutely suspended and remained so while electrical contact was maintained. At the end of 17 seconds Kemmler was pronounced dead, none of the witnesses dissenting, and the warden signaled to have the contact broken, which was done. When the electrical contact was broken the condition of rigidity was instantly succeeded by one of the complete muscular relaxations. The body remained motionless and apparently lifeless for approximately one half minute, when there occurred a series of slight spasmodic movements of the chest, accompanied by the expulsion of a small amount of mucus from the mouth. There were no evidences of return of consciousness or bodily sensation, but in view of the possibility that life was not wholly extinct and in order to take no risk the current was ordered to be reapplied, which was done within about two minutes from the time the first contact was broken. Dr. Macdonald argued that Kemmler died instantly and the intent and purpose of the law to effect painless death in the execution of criminals had been completely and successfully carried out. It is argued that death was instantaneous Dr. Macdonald says. Notwithstanding the wide publication of unofficial reports of the execution of Kemmler and the efforts which have been made to proclaim it a failure and to invest it with an air of repulsion, brutality or horror, it is confidently believed that when all the facts in the case are rightly understood the first execution by electricity will be regarded as a successful experiment.

In spite of defects of a minor character the important fact remains that unconsciousness was instantly effected, and death was painless. The involuntary reflex movements after the first current were, the Doctor says, nothing compared with those usually exhibited by animals suddenly decapitated, and which usually continue for some seconds or even minutes. If there was a spark of unconscious vitality remaining in Kemmler's body after the first contact was broken there certainly was no conscious life.

Compared with hanging, in which death is frequently produced by strangulation with every indication of conscious suffering for an appreciable time on the part of the victim, execution by electricity is infinitely preferable to it as regards the suddenness with which death is effected and the expedition with which all the immediate preliminary details may be arranged.

The report recommends that there be but one plant for execution of criminals by electricity, located in the central part of the State in a building especially constructed for that purpose, and that the voltage be no less than 1500 nor more than 2000.

THE M'KINLEY TARIFF.

The Leader of the Opposition Declares for Reciprocity.

ARBOTTSFORD, Que., Oct. 8.—Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, leader of the Canadian Liberal party, addressed the electors of the counties of Rouville, Bagot, St. Hyacinthe and Shefford, and gave the first deliverance on the question of reciprocity since the passage of the McKinley bill. He declared for reciprocity in natural products in manufactured goods and outlined the policy of the Liberal party as an adhesion to that principle. He felt sure that the McKinley bill would prove disastrous to Canada. In the evening Mr. Laurier was presented with an address at St. Hyacinthe, and in replying gave good reasons why he considered the elections would not be held this season.

ST. HYACINTHE, Que., Oct. 8.—Hon. Mr. Laurier spoke again here to-night. He declared that unrestricted reciprocity with the United States was the only means by which the two nations could dwell side by side in peace, and the only policy by which in future any government can gain or hold power. The sentiment was growing in the United States and the Liberal party would persevere until it was an accomplished fact.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—One of the effects of the McKinley tariff law has been to extinguish export trade in metallic bedsteads from Birmingham. This was a comparatively new business, but had come to amount to $150,000 a year and was rapidly increasing. Dozens of similar instances are coming to light in every direction. An unlooked-for effect of the American tariff is that the English markets are being flooded with German and Belgian goods, which are being offered at prices with which English manufacturers find it difficult to compete. This state of things is attributed to the determination of manufacturers in those countries to find by hook or crook some market in place of the one closed to them by the McKinley tariff law.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Amsterdam advices represent that the feeling in the Dutch ports is most bitter regarding the McKinley tariff, and the Dutch ministry is endeavoring to devise some method of retaliation. This is difficult, owing to the fact that American trade with Holland has been nearly one-sided.

Gouverneur Wins the Sovs

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The race for the Middle Park Plate of 500 sovs at Newmarket to-day was won by Mr. M. E. Blanc's Gouverneur, Mr. Baird's Siphonia second, Duke of Westminster's Orion third.

The City of New York beat the Teutonic 54 minutes. The New York's time was 5 days 21 hours 19 minutes, which beats her own best record for a western trip.

A NOTED OUTLAW KILLED.

ARRESTED, JAILED AND SHOT DEAD IN HIS CELL.

Two Negroes Caught Him by Surprise and Held Him Until the Officers Came—After Being Locked in Jail He Was Shot Dead by the Sheriff.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 8.—Rube Burrows, whose arrest was chronicled yesterday, was shot and killed in Linden jail early this morning by the sheriff and guards. They allege he was trying to escape.

DEMOPOLIS, Ala., Oct. 8.—John McDuffee and others sent out by the Southern Express Company captured Rube Burrows this afternoon in South Marengo. Burrows had placed his rifle in the corner of the room of a house which he had entered, but had his revolvers in his pocket. The darkies engaged him in conversation and then grabbed him by his hands, preventing his shooting. Burrows fought the darkies manfully until McDuffee and others got into the house when, after a desperate struggle, they succeeded in conquering and securely tieing the great desperado. McDuffee went to Linden jail this afternoon with Burrows strapped hand and foot in front of him on his horse, lying across—head on one side and feet on the other. There was $3500 reward for his capture.

There were originally five men in the Burrows gang and all five have been arrested. No man is now at large who can say that he has ever robbed a Southern express train. About $10,000 has been spent in the capture of Burrows and his gang.

Rube Burrows' life furnishes an exciting piece of criminal history. He was born in North Alabama about the beginning of the war of the Rebellion and is about 29 years old. His first crime was committed when he was 19 years old. A companion and he were out hunting one day when a dispute arose over some trifle and Burrows killed him.

Along in 1885, when Burrows was a mere youth, he organized a band of thieves. He was their captain. They made whisky and sold it to the farmers up in his neighborhood.

Burrows, it is said, tried counterfeiting money, but was unsuccessful and gave it up. His next escapade occurred near Pine Bluff, Ark., three years ago. He, his brother Jim Burrows and Nick Thornton robbed an express car of $20,000. Jim Burrows was captured and sentenced to the penitentiary for 20 years. After that robbery Rube and Nick Thornton concealed themselves in a little hut in the mountains near Vernon.

After a while they came out from their fort and resumed making whisky.

On the night of Dec. 13 last, as the north bound Illinois Central express train, No. 2, was pulling out from Duck Hill, a small station midway between New Orleans and St. Louis, the train was stopped by masked men, the express car entered and $45,000 stolen. A passenger named Chester Hughes who offered resistance was shot dead in his tracks. In July, 1889, Burrow ordered masks from a Chicago firm under an alias. He directed them to be sent by mail to Jewell, a post office near Vernon. The postmaster refused to deliver them. Old man Gardener, the postmaster, became angry at Burrows' threats and ordered him away. Burrows killed him. Some women who were near rushed in as soon as they heard the shooting. He tipped his hat to them as they entered the door, and selecting the best looking one of the crowd threw his arms around her neck and implanted a very hearty smack on her lips. He then quietly walked to his horse, tipped his hat again and galloped away. Since that time many efforts have been made to capture Burrows, but no officer has succeeded in laying hands on him until now.

Billy O'Connor is in Old London.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—William O'Connor, the champion oarsman of America, posted £100 as the first deposit in his match with Kemp, which was arranged in Australia. The match is for £1,000 and is to be rowed in America in March.

Drowned.

SIMCOE, Oct. 8.—[illegible] year old child of A. E. Longmore, aged 11 years, was playing on the bridge near Crystal Lake with her 4-year-old sister to-day and it is supposed she slipped and fell into the water, where it is about 15 feet deep. Mr. Sebring, who was passing, seeing a child in the water jumped in, but was unable to find the body. When the body was recovered life was extinct.

TILSONBURG, Oct. 8.—Tilsonburg to-day voted on a $10,000 bonus by-law to the Tilsonburg, Lake Erie & Pacific Railway. The by-law was carried by a large majority, nearly three-fifths of the qualified ratepayers voting for the bonus.

IN THE GALLOWS' SHADE.

Day's Execution Postponed Until December 18—Birchall Resigned to His Fate.

WELLAND, Oct. 8.—When the Assize Court opened this morning Mr. Johnston, Crown counsel, called the attention of Judge Ross to the fact that he had made a mistake in pronouncing sentence on the prisoner Day, convicted of wife murder. In passing sentence His Lordship named Thursday, 18th November, as the day of execution, and counsel pointed out that Tuesday was the 18th November. His Lordship replied that the mistake had already been called to his attention, and said he intended the execution to take place on Thursday, 18th December. He therefore made a record of the mistake and would notify the Minister of Justice in order to have the prisoner reprieved for one month. The order was at once telegraphed to the Minister of Justice.

Day appears to be as calm and indifferent as before conviction, and his guard says he slept soundly throughout the night. Mrs. Quigley, who is still in jail, is completely broken down and weeps copiously while she talked, but she stoutly adhered to the story she told in court. She deplores her brother's fate, but is bitter against him because at the trial he attempted to convince the jury that it was she who pushed Mrs. Day over the cliff. She will be discharged from custody this evening.

Birchall Resigned to His Fate.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Birchall and her sister, Mrs. West-Jones, visited the prisoner for a few minutes yesterday afternoon, but under the new regulations only one visit a week will be allowed hereafter. This will probably be on a Wednesday or Thursday. Birchall's spiritual adviser continues to pay him regular calls and this is producing its effect on the doomed man, as he evinces much interest in Rev. Mr. Wade's visits. The prisoner was allowed to read the new jail regulations yesterday, and although they were very stringent he offered not a word of dissent. He appears now quite resigned to his fate.

It looks as if Birchall would be one of the few murderers to go to the gallows without some fanatics at least petitioning for a commutation of his doom. So far there is not the first hint of any petition being circulated for him, and if any one did go to the trouble but few signatures could be obtained here, where the condemned man is best known.

Pickthall has once again determined to settle down and is buying a farm near Woodstock. Out of some $10,000 or $12,000 he still has $4000 or $5000 left and his principal trouble now is how he will get his wife back, as her parents for some mysterious reason refuse to let her have anything more to do with or even to see him.

Birchall still gets his food from the hotel and will continue to do so to the end.

Morin Must Hang.

QUEBEC, Oct. 8.—The judgment of the Court of Appeal in the case of Morin, the Montmagny murderer, was given this morning. Chief Justice Dorion said: "Although the present case is unique in the annals of criminal jurisprudence of this country, it is quite evident that the writ of error in virtue of which the present case was brought before this tribunal is illegal, for no writ of error will be authorized in a criminal proceeding except when a motion for such writ has been duly presented to the judge presiding. In this case no such motion was filed before Judge Pelletier, and so this writ is illegal from its loss and should never have been granted by the Attorney-General." His Honor then dismissed the case and ordered Morin to be conveyed to St. Thomas and there to be surrendered to the Montmagny sheriff and hanged on the 17th of October.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Canadian's Mysterious Death in Arizona.

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—Robert Hardie, a Canadian, was murdered in Arizona on Queen's Birthday of this year. He was in company with his brother-in-law, Dr. Haynes of Los Angelos, Cal., at the time. The latter gave a detailed circumstantial account of how Indians committed the murder, but officials at Los Angelos believe that it was a white man and not Indians that "did up" Barrister Hardie.

Mr. Hardie formerly lived in Strathroy, where his sister, Mrs. Sexton, now resides. He was well known in that and other towns, and also in Toronto. Dr. Frank Haynes, now of Los Angeles and formerly of Philadelphia, was his brother-in-law. Mr. Hardie was murdered on May 24 last near Tombstone, Arizona. Dr. Haynes communicated with Mrs. Sexton merely to the effect that Mr. Hardie had died suddenly. All attempts to obtain particulars of the accident were futile, and as the murdered man had a considerable sum of money in his possession and no account of it can be obtained from the brother-in-law Mrs. Sexton will visit California to secure evidence as to the actual nature of her brother's death, some startling developments having reached her ears of late. In May last Mrs. Sexton wrote a business letter about money matters to her brother Robert, who was a leader in the law courts. He placed the letter in his coat pocket, hung the coat in the hall, and on returning from court found the letter missing. In reply to this letter a note purporting to be written by the dead man was received, stating how well off he was financially.

A peculiar accident occurred yesterday afternoon to a wedding party on their road to the train. In rounding Simcoe-street at King the horses turned too close, overturning the cab and dumping the bride and bridegroom and a lady and gentleman friend in the mud on their heads. They escaped with no injury, but the driver, George Jenkins, received serious injuries.

Wright Isherwood of Robinson-street had been separated from his wife for six weeks. On Tuesday he went to see her and found her dead body in the house. Isherwood started to take out the furniture, but was stopped by the relatives of his dead wife, who had him arrested on an old warrant for drunkenness. To the Magistrate he yesterday morning said that his wife was worth $20,000 and that her relatives had caused the domestic trouble. He was allowed to go.

The new structure recently erected at York station by the railway branch of the Toronto Young Men's Christian Association was formally opened on Tuesday night by a public tea meeting and literary entertainment, which was attended by upwards of 400 residents of East Toronto village and friends from the city and neighborhood.

Mr. A. B. Craig, chief clerk of the Rossin House, has resigned his position, and, it is said, will probably move to New York. Mr. Craig has been at the Rossin House for six years, and when Harry Nolan died, nearly three years ago, Mr. Craig succeeded him.

POISON IN THE GOOSE.

Strange Death of a Little Colored Girl at St. John, N.B.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 8.—Annie Burns, a 12-year-old colored girl, died under peculiar circumstances last night. Early in the evening she called at the house of George McLeod, Orange-street, and there was given a piece of goose by one of the kitchen girls, which she ate going home. She complained of pains in the head and during the night took violent convulsions, dying early this morning. The body of the girl is swollen and the tongue protrudes in a terribly disfigured condition.

A Forger's Novel Scheme to Escape Jail.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Oct. 6.—One night in May last a well-known farmer named James Christie, while bathing in Fletcher's Lake, Cass County, called to his companions that he was drowning. He disappeared and the lake was dragged, but the body was not found. His clothes were found where he had taken them off. Christie put in an appearance yesterday. He explained that he had clothes, hat, etc., secreted near where the party was bathing, and, putting them on left for the west. Numerous forgeries were found to have been committed by Christie, but his wife paid them off at 25 cents on the dollar after Christie's supposed drowning.

HICKS-BEACH AND BALFOUR PRONOUNCE THE CRY ABSURD.

Renewal of the Excitement in Whitechapel Over Jack the Ripper Scare—The Thunderer Has Something More to Say as to the McKinley Tariff.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Times says there is no reason to quarrel with the United States over the McKinley bill, but the less said about friendliness and kinship between the two countries the better. The article urges Canada to adopt Free Trade, as she will then be able to practically exclude America from competition.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The little town of Saffron-Walden, in Essex, is the scene of much rejoicing over the safe return of young Pelly from Canada, where he is popularly believed to have had a narrow escape from the fate which overtook his companion Benwell. The streets of the place are decorated with flags and arches, and the numerous friends of the Pelly family are giving the returned wanderer a hearty welcome home.

THE IRISH NATIONALISTS.

"The Tale of a Traveler"—Morley as "An Envoy of Peace."

LONDON, Oct. 8.—John Morley delivered an address at Swindon last night. Replying to criticisms on his recent speech at St. Helen's he ridiculed the idea that because he had been a Cabinet Minister he should blindfold himself to affairs in Ireland. He said what pleased him more than being a Minister was being an envoy of peace and hope from the democracy of England to the democracy of Ireland. Every word he had told Englishmen about happenings in Ireland was true, and he was glad to have helped in the exposure of the magisterial authorities. He blamed the Ministers for the condition of the Crimes Court in Tipperary. After describing the distress in the congested districts of Ireland, Mr. Morley suggested that a remedy was available by renewing the proposals as to the Irish Land Bill made in 1886 and inviting the co-operation of the Irish landlords.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, speaking at Gloucester yesterday, described Mr. Morley's statements regarding his experience in Ireland as a traveler's tale. The recurrence of the famine of 1884, he said, was impossible under the changed condition of the people. The Government had taken measures to prevent any extended suffering on account of the failure of crops, and was willing to accept suggestions made in good faith from all quarters for the promotion of comfort and prosperity among the poor in the land. In his opinion the problem must be solved by helping the people to help themselves.

Right Hon. Mr. Stanhope, Secretary for War, made a speech at Horncastle in a similar strain. He declared the alleged famine in Ireland only existed in the imagination of the Parnellite leaders and American anglers for the Irish vote.

Referring to the new United States tariff, he believed it was directed largely against England and Canada, and that it would do Canada serious injury. The working classes in England would suffer to a large extent, but the greater injury would be done to the Americans themselves. It behooved the Government to find fresh outlets for British capital.

Edmund Yates' Daughter-in-Law in Court

LONDON, Oct. 8.—In the Bow-street Police Court to-day Maud Yates, aged 28 years, was charged by Edmund Yates, proprietor of The World, with forging and uttering checks in his name for £100. Yates deposed that the prisoner was the wife of his son Frederick, but had lived apart from him for some time. He had allowed her £4 a week. When going away on holidays last spring he left a number of signed checks with his secretary to send to her. One of these had been sent without the amount being filled in, and this Mrs. Maud Yates had made out for £100. Bail was granted her in two sureties of £100 each.

The Cry of General Famine Absurd.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Secretary Balfour says the cry of a general famine in Ireland is absurd and the authorities will be able to relieve all cases of real distress.

Women Detectives After "The Ripper."

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The police are closely watching for Jack the Ripper. They have added a number of women detectives, who nightly prowl through the squalid thoroughfares of Whitechapel, shadowed not far away by members of the regular force. In fact, the police are employing the very class of women that Jack has heretofore selected as his victims, hoping by this device to catch him red-handed in the act.

Railway Accident in Burmah.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Advices from Rangoon, British Burmah, state that a mail train was thrown from the track near there, killing one person and injuring 20. An investigation was made as to the cause of the accident and it was discovered that the line had been tampered with.

Funeral of Mrs. Gen. Booth.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The body of Mrs. Booth, the wife of the Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army, lies in state in Clapton Hall. Thousands of persons are filing past the coffin. Elaborate preparations are being made for the funeral, which will take place at Abney Park on Tuesday. Arrangements have been made for railway excursions from all parts of the country. A requiem service will be held on Monday night, at Olympia, where there will be seats for 24,000 persons. The funeral cortege will start from the Thames Embankment. The Salvation Army will turn out with bands and banners and in full uniform, with a white cotton band on the right arm.

A MURDERER'S CUTE DODGE.

He Leaves Jail, Impersonating His Wife Carrying the Baby.

GREENVILLE, S.C., Oct. 7.—"Bill" Howard, who is under sentence of death for the murder of a confederate in the moonshine whisky business over a year ago, escaped from prison here yesterday. Howard's wife was allowed to spend the night in the cell with her husband. Yesterday Howard dressed in his wife's clothing, came down the stairs of the prison with an infant in his arms, and leaving the baby at a relative's house, fled before the jailer had discovered the trick that had been played on him. Mrs. Howard, who is a buxom mountain girl of 17 years, now occupies the cell vacated by her husband.

Collapse of Another Strike.

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Oct. 8.—The strike of the colliers in New Zealand has collapsed. The Union Company has now 34 steamers running and is employing 2000 non-union men.

THE FREAK OF A MANIAC.

He Denudes Himself of His Clothing and Perishes on the Roadside.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—The railway section men on the Canadian Pacific Railway going west from Thurso this morning found the body of an unknown man lying beside the track between that village and Rockland. The body was entirely denuded of its clothing. A pair of pants, a vest and one boot were found beside the body and at some distance from it a shirt, necktie and a mate to the boot. It is supposed that the man, having divested himself of his clothing, perished from the inclemency of the weather. No coat or hat was found. The vest and pants were black in color and shirt of fine grey flannel. The coroner has been notified.

Ground Up in a Threshing Machine.

GANANOQUE, Oct. 8.—An accident occurred to-day on the farm of Mr. DeWitte, Hay Island, in the St. Lawrence River, opposite this town. Thomas Barber, an Irishman, was endeavoring to climb into the mow in the barn when he slipped and fell and one leg entered the cylinder of a steam thresher in operation in the barn and was torn to shreds. Barber died within two hours.

AS THE
Cold Weather
CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

ONTARIO TIMBER LIMITS.

Although the immediate object of the timber sale held by the Department of Crown Lands recently was to furnish timber for the mills in the northwestern part of the Province, yet the financial aspect of the sale is not unimportant, and in this respect the result was eminently satisfactory. Limits measuring 344½ miles were sold for $321,562, an average of $935 per mile. This is much higher than the average of previous sales, which was $656, and is higher than the price obtained at any previous sale, except the famous sale of 1887, which yielded the enormous return of $2,859 per mile. The prices obtained at the sale exceeded the expectations of the officers of the department, as the season for timber is dull, the timber in these regions is rather light and sparse, and some of the country, particularly the region tributary to Rainy Lake and Rainy River, has not been as thoroughly explored as some other parts of Ontario. On the other hand, the reduction in the duties on timber, made by the McKinley Bill, no doubt had a beneficial effect on the sale. The best sales were made in the districts near Port Arthur and Sault Ste. Marie. Before this sale the present Ontario Government was able to say that from the 3,270 miles which it had sold it had realized bonuses of nearly $2,500,000. The statement will now be that 2 614 miles have been sold for bonuses aggregating $2,821,600. These bonuses are by no means the largest part of the revenue obtained from the timber lands of the Province. There are also large sums received by way of ground rent and timber dues. Last year the revenue received by the Government from these latter sources was over a million dollars, and this revenue is likely to increase rather than to diminish. The present record of the Government in connection with our timber resources is well sustained by the sale of 1890.—Globe.

Goldwin Smith on Reciprocity.

In a recent address delivered at Toronto on the question of reciprocity with the United States, Mr. Goldwin Smith said: "The McKinley Bill is a great disaster, and will be felt much more by our farmers than by those who, having nothing personally to lose by it, can afford to receive it with trumpet notes of patriotic defiance. Apart from the actual increase of duties, these changes in the tariff which make the farmer uncertain in what he ought to raise, and producers generally uncertain what they ought to produce, are very great evils. A man who, knowing anything about commercial questions, can say that a forced trade, whether with England or the Antipodes, will make up for the loss of a natural trade, must have some motive for propagating that belief. Of course Canada will survive, though the industrial energy and fortitude of her people will be severely tried; but the object of a commercial policy is not to make a country survive, but to make it prosper and not lose its most valuable sons by commercial depression, as Canada is losing them by the exodus to the United States. England survived under protection, but she has trebled her wealth under free trade." Commenting upon Mr. Smith's speech, the Hamilton Times remarks that "the hint about 'patriotic defiance' is good. Men like Lord Stanley, Sir John Macdonald and Hon. George Foster, in receipt of salaries ranging from $50,000 down to $8,000 a year, can afford to be quite indifferent about the closing of one foreign market. Give a similar salary to every farmer and mechanic, and they, too, will shout for protection and the old flag. Canada wants general prosperity, not mere subsistence for the people." Prof. Smith denied that there is any feeling of hostility in the United States toward Canada, or any burning desire to have Canada annexed. While the passage of the McKinley bill is a set-back for the friends of reciprocity, he believes that this may prove the darkness which precedes the dawn. There are strong symptoms in the United States of a growing movement in favour of tariff reform. Mr. Blaine, the shrewd leader of the Republican party, finds it politic to declare for reciprocity, and though he confines his proposal to South America, his principle points north as well as south. From Kansas, the banner Republican State, a cry comes that for the west protection is a failure, and that the west has been sacrificed by it to the east. From New England herself comes a call for free iron and free coal. The enormous waste of revenue in pensions and other expenditures necessary to get rid of the surplus and stave off a reduction of duties cannot fail to produce a recoil. Tariff reform is now the declared platform of the Democratic party. Mr. Cleveland only missed re election very narrowly; he had a majority of the popular vote. Perhaps he would not have missed re-election at all if he had stuck to his general proposition that the government has no right to take more from the people than it needs, instead of challenging special interests by the Mills Bill. After all, the victory of protectionism was not won, but bought: the manufacturers paid hard cash for the votes of the doubtful States. Their compeers do the same sort of thing elsewhere: and then we are told that opinion is turning against free trade. There was a marked increase in the mechanics' vote in favor of tariff reform. When the mechanic sees the great fact that protection does not raise wages, but on the contrary lowers them, the system will fall. If the people of the United States should ever declare for free trade, Canadian protectionism must fall.

The Ontario Telephone Charter

The following notice is published in the Ontario Gazette:—

Public notice is hereby given that, under "The Ontario Joint Stock Companies Letters Patent Act," Letters Patent have been issued under the Great Seal of the Province of Ontario, bearing date the 12th day of September, 1890, incorporating James Kendry, Manufacturer, Charles Hamilton Clementi and Frederick Edward Bell, Gentlemen, Arthur Stevenson and George Elmiger, Barrister-at-Law, and Richard Birdsall Rogers, Engineer, all of the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough and Province of Ontario, and James Alexander Wright, of the City of Montreal, in the Province of Quebec, Manufacturer, for the purposes following, that is to say: (a) To construct, maintain, complete and operate systems of telephone exchange, electric fire and burglar alarms, electric bells, police patrol calls and other electric systems of a similar nature, and subject to agreement with the municipalities traversed, to lay down, set up, maintain and remove in and upon the roads, streets, squares and public places of the said municipalities, all wires, lines, pipes, poles, posts and other apparatus and appliances necessary to enable the said company to carry out efficiently the objects aforesaid; (b) To acquire such real estate, either by purchase, lease, or otherwise, as may be requisite for the due carrying on of the said business of the company, and to acquire by purchase, contract, agreement, or otherwise, the right to hold, use or enjoy any patent, patent-rights, or other rights for the manufacture or production, use or sale of telephones or electrical apparatus required by the company for its said purposes, and to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of such patent, patent-rights or other rights, or any of them, or any other real or personal estate of the said company, and to manufacture or buy, and also to sell or lease all fittings, machinery, apparatus or other things required for the said purposes of the company, or the use of its customers, and to mortgage, pledge or encumber the real or personal estate of the company from time to time in such manner and on such terms as shall be deemed necessary, by the name of "THE ONTARIO TELEPHONE COMPANY (LIMITED)." And the total capital stock of fifty thousand dollars, divided into two thousand shares of twenty-five dollars each.

Dated at the office of the Provincial Secretary of Ontario, this 29th day of September, 1890.

Bank Clerks.

There is in our midst a class of men, young and old, on whom the general public bestow little attention and thought. They are looked upon merely as public servants by the business community, and their positions are looked upon by the world generally as sinecures. We refer to bank clerks, of whom there are thousands in our Dominion.

It is not our intention to give the public any information regarding the manifold duties of bank clerks, but merely to show those who hold the idea that this class of men have light work, that they are entirely wrong in their surmises and guesses.

The fact is, bank clerks as a rule have too much work for the small pay they receive. In our large banking institutions in Canada, the bank clerk has not a breathing spell from the time he enters the bank in the morning till he leaves it late in the afternoon or evening.

In Montreal and Toronto the immense volume of business done by each bank calls for all the life, force, vigor and brains that bank clerks can command. No drones are tolerated; no lounging or gossiping is permitted, such as one often sees in an ordinary business office. The rush and hurry of customers is so fast, furious and pressing, especially one hour before closing time of the bank, that it compels every clerk to exercise a great amount of brain power; he must be cool, keen-sighted, quick and sharp to detect errors and frauds, and in short, must be well up in the duties and mysteries of his special department. He gets no time at mid-day for a comfortable and substantial lunch; he may, if it be possible while using his pen with his right hand now and then allow the left hand to hold a sandwich, slice of bread and butter, or an apple, which he hurriedly eats and swallows, but no time for proper mastication of food.

Is his position really a sinecure? In plain every day language, does he receive pay for labor not performed? We can assure you he earns his small salary as honorably and justly as the mechanic who daily toils at his bench.

Once more on behalf of the bank clerk. Does it occur to you that his calling makes him the most confined of men? There he stands from seven to eight hours daily in crowded, close quarters, without the opportunity of breathing for one minute Heaven's pure and cooling air.

Is it any wonder that we often meet with bank clerks who are emaciated, pale, often nervous from continued overwork; suffering from headache; troubled with dyspepsia and indigestion?

Fortunately for such afflicted bank clerks Paine's Celery Compound is their reliever and benefactor, it will keep them out of the grasp of serious ills and diseases.

We know of many of our most efficient bank clerks in Montreal, Toronto and other cities, who regularly use Paine's Celery Compound, and thereby are kept vigorous, strong and healthy.

To every bank clerk who has not yet tried its powers and healing virtues, we should urge them to be guided by what it has done for many of their brethren, and for thousands of other mortals in our land; and would impress upon them the necessity of immediate action. The proprietors of Paine's Celery will at all times be pleased to furnish ample proof of its great restoring and healing qualities.

HINTS TO HOUSEKEEPERS

VALUABLE ADVICE ON THINGS APPERTAINING TO THE HOUSEHOLD.

Pickles Sweet and Pickles Sour—Recipes of Many Kinds—How to Make Fruit Syrups, Pies, Puddings and Cakes—A Column for the Cook.

In pickling it is always safer to use a porcelain or agate iron-ware kettle, but if a brass utensil is the only one available it should first be well scoured with salt and water, and the pickles never be allowed to remain in it very long. A good cider vinegar is a necessity and it should be both clear and strong. The fruit or vegetables too must be fresh and firm, for if at all withered the pickles are sure to be flabby. Take plenty of time to the work, and when completed rather keep the jars in a dark place, or else wrap them in blue or brown paper. If it is desired to have the pickles very green, boil the kettle with grape leaves, or sprinkle with powdered alum the proportion being a teaspoonful to a gallon of water—but many good housewives do not consider it necessary to "green" even their cucumbers, as it adds nothing to the flavor and gives them a "shoppy" look not always desirable.

For these vegetables that are to be laid in salt and water before pickling the old direction "brine strong enough to bear up an egg" is as good as any, and this calls for about one quart of salt to three gallons of water. Lay a plate on pickles to keep them well under the vinegar. If scum ever appears on top turn off the vinegar and wash the pickles thoroughly. Then boil the vinegar and skim off all froth, continuing the boiling as long as the scum rises. Throw back over the pickles while still hot.

An easy method of putting up the tiny cucumbers known as gherkins is recommended as follows. Soak them in brine for forty-eight hours, then to each one hundred gherkins allow an ounce of mustard-seed, an ounce of cloves, a tablespoonful of salt, a cupful of sugar, and two small red peppers. Tie the spices up in thin muslin bags using two bags to each hundred pickles. Place the cucumbers in a kettle on the stove and cover them with vinegar. Drop in the bags of spice, slice the peppers and heat all together slowly. When scalding hot, they are ready to pack away in a stone jar, but should be examined a week or ten days later and any soft ones extracted.

Chow chow is always a favorite pickle, and a nice recipe is: one head of cauliflower separated into tiny sprays, one quart of sliced cucumbers, one pint of small onions, cut in half, one quart of green tomatoes sliced four green peppers sliced. Five pints of vinegar, two cups of granulated sugar, one teaspoonful each of ground cinnamon, cloves, mace and celery seeds, and four tablespoonfuls of ground mustard. Mix all the condiments together except the mustard, and tie in a two-cent muslin bag. Place these and the vegetables in a preserving kettle and pour over them the cold vinegar, into which has been stirred the sugar and mustard. Bring to the scalding point, boil for half an hour, and then set away in glass jars or bottles.

One of the most delicious pickles and one that seems comparatively little known, is made of green tomatoes. To one gallon of green tomatoes, take six onions, one quart of cider vinegar, two cups of sugar, one tablespoonful each of mustard, black pepper and salt, two teaspoonfuls each of allspice and ground cloves. Slice, but do not peel the tomatoes. Peel and chop the onions very fine. Put a layer of tomatoes in the kettle and sprinkle with onion, sugar and spice. Then more tomatoes, and more sugar, spice, etc., alternating, until all are in. Heat slowly and stew gently for three-quarters of an hour after they begin to boil. This pickle should be put up in small jars as it does not keep long after being opened. It is a most appetizing accompaniment for cold meat.

A sweet pickle equal to that made of citrons, can be concocted from the rinds of watermelons, the portion of that fruit which is often thrown away. Boil two pounds of rinds in clear water until quite tender. Drain them well. Make a syrup of two pounds of sugar, one quart of vinegar, half an ounce of mace, an ounce of cinnamon, and some root of ginger boiled until thick. Pour over the melon-rinds while very hot. Drain off the syrup the next day, heat it again, and again pour it over boiling hot. Repeat this for three days in succession, after which it may be left on and the pickles set away. They will keep for two years.

Seasonable Recipes.

PEACH SHORTCAKE.—Sift a quart of flour with one teaspoonful of salt; wet with butter milk into which a level teaspoonful of soda has been dissolved until a soft dough has been formed. Work as lightly as possible with the tips of the fingers and put into a cake about ten inches in diameter. Bake on a griddle, split open while warm, butter both halves liberally and on the lower put a thick layer of peaches sliced and sugared; lay on the upper half, and eat with sweetened cream. Do not use a knife in splitting the shortcake, but pull it apart with the fingers and drop the butter on in bits rather than to spread it with a knife.

FRUIT SYRUP FOR ICE CREAMS.—The following recipe for fruit syrups is from a Southern lady and may be relied upon. Put into a preserving-lined kettle one gallon of any of the small fruits and add enough water to keep them from burning. Generally a pupful will suffice. Cook until tender, heating very slowly. Strain through a cloth, and to every quart of juice add a pint of sugar. Boil fifteen minutes, pour in glass jars and seal up. In making ice creams the addition of this syrup will give as delightful a result as if fresh fruit were used.

RASPBERRY PIE.—This odd recipe is as excellent as it is unusual. Put into a granite saucepan a pint of fine ripe raspberries, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and two of water. Set the pan over the fire and shake constantly until the juice flows freely, but do not allow the raspberries to lose their shape. Take out with a skimmer and boil the syrup until clear. Turn out into a mixing bowl while you beat a piece of butter the size of an egg to a cream with two tablespoonfuls of fine sugar, one of bread crumbs and the yolks of two eggs well beaten, add the whites of two eggs whipped to a froth, line deep pie plates with a rich paste, lay in the fruit, pour over them the syrup, put this mixture on top and bake in a quick oven.

HUCKLEBERRY PUDDING.—The very best batter for berry puddings is made by beating two eggs, to which add a little salt, a pint of sour milk and flour enough to make a thick batter. Dissolve a level teaspoonful of baking powder in enough scalding milk to thin it, stir this in and add enough to take the batter of the right consistency—that is, just enough to mix all nicely with flour—stir in at the last and if there is any danger of the fruit sinking, a tablespoonful of flour tossed with the berries will prevent it. A very good batter for huckleberry pudding is prepared by some and is made as above, omitting the baking powder and adding one gill of baker's yeast and a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little water. Set to rise in a warm place for three hours, stir in the dredged fruit and let stand for two hours.

Assassination by Lightning Flash.

GALVESTON, Oct. 6.—On last Saturday night about 9 o'clock a fearful storm was raging at Alpine. Samuel Taylor was in the Buckhorn saloon seated at a table playing cards with three others. Suddenly there was a lightning flash, a loud report, and Taylor gasping and bleeding fell from his chair. The night operator uttered a cry of pain, and he too fell. It was found that Taylor was dead, he having received 15 buckshot under the left arm. The operator was also badly wounded. Five shots had entered the small of his back. A Mexican had also one of the bullets in his shoulder. The assassin fired from a window, and both barrels of his gun are supposed to have been emptied at once. Two years ago Taylor killed Passenger Conductor Server at Valentine, on the Southern Pacific. It is presumed that some friend of Server took this method of avenging his death. The operator's wounds are considered fatal. The Mexican will also probably die.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $216,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly conned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,928	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	5,470,230	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.94
Citizens	2,087,266	23.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	30 61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Will visit PETERBOROUGH every Fourth Saturday at the Snowden House. (Next visit October 11th.)

Offers a sure and certain cure to those suffering from PILES and other rectal diseases; Womb, Kidney, Bladder and Sexual Troubles; Heart Weakness and Imperfect Circulation; Dyspepsia and Imperfect Nutrition; Lung Troubles, Asthma, Bronchitis and Imperfect Respiration, Nervous Debility, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Sciatica and Rheumatism. In short, Orificial Surgery affords a means of relief to all those suffering from Chronic, Nervous and Organic diseases which medicine has failed to cure.

But it will not cure Constitutional Troubles, such as Physical Deformities, Syphilis, Cancer, Scrofula or Consumption in an advanced stage. Such need not apply, but the list of troubles which may be relieved by Orificial work is too long to mention here. If you doubt it—try it—and watch the marvellous effects produced. The latest advance in scientific medicine—no miraculous cures promised—no unreasonable things attempted.

Every Fourth Saturday at the Snowden House—Consultation Free. dw

A Hefty Young Horse.

Peterborough's Milk Supply.

The laboratory branch of the Inland Revenue Department at Ottawa has just issued an interesting bulletin on the milk supply of cities and towns. It appears that Peterborough is supplied with a poor article by the milkmen. Of seven samples secured only two were found to be good and five adulterated or inferior. The record for the Peterborough milkmen is among the lowest in the Dominion.

Return of the Wanderer.

Mr. John Earle, the old gentlemen who has been missing from his home at Downer's Corners for over a week, was returned Tuesday night. Chief Reazel sent post cards throughout the district, and by this means his whereabouts was discovered. Mr. Earle was found near Millbrook, and taken care of by some good people until he could be sent home. The old gentleman was pretty well exhausted by his wanderings and hardships.

Assaulted and Beaten.

Jack Wilson and Harry Lynch were this morning tried on a charge of having assaulted Wm. Eastland on the market square a week ago last Saturday night. The offence was proven in both cases, and Wilson was fined $5, and Lynch, who it appeared was more sober than the rest and struck Eastland while the latter had his face turned away, was fined $10. In default of payment both were to go to gaol for 15 days.

The Late M Halpin.

It was with deep regret that the many friends of Mr. Michael Halpin, of the American House, learned of that gentleman's death last night about six o'clock. Mr. Halpin was an old resident of the town, and has been engaged in the hotel business for years. He leaves a considerable family. Deceased was about 55 years of age. The funeral takes place to-morrow morning at nine o'clock.

The Muster of the Veterans.

The following letter from Mr. Geo. Merrill, who is interesting himself in the procuring of a record of the veterans of 1837-38 with a view of procuring pensions for them, respecting the success he has met with in his master so far:—

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 8th, 1890.

To the Editor of the Daily Examiner:

SIR,—Received your papers all right—glad to see you taking an interest in the old veterans. 470 have reported to me up to date. I am in hopes to be able to complete the list this month.

The Picton Gazette, the Kingston British Whig and the Belleville Ontario are all working well and assisting me in the cause of the old veterans. Thanks for your papers.

Yours respectfully,
GEO. MERRILL.

Not Quite a Quart.

At the police court this morning Mr. Geo. Pope, grocer and liquor dealer, was charged with a breach of the Crooks Act. The case for the prosecution rested chiefly upon the evidence of John Wilson, one of the prisoners in the assault case. Wilson testified that he bought a bottle of whisky last Tuesday evening in Mr. Pope's store, for which he paid 40c. The bottle was produced and found to be capable of containing only three half-pints. Only a few mouthfuls of the liquor had been drunk. Wilson took a "horn" as soon as he got the bottle, and just as he stepped outside the door he was arrested on a warrant for assault. In view of the fact that the quantity of liquor purchased came so near to the legal limitation, the case was dismissed; but Mr. Pope and other dealers were warned that they must be more careful in future and not sell less than the prescribed quantity.

Gaol Statistics.

Interesting Figures Concerning County Criminals.

Following are the gaol statistics for the year ending Sept 30th, 1890. The number of committals during the year was much larger than the previous year—161 against 111 of 1889. There is also a big increase in the number of drunks on account, it is claimed, of the cessation of the Scott Act. Following are extracts from the report prepared by Gaoler Nesbitt, and which will be forwarded to the government by Sheriff Hall:

The Kellogg Concert and Opera Company.

There was a full house to greet the Clara Louise Kellogg Opera Company at Bradburn's Opera House last night. The audience were seated in good time, but owing to missing trains the company arrived late in town, and it was nine o'clock—after a weary hour of waiting, unrelieved by any orchestra or a single note of music—before the performance began. The first part of the programme was purely concert. The programme opened with a fairy song duet from "Martha" by Messrs. Dickman and Lee, the tenor and baritone respectively, of the company. The programme included some half a dozen splendid selections classical in their character and fairly good in their treatment as respects the numbers presented by Miss Kellogg and Mr. Dickman. The former rendered an aria from "Ernani" in a very artistic manner, for which she was recalled as she was to her second selection. Mr. Dickman sang "Then You'll Remember Me" with great strength and effect. Miss Kellog sang "Coming through the Rye" very sweetly, if she had not rather spoiled the effect with a shaky closing embellishment. The opera portion of the programme consisted of the presentation of the fourth act of Verdi's opera "Il Trovatore." In this the members of the company—four in number—did rather better singing, Mr. Lee's opening baritone solo being very acceptable. The costumes were appropriate and the dramatic action and individual singing of the performers creditable enough, but the ensemble lacked the completeness and effect which suitable scenic, choral and above all, orchestral, accessories would have produced. The lack of an orchestra was severely felt—the excellent Heintzman pianoforte used was not enough to make the lack of an orchestra forgotten. The whole evening's entertainment was rather depressing than otherwise. The performers were certainly fatigued with travelling, apparently unfit for singing, and evidently indifferent as to whether they sang well or not. The people placed full confidence in the claims to merit made by the Kellogg company, and to say that they were disappointed, is speaking with great moderation.

A Human Steam Engine.

While the police court was in session this morning a middle-aged, able bodied man walked in and modestly demanded that the corporation exercise its charitable functions and undo take his support. The fellow had four dollars in his pocket, and he was quickly given to understand that he had better buy a railway ticket and travel as far away as his money would take him. He was a pertinacious beggar, however, and failing to reach the charity bump of the officials, he tried to work on their sympathies. Mr. Dumble asked him what was the matter with him, and the man replied that there was something inside. He proceeded to illustrate what that "something" was by falling over on his face on the floor and puffing and blowing like a porpoise. The noise he made between his teeth resembled the hissing of the steam in a cylinder which was driving an engine at a terrific rate. After panting and puffing for a few moments he got up in obedience to the constables' command, expecting to be sent to the hospital for treatment. But his little scheme didn't work, and he was started off with out a chance to repeat the performance, and ordered to leave town at once.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Very disagreeable weather and muddy roads. Very little sickness.

The Conservative convention was held last Saturday at Lindsay. A large number of delegates went from here to cast their ballots for Mr. McQuade, but did not succeed in getting the result of the count, consequently a storm arose. Nothing definite was arrived at, only a postponement for two weeks.

The Reformers of South Victoria held their convention at their hall in Lindsay on Monday, Oct. 6, the meeting being largely attended, and the greatest enthusiasm ever known. There were some 9 or 10 nominations, including Mr. F. C. Taylor, of Lindsay, and a number of leading farmers. Each nominee in succession retired by giving a neat little speech, with thanks to the proposer and seconder. It was apparent that Mr. Wm. Londesboro, farmer and grain-dealer, Mariposa, was the correct man, being so unanimously that he had no chance to decline. He therefore goes in to win, and all thoughtful, intelligent farmers, both Reformers and Conservatives, are bound to support him, so that South Victoria will be the first constituency carried after the McKinley bill to be reported at Washington; and improved prices may be again looked for by the farmers, hoping to have reciprocity.

The anniversary services of the Presbyterian church here take place on Oct. 19th and 20th. A grand time is in store.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

RUNAWAY.—Mr. James Perrin of this place, went with a grist to the old Cavan mill on Friday, Oct. 3. He drove into the shed and then went into the mill. While he was gone the horses escaped and ran to Hale's Bridge, losing on the way an overcoat, blankets and part of wagon. We warn James to be more careful in future and securely tie his horses.

BREVITIES.—Mrs. Braywait, of Roseneath, is visiting her friends here.... A paring bee was given a short time ago at Mr. David Wood's residence, Cavan. A very pleasant time was spent. Quite a number of apples were pared and afterwards a bountiful supper was partaken of. The above is a quick and good way of getting apples pared, and besides it makes a person think of old times.

Asphodel.

Mr. Robert Comstock, of Asphodel, narrowly escaped an accident last Saturday, similar to those which a short time ago happened in Roseneath and Warkworth, and in which the women lost their lives. In the forenoon of the above day Mr. Comstock, with Mrs. Comstock and baby, drove up in front of Ash's store in a buggy. The former alighted, and just as Mrs. Comstock was handing the baby to her husband, the horse became fractious and bolted, throwing the lady out, her clothing becoming entangled in the gearing of the vehicle. Fortunately help was close at hand, and the animal was captured and subdued, but not before the buggy and harness were considerably damaged. Beyond the shock and a few scratches, Mrs. Comstock escaped uninjured.—Star.

BY COMMAND OF ALLAH.

A Ship's Cook Puts Arsenic in the Bread of the Vessel.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 8.—A heavy dose of arsenic administered to their food by a Malay steward and cook came near causing the death of all hands aboard the British ship Lizzie Troop on her passage from Philadelphia to Japan. The men were Mohammedans, and, though Allah bade them make off with the lives of the party, too much poison was given, and this alone prevented disastrous results. The men were arrested and held to await trial by the English Consular Court, which was ordered to be convened at once at Kobe. The steward gave his name as D. Diaz, and his companion, who did the cooking, went under the name of Charley Turofuan.

Early in the passage the thought struck the steward that Captain Frownes and his wife and the mate, John R. Troop had better be put out of the way. He at once told Turofuan what Allah had commanded him, and proposed poisoning as the easiest way to accomplish the desired end. When the vessel passed New Anjier the steward filled a batch of bread with the powder, and the same day Captain and Mrs. Frownes and Troop, the mate, were taken sick, and for days their lives were despaired of.

Before the Consular Court some of the crew testified that they had heard the Malays agree to poison all hands and anchor the vessel near one of the Malay group of islands, so as to deliver her up to their kinsmen.

Cut His Throat in Shaving.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 8.—George B. Graham, one of Baltimore's wealthiest and most widely known citizens, died at his country residence near this city. Mr. Graham, it seems, was shaving on the evening of Sept. 25, and accidentally gashed his neck. The blood flowed freely from the wound, and he was greatly exhausted when found lying on the floor of his room.

Fancy Pelargoniums.

The varieties of this section are much weaker growers than the large flowered kinds, and should not be cut in so close. I have always found them do the best when the tops were removed at a point where the wood was somewhat green. If cut back to the hard, ripe wood they sometimes fail to break. After hooking down treat the plants in the way advised for the large flowered sorts, being particularly careful that too much water does not reach the roots either before the new growth appears or afterward. The fancy pelargoniums are more likely to suffer from any excess in this direction than the stronger growing kinds.

Anthracnose or Cane Rust.

A serious disease this season among the small fruits has been the cane rust, which attacks the growing canes of raspberries blackberries, and in some cases the grape vine. Professor Bailey's plan is to cut out and burn up the diseased vines as soon a fruiting is over; then in the early spring before growth begins spray with a solution of sulphate of iron, about one pound to the gallon, and follow this up with Bordeaux mixture as soon as the leaves open.

Another Glimpse at Surgeon Parke.

In Stanley's book, "In Darkest Africa," he speaks repeatedly with the greatest esteem of the medical officer of the expedition, Surgeon Parke. We insert one such paragraph:

"This expedition possesses the rarest doctor in the world. We see him each day at 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., with his selectest circle of 'sicks' around him. None with tender stomachs dare approach it. He sits in the centre as though it were a rare perfume. The ploughing moans are exposed to view, some fearful to behold, and presenting a spectacle of horror. The doctor smiles and sweetly sniffs the tainted air, handles the swollen limbs, cleanses them from impurity, pours the soothing lotion, cheers the sufferers, binds up the painful wounds, and sends the patient away with a hopeful and grateful look. I greatly honor what is divine in man. The gift of gentleness and exquisite sensibility appeals to the dullest.—N. Y. Christian Advocate.

Lancashire Wit.

A Lancashire newspaper tells the following good story: An old country gentleman, returning home rather late, discovered a vagrant with a lantern under his kitchen window, who, when asked his business there stated that he had come a-courting. "Come as you said the irate gentleman. "A courting, sir. I see the old gentleman. "What do you mean by such impudence? Don't you know that I am a married man?" "Yes, sir," was the reply; "I know that very well, when I saw your wife a-courting me."

Henry W. Herbert, of Chicago, has been ready for the press a volume of poems, each covering a period of one hundred years. Mr. Hubbard was minister to England when Mr. Webster was secretary of state, a congress from 1843 to 1851 and minister to Brazil from 1857 to 1861.

A Level Head.

The Advantage of Presence of Mind in an Emergency.

During the late strike on the New York Central Railroad, the militia were ordered to be in readiness in case of a riot, but they were not called out.

In an interview, Gov. Hill said the troops were not to be called upon except in case of an emergency. The emergency had not arisen, therefore they would not be ordered out. He remarked that this was the first great strike with which he had had experience, and he did not propose to lose his head; the only point at which there had been serious trouble was at Syracuse, and there a deputy-sheriff had lost his head, and precipitated an encounter.

The strike continued several weeks, and there was riotous action at various points along the road, but the civil authorities were able to cope with it without calling on the militia.

The test of a man's real ability comes when an emergency arises which makes a hasty call on his good judgment and discretion. The man who retains his presence of mind maintains his equipoise and exercises sound discretion at such critical junctures, is to be relied on and will be put to the front.

Men who have level heads have the staying qualities which do not falter in the face of danger. Otis A. Cole, of Kissmen, O., June 10, 1890, writes: "In the fall of 1888 I was feeling very ill. I consulted a physician, and he said I had Bright's disease of the kidneys, and that he would not stand in my shoes for the state of Ohio." But he did not lose courage or give up; he says: "I saw the testimonial of Mr. John Coleman, 100 Gregory st., New Haven, Conn., and I wrote to him. In due time I received an answer, stating that the testimonial he gave was genuine, and not overdrawn in any particular. I took a good many bottles of Warner's Safe Cure; have not taken any for one year."

Gov. Hill is accounted a very successful man; he is cool and calculating, and belongs to the class that do not lose their heads when emergencies arise.

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit Thi Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmenship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be no business awaiting him his visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterborough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October. dw

Where the Crowd Went.

One of our brother grocers had a man placed opposite the door of W. J. Morrow's Saturday with a massive pile of dodgers so anxious was he to attract the stream of customers which kept pouring in, the shop being packed with people looking for his big bargains, but we don't blame them. Why, our city papers are increasing their business greatly, others going into advertising every day trying to lure the public, but they cannot do it, the latter knowing where they can buy goods 25 per cent. cheaper than elsewhere. HOW TO SAVE MONEY?

SUPPOSE you are renting a house at $8 per month. I will sell you two houses, as good, and perhaps better, for $2000. Pay from $500 to $800 cash, and balance on easy terms. Amount saved yearly $88 00. The profit as an investment over Bank interest would be $112.00 yearly.

SUPPOSE you pay $8 00 per month rent. Buy a good house and lot from me for $700. Pay $300 00 cash, and save $36.00 a year.

AGAIN you pay $4 per month rent. I will sell you a house, nearly new, for $425; cash $125.00. You save here $25 00 per year

I can sell you houses on the above basis at all prices, and in all parts of the town, and if you wish to act wisely and save money you will see me without delay. I have a great variety of vacant lots for sale at lowest prices.

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The property of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefitting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

BABES IN THE WOOD.

TWO GIRLS STRANGLED TO DEATH NEAR OTTAWA.

The Alleged Murderer Arrested—Damaging Evidence Produced Against Him at the Inquest The Children Had Been Outraged.

CUMBERLAND, Oct. 9.—Mary McGonagle, aged 4, and her sister Eliza, aged 12, were found dead in the woods about one mile from this village yesterday. The two girls are the daughters of James McGonagle, who resides on Mr. John Gamble's farm, two miles from here. The two children had been attending school here and were there on Tuesday, the 7th, and left for home with the other school children, but did not return. As it was a wet, stormy evening it was supposed the two girls had remained in the village, as they had previously done on such occasions, stopping at Joseph Foubert's. On Wednesday McGonagle set out for the village, when he found that his girls had not been at school that day or since the Tuesday evening. The inhabitants of the village then formed into several parties to search the woods for the missing girls. About 10 o'clock Wednesday night a party discovered the two bodies, cold and dead lying on their backs, with their heads together, in an unfrequented by-road, about 100 yards from the road traveled to the village. The two girls were lying side by side, the clothes of both disarranged. The eldest, Mary, had a school book on her lap. Their tongues were protruded and their eyes rolled up, and a dark circle on each neck showed strangulation. Both girls had been outraged. A warrant was issued for Narcisse Larocque, who has been seen following the girls, and was arrested.

The Fiend in Custody.

A coroner's inquest on the McGonagle girls was commenced to-night before Dr. James Ferguson, coroner, at the Windsor House. Dr. William Ferguson gave the result of his medical examination. Both girls had been outraged and had come to death by strangulation. There were numerous wounds on both bodies, but none sufficient to result fatally. The evidence adduced from other witnesses clearly indicates that the right man is now in custody. William Gamble and another witness swore that they saw the prisoner following the girls along the path which led to their homes about 5 o'clock. A farmer named Dalrymple heard cries of "Murder, murder," and made an ineffectual search for the spot whence they proceeded. The evidence will be re-heard to-morrow, as it transpired at 11 o'clock on the arrival of the Crown prosecutor that the prisoner had not been present at the inquest.

[Cumberland is also known as Osborne, and is a village on the Ottawa River in Cumberland township, Russell county. It is about two miles from Rockingham station on the Canadian Pacific railway and 16 west of Ottawa. It has a population of about 500 and is both a farming and lumbering section, although the township is well settled.]

Lived Nine Days on Acorns.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Oct. 8.—Little Tommy O'Rourke, the Montana boy who has been lost in the woods near Foley station, in Benton county, ever since Saturday, Sept. 28, was yesterday found sitting on a stump 15 miles from where he was last seen and was in an almost famished condition. With careful nursing, however, he will live. In the interval he has subsisted entirely on acorns and water during the nine days.

DEATH WAS A RELIEF.

Unable to Bear His Troubles Peter Stewart Committed Suicide.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 9.—Peter Stewart, a well-to-do farmer at Commercial Cross, P.E.I., suicided while the rest of the family were at church. Some time ago evil-disposed persons circulated slanders against a newly-married daughter of deceased, which resulted in a serious family row and a separation of the newly married couple. A suit for slander followed and a verdict of $400 was awarded. While these proceedings were pending Stewart fell off a roller and struck his head on the ground. The injuries received, added to mental troubles, caused the unfortunate fellow to suicide.

Mrs. Langtry's Recreant Butler.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Mary Emma Sumpter asked Judge Barrett in Supreme Court Chambers yesterday to give her alimony and counsel fees while she is suing her husband, William Sumpter, for absolute divorce. William is the steward, butler and general factotum of Mrs. Lillie Langtry, in charge of her house in Twenty-third street. Sumpter came to America in 1883 as the Jersey Lily's butler, and he never provided for his wife thereafter, according to her story. She also declares that he married a girl named Bennett, one of Lily's housemaids, and is now living with her. William makes no defence to the divorce suit, but says he is too poor to pay alimony. He swears that he gets only $60 a month for butlering, stewarding and generally factotuming for the Lily.

Everything Depends on the Cork.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 9.—A Hungarian woman named Nelosby gave her 2 year old baby a phial containing compound cathartic pills to quiet it. The child swallowed the bottle while playing with it. A physician was hastily sent for, but he could do nothing. The bottle was tightly corked, and the physician says that so long as the cork remains in the bottle nothing serious will follow, but should the cork come out death will certainly follow.

Killed By a Lunatic.

NEW YORK, Oct 9.—James M Dougherty, Mary Anderson's insane admirer, who was sent to the King's County lunatic asylum at Flatbush in November, 1888, and who escaped about three weeks ago, returned to the asylum at 5 o'clock this afternoon and shot Dr. Lloyd, assistant superintendent of the institution, twice, killing him instantly.

Ironmongers at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 9.—The first joint session of the British Iron and Steel Institute and the American Societies of Engineers and Iron and Steel Manufacturers was held in Carnegie Hall this morning. The meeting was a success beyond anticipation. The visitors from abroad assembled in large numbers on the floor of the hall, and the galleries were filled with ladies. Sir James Kitten, president of the British Iron and Steel Institute, presided, and John H. Ricketon delivered an address of welcome. To-night a full-dress reception will be tendered the visitors at the Du Quesne Club.

JULES VERNE OUTDONE.

Airy Visions in the "Wild and Woolly West."

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The Times this morning publishes the following under display headlines:

"For a week past a dozen gentlemen have been gathered at the Grand Pacific in earnest discussion of a plan which sounds like a tale from the 'Arabian Nights'—if carried out—and $30,000,000 of solid cash have been paid in to say that it will be. Their scheme will result in making railroad trains appear like mere stage coaches, will make the transportation of the mails almost equal to the telegraph, allows business man to have his office in New York and yet live in Chicago with no more inconvenience than if his home were just around the corner. The tourist will be permitted to leave any point in the United States one day and arrive in Europe the next, and any one may have the opportunity of leaving Nellie Bly back in the middle ages by making the circuit of the globe in just five days.

"The project was completed yesterday afternoon, and to-day at Springfield the Mount Carmel Aeronautic Manufacturing Company will be chartered, with a capital of $20,000,000. Within 60 days the first airship is to arrive in Chicago. The company is backed by a powerful English syndicate and by Eastern capitalists, both of these interests having representatives at the Grand Pacific meeting. The incorporators, however, are the inventors: E. J. Pennington and Richard Butler, of the Mount Carmel Machine and Pulley Works, at Mount Carmel, Ill.; W. C. Dewey of the Grand Rapids Furniture Manufacturing Company of Grand Rapids, Mich., E. L. Chamberlain and James A. Pugh.

"The proposed airship, models of which have been successfully tested, will carry cars the size of the Pullmans, and will contain fifty persons each, special cars being manufactured for quick mail and passenger service. Work will commence immediately at Mount Carmel upon the manufactory, the plant being a mammoth one, covering many acres. The first building to be erected will be 500 feet square, and the contracts for it have already been let. The company will manufacture all its needs from the raw material, even to the aluminum, of which all airships will be almost entirely composed."

RUBE BURROWS DEATH.

How the Outlaw Was Killed He Mortally Wounds a Guard.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 8.—Reports from Marengo county give particulars of the death of Rube Burrows, the notorious outlaw and train-wrecker who was shot and killed while trying to make his escape from the county jail. The fatal shot was fired by J. C. Carter, one of the guards, and struck the outlaw in the abdomen, inflicting a wound from which he died in a few minutes. Carter received a bullet in the breast from the out law's pistol and is dangerously wounded.

Burrows, whose hands and feet were tied, had complained of hunger, and when told by McDuffie that he had no food for him, answered that there were some crackers in his saddlebags which were lying on the floor, and asked McDuffie to hand them to him. McDuffie suspected no thing and handed the saddlebags over without opening them. Burrows, instead of crackers, drew forth a pair of pistols and, covering McDuffie and the negroes, ordered them to untie him, which they did and, keeping them in front of him he walked out of the front door. He then asked for his money and started toward the hotel to recover it of Carter, who had it.

The latter, of course, was greatly surprised to see Burrows, whom he supposed to be bound hand and foot in jail. Burrows drew his revolver and demanded the money. Both then opened fire and Burrows was killed, while Carter received an ugly wound in the breast

Found Dead in Bed.

TORONTO, Oct. 9. Robert Doherty, formerly a jeweler of Queen street west and latterly a waiter-on for The Empire, was found dead on his bed yesterday. Doherty had been drinking of late and on Wednesday turned up at his house, 121 Bleecker street, considerably under the influence of liquor. He struck his wife and drove her and two children out of the house. She took refuge with a neighbor and on returning to the house yesterday morning found him dead. Dr. Hastings found that Doherty had died of apoplexy or heart failure caused by over indulgence in whisky.

An Editor on Luck.

WELLAND, Ont., Oct. 9.—At court to-day Queen v. J. H. Thompson, editor of The Thorold Post, charged with libel, was not taken up, no one appearing to prosecute. John Bloom, convicted yesterday of stealing jewelry at Camp Solid Comfort, was to-day sentenced to two years less one day in Central Prison.

Alleged Robbery at Newmarket.

NEWMARKET, Oct. 9.—Newmarket was the scene of an alleged audacious highway robbery last night. It appears that an itinerant "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Company gave a performance there last evening, and while the treasurer, E. D. Bates, was walking from the Town Hall to the hotel, he was suddenly held up by two men, one of whom struck him on the head with some heavy, blunt instrument that knocked him senseless. His pockets were then emptied of $300, the proceeds of the different entertainments given throughout the province by the company.

"Jack the Hair-Cutter."

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—Four times within the past month have girls been stopped on the street, half strangled and their hair cut from their heads by one who has earned the name of "Jack the Hair Cutter." Miss Fannie O'Leary, 15 years old, was the last victim. A tall, slim man seized her and, stifling her screams, quickly and dexterously severed her hair from her head, then, pushing her into the gutter, escaped.

Killed at a Raising.

WIARTON, Oct. 9.—A young man named George Russell of Port Elgin, while helping at raising an old house with jacks at Marsight miles from here yesterday, the props gave way and Russell was crushed to death. The body was taken home.

If there was no other inducement for keeping the pig pen clean, the odor therefrom should be a sufficient cause. Diseases may occur from the filth of the pen, and it is stated that typhoid fever has been traced to such source. Saving the manure at all times leads to cleanliness and enriches the farmer.

"RED JIM AGAIN."

Davitt Says He Was Sent From New York to Montreal by British Consul.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Labor World today asserts that Mr. Hoare, the British consul at New York, in 1885 sent James McDermott from New York to Montreal for the purpose of getting a dynamite agitation in that city, and supplied him with money and means to carry out his purpose. Mr. Hoare communicated with Dublin Castle about the time stated and asked the Home Government to request the Canadian Government to facilitate the performance of the work which McDermott was to carry out. The reply which the Canadian Government sent to the request from Dublin Castle and Mr. Hoare was that the Canadian Government considered it its duty to prevent and not to encourage or abet it. While McDermott was in Montreal endeavoring to ensnare Irishmen in that city in dynamite plots he was supplied with funds by Mr. Hoare and encouraged by him to keep up communications with O'Donovan Rossa and such men in New York. We will prove by sworn testimony if required that James McDermott was exposed and denounced in Montreal by a cable sent by Mr. Davitt to the editor of The Montreal Evening Post.

Mr. Hoare supplied McDermott with money to travel back from Montreal and sent him from New York to Liverpool. We further charge him with having at the present moment in his employment Bob Pinkerton in New York, and Willie Pinkerton in Chicago, together with the notorious McParland agents, who, at a costly sum to the secret service fund, manufactured any number of secret conspiracies against England and America. We further charge Mr. Hoare with having in 1883 employed Matt O'Brien to enter the service of the postoffice in New York in order to tamper with letters going through that postoffice and that through Mr. Hoare's influence with a federal post office official named Newcombe, O'Brien had charge of the keys and stamps, which enabled him to open what boxes he pleased in the building and use the state stamps of the department for the purposes of the British secret service. We can prove that O'Brien opened letters by the score and wrote letters to Irishmen in New York which purported to come from Fenians and dynamiters in California, St. Louis and Chicago, and that he stamped these bogus letters so as to make the recipients believe they were communications which came through the post office. The men to whom these letters were addressed were invited by the writer to come to the general postoffice to get the other letters which were written by O'Brien as if coming from Fenians and dynamiters from other cities that would be represented by the stamps which he put upon the envelopes. This was done in order that Mr. O'Brien should see and know the men who were suspected by Mr. Hoare and himself of being enemies of the English. All this was done by Mr. Hoare's direct and implicit instructions, and we charge that this flagrant outrage upon the law and state of New York and the federal authorities of the United States was performed by Mr. Hoare's instructions, and by the aid of the secret service fund of England. We are prepared to prove that the beginning and the end of the Cork, Liverpool and London dynamite conspiracies of 1883 was James McDermott, and the money expended by him for the purchase of nitroglycerine was given to him for that purpose from the secret service fund. Several men are now undergoing the horrible fate of penal servitude, not because of the actual deeds done, but because the agent of Dublin Castle put dynamite and documents into their hands, which were accepted as proofs of their guilt by the judge and jury. We demand in the name of justice and fair play that these men be released.

To Look After Canadian Pagans.

KINGSTON, Oct. 9.—At the conference of the board of Domestic and Foreign Missions of the Episcopal Church to-day, a resolution was adopted providing that foreign missions should include mission work amongst pagans resident in Canada other than the aboriginal population, the object being to include the Chinese settlers in British Columbia.

An interesting report was presented to the board from Mrs. Willoughby Cummings and Miss Paterson, delegates from the Women's Auxiliary of Toronto, of the visit paid by these ladies to different parts of the country in connection with mission work. They proceeded as far west as Vancouver Island and procured a large amount of valuable and interesting information respecting the work of the church in the west. The report was exceedingly interesting and was listened to with much attention. These ladies traveled over 7000 miles in the performance of their charitable object.

The Onondaga Mystery.

ONONDAGA, Ont., Oct. 9.—Various speculations are afloat anent the skeleton of a human being found by Mr. Hunter in his garden Sunday last. Indications point strongly to the probability of a murder. Seventeen years ago the Johnson gang were the terror of this place and the reserve Jack Atkins, the worst member of the gang confessed on his death-bed, several years ago, to having had a hand in the commission of 14 murders, and it is just probable that the human remains found here is that of one of the gang's victims.

An Aeronaut's Fearful Fall.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 9.—J. H. Kaiser, an aeronaut, made an ascension here Monday. When the signal was given for him to drop with the parachute he was about half a mile high. He dropped from the car, but the parachute did not open. It seemed inevitable that he should be dashed to pieces, but when he was within 50 feet of the ground the parachute opened and partially broke his fall, but he received internal injuries which will prove fatal.

Amputated the Arm.

KINGSTON, Oct. 9.—Willie Begum, aged 12, had his arm cut off while assisting at a planer in the hame factory at Merrickville. The arm was literally chopped to pieces from the elbow to the finger tips and was frightful to look at. The four fingers and thumb were picked up in one place, while pieces of flesh and bone were scattered around the planer. The doctors were obliged to amputate the arm about half-way between the elbow and the shoulder.

Telegraphic Briefs.

The Pittsburg Academy of Music was damaged to the extent of $10,000 by fire yesterday.

News has been received from Rosario, California, gold mine, 70 miles inland from Mazatlan, of a terrible explosion. An American named McGee, who came from Napa, Cal., was working with nine Mexicans in a 60 ft. level near the magazine, which contained several hundred pounds of dynamite. This exploded in some way and the 10 men were blown almost to atoms.

Young Kavanagh's Voice Gone.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Blatchford Kavanagh will sing no more in Grace Episcopal Church. The wonderful voice which delighted and moved so many persons has been slowly breaking down for some months back. Prof. Rosey, under whose tution young Kavanagh made his entry into the musical world, is of the opinion that it has happened in the most desirable way—by a lowering in tone rather than by breaking up, which is the common fate of the voices of boy sopranos. Young Kavanagh will start for an extended European trip on next Saturday.

Dakota's Terrific Prairie Fires.

MANDAN, N.D., Oct. 9.—Parties from north and south bring in news of the terrific character of the late prairie fires. The Riverside Ranch Company in the southern part of this county lost 380 head of stock, worth over $10,000. H. S. Farkin, on the Cannon Ball, lost 40 head of cattle. A number of settlers had all their hay burned, in addition to the range and many cattle. The fire leaped over a break 200 feet wide. It is estimated that south of the Northern Pacific Railroad, in this county, $100,000 worth of damage was done. Reports from the Killdeer mountains, northwest of here, are that ranges, hay and cattle were burned to the value of thousands of dollars. It was the worst and most destructive fire ever known

LATE CABLE NEWS.

Election Riots in India—Labor Fighting in Australia.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 9.—The non-union coal miners who took the places of the strikers at Bulli were attacked to-day by the unionists, who drove the non-union men away and occupied the mines. The police were unable to cope with the strikers and reinforcements have been sent to aid them in restoring order.

An Election Riot in India.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Despatches from Pondicherry, the capital of the French settlements in India, say a serious election conflict has taken place there between a mob and the police. During the fight several were wounded on both sides. The rioters hold the polling stations, and voting for the time is suspended. The military have been ordered out.

Famine in the Soudan.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The famine continues to prevail in the Soudan, and the raid of Osman Digna's men on Tokar a few days ago was only for the purpose of obtaining food, which the British Government has prevented from being sent to the tribes that have given their allegiance to the Khedive. Suakim is thronged with orphans of those who have perished through war and privations and several acts of cannibalism are reported among starving Hadendowas. The hospital at Suakim is full of sick and the British relief society is administering to the wants of the suffering.

The Blue Coat School on Fire.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—A fire occurred to-day in the Historical Blue Coat School in Claxton-street, Westminster. The firemen were promptly at the scene, and the flames were extinguished before much damage was done.

Increased Exports from England.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 9.—A comparison of the shipments from this port to New York during the month of September with those of the same period in 1889 will convey some idea of the abnormal activity among exporters caused by the passage of the McKinley tariff bill: Chemicals, 1889, $347,852; 1890, $670,653. Woolens, 1889, $257,751; 1890, $475,350. Tin plates, 1889, $960,751; 1890, $1,308,904. Steel, 1889, $34,291; 1890, $176,451. Paper, 1889, $24,118; 1890, $37,048.

The Heart in Action.

VIENNA, Oct. 9.—A little dog was made insensible at an hospital here yesterday fastened to a board and when his heart had been laid bare an instrument called an episcope was applied which threw a magnified picture of the dog's heart on the wall opposite, revealing to the eyes of those present every movement of the heart. The experiment lasted half an hour, and according to the professor was a successful demonstration of the movements of the living heart and is therefore of the greatest value to students of medicine.

Sheep as is Sheep.

MELBOURNE, Aus., Oct. 7.—The annual sale of stud sheep commenced to-day. Bidding was not so spirited as on previous occasions, with the exception of a fine 2-year-old Vermont-Australian ram from the famous Barooga stud of McFarland Brothers, which starting at 500gs., was knocked down to Mr. Pitt of Pitt, Son & Badgery, buying on behalf of the Australian Agricultural Company, Queensland, for 1100gs. Another ram, 3 years old, from the same flock, was purchased by the Pastoral Company for 500gs.

The Tipperary Trial and the Police

DUBLIN, Oct. 9.—The hearing of the summons against the police for assault committed by them upon a number of persons at the court house in Tipperary on the occasion of the opening of the trial of Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien commenced at that place to-day.

Failed for a Million.

PESTH, Oct. 9.—A commission agent of this city has failed with liabilities of 1,000,000 florins. It is believed that other failures will follow. The trouble is due to the poorness of the harvest.

The McKinley Tariff and the World's Fair

ROME, Oct. 9.—The committee appointed to arrange for proper representation of Italian art and industry at the International Exhibition in Chicago in 1893 has dissolved, having decided that any further efforts to accomplish the work for which it was formed would be useless. It is stated the committee found that in view of the new United States tariff law very few manufacturers or others were willing to send exhibits to Chicago.

Cable Flashes.

Farmer Lynch of Carrugholt, County Clare, has been found brutally murdered.

A dispatch from Armenia says that another Armenian has been killed at Kouroin, and that the crops have been destroyed in the Alasgord district. A general massacre is feared.

HAMILTON HAPPENINGS.

A Budget of Interesting Notes from the Mountain City.

HAMILTON, Oct. 9.—The congregation of Erskine Church have extended a call to Rev. A. E. Mitchell of Waterloo.

A deadbeat named J. C. Frampton has been working the Masons, Oddfellows and K. of P.'s here. He is described as about 5 feet 7 inches tall, dark complexion and mustache, speaks with a slight German accent and claims to be from Cleveland.

Gerald Lyman, Albert Hockride and William Hickey, the Toronto newsboys remanded on the charge of vagrancy, will be sent home to Toronto to-day. They said they were brought here by another newsboy named Frank Manley, to sell papers, but that he skipped out. As he was treasurer of the party they say the funds disappeared with him.

In the course of his sermon at the Wentworth-street mission church on Sunday evening Rev. A. Chandler stated that in the rounds of his visitations he had come upon three cases of leprosy in one family residing in the eastern part of the city. The Board of Health will investigate.

George T. Tuckett was thrown from his horse yesterday and badly injured about the head and shoulders.

Six-year-old Ida Strachan of 344 Cannon-street fell from a coal wagon on which she was riding yesterday. Her right leg was caught between the wheel and wagon box, the flesh and muscle being torn from the under side of the leg, above the knee to the ankle. The gash was a ghastly one, the bone being laid bare for almost the whole distance. Her leg will probably have to be amputated.

A loaded gun hanging up in the house of Andrew Welch, farmer, near Broadview, fell to the floor and was discharged, the contents entering the right leg of his four-year-old daughter and so badly shattering it that amputation was necessary.

Struck by a Train.

UXBRIDGE, Oct. 9.—As Richard Flewell and a lad named Welch were driving along the 7th concession the horse took fright at the railway crossing, a freight train approaching at the time, and instead of keeping the road he took the ties for it. He succeeded in reaching the cattle guard and made as bound to cross it. As he jumped the engine struck the buggy and the cattle guard was cleared, and the horse, buggy and both occupants dumped down the ditch on the opposite side. The boy escaped uninjured and Mr Flewell was somewhat cut about the head while the horse was cut and bruised and the buggy demolished.

The Stage Went Through the Bridge.

ELORA, Oct. 9.—Edwin McConnell, who drives the stage between Teviotdale and Elora, was crossing the bridge about half a mile south of Bosworth, when the whole apparatus—horse, buggy and driver—fell through to the bottom, a distance of 15 feet. Some of the planks fell on top of the horse and buggy, smashing the latter so badly as to render it useless and injuring the horse so that it will have to be killed. McConnell was also badly hurt.

AS THE
Cold Weather
CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1890.

The New American Customs Law.

The provisions of the McKinley tariff, which came into operation on the 6th, are or soon will be pretty well understood by the Canadian farmer and shipper. It is not generally known on this side of the line, however, that a new United States customs law regulating the valuation, etc., of goods imported into that country, came into force on August 1. Some of the provisions of the measure, which is known as the Administrative Customs Law of 1890, are of very considerable moment to Canadians doing business with the States.

All merchandize brought into the States is to be regarded as the property of the person to whom it is consigned, except, when the bill of lading has been endorsed over to another. Invoices of imported commodities are to be made out in the currency of the country whence the importation is made, and are to be drawn up in triplicate or, in the case of merchandise intended for immediate transportation without appraisement, in quadruplicate. At or before the shipment of the goods invoices are to be produced to the consul or consular officer of the United States in the district in which the goods were manufactured or purchased, together with a declaration signed by the purchaser, manufacturer, owner or agent, setting forth that the invoice is in all respects correct; that it of the time when, the place where, the person from whom the goods were purchased, assuming that they have been obtained by purchase; that the actual cost and all extra charges are properly given, that no discounts, bounties or drawbacks are contained in the invoice but such as have been really allowed. In the case of goods obtained otherwise than by purchase—shipped, for instance, by a Canadian manufacturer—the declaration must show that the invoice contains the actual market value or wholesale price at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country from which they are being exported; that the manufacturer or owner making the declaration is willing to accept that price for them; that it is the price which he could have received had they been sold in his own market, and so on. Except in the case of personal effects accompanying passengers, no importation exceeding $100 in dutiable value is to be admitted to entry without the production of a duly certified invoice, or an affidavit from the owner or importer or consignee made before the collector or his deputy, showing why it is impracticable to produce an invoice. Where an affidavit is put in it must be accompanied by a statement in the form of an invoice or their true market value in the country from which they came. This statement is to be sworn to, and the collector or his deputy is empowered to examine the deponent under oath touching the sources of his information. The deponent may also be required to produce letters and statements of account to enable the customs authorities to ascertain the true value of the goods. The act provides forms of declarations to be made in the case of goods entered by invoice or for goods obtained by purchase and for goods obtained otherwise. These declarations embody the particulars just recited. Any one making false statements is to be punished on conviction by a fine not exceeding $5,000, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, or by fine and imprisonment; whilst the merchandise will be subject to forfeiture. Another section provides that in the case of goods obtained by purchase the owner, consignee or agent may, at the time when he makes written entry of them, but not afterwards, amend his invoice by adding to the cost or value therein set forth; but no such addition shall be permitted upon the entry of goods obtained

SHOWING THE COST OF THE GOODS

OTHERWISE THAN BY PURCHASE.

If the appraised value of imported goods, that is, the value put upon them by the customs appraisers, exceeds by more than 10 per cent. the value declared in the entry, there shall be levied "in addition to the duties imposed by law on such merchandise a further sum equal to two per cent. of the total appraised value for each one per cent. that such appraised value exceeds the value declared in the entry; and the additional duties shall only apply to the particular article or articles in each invoice which are undervalued." If the appraised value exceeds the value declared in the entry by more than 40 per cent., the entry may be held to be fraudulent, and in any legal proceedings which may result from seizure of the goods the fact of such under-valuation shall be presumptive evidence of fraud and the burden of proof to rebut the same shall be on the importer. Forfeitures shall apply to the whole of the merchandise in the case or package containing the particular article undervalued in the invoice. The value of crates, boxes and other coverings is to be included in the dutiable value of the goods when they are subject to an ad valorem rate; and if there be used for covering goods any unusual article designed for another use an additional duty will be levied on it at the rate to which the article would be subject if separately imported.

NO ALLOWANCE FOR DAMAGE TO GOODS

Imported hereafter to be made in estimating the customs duties, but the importer, within ten days after entry, may abandon to the United States Government all or any portion of the goods included in any invoice, and be relieved from payment of the duties, provided that the portion so abandoned amounts to 10 per cent. or over of the total value or quantity of the invoice. These abandoned are to be sold by public auction. The act provides for the establishment of a court of general appraisers for the whole country, consisting of nine members with a salary of $7,000 a year each. This tribunal was established shortly after the passage of the act in June last, but, as it has been said, the other provision did not take effect until August 1.

The law, designed for the better protection of the United States revenue, was was introduced in behalf of the Treasury Department by Mr. McKinley, and bears the restrictionist hall mark in every clause.

REGULATIONS AND INSTRUCTIONS

have been issued by the Treasury to collectors to enable them to comprehend and enforce its provisions. Without absolutely knowing it, we are disposed to think that under these instructions the frontier collectors will look more sharply after the valuation of goods shipped from Canada than they have been in the habit of doing. The trade returns of the Dominion have for a number of years, under the Liberals as well as under the Tories, contained a stupid entry—an entry usually amounting to between two and three million dollars, which has been supposed to represent the extent of the undervaluation of Canadian exports to the United States. In 1889 in regard thus:—"Estimated amount short returned at inland revenue ports and exported to the United States, $3,070,652." In another place (p. 735 of the returns) it is made to appear that the undervaluating reported by Canadians when shipping goods across the line is perpetrated chiefly in Ontario, for under the head of Ontario exports this item occurs:—"Estimated amount short returned at inland ports and exported to the United States, $2,708,901." It is believed that, in the preliminary proceedings in committee with respect to the Administrative Customs Act, Mr. McKinley made use of these quasi official acknowledgments on the part of the Dominion Government that undervaluation had been practised by Canadian shippers; and that the Treasury Department means to put a stop to the practice. If this be so, our exports across the line will be doubly weighted, the McKinley tariff being reinforced by a more stringent system of valuing the goods for duty.—Globe.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Springville.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Business in our village is booming in every quarter. Mr. A. Goodfellow, our popular general merchant, is kept busy attending to the wants of his customers, while Mr. John Irwin, the genial city blacksmith, has succumbed to the pressing necessity of engaging a wood-working mechanic. Mr. Irwin has fitted up a spacious shop, where all kinds of work in this line can be speedily executed, and as none but the very best material is used, together with the best skilled labor employed, Mr. Irwin's patrons may rely on receiving a first-class job at the hands of our enterprising citizen.

In a recent issue of your paper the public were treated to quite a lengthy omincus article about the state of matters pertaining to the yield of wheat and the pleasing smiles of young ladies who have been visiting in the community; not committing to give vent to his overflowing sympathetic feeling for the diseased and sick around the community, and giving his loving compliments to the professional dwellers of our village. Your correspondent has yet to learn where the amateur scribe received such a gloomy account of affairs in the district, mixed with so many allusions to invalid persons. He must have met some gossiping old lady who was afflicted with the blues, and found the green scribe ready to partake of such ignis-fatuus news—as no gentleman would attempt to astringe such a bundle asperisons about our prosperity and residents of our community. Undoubtedly he or the old lady is elligible for the remarks of a certain imminent writer, that any person using the names of respectable residents (invalids) of a place in such a way lacks some links out of the chain of good breeding. We would be pleased to have the newsy scribe write again, but as he no doubt has incurred the odium of many of the ladies of this district, it would be better for him to tell us something about a recent far-away war.

Farmers are now busy fall ploughing, cutting the second crop of clover for hay, which was intended for seed, but never matured owing to so much wet weather. Those having fancy peas have marketed the crop, which was below the average, especially on low land. The potato crop was good, but on low-lying land the yield will be poor owing to the soft rot that is affecting it in low localities.

Your Frazerville correspondent appears to be very apprehensive about provisions for the baby crop, which is usually up to the average in that district. No doubt it will be difficult to find a substitute equal to sound potatoes; but Egypt has a full buckwheat crop, and by the good wives and daughters learning the art of making pancakes with the flour of this cereal and laying in a good supply of honey (which Mr. James Baptie no doubt would be ready to supply, extracted from the products of the richness of the famous country around Springville), and obeying the hygienic laws by keeping cool, the fears of the correspondent may be some what allayed with such prospects of bringing that crop through to another season. Under the circumstances it would be wisdom for him to adopt the rule of the ladies who lived forty years without a proposition of marriage, to live in great hope for better times in the future.

10 KILLED, 20 WOUNDED.

The Dupont Powder Works near Wilmington, Del., Wrecked—Village Wiped Out.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 7.—Several startling explosions in quick succession at 3¼ p.m. announced a disaster at the Dupont powder works on the Brandywine. The whole section of the works known as the "Upper Yard" is a complete wreck and at least six lives have been lost. One of the magazines exploded first and the drying and rolling mills near by followed in rapid succession. There were seven successive explosions. Every dwelling in the neighborhood is reported wrecked or unroofed, and buildings within a radius of half a mile are more or less damaged.

LATER.—A messenger has just brought in the following: Ten killed, 20 wounded, place a complete wreck, none of its houses left standing.

The Dupont powder mills extend along the Brandywine chiefly on the west bank and close to the water for about two miles. They are divided into the "Upper," "Hagley" and "Lower Yards." The former is some three miles and the latter five miles from Wilmington. The "Upper" was the office and business headquarters of the company.

The force of the concussion even broke windows in some parts of Wilmington four or five miles away. The office of the Dupont Company is a complete wreck and six mills are in ruins. Several members of the Dupont firm were injured by falling walls and broken glass but none seriously.

The dead were all employes of the firm and were in and about the mills that exploded. Several workmen who are missing are believed to have been blown into fragments. The first explosion occurred in one of the packing mills, where a workman named Gran was receiving a can of hexagonal powder to be shipped for the use of the United States Government. In some way a spark communicated to the can and it blew up. Instantly the packing mill exploded and the other mills in the upper yards, seven or eight in number, followed at intervals of less than one second. About 50 families are rendered homeless by the disaster. The injured are being gathered into the hospital building appertaining to the works and are receiving such aid as they need.

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit This Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmanship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be big business awaiting him this visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterborough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October. dw

The Electric Light Improves the Appetite and Helps Sleep—Electricity as a Motor—Gas by a Slot Machine—Many Uses for Electricity.

It has been remarked as showing what a powerful element of health the electric light is, that the general health of those who use it improves, their appetite and their ability to sleep increases and the visits of the doctor become less frequent. This is especially apparent in the statistics of the attendance of working people in factories and other places. In the savings bank in Queen Victoria street London, where 1200 persons are employed the absences from illness have been so far reduced that the extra labor gained is said to have paid for the electric light. The influence of artificial light on the eyes has also a very important sanitary bearing. It has been asserted that the injury to the eyes, of which the growing short-sightedness of the day is but one result, is due to the heat ray and not to the light rays. If that be so, the electric light is less injurious than any other. If the eyes are exposed to the strong light of the arc lamp its ultra-violet rays have a painful effect, but no one has ever complained of the influence of a steady glow lamp upon the sight, and it is possible to read and write for many hours by such a light without experiencing the least fatigue.

Gas by a Slot Machine.

Gas is the latest addition to the automatic "penny in the slot" system. It is to be tried at Birmingham in connection with artisans' dwellings. The meter is the patent of a Manchester firm. The burners will consume a cubic foot of gas per hour, and for 1d. a consumer can have 2½ feet. He will pay 4d. per 100 feet instead of the 3s. an ordinary consumer pays, but he will not be charged for meter and fittings, and he can have a full supply for 1d. It is hoped that the plan will meet the difficulties small consumers feel in paying quarterly gas bills, and so the Birmingham Corporation Gas Department is about to make the experiment. It ought to answer in all dwellings on the "slot" system and we may look for extensions of the idea in many directions. Already extra light is supplied to some railway carriages on this principle. Hot water for warming a room, electric light on foggy days, and many other things are within the range of penny automatic meters.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Petroleum Gas as a Motor.

The Secor system of propelling vessels by the explosion of petroleum gas is now practically perfected. A commission of naval experts has examined the first steamer built under this system, the Eureka, at her wharf, foot of Bridge street, Brooklyn, and has reported favorably on the work. Richard Poillon, the petroleum shipbuilder, is the largest stockholder, and Theodore N. Vail, of the Metropolitan Telephone Company, has lately taken a big interest in the Secor Company.

Electricity From Heat.

The effort to obtain electricity direct from heat, without the intervention of boilers, engines and dynamos, goes on, but without satisfactory commercial results as yet. Edison and Berliner did something on parallel lines of investigation several years ago, but as their experiments gave only a small fraction of the power that would be obtained in the old way they were not pushed. A Pittsburg inventor, working along a different line, claims to have accomplished more.

Electricity as a Motor.

Nearly 2000 electric cars are running in the United States. Boston alone has about 100 miles of electrically operated roads. Several systems have been developed to a perfection that insures smooth and regular service. Other systems are still more or less in the experimental stage.

An Electrical Tow-Horse.

The New York Sun says: "The latest patents of Professor Elihu Thomson cover electrical inventions of great practical value. One of these is for the transmission of power for long distances by means of alternating currents, the potential of current being so high as to materially reduce the cost of wire. Another invention is a kind of electrical tow horse for exerting a large quantity of power for a moment in the starting of cars. When a car is far from a station or on a grade, a heavy current is required to move it, and to supply this storage batteries are placed at different points along the line. These batteries, though of small capacity, are made capable of quick discharge, the object being an extra supply of current at special moments.

Old Alaska Craters at Work.

The steamer Arago, which recently returned from St. Paul and Oonalaska, brough information that within the last few month a strange reaction of nature has developed on several volcanic islands, attended in some instances, with serious results. Until within the past few years the craters distributed throughout Alaska were thought to be extinct. The natives, who seem to have inherited a dread of what they call the "fire-god," became sufficiently courageous to establish settlements at the very base of the volcanoes.

When the volcano at Bogoslov commenced to emit smoke some time ago it was thought that that would be the extent of the eruption. Later on, as published, lava and cinders were emitted from the crater in alarming quantities. The theory advanced by an officer of the Arago, who has given the matter considerable study, is that the action of the Bogoslov volcano has affected and is affecting all the others.

While the Arago was up North a volcano located on Aukatan Island, which had been extinct for hundreds of years, alarmed the native village at its base. The top, which was visible, became obscured and clouds of sulphurous smoke covered the sky. The natives were panic-stricken at the sight. In hot haste they commenced to remove to a more distant part of the small island. Meanwhile huge volumes of smoke poured from the summit of the snow-covered mountain. At night a beautiful sight was frequently witnessed. Long tongues of flame leaped up out of the crater and danced in the darkness. At other times fine showers of glittering sparks arose.

Some of the older Indians prophesy that a terrible eruption of lava will soon come from the Aukatan crater. They are leaving the island to flee from the danger.

The volcano which recently sprung into action on the island of Unamak still continues to emit dense volumes of black smoke and cinders. In other parts of the country supposedly extinct volcanoes are commencing to give signs of life, and are expected to become active in a few years.

Water for Hogs.

It is highly important at all times, but especially in warm weather, to give swine an ample supply of pure water for wallowing in and drinking. To drive them to filthy mud holes is to invite disease. It is not safe, however, to give them access to a running stream for the water may be charged with the germs of hog cholera from infected herds up the stream.

Protection of Crops From Frost.

The frost cuts off the work of the farmer very unexpectedly at times, and millions of dollars are annually lost to farmers from lack of some methods by which such losses may be avoided. At the Minnesota Experiment Station the subject of protection from frosts has received considerable attention, and the results obtained are of interest to all sections. Professor Hazen, who has had charge of the investigations, states that a distinction should be made between frosts and freezing weather. The latter comes with a cold wave, and cannot be guarded against, but the former comes from a cooling produced by intense radiation of heat in a clear sky, and can be protected against. The radiation continues all night, the coldest moment being just before sunrise.

The first and most important matter is to determine if frost will occur. If the sky is cloudy or the wind brisk there will be little or no danger from frost, as wind keeps the air stirring, bringing down the warmer air and mixing it with that near the surface, while clouds act as covering to the earth and prevent radiation of heat. If a thermometer be placed upon the sod in a clear night it will be found five or ten degrees lower than one suspended six feet above it. As is well known, when ice-water is placed in a pitcher moisture appears. This moisture comes from the air, and is called dew, and the temperature at which it begins to collect on the glass is called the dew point. By putting crushed ice in a glass of water and carefully stirring it, if dew appears on the outside we could ascertain the dew point by noticing a thermometer in the glass. When the temperature of the dew point is below 32 degrees frost is deposited, which indicates that the temperature of plants is below freezing and will be injured. This dew point is often constant, rarely changing in twenty-four hours. The air temperature reaches its lowest point at sunrise and its highest about 3 P.M., perhaps 30 degrees higher than at sunrise, when it falls rapidly until midnight, and then slowly until sunrise. Previous to a storm the dew point gradually rises, and again usually falls after a storm.

The dew point is the most essential thing to be determined. When the air temperature is lowered below the dew point incipient condensation takes place, heat is liberated, and hence the lowest temperature during the night may be taken as the dew point of the previous evening. If the dew point of the air is watched from 6 o'clock to 9 P.M., and it is found steady and above 25 degrees, there will be little danger of frost, but if the dew point is below 32 degrees look for frost. It is not possible to heat the air, but we can prevent radiatiation of heat, either by covering the plants with paper or some other material, or producing an artificial cloud or smoke by burning refuse straw, brush, chips or anything that will answer, to the windward of the orchard, which is easily determined by the direction of the smoke. If the smoke goes straight up burn the material in the centre of the field. Experience has abundantly proven that smoke will protect against frost, and that it pays to use such precaution on behalf of the crops.

The Old Reliable.

In these days of humbug it is a relief to hear of something that can be depended upon. Wilson's Wild Cherry has been tested as a remedy for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs, for nearly twenty years with such success as to earn for itself the title of The Old Reliable cure for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis and other affections of the respiratory system. "If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

Life Insurance Policy Holders SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,984,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,637	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	5,470,620	10.66
Temperance and General	2,994,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,966	23.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 20 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Capt. John Dundas, of Springville, called to-day and enrolled his name on the list of survivors of the '37 rebellion. At the first call to arms he went to Toronto and enlisted, and for his services received 14 shillings all told for expenses, a gun and a blanket. After the war Capt. Dundas organized a company of volunteers at Springville, of which he was the commanding officer for a number of years. The company is now captained by his nephew, Councillor Johnston, of Otonabee. Capt. Dundas also organized a company of soldiers to take part in the memorable 17th of March trouble in Peterborough.

A Pointless Action.

Walter Naylor, a baker lately employed with Mr. S. Anglesyo, brought an action in the police court this morning to recover the sum of $7 50 which he claimed was due him from his boss. From his evidence it appeared that last Saturday night Mr. Anglesyo did not pay Naylor his week's wages, as the latter owed him $5 house rent, and Mr. A. had no money to pay the balance. Naylor left his employment, and since that time the $2 50 balance had hand been left at his house by Mr. Anglesyo. The magistrate couldn't see the object in Naylor bringing the action and claiming $7 50, when his employee only only owed him $2 50 in the first place and the money had since been paid him. In order, however, to decide who should be responsible for the costs incurred, the case was enlarged till to-morrow to hear Mr. Anglesyo's evidence.

The Provincial Ploughing Match.

A meeting of agricultural directors of this county was held Thursday for the purpose of selecting a site and date for the Provincial ploughing match. Different farms have been visited within the past few weeks, and it was decided that the Howden estate, just east of the agricultural grounds, and about a mile from town, was the most suitable site. Twenty or thirty acres are available for the purpose. The date was fixed for Wednesday, Oct. 29. This ploughing match will be a big agricultural event, in which the farmers of the 12 counties in the Midland district are interested. Valuable prizes are to be given for the successful contestants. It is to be hoped that the Peterborough ploughmen will take an active part in the match. The directors are doing everything in their power to make the match a success. Those present at Thursday's meeting were: Messrs. Vance, Birdsall, Humphries, Rutherford and Collins.

On the Verge of Death.

Chief Reazel this morning received a letter from Mr. E. E. Dodds, Canton, clerk of Hope township, containing an account of the finding of Mr. John Earle, of Downer's Corners, last Tuesday. Mr Dodds writes that about half past eight o'clock Tuesday morning the old man staggered out of the swamp into the yard of Mr. Jas. N. Ratledge, Canton, without cap, coat or shoes, wet to the skin, and so exhausted as to be utterly unable to talk or give any account of himself. Mr. Ratledge gave him the best of care, and fed and clothed him, after which the old man revived somewhat and gave his protectors to understand that he had come from the north. Mr. Dodds, the clerk, was notified, and he took steps to discover his identity. Learning that the man had friends in Millbrook, he sent Mr. Earle there, and from thence he was forwarded to Peterborough. Mr. Dodds says that the old man's missing clothes were found on the roadside opposite the English church at Perrytown, 4½ miles northward, where he had evidently left them himself. It was fortunate that he sought shelter when he did. He had apparently been in the swamp all day Monday and Monday night, for his clothes were noticed on the road Sunday. Another day in the swamp would likel have finished him. Mr. Earle is now at the home of Mrs. Michaels, Downer's Corners, slowly recovering from the effects of his terrible experience. His wanderings came near having a fatal termination.

The Young Men's Reception.

A Pleasant Affair in the Y.M.C.A. Rooms.

The rooms of the Y.M.C.A. were filled last night with as bright and happy a lot of young men as one could wish to see, on the occasion of the reception given to the members of that association by the ladies' auxiliary. The President, Mr. G. J. Early, occupied the chair, and the somewhat lengthy programme was despatched with promptness and lively interest. After a few opening remarks of welcome to those present, and expression of thankfulness for the work now being done through the Association, he called upon the various committees to report progress.

Mr. F. G. Sanders, chairman of the Invitation Committee, reported that his committee after first always meeting and submitting the matter to God in prayer, went out upon the streets before each meeting, and invited young men to come to the meeting. That their efforts in this direction had not been unsuccessful was evidenced by the fact that some of the best and most earnest workers the Association had were first introduced in this way. He related how recently, when the supply of printed invitation slips had become exhausted, and the impoverished condition of the Association treasury did not seem to permit of the purchase of more, they had appealed direct to God on the subject, and how in answer funds sufficient for the purpose had immediately been forthcoming. Their committee further visited the hotels on Saturday night and invited transient travellers to the hospitality of the Association rooms and meetings, which invitations were also frequently thankfully accepted. They had also recently made a practice of placing tracts in the buggies in the hotel yards. He concluded a very earnest, though impromptu little address, by urging each member of the Association to constitute himself an invitation committee and try to bring his companions within its happy and healthful influences.

Ed. Manning, in the absence of the chairman of the Reception Committee, explained that it was their province to see that persons visiting the rooms were properly received and welcomed there, and that certain members were detailed for this duty every night.

Albert Hamilton, chairman of the Membership Committee, explained the duty of his committee as being a general oversight of present and proposed members, explained that every young man of good moral character was eligible for such, and gave a very hearty invitation to those present, who had not yet done so, to join the Association.

In the absence of the chairman of the Finance Committee, G. M. Roger said that while the finances had not been in as satisfactory condition as they would have liked to see them, the committee were encouraged by the knowledge that the Association was doing a noble work amongst the young men of the town, and that as he believed this was now becoming known and being appreciated by our citizens, they would no longer allow it to suffer for want of funds; as soon as the public are convinced that it is a good investment they will put their money in it. He said the committee had a very enthusiastic meeting the morning before, and considering the time opportune, had resolved to make a determined effort to wipe out the balance of debt which has hitherto been cripping their efforts.

Mr. Isaac Richardson, as chairman of the Devotional Committee, expressed their great thankfulness at the very manifest evidences of a spiritual revival now in progress amongst young men, reminded those present that it was their work and exhorted them in view of the present favourable attitude of young men towards the Association to renewed and redoubled efforts to win them for the Master.

Mr. Colville, as General Secretary, expressed delight at the large attendance of young men present at this and recent meetings and at the devotion with which many of them were working for their Master. He said the rooms had already become quite too small for present needs, and gave a most interesting account of the scenes nightly being enacted there, and of a number of conversions, some of which have been of a very marked character, disclosing a prevalence of vice and sin in this town, of which few except the participants have any knowledge. He pointed out the benefits of the Association as a place of refuge and help, and urged the young men as so much was being done for them, to avail themselves of the advantages provided for them and to help on the work as much as lay in their power. Many of the young men were now contributing liberally to the work from their earnings; one lad had at various times during the year given sums amounting to over $25 and several had given him $5. They would find it paid to trust the Lord with their substances, as the Lord honoured those who honoured Him. Some of their best workers had recently left town and volunteers were wanted to step forward and fill their ranks. He was himself surprised at the astonishing growth which the Association had recently been making, and he could only praise God for it. He also fittingly acknowledged the value of the services which the Ladies Auxiliary were so willingly rendering. The speeches were interspersed with music by the Y.M.C.A. band (which numbered about eighteen instruments) and selections by the Holland brothers, John Miller and Messrs. Williams and Hudson. After the conclusion of the proceedings, those present were treated to a repast served by the ladies of the Auxiliary.

Omemee.

On Tuesday night last Mr. Thomas H. Fee, who lives about three miles east of Omemee, met with a heavy loss by fire. Two fine barns, two stables and sheds, together with the season's crop and some machinery, were totally consumed. There were also a number of pigs, geese and hens burned. There was an insurance of $1500.

Mr. John O Tisdall, wife and family left Omemee on Tuesday for Rochester, where they will reside in the future. On Friday evening last a few of Mr. Tisdall's warmest friends called on him and presented him with a bible as a token of esteem.

The rite of confirmation was administered by the Lord Bishop of Toronto on Sunday last in the rectory. Total number who received laying on of hand 56. The congregations were very large, especially in the evening, when St. John's was literally crammed. The church was tastefully decorated with flowers, and the communicants numbered 118. The Bishop expressed his great pleasure at the evident signs of revival and progress in all three parishes under the Rector's charge.—Herald.

Personal.

Mr. Edward Duff leaves this evening for Winnipeg to assume his new duties in the Baptist Training School. Mr. Duff will be accompanied by some members of his family, the remainder following next week. At a meeting last night of trustees of the Baptist church, of which Mr. Duff was an active and prominent member, a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Duff for his valuable services in the past. The resolution and a complimentary address embodying an expression of gratitude from the church will be forwarded to Mr. Duff in due time.

Secret of Birchall's Nerve.

The astonishing "nerve" shown by Birchall during his recent trying experiences was the wonder of all. A Woodstock gentleman writing to a friend in town, says the secret of Birchall's nerve is the fact that he drinks the same brand of tea kept for sale by Bawley bros., soothing to the nerves pure, strong and fragrant. dw

One Thousand Feet High in Mid Air.

Mr. O. C. Rowse "Doing" Paris—He Ascends the Eiffel Tower—An Interesting Letter Concerning Paris and its Sights.

The EXAMINER has been favored with a communication from Mr. O. C. Rowse, a well-known resident of Peterborough, who is at present touring through parts of the old world. The letter is accompanied by a carte postale written at the top of the famous Eiffel tower. The card is lithographed on the back with a gay border and colored picture of the tower, space being left at one side for correspondence. It is a neat souvenir. The card reads:

EIFFEL TOWER,
PARIS, Sept. 29, 1890.

DEAR EXAMINER,—I am now at the top of this great structure. Ten thousand people may be on this tower at the same time. There are 1792 steps from base to summit, and the weight of the tower is estimated at 162 520,000 pounds, equal to 73,000 tons. Beautiful for situation on the Champ de Mars, the site of the Exposition of 1889.

Yours, etc.,
1000 feet above terra firma.
OLIVER C. ROWSE.

Following is the letter:—

PARIS, Sept. 29th, 1890.

DEAR EXAMINER.—Who has not seen, or does not wish to see, Paris—the pride of France? Last Wednesday morning we left London via New Haven and Dieppe in company with Gaze & Son's tourist party, for a seven days' visit in this gay and beautiful city. Our journey was from Victoria Station, London, to New Haven, by rail, New Haven to Dieppe by boat, and from Dieppe to our destination by rail. In crossing the channel, which trip was accomplished in four hours, a number of our party did not feel quite as well as usual. I cannot say that I was in the best of spirits myself, but in going to the cabin and taking a little nap, I felt much better. I have yet to know what sea-sickness means; but I must remember not to "holler" before I get out of the woods, for in a few days I expect to be on the Atlantic again on my homeward voyage per S. S. "City of Rome."

Paris, as I have already stated, is a gay and beutiful city, teeming with historic associations of deepest interest, favored with a mild and genial climate and is the abode and dictator of fashion. Its people are renowned for their courtesy and politeness. The home of gaiety and enjoyment—in fact, the paradise of pleasure seekers.

We arrived in Paris in the evening and were met at the station by Gaze & Son's interpretor, who conducted us to a cab, with instructions to the driver to take us to the Hotel St. Augustin. Arriving at the hotel, my first perplexity took place. The cabman wanted his fare, but he could not understand English and I knew very little of French. Just at the right moment one of the stewards of the Hotel arrived and told the cabman that Mr. Gaze would settle the bill, I felt much relieved.

I was then shown my room, which was very inviting and comfortable and after having a good wash, felt in trim for my French dinner. I did not know just how I would appreciate and thrive on French diet, but after making a thorough trial can say that it agrees with me exceedingly well. Breakfasted at 8.30 Tuurday morning and at 9.45 start on our first carriage drive to Versailles. Our route is through the Grand Avenue, past the Arc de Triomphe, and through the Bois de Boulogne.

Napoleon I originated the idea of constructing four triumphal arches for Paris, in commemoration of his victories, two only of which were, however, completed. There is little doubt but that this Arch of Triumph is the finest structure of its kind in the world, now that Temple Bar is no more. Its cost is over nine million francs (trane, twenty cents). Height 158 feet, width 150 feet, depth 70 feet. There are twelve avenues radiating from this arch, the bill of Montmarte to the left, Notre Dame and the Pantheon to the right and, nearer, the gilded dome of the tomb of Napoleon.

A mile beyond this great arch is the beautiful park of Bois de Boulogne, full of picturesque scenery, and one of the most popular resorts for Parisiennes. It extends over an area of 3,000 acres, and formerly abounded in game, and was frequented by robbers, duellists and suicides. Our guide informed us that many duels were fought here at the present day. It was in this forest that the Duke of Wellington encamped in 1815, and during the siege of 1870 it was terribly despoiled of its beauty.

The next object of interest is the Chauteau of St Cloud, about six miles from the city. The palace, erected in 1572, is now in ruins. It is full of historic interest. Here in 1815 the capitulation of Paris was signed, when Blucher made the palace his headquarters. Here Charles X. signed the proclamation which fettered and silenced the press and was the immediate cause of the 1830 revolution. Here Queen Victoria stayed when she visited Paris in 1855, and Napoleon III. was much attached to this pretty country chauteau, whence (from his bedroom window) he could survey Paris from end to end. Our carriages have meanwhile preceded us to the opposite gate; we take to them again, and are soon dashing through the Royal Park to the Grand Trianon. This is a very pretty summer palace, built in 1688 by Louis XIV. All the apartments are on one floor. We were shown the hall in which Marshal Bazaine was tried and condemned, on account of his conduct at Metz. The private room of Napoleon I, with furniture, bed and bath all intact, and then the suite of rooms prepared for Queen Victoria's reception in 1846, of which the bed-hangings and draperies are the richest Lyons silk. Her Majesty did not see fit to avail herself of these rooms after their extravagant preparations. We next see the coach carriages, perhaps the finest in the world. There are the wedding carriages of Napoleon III and I, as interesting as they are magnificent. But the coronation carriage of Charles X (used also for the baptism of the late Prince Imperial) is probably the most gorgeous and costly that has ever been constructed to hold four persons. It is said to have cost a million of francs.

Our morning's outing has given us a good appetite for our luncheon, which has become the all absorbing question. No time is lost, for arrangements have been made in advance, and all parties alight for dejeuner, which is served at the hotel de la Cuisse, exactly in front of the Palace. In the Palace of Versailles there are 5,298 pictures, and which if placed side by side would extend five miles. It is the grandest gallery of pictures, representing the history of France, in existence. The Salon des Glaces is one of the finest rooms in the world, the ceiling being gorgeously decorated to the glory of Louis XIV. The walls are covered with mirrors from end to end. The last royal ball given here was in honor of Queen Victoria August 25th, 1855, when she opened the ball with Napoleon III as her partner. I saw and viewed with great interest the state bedroom of Louis XIV, in which he died and since which no one has slept in it. From his room Marie Antoinette stepped boldly out on the balcony and endeavored to pacify the revolutionary mob, which subsequently led her back to Paris and finally to the guillotine. There were many objects of interest that I would like to narrate but I presume you haven't the space and I have scarcely got the time at my disposal.

I have seen the Louvre with its gorgeous paintings, the Madeline and other principal churches of Paris, Arc de Triomphe commemorating Napoleon's achievements; the great tomb of the Great Napoleon, the Eiffel Tower from the summit of which the giants of earth are like dwarfs and pigmies. Here we have probably the best view of the grandest, prettiest and wickedest city I believe on the face of the earth.

The Trocadero Palace, is devoted to fine arts. The organ in connection with this building is the third largest in Europe, and the central part of the building has accommodation for 5,000 persons comfortably seated.

From what I have seen of the gaiety and pleasure experienced in Paris I have come to this conclusion, that in the scale of morality Paris is on the descendancy. Immodesty is tolerated to a great extent. The Sabbath is largely disregarded, in fact Sunday is the chief day for races, balls and public fights, and these so called entertainments are largely patronized. But I must conclude.

Cordially yours,
O. C. ROWSE.

Range and Rifle.

Annual Matches of the Peterborough Rifle Association.

Once more the riflemen have had successful annual matches. They took place Thursday, one day only being occupied this year on account of the military matches having been held previously. There was a good attendance of local marksmen and a number of crack shots from Bowmanville, Lindsay and Port Hope. The Peterborough men this year retained more and better prizes than ever before, and when it is considered that they had to compete against such men as Milligan, who stands second on the Bisley team; Windatt, also a Bisley man; and Sando, an old Wimbledonian, the splendid showing made by the local riflemen is apparent.

The day was an ideal one for shooting and good scoring was the rule. Everything passed off most pleasantly. Tents were erected for lunching and resting, and as there were a number of visitors the ranges presented an animated appearance.

Following are the scores and the record of prizes won:—

Hastings' Minerals.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 7.—A syndicate of capitalists, resident in Montreal, who recently purchased the Feigel mine at Malone, Marmora, has recently given orders for its development on an extensive scale. With this object contracts will at once be let for work upon the old vein, a vein which has produced upward of $60,000, and for working other veins which exist upon the property. The work will be continued during the winter with a strong force of men, and by spring a large amount of ore will be ready for reduction. Careful tests of the ore will then be made, and if the result be satisfactory one of the finest mills in the country will be erected and the process of reduction adopted that has already been successfully tried upon ore from this mine. Work will in such cases be prosecuted day and night on an extensive scale. The famous consolidated Gatling mine will also be operated. Taken in connection with the successful working of the Brown mines at Bannockburn and the operations of the English syndicate represented by F. R. Lingham, the foregoing facts justify the belief that a bright day is at hand for the gold mining industry of North Hastings.

DURING the first nine months of the current year, 1890, the number of failures in Canada reached 1,376, compared with 1,221 in the same months of last year and 1,249 for the corresponding period of 1888. The trade restriction policy, remarks the Ottawa Free Press, is evidently getting its work in. And a comparison of the liabilities of those who failed discloses even a more unfortunate condition of affairs. For the first nine months of 1889 the liabilities reached $13,726,155—showing an increase of nearly fifty per cent. Of course the restrictionists seek to saddle the responsibility for the increase in the number of failures upon bad harvests, or upon Providence itself. But is this not a confession that our Tory rulers are mere "flies on the wheel," if not something worse? What is the use of a paternal government and a policy of trade restriction that cannot ward off bad times? When the harvests are good the people do not need legislative assistance to make them prosperous.

Where the Crowd Went.

One of our brother grocers had a man placed opposite the door of W. J. Morrow's Saturday with a massive pile of dodgers so anxious was he to attract the stream of customers which kept pouring in, the shop being packed with people looking for his big bargains, but we don't blame them. Why, our city papers are increasing their business greatly, others going into advertising every day trying to lure the public, but they cannot do it, the latter knowing where they can buy goods 25 per cent. cheaper than elsewhere. CONVERSATION.

FARMER TO FARMER—"Hello! where are you going?"

"Down to MORROW'S for a Caddy of Tea. We have been paying peddlars double price long enough, 40 and 45c., and he is selling better for 25c. James, Brown, and Billings, neighbors of mine, say they are quitters. They tried MORROW'S, it suits fine."

"Well, say, I think it pays us better to buy for cash than pay those prices. The Interest is rather high.

"Bring me a half chest, pay him for it and I will settle with you."

"All right, good day."

MURDERED INNOCENTS.

TELL-TALE FOOTPRINTS FOUND BY DETECTIVES.

The Prisoner Alleged to Have Made a Partial Confession—Intense Excitement in the Neighborhood Where the Tragedy Occurred.

CUMBERLAND, Ont., Oct. 10.—This village is still in a state of great excitement over the brutal murder of the two young, pretty and innocent daughters of Mr. McGonagale. The crime, for sheer brutality and wantonness, has, it is safe to say, never been equalled in Canada, and the manner in which the dastardly deed was committed is suggestive of the methods of the thugs of Oriental countries. The villagers are asking themselves how it was possible for a human being to coolly and deliberately waylay and strangle two innocent school girls. Mingled with these remarks are others of more sinister import, and vague threats and mutterings of lynching and shooting on sight are heard on every hand among the knots of excited men who are discussing the occurrence. But others more experienced and moderate are counselling calmness.

Tell Tale Footprints.

An investigation developed important results this morning. Detective Grier started out with the prisoner's boots to the scene of the tragedy. At a spot about 20 feet from where the bodies had been lying he found in the soft mud and wet withered leaves a foot mark that exactly fitted prisoner's boot. The sole of the boot was round and the boot mark in the mud was identically similar in shape and size. The detective then followed the outside path on which the children had been found with a view of discovering further traces.

The prisoner declines to say anything about these discoveries.

Charles Wilson of Green's Creek, brother-in-law of McGonagle, created a scene at the inquest by exclaiming, "If that was my child he should never enter that house alive. I would kill him if I had to hang for it." The magistrate threatened to arrest him, but he said, "Arrest me if you will, but I will speak my mind."

The children are laid out side by side. The coffins are lined with white. The children are dressed in white muslin, each with her right hand across her breast.

The mother has not eaten since the murder, but sits and cries incessantly. She was taken to a neighbor's yesterday, but it only made her worse. She is in a delicate condition.

A knotted handkerchief belonging to the little girl was found near the spot. It was evidently used to keep her from screaming. There was also found an old spoke of a buggy wheel.

Think They Have the Right Man.

Mr. Windsor told a reporter this morning that yesterday he went into prisoner's room, and looking reproachfully at Larocque, exclaimed suddenly and emotionally: "For heaven's sake, Narcisse, what possessed you to do it?" Prisoner replied: "Don't know what possessed me." Many believe he will confess before the week is out.

Some of the jurymen wanted to take prisoner before the children and to the scene of the murder with the view of making him show signs of his guilt if guilty, but Crown Attorney Maxwell would not allow it, as it was contrary to law.

Great sympathy is felt for Mr. McGonagle and his wife, the parents of the two victims. They lost four of their eight children two years ago by diphtheria, two of them being buried in one day. Now they have but two children left aged 5 and 2 years.

QUOTES HOLY SCRIPTURE.

A Letter Written by Birchall Eight Days After Boswell's Murder.

STREETSVILLE, Oct. 10.—Shortly after the finding of the body of Boswell, a letter was received by the secretary of the Streetsville High School Board, Dr. Wood, dated at Niagara Falls, Ont., and signed "J. R. Birchall," in which the writer applied for the then vacant position in the school. This is the letter:

P.O. Box 313, NIAGARA FALLS, ONT.,
February 28, 1890.

DEAR SIR,—Having seen your advertisement respecting Streetsville School, I beg to offer myself as a candidate for the vacant position. I am 25 years of age, and was educated at Oxford University, England, where I took a high position in mathematics. English subjects and natural science I am a good classical and French scholar, and passed high examination in Holy Scripture. I can give you very good references and testimonials if you desire, and shall be pleased to send you my certificates from the university to inspect. Hoping to hear from you, I am, sir, faithfully yours,
J. R. BIRCHALL.

R. J. Wood, Esq., M.D., secretary.

It will thus be seen that the above letter was written by Birchall eight days after the murder. It is also worthy of note that Birchall professes to have passed "high examinations in Holy Scripture."

MARRIED BY SIGNS.

Icelandic Deaf Mutes United in Unique Fashion in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 10.—An interesting wedding was celebrated in the Martin Luther Icelandic Church last evening. The ceremony was performed by means of the sign language, the bridegroom being a deaf mute, Rev. Mr. Johnson read the service in English and it was interpreted word by word by Prof. D. W. McDermid, principal of the Manitoba institute for deaf mutes. Those who had never before witnessed such a ceremony could not fail to be struck with the gracefulness of the sign language and its facility of expression. The name of the bride was Halldora Thorlaksdotter, and that of the bridegroom Magnus Olafur Smith, both, as the names indicate, are Icelanders. The lady is able to speak and is said also to have acquired great proficiency in the use of the silent language. The bridegroom received his education in an institution in Denmark, there being none of this class in his native country, Iceland.

A Trackman Killed.

LYN, Oct. 10.—A trackman named C. Cloman, who was working on the G.T.R. between Lyn and Mallorytown, did not notice the approach of the up express train this afternoon and was struck by the engine and instantly killed.

Morphy's Body Still Missing.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 9.—The ill-fated yacht Keewatin was brought in yesterday to West Selkirk and was examined by a great many citizens, among whom was A. W. Morphy, brother of the late Oliver Morphy. Morphy will have the boat photographed. The bodies of Morphy and Beaujeu have not yet been found, the search has been abandoned.

THE L'ORIGNAL MURDER.

DAMAGING EVIDENCE AGAINST THE ACCUSED.

The Father of a Prisoner Testifies as to Her Guilt, While the Daughter of the Victim on the Other Hand Swears to an Alibi for the Alleged Murderers.

L'ORIGNAL, Oct. 10.—The trial of Christine Monette and Philippe Lamoreux for the murder of Oliver Monette, husband of the former, on Sept. 13 last has been in progress here for the past three days. The prisoners were tried before Mr. Justice Rose last May, and after the evidence for the crown was all in the court adjourned for lunch and when the court was reopened an hour afterwards it was found that one of the jurymen was absent, and for this reason the trial had to be postponed. The evidence is purely of a circumstantial character. William Benson of Michigan, brother-in-law of the murdered man, was the last witness examined. He testified to having seen a trail from the edge of the woods and road to where the body was found, which looked as if a body might have been dragged along. He also admitted that he had been intimate with the female prisoner. Several witnesses saw Lamoreux and Monette go into the bush together on the morning of the murder, and others swore that they heard screams proceeding from these woods just about the time the two would get there.

Henry Guay and Dieudonne Morin related going through the bush toward the Nation River, and as they came to the bank seeing a man's body out in the stream, which proved to be that of Oliver Monette. His feet were tied with a piece of string.

Other witnesses corroborated this story and told of the evidences of a terrible struggle in the woods near by. Medical evidence was put in and the wounds on the body were described. The jugular vein had been severed, and this was sufficient to cause death.

The most interesting witness was Francois Parent, father of Mrs. Monette, who swore he heard Lamoreux say, in presence of Mrs. Monette and others: "I have done it: I have put him out of my way!"

For the defence evidence as to character and as to threats of suicide by Monette was put in and Rosaline Monette, the 14-year-old daughter of the murdered man, swore that on Sept. 13, the day of the murder, her father and Lamoreux had returned to the house between 2 and 3 o'clock. They had gone out together in the morning at 9 o'clock first, returning late for dinner. (The murder is supposed to have been committed at 11 a. m. of Sept. 13.)

There remains only one witness to be called in reply to-morrow morning.

REVIEW OF TRADE.

Business More Active During the Week—Cotton and Woolen Goods Advance.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—General business, as reported in special telegrams to Bradstreets, has been somewhat more active during the week, noticeably in groceries, general dry-goods, clothing and hardware. In some instances the new tariff law has been reported as the stimulus, particularly with reference to clothes and clothing. Cotton and woolen goods manufacturers in many instances look confidently for higher prices at an early date. The late advance in boots and shoes is sustained, though rough leather is active and prices tend upward. Under the new tariff imported cigars will, it is reported in the trade, cost 3c more apiece and American made cigars of imported tobacco four cents more apiece. An early advance of prices of cigars is expected. Almost all farm produce is in active demand at very generally advancing quotations and fruits are all marked up and decidedly scarce. Anthracite coal costs 10 to 15 cents more per ton than it did a week ago and is moving freely. Salt meats are in demand west and south at improving prices. The movement of barley from the Pacific Coast to the east via the water route has begun again at San Francisco. Hogs and cattle are lower or unchanged at western markets.

Total earnings of 145 roads for September aggregate $41,965,482 on a total of 87,478 miles, a gain of 7.2 per cent. in earnings and 2.8 per cent. in mileage, the gain in earnings being the smallest except August of any month in 1890. For 9 months earnings aggregated $321,870,392 on a total of 83,331 miles, a gain of 10.1 per cent. in earnings and 2.8 per cent. in mileage.

The foreign dry-goods market is benefited by the settlement of tariff legislation. Demand is active and prices tend upward. Woolen men's wear goods are stronger in tone. Wool is active on immediate consumption demand and lower grades are 1c higher. Wheat has advanced 2½c, corn 1½c and oats 1c on the week. Notwithstanding the reaction following a sharp advance stocks of wheat available increase very slowly only one quarter as fast as they piled up in Oct., 1889. Exports of wheat, both coasts, and flour as wheat equal 1,516,759 bushels. Last week the total was 1,393,900 bushels. The total shipped abroad July 1 to date is 27,476,960 bushels. In a like portion of 1889 it was 25,085,105 bushels and in 1888 it was 35,019,196 bushels.

Small stocks of raw sugar restrict sales. Brazilian coffee moves in a narrow way, both speculatively and for actual lots. Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 180 in the United States this week, against 192 last week and 243 this week last year. Canada had 30 this week, against 36 last week. The total number of failures in the United States Jan. 1 to date is 7808, against 8737 in a like portion of 1889.

A Bountiful Harvest.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The October estimates of the yield per acre for the entire breadth of cereal crops as consolidated by the Department of Agriculture are: Winter wheat 10.8 bushels per acre, spring wheat 11.3; the wheat crop 11.1; oats, 19.8; barley, 21; rye, 13.5 bushels. The condition of corn is 76.6 instead of 76.1 last month, buckwheat 90.7, instead of 91.5, potatoes 81.7, instead of 86.7, tobacco 85.4, instead of 82.4.

The Corpse Winked.

SYLVANIA, Ga., Oct. 10.—Stephen Lewis died apparently at noon on Tuesday. His son came to attend the burial yesterday. He detected a quiver in his father's eyelid and asked him if he wanted water. The supposed corpse nodded his head. Physicians were called in and restored the man to conscious ness.

Took Snuff for 100 Years.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct. 6.—Mrs. James Coley, who died in Easton on Thursday at the advanced age of 110 years and 8 months, was probably the oldest snuff-taker in the world. She contracted the habit in 1790 and continued it up to the day of her death.

GLADSTONE ON M'KINLEY.

DILLON AND O'BRIEN FORFEIT THEIR BAIL.

Closer Relations Between Russia and America By the Pacific Route Consequent Upon the Construction of the Siberian Railway.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Mr. Gladstone sent to a Nottingham correspondent from Hawarden yesterday a postal card giving his opinion of the new United States tariff law. He says: "The tariff law is as you will suppose in my eyes a deplorable error, attended with severe and cruel consequences to innocent persons. I shall certainly desire to find an opportunity of offering remarks upon it in Mid-Lothian."

Still Go Marching On.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 10.—The Jews in Sebastopol have been ordered to leave the city.

BIG STRIKE IN AUSTRALIA.

The Strikers Ask a Loan of £20,000 From England.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The strikers in Australia have sent a telegram to their brethren here saying they require £20,000 to win in their struggle against their employes. They guarantee the repayment of the money, and say that if it is sent to them the success of their strike is assured.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 10.—Two thousand miners assembled to-day at Clorimall mine but work was not resumed. The stock of coal of the railways is dwindling and a force of police and artillery has been despatched to Lithgow colliery district where it is intended to hew a coal supply for the railways.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The glass workers at Denain and Escaupont have struck.

THEY JUMPED THEIR BAIL.

Excitement in Tipperary Over the Absence of Dillon and O'Brien.

DUBLIN, Oct. 10.—The case of the Crown against William O'Brien and John Dillon was again called at Tipperary this morning. O'Brien and Dillon did not put in an appearance. They have forfeited their bail of £1000 each in the conspiracy case and sailed yesterday for the United States. The forfeited bail will be paid by the National League.

All the other defendants who were jointly charged with conspiracy with Dillon and O'Brien were present in the court. Mr. Ronan, prosecutor for the Crown, announced the absence of Dillon and O'Brien and asked the court to append to their bail bonds the usual certificate of non-appearance. This was done and warrants were issued for the arrest of Dillon and O'Brien.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—T. P. O'Connor's paper The Star says Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien went to Waterford and from there to Havre on Wednesday, and that they proceed from the latter port to New York.

Detectives have boarded all outgoing steamers and searched in vain for Dillon and O'Brien. They are convinced the two are already on the way to America. It is possible, they say, that Dillon and O'Brien sailed on a yacht and boarded a steamer outside of Queenstown harbor.

A despatch from Tipperary says: "Though shadowed as never shadowed before they joined a liner by the aid of a friendly craft and are now well on their way to America."

ANOTHER AFRICAN WAR.

The Force in Mashonaland Attacked—Amazons to Oppose Redcoats.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Disquieting news has again been received regarding the British column now invading Mashonaland, in Southern Africa, a rich country which the British South Africa Company claims to have been ceded to it by Lobengula, king of the Matabeles. The main force of the expedition numbers 500 men, with a pioneer force of 180 men, and they are commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Pennefather of the Inniskillen Dragoons, who has had much experience in native warfare in Zululand. The force is well armed and equipped also with light artillery. While King Lobengula himself has not been altogether unfavorable to white occupation, his leading warriors have been anxious for war, and there is too much reason to believe the report from Cape Town that the Matabeles have attacked the expedition, causing a loss of about 100 men. Altogether the Matabeles can muster about 25,000 men. The British force is to march 400 miles and make a stop at Mount Hampden, in Mashonaland. Fortunately for the British, the Matabeles have no better weapons than assegais and bullock hide shields. When in warlike attire they wear black ostrich plumes. The Matabeles are brave and warlike savages, who have been accustomed for ages to attack and enslave the neighboring races, and do not care to acknowledge even the whites as masters. The more turbulent spirits have long clamored against the King's policy in favor of the white men and may have forced him into war. His men are not an undisciplined horde, but regularly trained and divided into commands. One of his measures of warlike preparation was to strengthen his force of Amazons by compulsory recruiting, many married women having been compelled to leave their husbands and homes and join in the ranks.

WILLIAM AND THE SOCIALISTS.

The Great, Grand Dream of the People's William.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Gil Blas prints an alleged interview with Emperor William during his visit to Austria. The Emperor is represented as having dilated on the Teutonic of the Alsatian, of whom he declared he was very fond. He expressed a desire to reward their loyalty by acts of conciliation, and said it was the duty of Germany to assist Alsatian in industry and commerce. He declared he would embark in no adventures, but would leave Germany to his son as he had received it, and would not share the riches and the horrors of another war. He thought the Socialists had been too long treated as savage enemies. Friedrichsruhe had tried to force upon him a policy of perpetual war abroad and at home, therefore he had left Friedrichsruhe. He was determined, he said, to complete his grandfather's work. "Germany united and Europe pacified, that is my great, grand dream."

His True Friend and Ally.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—Emperor William has received from the King of Italy a telegram announcing he has sent to the Kaiser a life-size portrait of himself. In the telegram King Humbert addresses the Emperor as "His true friend and ally."

Five Men Killed By an Explosion.

BOURGES, France, Oct. 10.—A terrible explosion of dynamite took place here to-day. A workman was filling a shell with the compound when, through some carelessness on the part of the man, it exploded with frightful force. Five men were instantly killed, their bodies being blown to atoms.

The New Siberian Railway.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 10.—The Novoe Vremya says the Russian Government will immediately begin the construction of the Siberian Railway. Officials of the Government will have entire charge of the work and no contractors will be employed. The Novoe Vremya comments on the strategic and commercial importance of the new railway, which it says will induce closer relations between Russia and America by the Pacific route.

Sensational Despatches Denied.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—A circular has been issued by the Government denying the report that fever prevails to an alarming extent among the Grenadier Guards, who are now stationed at Bermuda, and that a large number of deaths have occurred. The circular states there has been only one death from fever in the regiment.

Panic in a Theatre.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—During the performance in the theatre at Coalbridge, near Glasgow, last night a staircase leading from the gallery collapsed. At the same time all the lights were extinguished. A panic ensued and many persons were injured.

A TEACHER FINED.

A Warning to School Teachers Who Pull Pupils' Ears.

MONTREAL, Oct. 10.—Judge Davidson rendered a very interesting and important judgment this morning in the case of Moise Lefebvre v. Les Petits Freres de Marie. This was an action by which plaintiff claimed $200 damages for alleged injuries inflicted upon his son Alfred by Brother Ethelbertus, one of the teachers in the school of the order. The facts are in substance as follows: On the 16th Dec. last, plaintiff's 8-year-old boy being at school and interfering with another boy was ordered by the Brother to step forward and kneel on the platform. He refused to obey, whereupon the teacher went to him and taking him by the ear led him to the platform. When the boy went home after school his ear was wounded and bleeding. Medical assistance being called it was found that a fracture or rupture of the cartilage had occurred. Judge Davidson said: "The right of a teacher to administer reasonable and moderate correction was exceeded in the present case. It is not a defence to answer that the boy was disobedient. Discipline must be so enforced as to avoid bodily injuries. The ear is too delicate an organ to be seized upon and used to bring an offending pupil to the place of punishment. There are parts of the body to which, as experience has taught us all, the master may apply himself with absolute safety." The formal judgment was then given for $50 damages and costs.

COVETS PIERCE'S PELLETS.

But it is the Golden and Not the Purgative Ones He Wants.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Dr. Roy V. Pierce, ex-state senator, ex-congressman, millionaire and proprietor of famous patent medicines, has been sued by William S. Wyse of New York for alienating the affections of Mrs. Wyse. Wyse was connected with Harper's Weekly when Pierce met him 15 years ago. Wyse was a chum of Grover Cleveland, and when he came here to attend the races with the latter he used to drop in on Pierce. They became firm friends and Wyse confided to the doctor that he was having trouble with his wife. She went abroad and then made him give her a deed to all her property before she would return. When she got every cent he had, said Dr. Pierce to-day, she came back. I met them in San Francisco in 1888. They had quarreled there and Wyse told me that she threw him and his baggage out of his room at the hotel. I went back to Buffalo and Wyse afterwards went to New York and began suit against his wife to get back his money. He charged her with immorality. Wyse and I were good friends until May, when he treated me with the blackmailing scheme. I have received intimation that a compromise would be acceptable. I shall fight it out. I am innocent, and I believe my character is above possibility of harm from this stor .

Fatally Crushed by a Cave-in.

SHELBURNE, Oct. 10.—Robert Yeol of Primrose with others, was working in a gravel pit on his place, and had excavated under a bank. Mr. Yeol was standing under the bank, when it caved in, fatally injuring him. His legs became crossed and one was broken in three places below the knee, and his chest was crushed. Slight hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The Donkey Paid the Board.

NEWMARKET, Oct. 10.—The reported assault and robbery of Treasurer Bates of the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Company turns out to have been a put-up job to get out of town without paying certain expenses. When the troupe left yesterday morning Hotelkeeper Piper retained a gold watch and the trick donkey as security for his board bill.

Aimed at a Dog and Shot Himself.

STOUFFVILLE, Oct. 10.—John Dougherty tied his dog to a tree, and loading up his gun fired at the animal. The result was the dog was killed, and the breech of the gun was blown out, breaking the stock into fragments. Mr. Dougherty received a severe gash in the forehead and a fracture of the skull, and may die.

Population of U. S. Cities.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The census bureau to-day announced these populations: New Orleans, 241,955, increase 25,905, per cent. 11.99; Buffalo, 254,475, increase 99,323, per cent. 64.02. The population of New York state is 5,981,934, increase 899,063 or 17.60 per cent.

Hendrie, Detroit. Business: To acquire by purchase or otherwise the cartage, farming and other business now carried on by the firm of "Hendrie & Co.," and to carry on such business and also a general cartage and storage business and any business incident thereto.

A Canadian Girl's Nerve.

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—A young woman of good appearance called at the Third National Bank yesterday afternoon and presented an order which read: "Please pay to Miss Nash $3, and oblige Mrs. J. L. Hudson." There is no such person as Mrs. J. L. Hudson and suspicion was at once aroused and the police called in, who took the young woman to the Central Station. She gave her name as Mary Breen, aged 19, and said she came here last Saturday from Harrisburg, Ont. She appeared to have no idea she had done anything seriously wrong and coolly asked the officers what could be done to her.

A Torontonian Killed.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 10.—The criminal libel suit instituted by Attorney-General Martin against Beaton, one of the editors of The Free Press, was dismissed at the Police Court to-day, the authorship of alleged libellous article not having been proven.

George Pernet, son of Prof. Pernet of Philadelphia, Pa., formerly professor of languages in Toronto University, was thrown off his horse while trying to catch another one near Glenboro yesterday and his neck was broken.

Provincial Appointments Gazetted.

Renzo Heathcote, Montreal, commissioner for taking affidavits in that city for use in the courts of Ontario.

Notaries public: W. L. Ross, Hamilton; A. G. Mackay, Owen Sound; R. G. Smyth, Toronto; J. D. Read, Cardinal.

Division Courts, F. W. Armstrong, Bath, clerk second division court of Lennox and Addington. Joseph Belanger, Plantagenet, clerk fourth division court of Prescott and Russell. Neil McDougall, Port Arthur, clerk first division court of Thunder Bay. Charles Herrington, Wellington, bailiff fifth division court of Prince Edward.

MONTREAL, Oct. 9.—W. A. Dunnett, general organizer for the Royal Templars in the province of Quebec, arrived in town to-day from a tour in the Eastern Townships. A terrible temperance story is related of a well-known man in the county of Huntingdon. He had come home in a state of intoxication, but being unable to reach the house lay down in the barn yard and went to sleep. His pigs came along and ate off the poor man's hands and nose. Amputation followed, but when he recovered the passion for strong drink was still alive, and while raising a glass of liquor to his mouth with both wrists the unfortunate man became suddenly speechless and has remained in that condition ever since.

J. C. Turnbull.
AS THE
Cold Weather
CREEPS ON US
We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.
They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.
Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.
Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.
All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.
We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.
We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

CANADIAN JUSTICE.

Canada's widely-spread repute for serving out strict justice in dealing with criminals, has received new force from the issue of two recent trials of persons charged with the serious felony of murder. The Birchall case, its course and management, showed, on the part of the Crown, an unflinching determination to see justice done, unsullied by any indication of an accompanying thrist for anything like vengeance. The sacredness of human life as a public trust was vindicated, and a complicated legal drama, which in the neighboring republic would have occupied months, and involved motions for new trials, pettifogging attempts to delay the course of the law, and to defeat the ends of justice, was concluded, with all due regard to decency, in a few days. A similar promptitude marked the trial of the American man Day, for the murder of his wife, which took place at Welland a few days ago. The remarkable feature common to these two cases was, that both miscreants were foreigners in the strict meaning of that term, and that they both selected Canadian soil for the scene of their crimes, both inveigling, by diabolical ingenuity, their victims, to a place, which they reasoned, would afford the least chance for detection. The sturdy and summary manner in which Canadian justice has undeceived these cold blooded calculators, will tend to exercise a powerful deterrent effect upon other criminals of every degree. They will correctly reason that Canada is an unsafe field of operation and give it a wide berth, a consummation most devoutly to be wished by all citizens in sympathy with law and order. This will be a distinct gain. Society will not be polluted by the presence of many members of the criminal classes, who may have been led to regard Canada as a happy hunting ground for their depredations, had not the two cases cited, not aroused a wholesome dread of Canadian justice. In a more sordid sense we reap an advantage; the country will be saved the expense of the trial and punishment and maintainance of rogues of every degree. The country has now a widespread reputation for holding the scales of justice with an even and unwavering hand. Good citizens of other countries will, therefore, naturally select such a place as a new home, and being moved in the selection of that home by high motives, will make the best of citizens.

How to Build a Happy Home

For building a happy home six things are necessary. Integrity must be the architect, and tidiness the upholsterer. It must be warmed by affection, lighted up by cheerfulness, and industry must be the ventilator, renewing the atmosphere, and bringing in fresh salubrity day by day; and, lastly, all the members of the household, father, mother and children, should be blessed with perfect health. In our fair Canada there are thousands of families that have all the necessaries for the building up of happy homes but the last.

Sickness in some form has laid its hand upon a loved member of the home circle, and true happiness and pleasure is wanting.

Many a fond father comes home at night with a feeling of nervousness and disquietude, and often very irritable and morose, owing to the turmoil and worries of a busy day. This state of nervous prostration gradually becomes worse, and it is frequently aggravated by indigestion and dyspepsia, which tends to make his life miserable, and almost unbearable.

He cannot enjoy himself with all the comforts surrounding him as he should, and he wishes to pass his weary hours in solitude. He is sleepless at night, and cannot get the rest necessary to fit him for his next day's work.

Often the mother—the ministering angel of the house— wing to the toils and harassing cares of household duties, and looking after her children, as well as attending to the worries of her social station, becomes nervous, impatient, weak and almost used up.

Notwithstanding her great affection for husband and children, her unstrung nerves have caused her to become irritable and cross. She has not the lovely black eyes that once beamed like orbs of light. Her face has become sallow, and wrinkles are already showing signs of premature decay and age.

For men and women, and young thus afflicted, and who wish to be restored to perfect health and robustness, nothing can equal that grand discovery known as Paine's Celery Compound. It renews life, gives vigor, and enables those who now suffer in misery and pain, to once again enjoy perfect health and pleasure. It perfectly restores the shattered nervous system, banishes dyspepsia, and purifies the blood.

The medical profession highly recommends Paine's Celery Compound, and prescribes it every day. No other known remedy has achieved such wonders, and no other to day stands as high in public opinion.

Mount Pleasant,

Wild Cats!!!

'Twas at the mystic hour of eve,
Vague noises filled the darkened air,
And many ghastly cries arose,
Were they from wild cat, lynx or bear.

Out turned the fathers of our town,
Which they suppose infested was
By animals whose wild desires
Kew neither rules or civil laws.

Men who before had never been
So linked in friendship as they might,
Marched side by side, armed to the teeth,
Ready for the expected fight.

As round they skirmish, looking close,
Out bursts a cry prolonged and shrill!
Stout Courtney shouts vociferously,
"The enemy holds on Forty a Hill!"

The Eagleston clan now join the ranks;
The Bloxom brothers, too, unite;
The Jamieson boys, their own hill guard,
St. Pete, was ever such a night!

A Hunter now his rifle grasps
To guard the south of our great town,
When lo! a shrill cat heard afar.
Brave Charters thought he brought one down.

Strange noises fill the stifling air—
Noises as from the dreadful pit;
So near they broach the blind man's house,
That on the wailers he could spit.

That very night, on mischief bent,
Some citizens paraded round,
With mirthfulness they swung their sticks.
Which did produce this frightful sound.

The plot was laid with greatest care,
"Alum," was the word before the start;
"Quick March" was given by Captain Windall,
"Each man's expected to do his part."

The Smiths march on in double file,
Their weapons swing with school-boy pride,
'Tis said they smiled so oft and loud
The Captain feared they would have died.

Now let us all engage in song,
Or the joke that caused us fear;
And when the wild cats do return
Oh! grant our town they come not near!

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit This Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmanship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be big business awaiting him the visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterborough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October dw

OVER 500 LIVES LOST.

By the Foundering of a Turkish Frigate—Particulars of the Death of Admiral Osman Pasha.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The steamship Belgic arrived to-day from Yokohama. The mail of the Turkish frigate Ertougroul, Japanese papers say, was due to the explosion of the boilers during a gale. According to the reports of survivors brought to Kobe, the frigate left Yokohama Sept. 15 for Kobe. On the 15th a gale sprang up off Kishinoski, 250 miles from Yokohama, and a heavy sea was running. Suddenly a terrible noise was heard and all was confusion.

The men and officers were mostly below in berths. Those not in berths immediately rushed up to find what remained of the vessel was foundering. Captain Ali Bey was seen on the bridge for a moment with a lamp in his hand and was heard to cry, "Save yourself."

Then he disappeared and was seen no more. Navigation officer Nouri Bey also perished. The chief engineer was almost the first to die. He went from the cabin to the engine room just before the explosion and was literally blown to atoms.

The sea was soon full of debris, in which the men fought and struggled for life. Osman Pasha, the admiral, was swimming towards the shore, when he was struck on the head by a spar and sank. Out of a total of 500 souls only 6 officers and 57 of the crew reached land.

The vessel was old and was formerly used as a training ship. Up to Sept. 21 130 corpses had been recovered.

WHOLESALE THEFTS AT GRIMSBY.

A Hamilton Man Arrested—Confesses His Guilt.

HAMILTON, Oct. 10.—In the spring, when the summer residents at Grimsby Park went down to their cottages to see what alterations were necessary, they were somewhat surprised to discover that numerous articles of furniture, etc., had disappeared during the winter. Some of the residences were almost completely despoiled, carpets, tables, chairs, blankets, etc., having been taken. Among the residences plundered were those of Rev. John Pickering, Joseph Lister, D. A. Hopkins and J. A. Pointer of Hamilton and R. Orchard of Brantford. The property stolen was valued at $1200 or $1300. Yesterday Government Detective Rogers arrested Henry Marsh of 33 Shaw-street, Hamilton. This was the first arrest made, but others will likely follow, as there is more than one implicated. The house was furnished with articles which it is alleged were stolen from the cottages. The carpets in the hall and parlor, blankets, quilts, tables, chairs, bed clothing and pictures were removed to the police station.

Marsh is a married man about 28 years old, a carpenter by trade. He came here from Grimsby a short time ago. He cried bitterly when arrested.

FEARS TEMPORARY DEPRESSION.

Sir John Macdonald Thinks the McKinley Bill Will Have Some Effect.

OTTAWA, Oct. 10.—Sir John Macdonald was interviewed at Ernscliffe this morning. He said: "I have not yet observed the effects of the McKinley bill. It is hardly time to see what the direct results will be, but I anticipate a temporary depression very soon. So far as the American markets are concerned the United States want our agricultural products and will continue to take them, paying the increased duty besides. This is particularly true of the egg trade, but I expect the grandest reports from the experimental shipments of eggs to England, where Canadians will have an unlimited market. This new trade outlet will have one peculiar effect as soon as it is once known that we have a good market abroad, it will lead the exporters to handle dressed poultry. Sir John added that no decision has yet been reached respecting the export duty on logs.

Choked by a Grain of Coffee.

EASTON, Oct. 10.—Mrs. James Duffin of South Bethlehem sent her daughter to the store this morning for a pound of coffee, and when the girl returned she gave her three-year-old brother one of the grains. The boy attempted to swallow it, when it lodged in his throat and choked him to death before a physician, who had been called, arrived.

Fired on by Russians.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The sealing schooner C. H. White arrived from Sand Point, Alaska, to-day, with a catch of 485 seal and 30 other skins. The White brought down Captain Howitzer and Mr. Sutherland of the schooner Sophia Sutherland, who were lost from the vessel. The crew state that hunters on the T. C. H. White, a sister vessel, landed on Copper Island with the intention of poaching. The Russian authorities ordered them away, and when the men refused to go, fired on them. The fire was returned, and in the exchange of shots one of the White's men was killed. The former accounts made it appear that the sailors approached the island in distress.

Where the Crowd Went.

One of our brother grocers had a man placed opposite the door of W. J. Morrow's Saturday with a massive pile of dodgers so anxious was he to attract the stream of customers which kept pouring in, the shop being packed with people looking for his big bargains, but we don't blame them. Why, our city papers are increasing their business greatly, others going into advertising every day trying to lure the public, but they cannot do it, the latter knowing where they can buy goods 25 per cent. cheaper than elsewhere. W. J. MORROW, 340 George st. dw

Great Was the Fall Thereof.

THE BOER CHIEFTAIN.

General Joubert the South African Dutch Commander.

This is the picture of the stern, not to say ugly, Dutch leader of men who wanted the English in the Transvaal difficulties a few years ago, and who is in England now, discussing English South African projects in a spirit which indicates that he may yet be engaged in more battles with England's armies.

The English are pushing into Swaziland, where gold is said to have been discovered in paying quantities. Of course they contemplate annexation.

General Joubert declares frankly, in England, the sentiments of his nation, as follows: "The Government of the South African Republic never could concede that the Swazies, always friendly to the republic, should lose their independence, and that a country situated within the natural geographical frontiers of the republic could come into the hands of any other government than that of the South African Republic. And I am thoroughly convinced that every right-minded and intelligent Englishman will be of the same opinion if only the real facts of the case are made clear to him."

This means that the Boers will fight if England tries to absorb Swaziland.

General Joubert looks warlike enough to make the English remember their former disasters, and to think twice before they tackle him.

BISMARCK AS AN ORATOR.

A Hesitating Speaker, But a Forcible One. His Religious Views.

Bismarck lacks some of the qualities which are considered almost indispensable to an orator. He not only speaks slowly, he actually stops—at the beginning of his speeches, at least—at every third or fourth word; one might suppose he had to overcome some organic difficulty in pronouncing his words. He sways himself gently backwards and forwards, he twirls his thumbs, and from time to time he looks at a scrap of paper upon which he has put down notes before speaking. To one who did not know him well he would certainly appear to be embarrassed, nay, even intimidated. But this is not the case. He takes due account of those who are listening to him, but he is probably less disturbed by their presence than any other public speaker. He puts heart and soul into his work, he wants to say all he thinks about the question, and he does not much care whether this way of speaking is pleasant or not. When he comes to a stop his auditors feel that after all they have heard something worth listening to, and that every word Bismarck has used, and which he has taken so much pains to find, was the right one

HEARING DIRECTLY ON THE QUESTION.

Somebody interrupts him, he does not retort quick as lightning, but after a few seconds—the time for weighing what he had just heard—there comes a crushing reply which falls heavily on the interrupter, and not infrequently raises a laugh at his expense. After a while he warms to his work, and the conclusion of some of his speeches is very good, even from an exclusively oratorical point of view. The greater part of what he has said in debate reads well; it is full of sound common sense and logic, and it is utterly free from high-sounding, empty phrases. If what Bismarck says were not good and forcible, no one would attend to him; but generally what he says appears from the first so weighty that there is no orator more attentively listened to. And this was the case even before he became a great man. A very striking element in the constitution of Prince Bismarck is his deep religiousness. He owns a God other than himself, and pays him the tribute of sincere and heartfelt worship. According to him, life would not be worth living if it were not for the hope of an existence beyond the tomb. His belief in God is the keystone of all his life. In 1873, in a parliamentary debate, he referred to an extract from a speech delivered by him in 1849, in which he had maintained that "a certain measure of positive Christianity is necessary to the common man in order to prevent him from becoming dangerous in society." He said: "Whatever in my former utterances may have applied to a living profession—to a profession of LIVING CHRISTIAN FAITH.

THOUGH HE SPEAKS BADLY,

I confess quite openly to-day, and I do not flinch from making this profession publicly or in my own house, at any and every time. But it is precisely my living evangelical Christian faith which imposes upon me the obligation to protect in every way the high office confided to me in the country of my birth, to serve which God created me."

In the midst of the Franco-German war he expressed himself very emphatically in the same sense: "If I were not a Christian I would not continue to serve the King another hour. . . . Why should I incessantly worry myself and labor in this world, exposing myself to embarrassments, annoyances, and evil treatment, if I did not feel bound to do my duty on behalf of God. Did I not believe in a divine ordinance which has destined this German nation to become good and great, I have never taken to thy diplomatic trade, or having done so, I would long since have taken it up. I know not whence I derive my sense of duty, if not from God. Orders and titles have no charms for me. I firmly believe in a Life after Death."

Stuck Fast.

Sir Jonah Barrington was one of a party invited by a relative of his own to a housewarming. Two of the guests, after their potations, slept soundly all night in the dining-room with their heads against the wall. When breakfast was announced, "the twain immediately started and roared in unison. 'Come, boys!' said the host, giving Joe a pull. 'Oh, murder!' says Joe, 'I can't.' 'Murder, murder!' echoed Peter. 'I have in my lifetime laughed,' says Barrington, 'till I nearly became spasmodic, but never were my risible muscles put to greater tension than upon this occasion.' The fact was, the two unfortunate men had slept against a wall that 'had only that day received a coat of mortar,' which closed round their heads during the night and held them fast in the morning. Barrington gives a most comical account of the release of the captives (one of them a wit, the other a dandy), with the loss of most of their hair and part of their scalps. —The Spectator.

WILLIAM SPRAGUE SUICIDES.

A Short Life That Began With Brightest Prospects Ended in Tragedy.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 8.—Life could present no stronger contrast than the brilliant wedding in Washington, Nov. 12, 1863, of Kate Chase, the beautiful daughter of Salmon P. Chase, Abraham Lincoln's Secretary of the Treasury, to William Sprague, the handsome young senator from Rhode Island, and the lonely chamber of death in this far-off new city where the first born of that union lay yesterday afternoon a corpse—dead by his own act.

William Sprague, jr., the son of ex-Governor Sprague, arrived here two weeks ago to take charge of the engraving department of The Journal. He remained at his work until last Friday night, after which he did not again appear at the office. His continued absence led to one of the staff of the paper calling yesterday afternoon at his boarding house to make enquiries. He was told that Sprague was in his room and had been complaining the night before of feeling sick.

Upon going to Sprague's room the caller found the door locked. It was forced open and Sprague's body was found upon the bed. There was no room for doubt that he had committed suicide, for the preparations had evidently been most deliberate. His head was completely enveloped in a pillow case and a half filled bottle of chloroform was on the floor beside the bed. He had saturated the cloth with chloroform, placed a patch of newspaper over that and then tied the pillow case around his head. He had been dead about 20 hours when found.

BLOWN TO SHREDS.

The Frightful Effects of the Dupont Powder Mill Explosion.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 9.—The scene at the Dupont powder works is little changed to-day, save that here and there the streets had been cleared and the debris piled in heaps in order to facilitate the search for the missing. The first body recovered was that of William Green, which was found late last night a short distance from where he had been working when he caused the fatal catastrophe. Two other bodies were also found there this afternoon, but too badly mutilated to be identified.

Besides the bodies of Greene, Dougherty and the unidentified one found in the Brandywine nothing has been recovered of the rest of the men save about 75 pounds of human flesh. The fragments of bodies were thrown mainly in the wood directly across the Brandywine, and the ghastly spectacle that the shattered trees present, with their trunks and branches covered with bits of human flesh and bespattered with blood, is horrible to behold. As yet almost nothing has been seen of the bones. Not a single house on the banks was habitable last night.

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;" Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University; Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,923	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,337	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	6,470,230	10.66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,067,266	28.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30.12
London Life	1,044,326	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 16.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Reserve for security of Policy-holders	1,541 489 97
Increase over 1888	221 157 49
Surplus over all Liabilities, except Capital	656,536 64

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefitting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

Secret of Birchall's Nerve.

The astonishing "nerve" shown by Birchall during his recent trying experiences was the wonder of all. A Woodstock gentleman writing to a friend in town, says the secret of Birchall's nerve is the fact that he drinks the same brand of tea kept for sale by hawley bros., soothing to the nerves pure, strong and fragrant. dw

Auction Sale.

Mr. Geo. McIlmoyle will sell by public auct on on Monday, the 20th of October, fifteen horses and twenty head of cattle at the residence of Mr. James Murphy, Eniesmore. This will be an excellent opportunity to secure good stock as Mr. Murphy is overstocked and must sell. 1d1w42

Baptist Home Missions.

Sunday will be the annual Home Mission Day in the Baptist Church. The Rev. J. F. McEwen, the new superintendent of missions, was expected to preach, but a telegram announcing his illness has been received, and the Rev. Calvin Goodspeed, D.D., new Professor of Systematic Theology in McMaster University, will preach. Dr. Goodspeed was, until lately, the editor of the Baptist Messenger and Visitor of Nova Scotia.

A Second Bloom Snowball.

This morning, (Oct. 11th) Mr. William Telford, the bard of Smith, left on "the editor's table" a beautifully blooming umbel of the white bloom of the snowball, one of three clusters which bloom defiance to the chilly air of October. A shrub like this, which did its duty in spring and repeats the process in autumn, takes advantage of its situation; seeing that it is the property of a poet, it very justly thinks it may indulge in a little "poetic license."

Market Items.

There was a remarkably large market this morning, both in the building and outside. Fall wheat brought 90c., and spring wheat 93 to 94c; barley, 45 to 50c.; peas, 57 to 60c. Potatoes and apples were the principal offerings at the wagons, the former selling at 50 to 60c. a bag, and apples 50 to 75c. Roll butter brought 18 to 20c. a pound, and for crock 16 to 17c. Eggs were 16c. per dozen. There was an abundance of fowl—chickens selling 40 to 50c. a pair, ducks the same, and geese the same.

The Sheldrake School.

A private day school will be opened on Monday, Oct. 13th, under the management of Mr. F. Lingwood, Mr. Sheldrake's assistant master. The course of study will comprise the usual English subjects, Latin, French and mathematics. Mr. Lingwood has had upwards of six years' experience as a teacher in English private schools, and is, in every way well qualified for the position. It is Mr. Sheldrake's intention to move his boarding school to Peterborough as soon as he can secure a suitable house, and make the necessary arrangements. 6d86

Sheep Worried by Dogs.

An interesting case was tried at Westwood the other day before Squires Brackenridge, Moore, Blezard and Humphries. Robert Gardner, of Dummer, had four sheep killed by a dog some weeks ago, and accused Joseph Reynolds, of Asphodel, with being the proprietor of the canine which had committed the depredation, at the same time asking Reynolds to kill the dog and pay for the sheep. Reynolds denied the charge and refused compensation to Gardner, hence the action. Judgment was awarded in favour of plaintiff for $13 50. The magistrates also ordered the dog destroyed inside of 24 hours.

The Mission Band.

The young ladies of the George Street church Mission Band held their last regular meeting for the year ending Sept. 30th, Thursday evening. A record of the year's work shows a membership of 27; amount sent to the branch society $45. The election of officers then took place:

PRESIDENT—Mrs. H. S. Griffin.
VICE PRESIDENT—Miss F. Smart.
REC.-SECRETARY—Miss A. Sanderson.
COR.-SECRETARY—Miss E. Shortly.
TREASURER—Miss V. Dixon.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—Mrs. H. S. Griffin, Mrs. G. A. Sanderson, Misses Allen, Minard, Dixon and Rutherford.

The Home of Health.

Dr. Clarke, Medical Health Officer, remarked to the EXAMINER to-day that Peterborough was remarkably free from contagious diseases. While Toronto, and other cities and towns, had been ravaged more less by typhoid fever, diphtheria and other diseases of an epidemic nature, Peterborough has had scarcely a case. This happy condition of the public health is due, the officer believes, to the strenuous efforts made this year to perfect the sanitary system of the town. More care than ever before has been exercised, hence Peterborough's excellent health record.

A Lucky Chance.

Mr. Thos. Brady's boy was driving his trotting horse "Clifford" home last night, and in going through the gateway the horse got away from its driver, and ran through the pasture field, upsetting the wagon, and making things fly around generally. Fortunately the horse escaped injury. Had anything serious happened Mr. Brady's loss would have been serious, as he was offered $250 for the animal last week.

Tasty Bank Quarters.

The Bank of Commerce premises have undergone a most thorough refitting, and by the liberal application of paint and paper been converted into one of the neatest places of business in town. The paper hanging is specially artistic and attractive. The paper was procured at the Peterborough Bookstore. A new vestibule with swinging doors has been constructed. The improvements are thoroughly in keeping with the progress of the town and the importance of the banking institution.

A Mind-Reading Miss.

A Keene Rival to Messrs. John Millar and Stewart Cumberland.

There is something in the air of Keene that seems to influence the mental perceptions of its citizens. Mr. John Millar deservedly gained a wide reputation for exceptional facility and success in mind-reading feats. But he has a formidable rival in the person of Miss Clara Bell, daughter of Mr. Charles Bell, station agent at Keene, on the Grand Junction Railway. Miss Clara Bell is only fifteen years of age, a pretty, modest mannered girl, of somewhat delicate appearance. Her strange gift was only accidentally discovered on July 13th last, and, to be satisfied as to the claims made of her possession of mind-reading capabilities, a test was made. On Friday a representative of the EXAMINER had to put in an hour or so waiting for the train to town, and the subject of Miss Bell's strange gift coming up, she willingly, but, at the time, modestly consented. She holds the hand of the person operated on to her forehead, and after a moment's contact, starts out to perform the feat of finding an article concealed, and other similar tests. The newspaper man was standing on the station platform and bent his mind on the little girl's going to the office and calling up Peterborough by telegraph (she understands the telegraphic alphabet). After a moment's contact of the subject's hand to her forehead, she started and, without hesitancy and without precipitancy, went to the operator's desk and felt for the key, she being securely bandfolded. This completed the test, she not being permitted to trifle with the telegraph business in business hours, and on the same conditions, Miss Clara Bell in obedience to the mental lead of the newspaper man, who wished her, in his thoughts, to go up a ladder and see if the station red light was burning, went directly to the spot, some distance away, and began to ascend the ladder, and would have gone to the top if she had been allowed to do so. Another severe test was successfully made. In spite of the fact that she never had any legal training she "went through" the scribe's pocket in a wonderfully expert manner. This experiment was different from all the others, which had motion to some other place as an element. The scribe's hand was placed on the girl's forehead and his mind desired her to take his handkerchief from his overcoat pocket on the side next her. The subject's mind being firmly fixed upon this purpose, after a moment's waiting, Miss Bell, advanced her free hand and lightly tried the match pocket of the coat, showing that in the mental process the idea of "pocket" predominated over "handkerchief." But the next moment the hand descended to the pocket containing the handkerchief. And here occurred an incident that served to show the genuineness of the intimate relation of the two minds engaged. Just as the girl's hand reached the rim of the pocket the newspaper man's mind momentarily wandered to a conversation occurring between two persons at a distance. Instantly the girl's hand began to waver in doubt and in another instant was withdrawn from the pocket. The scribe again placing his mind on the object of the test, the hand returned to the pocket and in a moment the handkerchief was taken out of the pocket with a deftness that would have done credit to the "Artful Dodger." Several other tests were made and the successful results of all went to show that Miss Clara Bell possesses the faculty of mind reading in an eminent degree, especially considering her few years and her having paid no particular attention to the development of the wonderful faculty. The fact that Miss Bell's powers impressed even the skeptical soul of the newspaper man whose faith in everything is pretty well battered by contact with the inner circle of shams and hollowness that enter so largely into his daily experience, is a proof that she possesses unusual powers of discerning the thoughts passing within or operating upon the mind of her subject. In her case there was not the slightest chance of collusion or assistance from confederates. The elaboration and results of the tests made depended solely upon the mental and physical (through the hand pressed to the forehead) relations of the two parties engaged in the experiment.

Sentenced to be Hanged.

A Sherbrooke Murderer Convicted and the Death Penalty Pronounced.

(Special to the Examiner.)

SHERBROOKE, P.Q., Oct. 11.—The jury in the case of Remi Lamontagne, who was charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, Napoleon Michel, this morning returned a verdict of guilty. They occupied only ten minutes in arriving at their decision.

SHERBROOKE, P.Q., Oct. 11.—Remi Lemontagne has been sentenced to be hanged Dec. 19th.

Obituary.

Sudden Death of Mrs. S. S. Kelly, Bridgenorth.

On Friday one of the most highly respected and oldest pioneer residents of the township of Smith, died at Bridgenorth. Mrs. Hannah Dean Kelly, who was 80 years of age, was in her usual health for a lady of her age. She even was active, as a proof of it it may be mentioned that on Friday she went up stairs and spent some time in looking up a silk dress to be worn at the forthcoming wedding of a grand niece. But on her coming down stairs she complained of feeling unwell, and presently died in her chair. The deceased lady was relict of the late S. S. Kelly, J.P., of Bridgenorth, and mother of Mr. W. B. Kelly. Mrs. Kelly was one of the oldest residents of Smith and held in the highest respect by the wide circle of acquaintances and friends who surrounded her. The funeral takes place from the family residence on Monday next, Oct. 13th, at two o'clock p.m., and the remains will be interred in the Little Lake Cemetery.

And Still They Come.

Other veterans of 1837 still continue to report. Mr. Matthew Mollwain, of Lakefield, served in the rising, having enlisted in the Home Guard under Captain Kirkpatrick. He afterwards put in some time of service in Toronto with the regular militia. At the time of his enlistment he was a resident of Monaghan. Mr. Geo. Read, of Otonabee, was also actively engaged in the stirring events of 1837-38. He took part in the memorable battle of the Windmill at Prescott in the fall of '38.

Mr. John Gamble, town, saw service in our '37 unpleasantness. He lived in Montreal at that time and enlisted in the city, and did duty there till the disbanding of troops, when he was regularly discharged.

Mr. Lubin Kent, town, was in the service of the Loyalist forces in Quebec. He performed the dangerous duty of despatch carrier for first Sir John Colbourne and next for Lord Sydenham, his duties requiring him to adopt different disguises.

Mr. John Torpey, now of the township of Douro and aged 75 years, volunteered at Peterborough and served in No. 1 Company, Capt. Thomson, of the Queen's Own battalion, Col. Brown commanding. He was in the hard march from Peterborough to Toronto, and put in his time there for five months when he got his regular discharge. At the time of the discharge, the Governor promised the volunteers lands for their services but no person has ever taken an interest in seeing his promises made good. Mr Torpey and Mr. Edwards are the only survivors of the sixteen Douro men that were in the service of '37-38.

Mr. John Davis, of Cavan, in 1837, but now of Smith, enlisted, in his former residence, and made the march to Toronto, where he served five months as Col. Sergt. of the first battalion of the 2nd Durham. He is now 84 years of age.

Farewell to a Brother.

Mr. Jas. Curran Presented with a Gold Headed Cane and Feasted by the E. B. A.

The Emerald Beneficial Association last night put into practice its fraternal principles and gave a departing brother a right hearty send-off. Mr J. P. Curran, G.T.R. despatcher, will remove to Lindsay next Monday. He was a prominent and active member of the E.B.A., holding the responsible position of Recording Secretary for a number of terms. He was a capable and and industrious officer, and the association will sustain a heavy loss by his removal. Mr. Curran was besides a most worthy citizen, and jolly good fellow among his scores of friends and acquaintances. The departure of such a man of merit from town could not be allowed to pass over unnoticed. At the last meeting of the E. B. A. a committee composed of Messrs. Dr. Moher, C. E. Roach and Geo. Gerow was appointed to arrange a farewell supper and presentation. They fulfilled their duties admirably. Friday evening nearly thirty members of the association, and a few outside friends of Mr. Curran, assembled at Ed. Welsh's restaurant and sat down to an excellent oyster supper. There was an abundance of the luscious bivalves for which Mr. Welsh is noted, and the tables were equipped with all the customary "trimmings." Mr. John McGrath occupied the post of honor, and Dr. Moher the vice-chair. Upon the right of the chairman sat the guest of the evening, Mr. Curran, who was quite surprised at the extent of the proceedings, and totally ignorant of what was still in store for him.

After supper the usual toasts followed. The Queen was first honored, then "Canada, Our Home," to which Mr. T. Cahill made a happy reply. To "the Sister Societies," Mr. William Hogan ably responded, and the toast to "the Learned Professions," elicited one of the finest speeches of the evening from Dr. McGrath. "The Corporation" was replied to by Councillor T. Kelly, and the "Army and Navy" by Capt Brennan. Each and everyone of the speakers was loud in his praises of Mr. Curran as a gentleman, a citizen and a brother.

Then followed the toast of the evening, that to 'Our Guest." Needless to say it was drunk with gusto and emphasis. Each one of those present silently pledged his friendship in the brimming cup, and then "He's a jolly good fellow" was sung with rousing chorus. Mr. Geo. Gerow then stepped forward and read this address:—

J. P. CURRAN, ESQ.

Recording Secretary of Branch No. 21, Emerald Beneficial Association, Peterborough:

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Having heard within the past couple of days that you are to be removed from Peterborough to Lindsay, we can assure you that the news has fallen amongst us like a thunderbolt from a clear sky.

In your departure from amongst us, this Association, of which you have been so faithful a member, as well as the community at large, loses a brother and a citizen that it is difficult to replace. Your conduct has been such that every one of us could look up to you and say, "there is one whose bearing and character are above reproach." Words in fact fail to express the regard and esteem entertained towards you by the Emeralds of Peterborough. Is it any wonder then, that the Association with whom you have been so closely linked for the past two years should show their appreciation of your past efforts by collecting at this festive board this evening and tendering you a God-speed and hearty farewell. It is not strange then, that, feeling thus, we should be anxious that you receive something at our hands which for all time to come will be a remembrance of the bonds of friendship which you had cultivated in the Emerald Beneficial Association of Peterborough.

We ask you, therefore, to accept from us this cane, not for the intrinsic value it may possess, but as indicative of our high regard and esteem for you as a dutiful and worthy brother. We all now join in wishing you long life and prosperity in your new home. Good-bye.

Signed on behalf of the Emeral Beneficial Association.

G. H. GEROW.
THOS J. MOHER, M.D.,
C. E. ROACH.

Mr. Con. Roach presented the cane, a handsome gold-headed ebony stick, suitably engraved.

Messrs. Gerow and Roach in executing their duties supplemented a few remarks expressive of their friendship for Mr. Curran and their regret at his departure, as the previous speakers also had been unanimous in doing.

Mr. Curran made a feeling reply. He was deeply impressed at the reception which had been tendered him, and with his usual modesty, while being grateful for their kindness, expressed himself as feeling unworthy of the honors showered upon him. Mr. Curran said he would always remember with pleasure his friends in Peterborough, and hoped to meet them often in the future.

The toast list was then concluded "The Ladies" being championed most gallantly by Messrs. J. P. Hurley and Jas Dunn. Mr. Welsh, the host, was remembered, and the press was wedged in at the bottom of the list.

During the proceedings Mr. Thos. Dunn sang three songs in excellent voice, and Mr. J. J. Sheehy also contributed a much appreciated solo.

After cheers for the Queen and Mr. Curran the gathering broke up.

Otonabee's Annual Agricultural Outing.

The Fall Exhibition at Keene—Bad Weather but a Good Exhibition—Good Exhibits in Nearly all the Departments.

The annual exhibition of the Otonabee Agricultural Society was held at Keene on Thursday and Friday. The first day, merely the formal opening, was blessed with splendid weather, but the second day was dull and drizzly, rain falling lazily at intervals throughout the day. But in spite of this in the afternoon the grounds and buildings were filled fairly well with visitors.

THE INSIDE EXHIBIT.

that is that portion in the town hall, was almost exclusively composed of the contributions of the ladies, and the display was excellent, fancy work and domestic manufactories being well represented. There was in this department a fine display of fruit and a very creditable collection of growing flowers. Some of the quilts were of neat patterns and in good taste, nearly all being modern work, and consequently entirely new to the exhibition. The fine arts department was represented by the work of Mrs. and Miss Mark, Miss Flora Powell and Mr. Vernon C. McGill, Peterborough. The latter had his easel set up in the hall and drove quite a business in sketching crayon portraits of visitors, his setters including Mr. Geo. Reid, the secretary of the Society, and Mr. Walter Stocker Peterborough's favourite bull sticking expert.

"The White is King," was the legend that called attention to Mr. D. I. Hendricks' (of Peterborough,) fine display of the White family sewing machine.

The skating rink was devoted to the display of roots, vegetables and grains. There was a very fine display in all these departments, the show of grain being very good, and that of the roots being the best, by all odds the EXAMINER has seen at any of this year's exhibitions. The same applies to the vegetables, some splendid cabbages and cauliflowers being shown by Mr. Alex. Gillespie, of Villiers, the cauliflowers particularly being superb. In their origin compactness of texture they resembled the wool on the back of a thoroughbred Shropshire. Mr. Gillespie makes a specialty of this sort of culture, and his success shows that intelligent devotion to any particular branch will be rewarded. In this building Mr. W. T. Mather, of Mather's Corners, makes a fine display of carriage work, including a farm wagon, a covered baggy, an open baggy and a covered and an open Stanhope and a covered vehicle of the same kind. The work is very neatly and strongly made and well finished.

THE STOCK EXHIBIT.

was also very creditable, the show of horses was excellent, and the collection of thoroughbred Durham, Ayrshire and grade cattle would be a credit to a county exhibition. There was a very fine show of pigs, Berkshires and Chesters, and several fine pens of Shropshires and long-wools. The short-wools included some very fine thoroughbred Shropshires, some of them imported by Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, and now owned by Mr. W. J. Miller. The exhibit of poultry was fairly good, and in general the exhibition was a credit to the largest, most populous and most fertile township in the county. The EXAMINER wishes to thank the directors, and especially the secretary, Mr. George Read, for appreciated courtesies. He has been a long time connected with the society—for nearly forty years. Mr. T. Blezard is also a veteran member of the society. His name appeared on the old books as a member when he was only twelve years old. The exhibition was then held in the hall of the hotel, since burned, on the site of the present Victoria Hotel.

NOTES.

The diminished nature of the display of ladies' work arose from a revision of the prize list in their department. Old fashioned fancy work was cut out, and the new styles introduced. This sidetracked the venerable exhibits that had been nearly worn out in the exhibition line, and ladies only had three months of time to prepare samples.

Keene shows signs of improvements in her streets and buildings.

Though not a part of the show Mr. William Wedlock's frog farm at the riverside was a fine sight for visitors. In three large pens thousands of live frogs were imprisoned, all leaping, croaking and bellowing, the combined roar of the host of batrachians sounding like the hollow boom of a subterranean cataract. These frogs are shipped, packed in ice—that is, the hind quarters—to the markets of New York and elsewhere. The other day several were shipped alive to a Toronto medical school for—shades of Henry Bergh!—vivisection purposes. It is pleasant to turn from this truculent picture to the expedient of a young lady who wished to bring her rather tardy lover to the proposing point, and therefore coyly remarked that "that these frogs must be the lyrical frogs 'that would a wooing go'."

"Ya-a-s, how's that?" "Why, (and very gently the palp tating hypocrite spoke it)—why, wooing, when it's of the right sort, leads to wedlock, and haven't these frogs got into Wedlock's clutches?"

And John, who "tumbled" to the situation, asked her: "And would a girl, like a frog, jump at the torch of Wedlock?" She "allowed" she might, and the matter is as good as settled.

News Nuggets.

—The trotting horse "Little Fred," owned by Mr. Evans of Millbrook, has been shipped to Scotland.

—At the police court this morning the costs of the Naylor Anglesyc case were placed upon the defendant.

—The Royal Templars of Temperance have placed a fine new piano in their hall. It was secured from Mr. J. W. Crosby, with money subscribed by the friends of temperance, whom the officers of the order wish to thank for their generosity.

ANOTHER CANADIAN MURDERER TO BE HANGED.

Remi Lamontagne, the Sherbrooke Murderer, to Hang on Dec. 19 Lamoureux and Madame Monette Acquitted at L'Orignal.

SHERBROOKE, Oct. 12.—Remi Lamontagne was on Saturday found guilty of the murder of his brother-in-law Michel, and sentenced to be hanged on Dec. 19. Delia Lamontagne, his sister, was sentenced to one year's imprisonment and a fine of $20 for contempt of court during her examination in the trial of her brother.

The murder for which Lamontagne is to die was a brutal and cold-blooded crime, and the story of the circumstances leading to it is most revolting. The murdered man Napoleon Michel had suspected that his wife was criminally and unnaturally intimate with Lamontagne, who was her own brother, and charged the latter with the crime.

One evening in July last, after Michel and his wife had treated Lamontagne and to the house with a bottle of whiskey. The couple arose and sat for a while with their visitor drinking the liquor. When Lamontagne left Michel went outside with him, and as they stood looking the former suddenly stepped back and shot Michel behind the ear. He crawled into the house and when he regained consciousness found a ring covering him on fire. He crawled through a window and managed to reach the house of a neighbor, whom he told his story. He died in a few hours. Lamontagne and Delia Michel, the deceased's wife, were arrested. The former fled and the latter managed to secure an acquittal on the charge of being an accomplice. She went to Boston, her brother hid in the woods till a reward of $200 was offered by the Government for his arrest. Feeling sure that he could not be concealed, he went to a friend, who handed him to the police, it being understood between them that the money should be taken by the friend and used to pay the expenses of the defence. The accused wife was arrested in Boston on the charge of having set fire to the house and was extradited, which with the object of securing her evidence in the murder trial, but she refused to testify, hence her sentence for contempt.

A VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY.

Madame Monette and Her Paramour Discharged at L'Orignal.

L'ORIGNAL, Oct. 12.—In the trial yesterday of Lamoureux and Madame Monette for the murder of the latter's husband, after P. H. Hoy, prisoners counsel, had addressed the jury for 2½ hours, urging the theory of suicide, County Prosecutor R. M. Britton, Q.C., of Toronto delivered a reply of 1½ hours and Judge Lafontaine summed up strongly against the accused. Notwithstanding this the jury, after an absence of 1½ hours, returned with a verdict of "not guilty." The female prisoner, a short, stout woman with not unpleasing features, seemed to feel her position keenly. She is 36 years of age, but looks more than that. Her murdered husband was 40 years old. They have a family of six children. The prisoner, a stoutly-built lad of 20, with black hair and dull features, kept his gaze on the witnesses and looked most dejected in appearance, but his countenance underwent no change during the whole trial.

Lamoureux and the deceased both worked at Frost & Bradley's until on the morning of Sept. 11 last the deceased and Lamoureux were seen together to cross bridge, the deceased carrying a number of cedar rails and Lamoureux a single fair sized one. Afterwards Monette was seen to several women to go home alone and return again in the woods by himself. After appointing a rendezvous for supper for the man to reach the woods at 6 o'clock, at which time several heard the report of a gun in the woods, the body was found in the Nation river, a distance of 200 yards from the house, with a gunshot wound in the back of the head sufficient to cause death, and his feet tied together. Lamoureux is alleged to have attempted improper relations had existed between him and the woman. About a year ago Mrs. Monette and Lamoureux were arrested and since that time have been in jail.

The Cumberland Tragedy.

CUMBERLAND, Oct. 12.—The funeral of the murdered McCormick girls took place yesterday and was attended by the entire neighborhood. The inquest has been adjourned for 12 days. The autopsy on the bodies of the victims shows not only that death resulted from strangulation, but the doctors are of opinion that from the finger marks on the throats and the position of the bodies that the fiend choked them to death, one with each hand. If two men did it one of them must have been left handed. There were lacerations on the hands of the youngest girl, and the doctors believe they could have been inflicted by strong finger nails. They examined the prisoner's nails and found them remarkably strong.

A Hangman for Birchall.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 12.—The sheriff's mail is flooded these days with applications for the position of hangman. They come from all sections of the country and from all sorts of degraded wretches. Already to or 20 applications have been received. One came from an Indian and the writing could hardly be deciphered. Deputy Sheriff Perry says that no inexperienced man will be engaged; that it is quite likely that the man who conducted the executions at Toronto and London recently and who is endeavoring to get the appointment of official hangman of the province will be employed, and he went to Toronto yesterday to complete arrangements.

Another Candidate for Hemp.

CORNWALL, Oct. 12.—The authorities have obtained a clue to the incendiary who fired the house of James McNaughton, 8th concession of Kenyon, last Sunday night. He is a hired man who was discharged about a month ago and set fire to the house out of revenge. Two lives were lost at the fire. McNaughton escaped, but entered the burning building again to save an adopted daughter and both perished, only a few charred bones being found.

A Dynamite Explosion at Port Hope.

PORT HOPE, Oct. 12.—Shortly after noon yesterday Alex Ballagh and W. Thompson undertook to remove a dynamite cartridge that had not exploded from a drilled hole in the bed rock at the creek. Thompson had placed the drill in the hole and was turning to look for a seat when Ballagh gave the drill a good rap with the sledge. The dynamite promptly exploded. Both men were flung about ten feet. Thompson over the cofferdam into the water, but strange to say was not injured, beyond a general jarring up of his system and getting his face freely peppered with rock splinters. Ballagh did not escape so fortunate, as a piece of rock entered his left eye—completely destroying the sight.

Drs. Clemesha and Powers, after examining the man, decided to send the case to the Hospital at Toronto for treatment. The drill, weighing about 20 pounds, was hurled through the air over the stone wall and fell between two of the other men at work some distance away, which had it struck would have killed them.

FOREIGN STOCKS FLAT.

Prices Fall Heavily, Especially for the More Active Securities.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—On the stock exchange the American railway market has been thoroughly disorganized. Prices have fallen heavily, especially for the more active securities. In several instances quotations have been at the lowest points of the year. Union Pacifics have been quoted at 51⅛, a fall of 2⅞ from the highest quotations this year. Milwaukee touched 61 against 81⅛ last May. Erie touched 22 compared with 30⅞ last May. Wabash, preferred, which, after the silver boom, rose to 52, touched 20⅝. Central Pacific, Reading and New York, Ontario & Western shares fell during the week to the lowest quotations of the year. Carrying over rates were extremely onerous. The greater part of the business was adjusted on terms equivalent to 7½ per cent. per annum and even higher terms in special instances.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—On the Bourse the past week prices were firm at a fairly general advance. Paris is now considered the only really sound stock market in Europe.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—The past week on the Boerse was largely one of depression. Bank and mining shares were flat.

VIENNA, Oct. 12.—During the week past, owing to the rise in the German bank rate, prices were weak on the Boerse here.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The wife of Mr. Arthur O'Connor, M.P. for East Donegal, was found late last night lying in a pool of blood in an unfrequented part of one of the London suburbs. It was evident that she had jumped or fallen from an overhead railway station near the spot. She was severely injured and has remained unconscious ever since found.

The lady was not long ago under treatment for mental aberration, but was thought to have been restored to her normal condition. It is supposed that in a sudden fit of insanity she wandered away from home and either attempted suicide or accidentally fell from the station.

Grand Duke Nicholas Insane.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—It has been learned that at the close of the Russian military manœuvres in Volhynia the Grand Duke Nicholas, who had the chief command of the army, suddenly became insane from the effects of the disease from which he had long suffered, and that melancholy and heartrending scenes occurred until he was removed incognito to General Martyroff's estate in the Don steppes. The physicians declare that his condition is hopeless.

British Gunboats Enter Zanzibar River.

ZANZIBAR, Oct. 12.—It is rumored there has been severe fighting between the Germans and the Mattis near Lindi. It is also reported that the British gunboats have entered the Zanzibar River without opposition from the Portuguese fleet.

SACRIFICED HER CHILD.

She Wished to Wash Her Hands in the Blood of the Lamb.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, Oct. 12.—Mrs. Sullivan, a member of the North Side Presbyterian Chapel, recently became unusually devout. Of late she has been sitting up at night reading the Bible. Yesterday she became a raving maniac. Left alone in the house she constructed an altar and prepared to sacrifice her six months' old son. She stripped the child, placed it on the altar, and while reaching for a butcher knife relatives opportunely broke in and she was overpowered. She demanded that she be allowed to proceed, claiming that the Lord had commanded her and declared she wanted to wash her hands in the blood of the Lamb.

THE MISSING "PATRIOTS."

THEIR ALLIES LEFT IN A BAD FIX.

An Effort to Discredit the Bench—Dillon and O'Brien Save Their Own Skins and Leave Their Victims to Face the Consequences of Their Acts.

G. W. Smalley's cable letter to N. Y. Tribune

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The flight of Messrs. O'Brien and Dillon leaves their Gladstonian allies in an awkward position. It has been the Gladstonian custom to represent these two Irish leaders as men of character and courage. This has now to be dropped, and the best remark which occurs to the Gladstonian organs on the spur of the moment is that Mr. Balfour and his police are defeated. This is but a sorry substitute for the heroics of the last few weeks. Cleverness in eluding the police is hardly what the English public looks for in an Irish patriot. Three excuses are offered for Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien: first, that this is a political prosecution; second, that its object was to prevent their going to America; third, that the Bench was packed. It was, in fact, a prosecution for inciting to criminal conspiracy against payment of legal debts. There is no evidence and no probability that their journey to America had anything to do with the matter The effort to discredit the Bench, or to make out that it is packed has completely broken down. It is the accused and their counsel who have discredited themselves by proceedings in court which have wrung from the most radical of English Home Rule journals expressions of deep disgust. "We are sick of these antics at Tipperary," said The Pall Mall Gazette yesterday. "Mr. Healy and his friends have carried the outraged dignity line to the point of downright foolery when it culminates in such a Rabagasian performance as that of yesterday. It is really too much." This burst of candor may give you some notion of the real opinion of English Radicals.

Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien are believed to be well on their way to America. "Whether it would not have been better," observes The Daily News, "to submit to whatever inflictions such a tribunal might award is a matter for themselves. In the mysterious arrangements of this world it is always by suffering that great franchises have been won." That, too, is an avowal of disappointment. The Gladstonians wanted Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien as martyrs. In no other character can they be so useful to their political associates in England. I dare say that Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien think it is the turn of the Gladstonians themselves to go into the martyr business.

But there are points of view more vital than mere politics. Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien are leaders in what they regard as a revolution. They have induced hundreds of their countrymen in Tipperary to defy the law, to sacrifice their property, to defraud their creditors and to risk all the legal penalties of these acts. They now abandon them. They save their own skins and leave their victims to face the consequences. They can hardly be surprised if a Tory journal remarks that they who began by advocating systematized robbery should end by absconding. The English public, and the Irish, too are curious to see what sort of reception the American people will give these two fugitives from justice, and how much money, Mr. Parnell's dislike of Mr. O'Brien's methods is known. It is not likely to be lessened by this curious sequel to his policy of swagger.

The Other Side.

A cablegram from the friends of the "patriots" reads: The efforts of the Conservative press to fasten the charge of cowardice upon Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien for their escape from Tipperary is furnishing occasion for amusement to the unprejudiced public. It is believed in many quarters that the blustering attitude of the official press conceals a secret feeling of gratification over the fact that the escape may enable the Government to drop the prosecution and avoid the results of what had come to be recognized as a political error. A section of the Liberal press takes the ground that Nationalists are above the sneers of the Tories, but that they might better have served the cause by remaining under trial.

Chief Secretary Balfour intends to visit Ireland next week. This trip will, it is understood, be a very brief one, and he will make very little pretence of any thorough investigation of the condition of the people, with whom he dislikes to come in contact.

The Trial Must Go On.

DUBLIN, Oct. 11.—When the magistrates court at Tipperary re-assembled this morning Crown Prosecutor Ronan stated that the crown had decided to prosecute the charges of conspiracy against all the defendants, notwithstanding the fact that Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien had of their own volition abandoned their defence and left the country. The courts, he said, had decided that under circumstances such as had arisen in the present case it was not necessary to stop proceedings in a trial.

The Pall Mall Gazette, The Daily News and several provincial Gladstonian papers express some misgivings as to the effect then flight will produce in England.

It is definitely known that Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien were not among the passengers who sailed on the steamer La Bourgogne from Havre for New York to-day. There is no reliable information as to how they left the country, but the theory that they went on board a yacht and boarded a steamer outside is a favorite one.

The magistrates decided that it would be impossible to proceed with the trial in the absence of Mr. O'Mahoney, who is ill, and the court was adjourned until Monday.

Warrants for the arrest of Dillon and O'Brien arrived at the Castle this afternoon, but they were not given to detectives. No steps have been taken by the Government for the arrest of Dillon and O'Brien in America.

Mr. Harrington remained in the offices of the National League all day. He said he really knew nothing concerning the fugitives' whereabouts, but expected to hear hourly.

Incendiary Fires at Strathroy.

STRATHROY, Oct. 12.—Strathroy is still troubled with incendiarism. Yesterday Mayor Johnston offered a reward of $50 for the conviction of the party who cut the hose at the late fire corner of Front and Colborne-streets. About 2 o'clock this morning another carriage and blacksmith shop owned by Walter Wright was set on fire and destroyed. The only blacksmith shop now left in the west end is John McGarvey's. Carriages, wagons and everything were a total loss. Wright was insured for $900.

Suicide and Sudden Death.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 12.—James Hanna, who lives two miles south of Niami, hanged himself in his stable Friday night and was found dead next morning. He had bad health and was in low spirits for some time. Deceased was about 35 years of age.

The dead body of R. D. McLean was found on the C.P.R. track about a mile east of McLean Station, near Qu'Appelle. He was the son of a section foreman. Tuesday evening he left the tank, three miles east, to return home and it is supposed died from heart disease where he lay, as there were no marks on his body.

The man known as Charles Mason, who suicided at Gladstone on Saturday last, turns out to have been Martin J. Larkins of Gloversville, where his parents and a married sister reside. Larkins was about 38 years of age. While in Gloversville he ran a dairy farm and was apparently doing well. A great deal of property was caused at 5 o'clock last night by a rainstorm and flood in the valley of Wheeling Creek, W. Va. Several bridges on the Pittsburg division of the Baltimore & Ohio road are gone and no trains are running. The main line is also blocked, and the Chicago express is stuck on the Bellaire bridge over the Ohio.

A gunboat from Aracy captured a piratical craft and 11 prisoners on the 23d and they were all beheaded. One of them refused to kneel, so he was decapitated in sixes. News has just come in of a frightful outrage committed by a pirate craft. She seized a trading junk and massacred in cold blood the whole crew of 39 men.

Following the shipment of eggs which have been made to England from Montreal during the past week comes the announcement of an exportation of 500 tons of hay this week for which McKinley demands $4 per ton duty on quantities going into the States. Now that the tariff interferes with the exportation to the States, it is expected that the exportation to British markets will be great. The present shipment of 500 tons is sent over as a sort of test of the market.

William Marsh, Edward Louse, their wives and Henry Marsh of Grimsby have been arrested in connection with the robberies from Park cottages. The property recovered belongs to D.W. Killed With a Pitchfork.

HARRISTON, Oct. 9.—George, the 14-year old son of John Porterfield of the 13th con. of Howick, was engaged in assisting in his father's barn pitching peas to the threshing machine. By some means the fork in the hands of one of the boys struck young Porterfield. One of the prongs entered the neck just back of the ear and apparently only penetrated the skin. Young Porterfield turned around and said "What are you doing?" when he suddenly dropped. His elder brother being close by picked him up and carried him to the barn door, but before he reached it young Porterfield had expired. It is supposed that the prong of the fork had entered the jugular vein and caused instantaneous death.

Salvator will run the last race of his life in the New Rochelle Stakes on Saturday. So said Trainer Byrnes yesterday. The distance is 1⅛ miles, and the King of the Turf will carry 127 pounds. It is doubtful if Murphy can ride him, the jockey has been extremely ill from inflammation of the bowels since he rode Firenzi to defeat in the Manhattan Handicap. His malady was so serious a few days ago that three physicians were called in for a consultation. Yesterday he was so much better as to be able to sit up

FATAL HOTEL FIRE.

SEVERAL LIVES LOST IN CHICAGO. SUNDAY MORNING.

A Woman Jumps from a Fourth Story Window with a Babe in Her Arms and is Instantly Killed.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—By a fire which broke out in the Putnam European Hotel at Adams-LaSalle-streets, early this morning, four lives were lost and a score of persons had narrow escapes. The fire was caused by the explosion of a kerosene lamp which had been left burning in one of the hallways.

The burning oil set fire to the stairway and soon a sheet of flame burst from the rear windows. An alarm was immediately turned and the inmates were awakened by the noise of rushing engines and found themselves enveloped in smoke, while the flames could be seen making considerable headway. Ladders were run up by the firemen and those who did not get out by the stairways descended with the aid of the firemen.

Mrs. Minnie Robinson, who was sleeping in a front room on the fifth floor with her husband and baby, became crazed with fright and rushing to the window leaped to the pavement with her infant in her arms. She was terribly crushed and lived but a short time but the infant escaped unhurt.

By 2 o'clock the fire was under control and the firemen began a search of the house. In a room on the third floor Edward Peyton, the colored porter of the hotel, was found burned to a crisp. The search was continued, and the firemen soon found in another room on the third floor the charred bodies of two other men who had been caught in the trap and burned to death.

The names of the dead are:

MRS. MINNIE ROBINSON, killed by jumping from a window.

TOM DOWLER, a barber, burned to a crisp.

H. K. SIMS, formerly a Pinkerton detective, burned to death.

EDWARD PEYTON, colored, suffocated.

The cause of the fire is still unknown. The house is lighted by gas and the proprietor insists there was no lamp in the hall. The fire was confined to the top floor. The total loss is about $63,000.

The building resembles a fire trap. The halls are narrow and crooked and the narrow stairway is in the centre of the structure. A very little fire was sufficient to make enough smoke to render the halls impassable.

The hotel was one of those houses where no register was kept. On this account it was next to impossible to find out how many people were in the house or to tell who they were. There were 32 bedchambers and all were occupied.

CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millinery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit This Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmanship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be big business awaiting him this visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelen's Hotel, Peterborough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October. dw

What is a Day's Labour?

One day's work for a healthy liver is to secrete three and a half pounds of bile. If the bile secretion be deficient, constipation ensues; if profuse, billiousness and jaundice arise. Burdock Blood Bitters is the most perfect liver regulator known in medicine for preventing and curing all liver troubles. 2w42d

The People's Mistake.

People make a sad mistake often with serious results when they neglect a constipated condition of the bowels. Knowing that Burdock Blood Bitters is an effectual cure at any stage of constipation, does not warrant us in neglecting to use it it at the right time. Use it now. 2w42d

FARM GARDEN ORCHARD.

ITEMS FOR THOSE ENGAGED IN RURAL PURSUITS.

Sheep on the Farm—Oats for Calves—To Raise Turnips Cheaply—Cleaning out Small Streams—Points on Poultry, Flowers and Fruit—Barley Crops.

All natural water courses run through the lowest land; and yet it is often true that the banks of streams are higher than much of the land lying at a little distance from them. In the case of large rivers care is taken to keep the stream from overflowing the banks but we know of small creeks running through valuable land where short-sighted farmers, instead of trying to keep the water in the stream, direct it to their neighbor's land. We do not think their intentions is to injure their neighbors. They verily think they are drying their own land. And in special instances, such is the case. We know two large farmers, A and B. The farms are adjacent, and both are on the same creek; but the creek runs for quite a distance through A's farm, and in fact through three or four other farms before it reaches B's farm. B cut a ditch several hundred rods long, in hopes of draining his land. A, instead of draining into the creek, runs his water into B's ditch, and though his horse is not more than forty rods from the creek, he has constructed a sewer from his house to B's ditch, and turns all his sewage into it. A claims that the land fails as it recedes from the creek, and that he has a right to let the water run where it will. "But not into a ditch I dug for my own use," says A. And he filled up a portion of his ditch and constructed another one on higher land into which he turns A's sewage, and uses it to irrigate his meadow.

It is a fact that, that a natural creek does not run through the lowest land. Certainly not; the trouble in the case alluded to is simply that the creek is full of impediments. It is very crooked, and there are numerous logs roots and branches in the stream, and for quite a distance on A's farm the creek in summer is almost dammed up with watercress. This is the reason why the creek looks higher than the land a few rods back. The water in the creek is dammed up and wherever it has a chance it overflows the banks, and several farmers on this same creek are unwise enough to cut ditches to carry the water from the creek on to their neighbors' land. The present year four or five industrious small farmers who raise garden crops or marshy land had all their crop destroyed by water which a neighbor above them had diverted from the creek. This is not only illegal, but it is foolish. The only remedy is to clean out the creek by removing the logs and other impediments, and cutting off the sharp angles with a little judicious digging, to deepen and widen the creek where it is specially needed. The water, if confined to the creek will, during the floods of spring do much toward cleaning and deepening the creek. As it is now, comparatively little water runs through the creek. The water has been diverted from the creek, and flood many acres of good land, and converts it into an unhealthy and profitless swamp.

Oats for Calves.

The most troublesome period with young calves is that between the weaning from the cow and the time when milk is entirely withdrawn. It has been often asked "Shall we let the calf suck?" We conclude from ample experience, that the calf, if well and strong, most quickly, thoroughly, and constantly clears the udder of milk, which if partially removed, by slovenly and imperfect milking, produces caking of the udder Young calves will early learn to eat fine hay and will begin to eat a tablespoonful of dry oats. The milk should be given night and morning only, and at noon a few dry oats. To induce the calf to eat them they may, at first be slightly moistened with milk. The oats should not be put in milk, for they either choke the calf, or pass to the fourth stomach unmasticated, when they will not digest. Give the oats on an empty stomach. When the calf is hungry, it readily begins to chew them. By thus sparingly feeding calves the mastication, maceration, and digestion, through all the functions of the four stomachs, are gradually and naturally established, thus keeping the calf healthy, strong and growing. The delicate calf is often made sick by exposure to rain cold, or burning sun. Calves, like pigs grow quickly into money. Theory, when amply verified by long and intelligent experience, always proves a valuable guide in the avocations of life; and no class of men can more readily understand this fact, for no class of thinkers and workers has so many practical arts to practice in his multiform vocations as the farmer. The agriculturist is a farming philosopher, for the theory and practice can not be judiciously divorced. A majority, directly or indirectly, of all the honest toilers of the pursuits. It is to this fact that the best agricultural journals have the largest circulation, and especially the largest perusal.

Oats contain—most perfectly balanced—the elements of the tissues of young animals In conjunction with and after milk-feeding oats promote the growth to a greater extent than any other food or fodder. Breeder (intelligent breeders) of young colts feed oats liberally, to the best interest of their calling The prevention of disease in young animals is far more satisfactory than the cure of diseases when once fastened upon stock. In fact, preventive medicine, for both human and animals, is by far the more commendable and honorable to both practitioners.

More Sheep.

Comparatively few farms are well stocked with sheep and a vast number of farms do not support a single head. To be sure the price of wool has fallen in the last few years but not altogether out of proportion with other farm products. Wool growing may not be as profitable now as it was for a few years after the war, but the mutton market is swelled. There are several reasons why farmers, and especially those up on high hills, should keep sheep. No other animal requires so little care, or returns so much for the little food consumed. No other stock is present on land or so beneficial in subduing roughness. Many a partially run-out field has been brought into good condition by pasturing with sheep for a few years. The cost of shelter for sheep is slight, as they only shelter from storms, such as good sheds and straw covered pens afford. They will get along with very little hay if they have a straw stack to board around and a moderate feed of grain through the winter. The wool is a source of income at a time when the farmer is most in need of money for summer expenses. And wool can be held for higher prices without loss for storing. The old rule of letting out sheep to double every four years is not to create the large profits of the business. Now, if sheep seems to increase so fast, with little demand upon the resources of the farm

Pure-bred Poultry on the Farm

September is the month in which to arrange chicks. Pick out the best to carry over the winter, and breed from next season. Many do not realize the importance of this but the inferior chicks never pay for the food they consume. The balance of the flock will have more advantages after the culling has been made. More revenue will be gained from the remaining lot than from the entire flock if retained. It is now "fair" times, here and there. Select the best pure-bred poultry; and exhibit them at the nearest fair incite an interest in well-bred poultry, if not already awakened, and show neighboring farmers what you have. If they have not as good, it will interest them, and you may sell some stock, or take orders for eggs for the coming season; besides the chance for carrying premiums. Next fair season some of the neighbors will enter into competition, and then you will want to maintain your ground with your second exhibit, and have an extra lot of fine birds to show. Farmers should learn the advantages of rearing thorough-bred poultry; by studying the exhibitions at fairs he familiarizes himself with good, pure-bred poultry, and can compare it with his every time. Thus is laid the foundation and incentive within him to improve his stock. In time he will be found glorying in the possession of as fine a flock of pure-bred fowls as the surrounding country can boast. It is impossible to have too many interested in this matter, and the farmer especially should become familiar with the advantages of breeding and raising pure-bred poultry.

The Barley Crop.

Barley has been grown heretofore solely for malting for the brewers; and its feeding qualities have been wholly ignored. Yet some years ago this grain was the common food for horses, and when ground into meal was used with waste milk and boiled potatoes for feeding pigs, and made the very best pork. The prejudice against the culture of barley, common among farmers, is, no doubt, due to the necessity for the thorough cultivation, which takes the head and hands more than is agreeable to them. But the time demand a great shaking up of dry bones, and one must put his hand to the plow in earnest if he will succeed in making the farm pay just now, and barley is a good crop to grow for feeding, if not for sale. Good barley brings sixty to seventy cents per bushel in New York, which is fifty per cent more than corn. Fifty bushels per acre may be grown with the right cultivation. The tillage of the land is the main point. Weeds and clods will not do. Clean land, thoroughly mellowed, and in good heart, will produce a full crop, and this is best for the land, as well as for the crop. We need better tillage, and as there must be an incentive for every good act, so we should choose those crops which force us to till the soil perfectly.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a year when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,864,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,229	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,317	10.36
North American	8,470,030	10.63
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,056	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while each companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The property of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its issuing unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefiting themselves by producing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

Illegal Liquor Selling.

At the police court this morning Mr. R. N. Boddy was charged by Inspector Cochrane with selling liquor during prohibited hours on the 21st of September. The offence was proved and a fine of $40 and costs imposed. Isaac VanNorman, an engineer, was also charged with frequenting the bar during illegal hours on the same date, but, at the request of the prosecution, represented by Mr. Hatton, the case was enlarged until Monday next to procure evidence.

The Sheldrake School.

A private day school will be opened on Monday, Oct. 13th, under the management of Mr. F. Lingwood, Mr. Sheldrake's assistant master. The course of study will comprise the usual English subjects, Latin, French and mathematics. Mr. Lingwood has had upwards of six years' experience as a teacher in English private schools, and is, in every way, well qualified for the position. It is Mr. Sheldrake's intention to move his boarding school to Peterborough as soon as he can secure a suitable house, and make the necessary arrangements. 6d86

More Veteran Patriots.

And still they come. Mr. Wm. Lilley, town, enlisted in the ranks in Toronto in 1837, served there during the winter, doing picket duty. He was a member of the company of Mr. Clarke Gamble, barrister. Mr. Lilley was about 19 years of age at the time, as he is 73 years of age at the present time.

Mr. Patrick Donohue, now of town, enlisted in 1837-38 and, under Capt. Webster, did garrison and patrol duty at Kingston and along the St. Lawrence. Mr. Donogue refers to the latter as gruesome work, the walk along the lonely St. Lawrence, in momentary expectancy of being shot, not being by any means reassuring.

Industrial Improvements.

The Wm. Hamilton Works are shut down this week while some important alterations and improvements are being made. A new boiler and engine are being added, which will be connected with the new 100 foot brick smokestack now nearing completion. The machinery will in future be run by three engines and two big boilers, one engine being situated in the new moulding shop across the street, to which steam is conveyed by a pipe. Steam had to be shut down this week while the alterations were being made. The premises are also to be supplied with electric light. The company have purchased a dynamo and plant, and will hang fifty lights throughout the immense establishment. All these improvements denote the progress and growth of the Wm. Hamilton Co.'s Works.

Not the Man After All.

Friday night Chief Rossel and Constable Stewart went to the C. P. R. station to meet the midnight train, in response to a telegram which stated that a man suspected of having stolen $400 in Owen Sound was aboard. The message gave a description of the supposed thief, and, on searching the train, a man was found whom the conductor was willing to bet $50 was the fellow wanted. He answered the description in many particulars, but not closely enough in the Chief's mind to warrant him in making the arrest, so the man was allowed to proceed. Next morning intelligence was received of the same man's arrest by the authorities at Smith's Falls. Of course the news spread, and the Chief was made the butt of considerable ridicule for having allowed the thief to slip through his fingers. Subsequent events, however, proved that he was in the right. The man has since been discharged. He was not the man wanted at all. Those who were so ready to find fault with the Chief and laugh at what they considered his poor judgment, ought to take it all back. The least they can do is to refrain from fault-finding until they know whether there is good ground for it.

Dropped Dead while Dressing.

A sadly sudden death occurred in the south ward Sunday afternoon, when the wife of Mr. George Foley, carter, died while dressing alone in the house. Mr. and Mrs. Foley live at the corner of Rubidge and Wolfe streets. Mrs. Foley has had several fainting spells recently, the last one on Friday, but the physician who was called in could discover no traces of heart trouble. Sunday afternoon Mr. Foley was away from home, the children were out at play, and Mrs. Foley, before beginning to dress, locked the doors to prevent intrusion from the outside. This fact occasioned no unusual comment from the neighbors, as Mrs. Foley was accustomed to lock the doors whenever dressing. Mr. Foley returned home late in the afternoon, and found his child crying at the door that "ma wouldn't let her in." Mr. Foley tried the doors, and on looking in the window saw the body of his wife half dressed, lying on the floor. He was alarmed and summoned a neighbor, who clambered inside and found that Mrs. Foley was stone dead. She had evidently been standing in front of the dresser when the last fatal spasm seized her, and she fell lengthwise on her back upon the floor. Her face was badly swollen and discolored. Death had evidently ensued from some vascular derangement. The funeral takes place to-morrow.

Progressive Baptist Missions.

Successful Missionary Services in the Baptist Church—Satisfactory Collections.

Sunday was home mission day in the Baptist church, and though the congregations were somewhat disappointed in not having either Rev. Mr. McEwan or his substitute preach to them, they nevertheless showed that the missionary spirit and sympathy was warm in their hearts, and they contributed to the good cause accordingly. The Murray street church was asked to raise $100 for home missions Sunday, and they more than did it, one gentlemen who was unavoidably detained out of town sending a check for $50 for the purpose. Rev. Mr. Parker was taken at a disadvantage in having to prepare his sermons on such short notice. Saturday evening he received a telegram from the Secretary of Home Missions that he would be unable to provide a substitute for Rev. J. P. McEwan. Mr. Parker went bravely to work and on Sunday supplied the three appointments booked for Home Mission sermons—morning and evening in Peterborough, and afternoon in Smith. Rev. Mr. Parker's sermons were earnest Gospel addresses, in which he pointed out the inestimable value of the gift of the Son of God, and urged his congregations to assist in extending the gift to all the world. Mr. Parker laid before the people the needs of the home missions in our own county, in the country to the back of us, in Quebec and in the Lake Superior district. He enlarged upon the self-sacrificing labors and unalloyed devotion of the good men who were willing to undergo discomforts and actual hardships in order to spread the word of God. As an instance of the hardships incident to missionary life, Rev. Mr. Parker cited a case in Chandos, where the missionary labored among the people and travelled 1,000 miles a year on foot in filling his appointments, at for $300 a year. The people of that district were very poor, Mr. Parker mentioning one family of seven persons who lived in a single room. The settlers could only afford to pay the missionary $150 a year, and the balance was made up by the Home Mission Society.

Rev. Mr. Parker's urgent appeal fell upon sympathetic ears, and as a result the collections were satisfactory, amounting to about $132. Home Mission day in the Baptist church was a success despite the disappointments.

Church Chimes.

Mr. Cosslit, of Brockville, played the organ at St. Paul's church Sunday. He is an applicant for the position of organist.

The annual meeting of the Ontario and Quebec Baptist Association opens at Woodstock Thursday. Rev. P. C. Parker and Miss Mann are the delegates from Peterborough.

Rev. A. C. Wilson, of the Mark street Methodist church, Ashburnham, preached missionary sermons in Warsaw Sunday. His pulpit was supplied by Mr. H. S. Griffin in the morning and Mr. Sherin in the evening.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

On Saturday evening the young men's meeting was well attended. We had a praise, prayer and promise meeting, which was heartily entered into by the young men present, and great blessing was the result. The after meeting was largely attended, and several accepted Christ.

The consecration meeting Sabbath morning was a time of rejoicing over the number present, and the blessing each received. Mr. Wm. Freeborn led the meeting.

Open air service in Central Park yesterday afternoon was attended by a large crowd, who by their reverent manner showed their interest in the gospel talk of Mr. F. G. Saunders and the General Secretary. The singing was very efficiently led by the Y.M.C.A. band. We praise God for such delightful weather, and trust that we shall see much fruit from this sowing by the wayside for the Lord Jesus.

Owing to the absence of Prof. Goodspeed, Rev. P. C. Parker kindly took his place and gave an excellent and thoughtful gospel address at the gospel and song service last evening. The hall was filled to overflowing by an interested audience. The Lord is doing great things for us, whereof we are glad.

Bible class Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. We are studying lessons from the life of our Lord. All young men welcomed.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. John Green continue to show their interest in our work by useful gifts. We thank them very much for the same, also Mrs. Chowan for handsome foliage plant.

Educational Services.

Dr Potts Addresses Large Congregations In Both Methodist Churches—Plans for An Educated Ministry—Knowledge And Godliness to be Combined—The Wants of the Work.

Yesterday educational services were held in the Methodist churches of the town. In the morning there was a large attendance at the Charlotte street church. The lesson and hymns had direct reference to the subject of the services. Dr. Potts took for his text the 21-23 verses of the iii chapter of St. Paul's epistle to the Corinthians:—

"Therefore, let no man glory in man. For all things are yours.

"Whether Paul or Apolios or Cephaus or Paul or the world or life or death or things present or things to come:—all are yours."

And ye are Christ's and Christ is Gods."

This scripture, the preacher said, might be regarded as fairly summing up the condition of the church at Corinth, which was grievously rent with strife and divisions. The apostle aimed to lift the church above the petty and the temporary, and he showed them their great heritage of grace, and urged them not to pay too great homage to mere temporary considerations. The speaker's subject was the heritage of believers—of the three-fold heritage of believers spoken of in the text: "Ye are Christ's," and Christ is God. We are to be Christ's in the capacity of his witnesses and representatives on earth; Christ may be claimed by every mortal, and this constitutes the heritage of believers. In catalogueing the assets of the church in Christ Jesus, the ministry was to be held the most important part of the means of grace, a divinely ordained institution, and no man perhaps ever had a higher view of the sacredness of the ministry than St. Paul. The ministry, as shown by the pentecostal incident, was the greatest power in the evangelization of the world and the spread of the Gospel to the utmost ends of the world. The work of a preacher transcended all other callings, because it touched the highest interests of men. In the ministry, as in the record of God's will as presented in the Bible, we have a consistent unity but a marvellous diversity of thought, mode of expression, style and means of reaching the hearts of the people, whose varying wants, conditions, and temperments demand a variety of gifts in the ministry, and the ministry of the Methodist church, in view of its itinerancy, was best calculated to appeal to the various wants and conditions of men. The ministers of the church were its heritage, and their influences and examples remained to the church long after they had finished their earthly race. St. Paul perhaps exercised a greater influence in the world to-day, than during the time of his earthly mission. "Paul and Apollos, and Cephas are yours." They are types of the ministry by power and representation. The successor of these were like unto them, and all these fall as a heritage to the church. The ministry belonged to the church not only as an institution, but in their services to the church, in their leadership of the devotions of the people—in their ministration and in their pastoral capacity. Considering the marvellously intimate and important relations of the ministry to the church, it was no wonder that St. Paul placed it in the very forefront of importance in the Christian heritage. In addition to all these blessings the text declared that the "world" and all its natural enjoyment "is yours," and "life is yours," not only natural life but the glorious immortality of the redeemed. And "death is yours"—as your conquered foe, as the open gate to the glories of the better world—death subordinated to the highest interests of humanity. And the Apostles added, "things present are yours"—the providence of God, our privileges, our opportunities and our responsibilities of life, and "things to come are yours"—and it is a blessed thing that these things are hidden from the just that walk by faith. The preacher recited as a part of the heritage—the blessings, the graces, the enjoyment of all the Christian course between the present and the eternal future. This heritage "is yours," by earnest, as well as by title. We were, he said, minors of the estate of God, supported by the estate, and we would come into full possession when we entered into the rest that remaineth to the people of God. In view of the conspicuous prominence given by St. Paul to the ministry, it was important to refer to the preparation for the Christian ministry—men, who required a threefold qualification—a spiritual qualification, the gift of the Holy Spirit, with the second qualification of being called of God to the work of the Christian ministry. And there was the third qualification the important part of the education of the minister which presented a plain duty to the church. Reference was made to the most recent contributions to the Educational Fund of the Methodist Church, which showed a gratifying increase in the last quadrennium from $11,000 to $20,000. In the last quadrennium there were additional claimants upon the Educational Fund, Albert College, Belleville, which was doing a great work, sending out about fifty per cent. of the entrants to Victoria College, and the Wesley College, Winnipeg (which was to be devoted to the preparation for work of the ministers designed to evangelize the Northwest. The speaker went on to emphasize the great importance of the work that made the educational fund necessary, and pointed out the manner in which it was distributed among the various institutions devoted to the preparation of students for the ministry. The speaker closed by giving instances of the marked increase of liberality in giving to this fund shown by several circuits, and urged the people of Peterborough to follow so worthy an example.

The collections and contributions of the Charlotte street church congregation amounted to a generous sum.

EVENING DISCOURSE.

The George street church was crowded to the doors in the evening. The large congregation was delighted and edified with the powerful and instructive address of Rev. Dr. Potts. He took for his subject a dual text: Col. II, 3, and Isa. XXXIII, 6.

The theme of his discourse was the necessity of combining education and religion in every day life. The educational system of Ontario was, he said, superior to any other in the world, and he believed the public men of our country were, as a whole, the most upright of any in the world, from the town council up to the Senate. And the time was coming when more and more religion would be the foremost element in political matters, when public men would be judged by the standard of righteousness. A man must have both religion and education to be complete. Without one or the other he was incomplete. Rev. Dr. Potts then went on to point out the strong efforts being made by the Methodist church to spread religious education throughout the word, and he called attention to the various institutions established and supported by the church for the purpose. In their behalf Dr. Potts made a stirring appeal and with gratifying success.

After the sermon Mrs. Seward and Mr. Manning sang a beautiful duet.

The collections for educational purposes during the day amounted to $127.00

FRAZERVILLE.—What has become of your correspondent in the above village? We don't hear from him now. The following occurred in Frazerville on October 8th: Mr. Cruikshanks' cows broke over the line fence between him and Mr. Wm. Reynolds, but it happened to be Mr. Reynolds' half. They destroyed the latter's garden, so he impounded them. Mr. Cruikshanks now warned the fence-viewers, namely, Mr. Geo. Hutchinson and Mr. John Donaldson. After viewing it it was found not lawful—4½ feet being the lawful height, so Mr. Reynolds had to pay costs and release the cows. This is a warning to the villagers to fix up their fences, and then nothing like the above will happen.

BREVITIES.—Mr. A. Goodfellow and his mother recently went to Rochester to visit some friends. We hear they have returned. Hope they have had spent a pleasant time. Mr. D. Baxter and Mr Andrew Goodfellow went hunting on Oct. 13th. Mr. Geo. Reynolds, stonemason, Frazerville, repaired the corner S. S. No. 5 school here on Friday, Oct 10th.

WEATHER NOTES—from Oct. 5th to Oct. 11th. We had a good deal of rain between the above dates, and the roads were muddy but hope to give a better account of it next week.

Removal.

A Word to My Customers and Friends.

My customers and friends, this change with business interferes,
In that old stall I sold you meat for nearly twenty years;
Time changes ways, advancement rules, while progress onward tread,
Till gentlemen's ruthless hands pulled down the roof above my head.

Some thought me in the debris caught and crushed to lifeless clay,
While others thought I was dead broke—by moonlight skipped away,
Some thought the wild McKinley Bill had closed me like a clam
And I had skipped across the line to trade with Uncle Sam.

Not one of these has sealed my fate—this one thing I did do,
When the old marble house was deemed I remodel in the new;
Tenders quick rated across the block, stripped the books from the wall,
I with my aprons, knives and steel made tracks to my new stall.

How grand the change! with ceilings high, clear light, pure air so sweet,
With side door in from the Arcade, the front one from George street.
My customers will mark the change—floor, windows, ceiling, wall—
The comfort, style and beauty here compared with my old stall.

My refrigerator took first prize at the Toronto show,
All meat inside feels cool and nice, as if it was in snow;
No taint, nor fly-blow, will pollute the meat you from me buy,
The air within my ice-trimmed safe means death to every fly!

Counters, shining marble tops, my show of best shall lie,
Dressed from the purest breed for best the country can supply,
Bar, beaver, venison and fowl, with puddings dyed with blood,
The flesh of every beast man eats old Noah saved from the flood.

You need not search for my new stall, in the windows means are laid:
Walk straight to the new market block, just north of the Arcade
There you will find me just the same, though in a grander style,
To serve you in the same kind way, with old familiar smile.

No gorgeous stall, no splendors, powers, my nature can divide,
Nor change my course, nor puff me up with vain conceit and pride.
Civility my motto is, alike to rich and poor.
And kindness unto every one that enters my stall door.

My friends, your custom in the past my heart with joy did fill,
Your patronage in future we hope to enjoy it still,
Our chiefest aim shall be to have meats on our tables placed,
In quality and price to suit your purse, your wish and taste.

Come customers, both old and new, you won't regret your call,
You cannot fail to suit your wants in our well-filled stall;
Purchase or not, you meet no frown, wrath we in silence smother,—
All kindly words and courteous smiles from H. C. Winch and brother.

Why Grant was Great.

Due Recognition When True Merit is Once Established.

Was Grant a great general?—conceded. What made him so?

When U. S. Grant was hauling cord-wood into St. Louis his neighbours did not imagine he would become the most famous man of his generation. When he was managing the little tannery in Galena no one of his intimates recognized in him a future hero. But he displayed qualities which should have satisfied them he was no common man. What was there about him?

If you start to build a single story shanty you pay little attention to the foundation; you may lay stringers in the sand, with little fear the building will fall. But if you propose erecting a ten-story block your architect will tell you you must go to the rock for the basis of your foundation, or the stately structure is liable to tumble about your ears.

The foundation of a great man is moral force—character; this is the rock foundation. The shiftless man lacks it; he never succeeds. Grant never used an oath—a sure indication of moral character. He never told, or listened to, if he could help it, a vulgar story; this showed peculiar moral fibre, an unusual strength of character. He was a man of opinions—as his wife said, was obstinate; in other words, he had will power, force.

These qualities, with good judgment, well balanced mental powers, and peculiar executive ability, supplemented by a military education, fitted him for the emergency, when it came. As soon as his merits became known, success was assured. This is always the case, with things as with men. "I well know the value of Warner's Safe Cure," writes M. Carr, of the Hotel Bennett, Binghamton, N.Y. "In 1884 I had difficulty with my kidneys. The doctors did not help me; I was badly out of rig. One day a travelling man from Utica advised me to try Warner's Safe Cure. The first bottle did so much good that when my family doctor called I threw his medicine out of the window, while he was present. I continued to use Warner's Safe Cure until I was entirely well."

The test of merit is the accomplishment of the matter in hand. The best is that which is most certain.

BOLD EXPRESS ROBBERY.

The Accommodating Messenger Threw Out the Money Packages When Ordered.

FORT SCOTT, Kans., Oct. 12.—At midnight the Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train was robbed by four masked men near Shell City, Mo., at the Osage water tank. As the train was slowing up to take water the engine was mounted from each side by two masked robbers, who compelled the engineer to dismount and knock at the express door for admittance. The messenger threw out the money packages. It was not a heavy money train. The robbers were evidently novices. The procedure was similar to the recent work at Otterville.

Shot For a Portrait.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—A romantic tragedy is reported from Jumeauville, where a wealthy farmer named Thevonen lived with his beautiful daughter, a girl 17 years of age. Some time ago Thevonen employed as a farm hand Donley, who fell in love with Mlle. Thevonen. He obtained possession of her picture and declined to give it up. Finally she learned that it was secreted in a box in the barn and secured it. Donley found her with the portrait in her hand and demanded its return. This she declined to do and made a movement towards the door. Donley suddenly raised his revolver and two shots followed in quick succession. M. Thevonen rushed to the room and found his daughter lying by the side of the box with a bullet wound in her forehead, while only a few feet away was Donley lying dead, shot through the temple. Mlle. Thevonen is still alive but cannot survive.

Accidentally Shot.

GLENCOE, Oct. 12.—D. Whiting and his son put up at the McKellar House, Glencoe, and a companion of young Whiting took from a trunk a revolver, which exploded while in his hands, the ball striking the Whiting lad in the abdomen. The boy is still alive.

Ladies, Be Animated!

The most delightful thing in this world is a pretty, animated woman. She has the effect of a ray of sunshine wherever she goes; and every person likes her. In the social world such a woman will always be a success, because, while society does not require gaiety or mirth, it does most emphatically demand cheerfulness and animation. And those women who have lost their animation by disease will do well to use Beecham's Pills, the great and universal cure for the many weaknesses and irregularities common to women. w42d

Where the Crowd Went.

One of our brother grocers had a man placed opposite the door of W. J. Morrow's Saturday with a massive pile of dodgers so anxious was he to attract the stream of customers which kept pouring in, the shop being packed with people looking for his big bargains, but we don't blame them. Why, our city papers are increasing their business greatly, others going into advertising every day trying to lure the public, but they cannot do it, the latter knowing where they can buy goods 25 per cent. cheaper than elsewhere. A SYRIAN MASSACRE.

40 TURKISH SOLDIERS KILLED BY ARMENIANS.

And the Treasury Plundered Dillon and O'Brien Land in Brittany The Spanish Expedition to Ponapi—Villages Shelled and Destroyed.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—There has been another mutinous outbreak among English troops, this time in the ranks of the East Surrey regiment stationed on the Island of Guernsey. The trouble arose from a detachment of the regiment being ordered to India. The men refused to prepare for their departure, totally disregarding the commands of their officers. As things were assuming a threatening aspect the recalcitrants were disarmed. Finally, however, all embarked on the waiting vessel, but in a very sulky and menacing mood.

Killed the Governor and Robbed the Treasury.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 13.—Despatches received here say that a party of Armenians and Druses attacked the barracks at Milenca, Syria, and blew up a portion of the building. Forty Turkish soldiers were killed. The Armenians then invaded the Government building, killed the governor and robbed the treasury. They then proceeded to the prison, which they carried by storm, liberating all the prisoners.

Taught a Salutary Lesson.

MADRID, Oct. 13.—An official despatch from Manilla gives news of the expedition sent by the Spanish Government to Ponapi to punish the natives for their recent massacre of Spaniards. The Spanish war ships shelled the village of Mutlans, causing great consternation among the people and doing considerable damage. Troops were then landed and the soldiers stormed the native positions, carrying everything before them. The Spanish loss was seven killed and 19 wounded. The native loss is estimated at 150.

IS HE JACK THE RIPPER?

Sensational Story Told by a Whitechapel Lodging House Keeper.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—A sensation has been caused here by a statement made by a lodging house keeper in the Whitchapel district that Jack the Ripper lived at her house during his crimes committed thereabouts. The woman came to Mr. Albert Backert, the chairman of the Vigilance Committee, and told her story. She says a young man engaged a bedroom at her house. He said he had been to sea up to that time, but did not work at all there. He was in receipt of £1 per week, and his brother, who was a physician, gave him a further small allowance. He had a great quantity of clothing, and had revolvers, guns and many other articles not often found in the outfit of a workingman. He asked for a door key, and she noticed that he went out and came in at unusual and irregular hours of the night. He was in the habit of lying abed generally until the afternoon, and would rise about 5 o'clock and leave the house. What first excited her suspicion was the bloody condition in which she often found the towels sent to his room. For this she finally spoke to the man. He said he was very fond of painting and in his preparations for artistic moments he was in the habit of wiping his brushes on the towels and thereby stained them. He sent several persons pieces of what appeared to be raw liver. One afternoon she happened in his room, and there saw him with a newspaper spread on his table and upon it a large piece of raw meat that she took to be liver. He said it was a piece of frozen mutton that had been given him by a friend who was employed on a boat that came from New Zealand bearing a cargo of this meat. She saw the man do up a piece of this meat in a small box and address it to the chairman of the Vigilance Committee and leave the house with it under his arm. She saw the man place small bits of flesh in envelopes, which he addressed to different news agencies and newspapers, and also to prominent members of the police. With great apparent carelessness he left these envelopes and their contents in the room when he vacated it, and the woman threw them into the dust bin. On two occasions he brought home with him blood-stained aprons, which he gave to her, and which she still has and is ready to turn over to the police, believing now that they belong to two of his victims, for now she is convinced her lodger was Jack the Ripper.

On the morning of the Castle Alley murder, which was the last Jack has thus far committed, her lodger left and has not yet returned. In addition to the envelopes that he left behind him, the woman found in his closet a pair of silent shoes, several bags and a long overcoat, all of which she asserts are bloodstained in almost every part.

Fatal Fire in London.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The four-story building in Middle-street occupied by Rowley & Brock, hat, cap and helmet manufacturers and Government contractors for military head gear, was destroyed by fire this afternoon. Six persons were burned to death and 15 were seriously injured. The fire broke out at 1 o'clock in the workshops on the upper floor. There were 30 persons in the building. Two minutes after the fire was discovered the whole building was a mass of flames. The spread of the fire was so rapid that the workpeople found every avenue of escape, except the windows, cut off. Through these some of the employes jumped to the ground. Two women employed by the firm were killed by jumping from the windows.

Two more of the injured have died at the hospital.

The King Uncrowned.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 13.—The physicians attending the King of Holland had a consultation to-day with two of the cabinet ministers when it was decided that the condition of the King rendered him unfit to reign.

The Conspiracy Case.

DUBLIN, Oct. 13.—The conspiracy case against the Nationalists at Tipperary has been adjourned until to-morrow, when the crown will suggest a course that will enable the court to proceed with the trial in spite of the absence of Mr. O'Mahoney, who is ill.

Gladstone and Scottish Home Rule.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Mr. Gladstone has declined to receive a deputation, which waited upon him from the Scottish Home Rule Association of Edinburgh. This association recently sent a circular to the various Scottish Liberal associations protesting against the policy of the Liberal officials toward the Scottish Home Rule movement and explaining the reasons for their protest. This document was submitted to Mr. Gladstone.

Placed in an Asylum.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Mrs. O'Connor, wife of William O'Connor, member of the House of Commons for East Donegal, who was found yesterday unconscious with one of her thighs broken and who it was believed had fallen from the platform of the Walworth-street station to the street below, received her injuries in an attempt to commit suicide. She is insane. She is now in an asylum. Her condition is critical.

Spain Threatens Reprisals.

MADRID, Oct. 13.—It is announced that the Spanish Government will request the United States to admit the products of the Spanish possessions in the West Indies, especially tobacco and sugar, without the recently imposed tariff restrictions. In the event of a refusal Spain, it is said, will exclude American products, especially breadstuffs.

Germany Respectfully Declined.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—Portugal has made a final attempt to enlist on its side the sympathy of Germany in the impending negotiations between Portugal and England relative to territory in East Africa, but the overtures looking to this end were unsuccessful.

The Labor Troubles in Sydney.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 13.—Great excitement was caused in Woolongong to-day by the arrival there of a large party of non-union miners, who landed from a steamer intending to work in the Coal Cliffe mines. The unionists took possession of the mines and refused to allow the non-unionists to work. Many scuffles took place. Trouble is feared. The police and military are held in readiness to suppress disorder.

The Italian-English Negotiations.

ROME, Oct. 13.—The Riforma believes that negotiations between England and Italy relative to their African possessions will soon be resumed, and that they will be brought to a successful termination.

The Socialist Congress.

HALLE, Oct. 13.—At to-day's session of the Socialist Congress, Herr Stueg pointed out that the attendance at the congress of the delegates from Paris, London, Copenhagen, Geneva, Warsaw, Vienna, The Hague and Stockholm carried out the prediction of Karl Marx that the proletarians of all countries would eventually unite to fulfil the mission of socialism and effect the liberation of suffering humanity. Letters expressive of sympathy with the objects of the congress were read from American, Austrian, Swiss, Italian, French and English Socialist societies for the promotion of workmen's education. Herr Bebel reported that the solidarity of the party had greatly increased since the Socialist congress in Paris. The party now owned 104 trade organs, which had 900,000 subscribers. The finances were in a satisfactory condition and each year showed an increase in the receipts. Last year the receipts were 300,500 marks and the expenditure was 288,325 marks. The total balance on hand was 171,829 marks. He advocated the founding of party organs in the rural districts, and also the establishment of a Polish workingman's paper and a paper for Alsace-Lorraine.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Christian Science Distress Before the Assize Court Sad Suicide.

TORONTO, Oct. 14 The fall criminal assizes opened yesterday before Chief Justice Galt. His Lordship's charge to the Grand Jury was devoted largely to the manslaughter cases against Mrs. Stewart, the Christian scientist, for causing the death of John Kent, and C.P.R. Superintendent Tait, for the Brock-avenue accident. Referring to the Stewart case His Lordship said The deceased was a grown-up man and perfectly responsible for his own acts. What they must consider was whether it was the act of Isabella Stewart or his own act that caused deceased's death, he being at liberty to adopt any treatment he desired. He was in a position to act as he pleased, and they must decide whether it was his act or hers which resulted fatally. In his reference to the Tait case the Chief Justice evidently favored the defendant. "To sustain the charge against Mr. Tait it must be shown that it was his specific act which caused the accident."

When the schools opened in the morning the Union Jack was hoisted and the principals delivered addresses bearing on the battle. All the school rooms were decorated with maple leaves and branches, intertwined with bunting. The walls bore mottos such as "Honor the Heroes of 1763-1812-1837-1885." "Hurrah for Canada." "Brock the Hero of Queenston Heights, Fell in Action October 13, 1812." "Canada Our Home." "The Queen, God Bless Her." "The Maple Leaf Forever."

In the afternoon a program of patriotic recitations, readings, essays and music was carried out by the pupils. "The Battle of Queenston Heights" formed the subject of the essays in almost every school. Among the songs were such pieces as "The Maple Leaf," "Canada Our Home," "Gliding Through the Meadow," "Twilight is Stealing," "Hurrah for Canada," "May God Preserve Thee, Canada," "The Battle of Queenston," "Sailor's Home Song," "Morning," "Death of Brock," "Red, White and Blue" and "God Save the Queen." Addresses were also delivered by Rev. Principal Grant, G. R. R. Cockburn, M.P., Col. F. C. Denison, M.P., Col. G. T. Denison, Mayor Clarke, Rev. Dr. Potts, Rev. Septimus Jones, Rev. John Pearson, John Baxter, J.P., Col Sweny and others, all of whom impressed upon the pupils the patriotic significance of the battle.

Two very important deputations waited on the City Council last night, both working for the same end, though viewing it from two entirely different standpoints. They were from the dry goods and grocers' sections of the Board of Trade and the Single Tax Association, and were present on the invitation of the Mayor to express themselves on Ald. Hallam's proposition to abolish the tax on personality and substituting therefor a business tax.

The 76th anniversary of the battle of Queenston Heights was celebrated in good style yesterday by the pupils of the public schools. This was the first celebration of the kind and it had a splendid effect as an object lesson in patriotism and love of country.

A VACANT REGISTRARSHIP.

Death of the Septuagenarian Registrar for Lambton.

SARNIA, Oct. 13.—Edward M. Proctor, registrar of deeds of the County of Lambton, died here this evening at the age of 71. Mr. Proctor has been registrar for a number of years. He has been ailing for about 4 years.

A FLOATING COFFIN.

DISASTER ON THE NOVA SCOTIA COAST.

A Vessel Adrift in the Storm—The Longboat Swamped and the Captain and 14 of the Crew Drowned.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 13.—A special from Little Harbor, Pictou County, gives details of the wreck of the bark Malmerby, which was one of the most distressing and heartrending disasters in the history of the Nova Scotia coast. The bark Malmerby, Captain Olsen, with a crew of 22 men, sailed from Quebec Oct. 1 for Glenrock with a cargo of square timber. All went well until Sunday night, Oct. 5, when they encountered a heavy gale, from which the ship sprang a leak, and soon there was six feet of water in the hold. All hands were sent to work the pumps, which were kept going all night, but the water gained with such rapidity that next morning the ship was waterlogged and nothing but

A Floating Coffin.

The deck cargo was thrown overboard and logs washed about the deck, smashing boats and wrecking the cabin and destroying the stoves. On Tuesday, Oct. 7, the Norwegian bark Nightingale, seeing their deplorable condition, offered to take the crew, but Capt. Olsen refused to leave the wreck. The Norwegian then supplied them with biscuits and water, which was the first food tasted since the previous Sunday. On Wednesday a fishing schooner was spoken to, which lay by them and supplied them with food at intervals and other necessities as far as they were able. They also spoke the cruiser Acadia and obtained from her supplies of biscuit and coffee. At this time the vessel was a hopeless wreck, her rudder was gone and the mainmast had gone by the board. She drifted about in this condition until Sunday.

Drowned in the Longboat.

On that day she ran on a ledge near Roy's Island. Then Capt. Olsen and 15 of the crew started in the ship's long boat to make an attempt to reach shore, but the surf and awful force of the undertow was such that only one man succeeded in reaching shore. He was the pilot who took the vessel out of Quebec. The boat was dashed to pieces and all the others were drowned. The terrible calamity was seen by crowds of people on shore, who made determined efforts to launch boats, but the sea was such that no boat could live in it. Finally, at midnight, one of the sailors, Samuel Cook, who still remained on the wreck jumped over and after desperate exertions succeeded in reaching shore. Two hours later James Fletcher successfully followed his example. The other four men were afraid to run the terrible risk and they still remain on the wreck.

The steward of the fishing vessel which had laid alongside the Malmerby for some days, has one of his shoulders dislocated and his arm broken, caused by falling from the main gaff. The two sailors who swam ashore were clothed and cared for by the inhabitants. Among the lost are Captain Olsen, the first and second mates and Sailors MacNamara, Donovan, Harrison, Hughes, McDonald and Jones. The names of the other 7 not given. Most of the lost men belonged to Liverpool. Fears are entertained for the safety of the four men still on the wreck. The sea is so high that no human help can reach them to-night.

Another Crew Lost.

ST. ANN'S, C.B., Oct. 13.—A three-masted vessel is reported ashore near the entrance to St. Ann's harbor and wreckage drifting ashore. The crew is reported lost.

A special from Cape Breton says the storm was the worst for many years. It blew east and northeast, and greatly helped the shipping, as it ran parallel with the Island. Had it been southeast everything would have been swept, including the wharf's boats. Two fishing vessels were lost. The sea was the highest ever known. It swept right across the beach and flooded the houses. Wrecks are reported from both north and south, but no particulars.

KILLED WHILE HUNTING.

Tragic Death of Sir William Gossett of British Columbia.

MISSION, B.C., Oct. 13.—Sir William Gossett, who has been on a shooting excursion in this neighborhood, was accidentally killed yesterday. He was returning from a hunt and had landed in a canoe and in attempting to take his gun from the canoe the hammer caught on the edge and was discharged, the shot passing through Gossett's heart, killing him instantly.

Largest Tree in the World.

FRESNO, Oct. 12.—The largest tree in the world has been discovered in this (Fresno) county. A party of bear hunters located it in the Sierras. It is in the most rugged portion of the mountains, two miles north of Kentucky Meadows. It was surrounded for a mile by almost impenetrable underbrush, so that the hunters were compelled to use both knife and axe to get to it. Four feet from the ground it was 129 feet in circumference. It was christened the "Oregono." Three brown bears were captured near it.

Morin's Execution Postponed.

QUEBEC, Oct. 13.—The execution of Morin, who was to have been hanged on Oct. 14 for the murder of his partner, Roy, whom he kicked to death, has been postponed to Nov. 25 to permit his appeal being heard by the Supreme Court.

Birchall and Day.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 13.—Birchall keeps a diary and counts each morning the remaining days he has to spend on earth. He is cheerful and talkative to those who have access to him, and while there does not appear to be much reason for it he has not given up all hope. He thinks there is a chance for his life yet and will not be convinced to the contrary. Wednesday night last he discussed the Day trial and criticized the verdict of the jury, founded as it was on the evidence of a woman of unsavory reputation. When he read of the mistake in fixing the date of the execution, he appeared quite pleased to learn that Day had a longer lease of life. Birchall will write him offering his congratulations and trusting that upon the reserve points Day may be acquitted.

Found Dead in His Office.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Ex-Secretary of War W. W. Belknap was found dead in his office, 14th-street and New York-avenue, this morning. Deceased has been in ill-health for some time past. His family are absent and the general has been lodging in his office.

Waterworks Bylaw Carried.

LEAMINGTON, Oct. 13.—The bylaw to raise $13,000 for the construction of waterworks for this town was submitted to-day to a vote and carried by a majority of 88.

The Fall Web Worm.

The torch and pruning shears are the most expeditious remedies for the web worm. Where the torch is used a little caution is necessary in order to avoid, as much as possible, injury to the tree. Arsenical preparations will be quite effective when applied in the form of a spray. But the torch is less expensive and fully as rapid, and no risk is run against poisoning either the operator or stock that may be running loose about the place.

Arrested for Incendiarism.

SARNIA, Oct. 13.—George Morphy and John Baker will be arraigned to-morrow on a charge of having set fire to a laundry owned by the brother of the first named. The building was burned on Sept. 13, and it is claimed the men were in the building a short time before the flames broke out.

The Great Majority

Of cases of scrofula and other blood diseases are hereditary, and therefore difficult to cure. But we wish to state in the most positive, emphatic manner that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula in every form. The most severe cases too terrible for description, have yielded to this medicine when all others failed. If you suffer from impure blood in any way, take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A BASEBALL WAR.

Progress of Events in the Settlement of the League's Strife.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—For baseball men this last week is the first week that all can look back upon with pleasure this season. The conference at the Fifth-avenue Hotel of all the leagues was the first oasis found in the Sahara of quarrel. All the weary financial travelers took a drink (a figure of speech only), wiped the sand of pride out of their eyes and felt that it would be much better to journey on together than to take divergent and unknown paths. Everything looks hazy for the safe arrival next season of these baseball travelers at the crowded fields of success, and there is no mirage about it, either. There are many steps yet to be taken, and some persons, more impulsive than helpful, have temporarily muddied the water of the oasis by putting the foot of premature suggestion in it. It will clear itself all right again.

Before anything almost had been done in the way of settlement somebody has lugged in the question as to what the major amalgamated league will be called when it shall have been formed. In the words of an illustrious philosopher, "First catch your cat, then name him." If the leagues don't arrange all the details of conbination there won't be any need for a name, will there? Then why not let the name go till the last thing? There won't be any great fight over a name at that time. The officials of all the leagues came together because a well-defined and "pocket-effecting public sentiment demanded it.

Now that all have found that each party has a respect for the other and a desire to make reasonable temporary sacrifice for ultimate success, they are desirous to secure satisfactory results. This will result surely and in the near future, so the best judges say, if matters are taken up in their natural order and disposed of. Even if the mule of settlement is taken by its tail, as some suggest, the work won't be spoiled, but some unnecessary kicking may result. The magnates on both sides know that the people demand a treaty; they have acknowledged this, and they will effect a treaty sooner or later. Of course the National Leaguers don't want to drop their name. Of course the Players' men don't want to adopt the National League's name, but the force which brought about the conference and the brains which carried it through so pleasantly and successfully will be fully able to cope with the question: "What's in a name?" when it is time to discuss and arrange it. So say the wisest baseball men in town.

WAS THIS MAN MURDERED.

A Canadian Believed to Have Been a Victim to Revenge.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Fred A. Cooke was believed to have been killed by a cable car on Sept. 13. A brother came from Canada and from his investigation is confident that murder was done. A tragedy that happened in the Cooke family several years ago is the basis upon which the suspicion is grounded.

The family lived at Lachute, near Montreal, and were in good circumstances, owning an extensive farm. One night the father, mother, brother and sister were literally hacked to pieces by a hired man, who was afterwards hanged. The brother, now in Chicago, was maimed for life. At that time Fred Cooke was on a ranch in British Columbia, but he returned to Montreal and took active steps to bring the murderer to justice. Both of the brothers were threatened by an anonymous correspondent and the young Canadian now in Chicago thinks that some friend of the murderer may have seen Cooke in Chicago, watched him and thrown him across the car tracks. He has had every assistance from the city police. He has advertised repeatedly in the daily newspapers, but not the least trace of his brother's former residence, his associations or habits has he been able to learn.

Mrs. Miller Arraigned.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Miller was taken before the U. S. Commissioner to-day and a complaint was read charging her with having received £7000 belonging to John Henry Hoge and others in the latter part of September, 1890, in London, which had been fraudulently obtained from them by J. C. Field, William Wadsworth and William Yates Miller, trading under the name of J. H. Field & Co. It stated that she was a fugitive from justice. The complaint is made by William R. Hoare, the British consul. The case was adjourned for three weeks to await the arrival of papers from London.

Also Known in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—A paper here states that William M. Miller of the alleged swindling firm of Miller & Field of London, England, engaged in a swindling scheme here in 1885 with men named Loring and Fleming. They invited deposits, promising high interest and sent circulars over Mexico, South America and the United States. Dupes were found in all countries, and money for investment came pouring in. They did not invest it, but returned part of the principle, calling it a dividend to keep the gulled ones quiet. The scheme was finally exposed. Mrs. Miller arranged matters with the authorities and Miller was only fined $1000. He then turned State's evidence against Fleming and Long who were convicted of using the mails with intent to defraud. President Arthur pardoned them. Miller was said to have laid away over $100,000 as his share in the profits of the swindle. The scheme he and Field worked was identical with that worked here several years ago.

A Toronto Housekeeper Claims the Furniture and Appeals to Law.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 13.—A case of considerable interest is likely to be tried at the coming chancery sittings. James Haggerman has entered an action against Deborah Annis Clapp for $1500 for alleged fraudulent retention of goods alleged to be owned by the plaintiff. Both parties lived in Belleville, Mrs. Clapp acting in the capacity of housekeeper. Both the parties agreed to go to Toronto, where Mrs. Clapp proposed to keep boarders. It was not long before a disagreement arose and the plaintiff came to Belleville on a visit. Haggerman now claims that the household effects belonged to him and that it was his money which paid for them. The defendant does not deny this, but claims that he made her a present of the furniture, among which is an elegant piano and many costly pieces of decorative art. She further claims that he agreed to pay her $4 a week during the time he boarded at her place in Toronto, but which agreement, she says, he did not fulfil. Mrs. Clapp will defend the suit and has put her case in the hands of a leading Toronto counsel.

John M. Ward will have charge of and play short stop for the Cincinnati team next season. Al Johnson will probably be chief owner and business controller of the club under the new order of things.—N. Y.

CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1890.

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT'S ADDRESSES.

Sir Richard Cartwright, one of the ablest financiers of the Dominion, and one of the most effective and convincing speakers in public life, has arranged to address a series of public meetings during the present month. He will address mass meetings of the farmers at Renfrew, on Monday, Oct. 20th, at Pembroke on Tuesday, 21st, at Merrickville Wednesday, Oct. 22nd, at Warkworth on Thursday, Oct. 23rd, and at Norwood on Friday, Oct. 24th. Sir Richard is at all times worth hearing, and upon any subject, for his large grasp of any subject he takes to speak upon invests his treatment of it with peculiar interest, and at the present time when the political situation is pregnant with great events, when the commercial situation begets as much unrest and feeling of insecurity in the popular mind, his utterances upon the questions that are in the forefront to-day will be of unusual interest. Sir Richard has the prosaic habit of mastering every subject with which he deals to its minutest details. The mere announcement of Sir Richard's intention of delivering a series of public addresses has been received by the restrictionist press with hysterical demonstrations of concern. The efforts devoted to belittling his abilities, casting discredit upon his bona fides and disparaging the importance of his subject show that his speeches are regarded with an alarm which bluster and bravado are ineffectual to conceal. Sir Richard will deal in a broad and statesman-like way, he will call a spade a spade and thoroughly expose the interested efforts of the present party in power to subordinate the welfare of the country, its present and future, to the partizan interests of their petty present. He will show how the application of the narrow-souled, short-sighted policy of restriction, has aroused an international antagonism, which bodes ill for the commercial prosperity of two contiguous peoples, and being a statesman he will deal in a statesmanlike manner with the situation and suggest a remedy. His addresses will be well worth hearing, and the farming community especially should make it a point to make arrangements for attending his meetings and hearing his speeches.

Sir Richard will speak in Norwood Friday Nov. 24th at two o'clock p.m. in the town hall. This presents a favourable opportunity for Peterborough people to hear Sir Richard. They can leave Peterborough by mid-day train and return to Peterborough at 5:52. It is to be hoped that all who wish to hear a masterly exposition of current politico-economic topics, will avail themselves of the opportunity presented at the above meeting.

A CONVENTION of East Huron Liberals will be held at Brussels on Friday next. Officers will be elected and arrangements made for a series of public meetings.

REV. J. ROBERTSON, superintendent of the Presbyterian missions in Manitoba and the North-West, says that the damage to crops in Manitoba this season by hail, frost and rain was almost nil.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD, says the Ottawa Free Press, has resumed at the old stand the business of disallowing Provincial legislation. He has already filled several orders from the North-West Territories, but does not feel strong enough to deal with Jesuit bills, or measures abolishing Separate Schools or the use of French as an official language.

A SHUFFLE has taken place in the Prince Edward Island Government. Hon. D. Ferguson resigned the position of Commissioner of Public Lands, and Hon. G. W. Bentley was transferred to that office, his place as Commissioner of Public Works being taken by Mr. Hugh Lord Macdonald, of Cardigan. Hon. Mr. Bentley has also become Provincial Secretary and Treasurer, as these offices are united with that of Commissioner of Public Lands.

THE Conservatives of Guysboro', N.S., have nominated Mr. Alfred Ogden as their candidate for the Commons. In the general election of 1878 Mr. Ogden defeated Mr. John A. Kirk by 164 majority, but in 1882 Mr. Kirk, who has since represented the county, was elected by 190 majority. Mr. Kirk is an able man, an active promoter of the interest of his constituents and a staunch advocate of reciprocity, and is not likely to find it a hard task to hold the county for the Liberals.

ONE effect of the rapid growth of the business of electric lighting has been a rise in the price of platinum. Every lamp requires a strip of this metal, and it is estimated that there are now in the United States 125,000 arc lights and 1,700 000 incandescent lights. Five years ago platinum could be bought in the market for $3 and $5 an ounce. The other day it was quoted at $20 an ounce, nearly the price of gold. The mines, which are in the Ural Mountains, are difficult of access and are not very productive.

THE 36th annual report of the Post Office Department of Great Britain taxes to the utmost the credulity of the reader. It deals in monster figures. For instance during the year it has delivered 1,650,100,000 letters, 217,000,000 postal cards, 150,000,000 newspapers, 443,000,000 book packets, 43,000,000 parcels, or a total of 2,512,100,000 different articles, or about one and three quarters for every man woman and child on the face of the earth. Among the various incidents of the year was the transmission through the post as a book packet of a sucking pig.

Where did They Get the Figures?

In this morning's issue of the Ottawa organ, says the Free Press appears a tabulated statement purporting to show the course of trade between the Dominion and the West Indies and South America during the past fifteen years. Any person who will take the trouble to look at the trade and navigation returns, published by the customs department, page vi, second table, will find that the Citizen's statistics are bogus. Where did it get them? It gives the following as "a statement of the trade between Canada and the West Indies and South America during the five years 1875-79 :—

	West Indies.	S. America.
1875	$2,191,404	$278,738
1876	1 616,113	257.53
1877	1,242,[illegible]	4,971
1878	1,033,849	15,447
1879	1,252,[illegible]	4,795
Total for 5 years	$7,339,651	$301,154

Now let us look at the correct figures, as they appear in the trade and navigation returns, under the heading "Aggregate trade of the Dominion by countries."

Here they are :—

	West Indies.	S. America.
1875	$6,139,910	$1,489,257
1876	6,321,622	976,761
1877	5,931 C7	[illegible]
1878	4,397,888	920,304
1879	4,758,890	745,[illegible]
Total for 5 years	$28,514,105	$4,859,575

Compare the foregoing statistics copied from Mr. Bowell's customs return, with the Citizen's table and then say that "figures cannot lie." And the government organ publishes its bogus figures, obtained from Heaven only knows where, as information for its readers! Surely the upholders of trade restriction must be getting into desperate straits when they resort to such tactics. What the Citizen represents as the statistics of Canada's trade with the West Indies and South America for each year since 1880, are also bogus. Has the ministerial organ been imposed upon by some practical joker, or by somebody anxious to make it a laughing stock? Its figures cut an aggregate trade of $33,456,583 with the West Indies in the ten years 1880-89 inclusive, and gives $11,079,925 as the aggregate trade with South America. The official returns show that our aggregate trade with the West Indies in the years mentioned amounted to $60,681,456, and that with South America to over $21,000,000. So much for the government's morning organ as a statistical authority. From whence does it get its information?

As to the growth of trade between Canada and the West Indies, the official figures show that the Dominion's trade with those islands reached $6,139,910 in 1875, $6,489,257 in 1880, and $6,138,587 in 1889, so that it has been practically at a stand-still during fifteen years. And the figures of the aggregate trade have only been kept up by reason of increasing imports. The exports of Canadian products to the West Indies have been steadily declining during recent years. In 1875 these exports amounted in value to $3,945,506; in 1880 they reached $3,545,103, but last year were only $2,759,445. So much for the growth of our export trade under a high taxation system. Has Sir John Macdonald instructed his organs to resort to the publication of bogus statistics as a means of bolstering up his policy and deluding the public? If so, the organists have gone about obeying instructions so clumsily that nobody is likely to be deceived.

HEALTH AND DISEASE.

What Civilization is Doing for the Human Female.

Under the above title, Dr. A Lapthorn Smith (Canada Medical Record) endeavors to point out in what manner the altered circumstances of civilization are effecting the nature and health of the human female.

In the savage woman the muscular system is developed quite equal, and in many cases superior, to that of the male.

Under the influence of civilization she changes her habits from out-doors to in-doors; she is deprived of fresh air; she acquires the art of changing her shape, and instead of an apparel which gives full scope for the development of the chest muscles, at puberty, she is incased in a dress which prevents the lower ribs and diaphragm from acting. There is diminished lung capacity, and breathing power and abdominal respiration is rendered impossible. Instead of her clothing swinging from her shoulders, heavy skirts and abundant ornamental trimmings are supported by the hips.

The corset diminishes the effectiveness of the lungs, lessens the nutritiousness of the blood, by decreasing the amount of oxygen supply. It compresses the chest and interferes with the diastole of the heart, interfering with the circulation, and helps to cause enlargement of the liver, one very potent factor in the production of diseases of the female pelvic organs.

If interferes with the peristaltic action of the bowels, causing constipation, mal-nutrition, and Clarke's "fecal anæmia." It presses the liver backward, interfering with the return blood, and causing varicocele of the veins of the blood ligaments, so much so that the author claims that the removal of the corset would oftentimes save the removal of the ovaries.

The tendency of all civilization is, in the female, to the atrophy of the whole muscular system and the replacing of it by fat and nerves—principally by nerves.

This supremacy of the nervous system of the highly civilized gives a peculiar complexion to all diseases, their symptoms being out of all proportion to the actual disease. Slight functional disorders of the organs of generation are magnified into actual diseases. Nervous sedatives have become the fashion—almost a necessity—and domestic happiness is not as common as it once was.

The whole nervous system being less capable of exertion, and the nervous system more highly developed, it is not surprising that such a complex process as labor should be injuriously affected, and such has been the observation of most observers.

A majority of the diseases of women which we are called upon to treat at the present day did not exist among women four centuries ago.

The most of them are but the logical and to-be-expected outcome of the altered circumstances by which civilization is surrounding them.

The first step to be taken in their treatment is to undo, so far as we can in one generation, the wrong that civilization has done them, and use our influence to correct the mistakes and consequent sufferings of the present times.—Weekly Medical Review.

The People's Mistake.

People make a sad mistake often with serious results when they neglect a constipated condition of the bowels. Knowing that Burdock Blood Bitters is an effectual cure at any stage of constipation, does not warrant us in neglecting to use it at the right time. Use it now. 2w42d

Purify The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink, nothing is more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

A CANADIAN MURDERER.

He is Supposed to Have Killed His Paramour and Himself.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Saturday evening the body of Annie V. Dallas was found in the lake at the foot of Peck Court. Sunday morning two fishermen found the body of Lawrence McBeth floating near the same place. Both bodies had been a week in the water. The woman was of questionable character. The man's real name is said to be Beath and his home was in Sarnia, Canada. He had been an actor. A week ago the couple had a spat and left the house where they lived together about midnight. Nothing more was heard or seen of them until their bodies were found in the lake.

ANOTHER NORFOLK MYSTERY.

The Young Wife of a Port Dover Man Poisoned by Strychnine

PORT DOVER, Oct. 12.—This quiet town has been thrown into a state of intense excitement over the mysterious death from poisoning of Mrs. Nettie Trusdale, the 21-year-old wife of John Trusdale, nightwatchman at the knitting mills here. Deceased was only ill five hours and Drs. Walker and Nairn, who were in attendance, pronounced her death to be due to strychnine.

Dr. Walker, county coroner, assisted by Drs. Hayes and Nairn, made a post mortem examination, and finding evident traces of the poison, forwarded to Analyst Ellis at Toronto some of the viscera of the deceased for analysis.

A jury was empaneled in the Town Hall and some evidence was taken. Mr. J. H. Analey of Simcoe, county crown attorney, was in attendance.

The coroner adjourned the inquest until the 18th inst., when it is expected that the analyst will have completed his examination, which will be submitted to the jury and further evidence will be given.

STILL DOWN ON HIS LUCK.

Mr. A. Hutson Has a Narrow Escape From Death.

LEAMINGTON, Oct. 12.—At 2 a.m. yesterday fire was discovered in the cellar of the premises occupied by C. V. Hutson as a restaurant. It is supposed to have originated from a lighted cigar thrown down the grating into a lot of rubbish. The stock in the cellar was badly damaged by fire and water and the stock in the store was considerably damaged by smoke. The insurance is claimed to have lapsed on Wednesday last. The family had a very narrow escape from suffocation. Mr. Hutson is slowly recovering, although confined to his bed. Mr. Hutson thusband of the owner came here from St. Thomas about 14 months ago. He has been singularly unfortunate. Fifteen or 16 years ago he conducted a large paint shop in that city, but his place was destroyed together with the Elephant restaurant and an inquest failed to establish the guilt of the man who had thus attempted to ruin Mr. Hutson. He then devoted himself to politics and notwithstanding that he gave his time and money to the cause his energies were never appreciated further than to provide him with a situation as landing waiter for a short time, although it was understood he would be willing to accept anything that offered, municipal or governmental. Finally he became disgusted and left that selfish city, but his misfortunes seem to have followed him here.

A TEACHER FINED.

A Warning to School Teachers Who Pull Pupils' Ears.

MONTREAL, Oct. 10.—Judge Davidson rendered a very interesting and important judgment this morning in the case of Moise Lefebvre v. Les Petits Freres de Marie. This was an action by which plaintiff claimed $200 damages for alleged injuries inflicted upon his son Alfred by Brother Ethelbertus, one of the teachers in the school of the order. The facts are in substance as follows: On the 16th Dec. last, plaintiff's 8-year-old boy being at school and interfering with another boy was ordered by the Brother to step forward and kneel on the platform. He refused to obey, whereupon the teacher went to him and taking him by the ear led him to the platform. When the boy went home after school his ear was wounded and bleeding. Medical assistance being called it was found that a fracture or rupture of the cartilage had occurred. Judge Davidson said: "The right of a teacher to administer reasonable and moderate correction we exceeded in the present case. It is not a defence to answer that the boy was disobedie. Discipline must be so enforced as to avoid bodily injuries. The ear is too delicate an organ to be seized upon and used to bring an offending pupil to the place of punishment. There are parts of the body to which, as experience has taught us all, the master may apply himself with absolute safety." The formal judgment was then given for $50 damages and costs.

COVETS PIERCE'S PELLETS.

But it is the Golden and Not the Purgative Ones He Wants.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 10.—Dr. Roy V. Pierce, ex-state senator, ex-congressman, millionaire and proprietor of famous patent medicines, has been sued by William S. Wyse of New York for alienating the affections of Mrs. Wyse. Wyse was connected with Harper's Weekly when Pierce met him 15 years ago. Wyse was a chum of Grover Cleveland, and when he came here to attend the races with the latter he used to drop in on Pierce. They became firm friends and Wyse confided to the doctor that he was having trouble with his wife. She went abroad and then made him give her a deed to all her property before she would return. When she got every cent he had, said Dr. Pierce today, she came back. I met them in San Francisco in 1888. They had quarreled there and Wyse told me that she threw him and his baggage out of his room at the hotel. I went back to Buffalo and Wyse afterwards went to New York and began suit against his wife to get back his money. He charged her with immorality. Wyse and I were good friends until May, when he treated me with the blackmailing scheme. I have received intimation that a compromise would be acceptable. I shall fight it out. I am innocent, and I believe my character is above possibility of harm from this story.

Too Visionary.

"Your father refuses his consent to our union!"

"He does, Harold."

"Nothing seems to be left for us, then, except elopement! Do you think, Myrtle," said the young man, swallowing a sob, "that you could leave this luxurious home, forfeit all the enjoyments of wealth, banish yourself forever from your parents' hearts, and go to the West with a poor young man to enter a home of life-long poverty?"

"I think I could, Harold."

"Then you are not the practical girl I have always taken you to be," said Harold, with deep dejection, as he rose up wearily and reached for his hat.

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,230	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,235	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons is will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

A Big Cheese Transaction.

Mr. Clurton, though long in the field, seems to have more energy, enterprise and push than many of his younger competitors. He has handled the bulk of the cheese made in this district this summer, and concluded the season buying, at the highest price paid in the Province at this season of the year, $48 660 worth of cheese, some of it, moreover, being October.

Mr. Buller was a member of Court Little John of Foresters, under whose auspices the funeral will be held.

The "Scottish Canadian."

The EXAMINER has received the first number of the Scotch Canadian, a new and neatly printed journal to be published weekly in Toronto. The Scotch Canadian is filled with news "frae hame," which should be dear to the heart of every Scotchman. The new journal's aim will be to touch upon Canadian and Imperial politics, but its "strength will principally go into Scottish life and customs, literature, art, science, tradition, religion, social reform and folk-lore." Imrie & Graham are publishers.

The Sheldrake School.

A private day school will be opened on Monday, Oct. 13th, under the management of Mr. F. Lingwood, Mr. Sheldrake's assistant master. The course of study will comprise the usual English subjects, Latin, French and mathematics. Mr. Lingwood has had upwards of six years' experience as a teacher in English private schools, and is, in every way, well qualified for the position. It is Mr. Sheldrake's intention to move his boarding school to Peterborough as soon as he can secure a suitable house, and make the necessary arrangements. 6d36

Scissors and Shears Works.

The Brooks Manufacturing Company are making arrangements for the addition of a new department to their business. The Carbon Works are now considered to be an assured success. Being the only industry of the kind in Canada, a large portion at least of the Canadian trade must flow into it. The Peterborough works are supplying all demands satisfactorily. For instance, they supply Toronto with 50,000 carbons a month, and after the first of December the city will require 80 000 a month. But the Brooks company are not content to lay on their oars, but are determined to push ahead and enlarge their business. By the first of January a new branch of industry will be in operation. This is the manufacture of all kinds of scissors and shears. Another building is to be annexed to the west end of the present premises, which will be used for grinding, polishing and drop forging. The other portions of the work will be carried on in the main building. The Brooks company propose to employ about 30 men, mostly skilled artizans from the States. It is gratifying to the citizens to observe these evidences of enterprise and success on the part of the Brooks company. It is understood also that other new departments are contemplated, which, if carried out, as there is no reason to doubt they will be, will in time make the Brooks company the leading manufacturers in the town.

Around the Police Court.

The cells at the police station were all occupied last night. In one apartment was an old man named Martin Welsh, who had been gathered in while very drunk; in the next was Ebner Kilpatrick, of Hope, who was so badly intoxicated that he could scarcely tell his own name this morning, and his remembrance of the way in which he came to Peterborough was a complete blank; in the third was Peter Whelan, a young man charged with the larceny of a cross cut saw; and in the fourth was the saw itself. At the court this morning the drunks were discharged, and warned not to fall into the clutches of the law again in a similar condition. In the larceny case it was alleged that the saw was stolen from Jas. Arsenault Friday night. Both parties live near Auburn, and it appeared from the evidence that Whelan had been in the habit of borrowing the saw from Arsenault. Friday night the latter's shed was broken open and the saw abstracted. Arsenault complained to the police, and the saw was found at Whelan's house by the chief. The prisoner did not deny taking the saw, but said he had simply borrowed it. In view of the intimate relations between the two parties, the magistrate said he did not think there had been any felonious intent shown in Whelan's conduct, though he, no doubt, exceeded his privilege in breaking into Arsenault's shed and taking the saw without asking for it. The prisoner was discharged.

Magnificent Music.

Lovers of the highest and most perfect form of chamber music, who have heard the Mendelssohn Quintette Club, agree that that organization was as near the top of the tree as it was possible to expect human organization to reach. But those who have heard both, say that the Boston Symphony Orchestral Club is fully the equal of the Mendelssohn Club, and some think superior—but that is needless. Any common man that wants anything better than that should shift himself instanter to a higher sphere, where music is perfect. The Boston Symphony Club is a great organization, practically perfect in the presentation of its wonderful programme. Every individual performer is a solo artist and virtuoso on his instrument. Alfred De Seve, the Canadian violinist, is the leading violin of the orchestra. He ranks as the best solo violinist on this continent, and has been justly compared to Ole Bull in the latter's palmiest days. The other violinist, Richard Poltman, is also a finished solo artist. Stoelzer, viola and viola d'amour, was engaged as solo viola player for the London Crystal Palace concerts. Oehlhey, 'cellist, is ranked as one of the leading artists on this instrument either in Europe or this country. Fredrick Rucquoy, flute and piccolo, is a flautist of the highest merit, having blown first flute for the wonderful Pasdeloup, Paris, concerts. Dreibrodt, contra bass, was a member of the Rubenstein Orchestra, St. Petersburgh, and Fraulein Mantell, the prima donna, is from the Berlin Conservatory, and is pronounced by press and public, the best contralto heard in America for 15 years. Such a constellation of stars all blazing together, must make a brilliant entertainment. While every one is an artist, their concerted work is a marvel, for all play together as one man on a single instrument. The highest class of music receives a perfect interpretation at their hands, and the simplest melody is played in a manner to touch the heart and give the hearer a new idea of its beauty. This wonderful organization will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on Wednesday, Nov. 7th, and no lover of classical music or of simple music made classic by perfect performance, can afford to miss this unusually brilliant musical treat. The prices are placed at popular figures, the artists getting recouped from the crowded houses that everywhere greet them. Tickets 75 and 50c., gallery 25c. Reserved seat plan at Greatrex' drug store open in a few days.

Provincial Ploughing Match.

A Great Agricultural Event Week after Next—Handsome Prizes Offered.

The posters will be out in a day or two giving details concerning the Provincial Ploughing Match, which is to be held on the estate of the late Jas. Howden, adjoining the exhibition grounds, on Wednesday, Oct. 29th. The match is to be held under the auspices of the Agriculture and Arts Association of Ontario and the County of Peterborough for agricultural divisions 4, 5 and 6. These counties are open to the contest:—Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Durham, Peterborough, Victoria, Haliburton, York, Ontario, Peel, Cardwell and the city of Toronto.

There are four events. Class I is open to all comers and all ploughs; first prize, gold medal, valued at $40; second, third and fourth prizes, goods and cash valued at $21, $15 and $10 respectively.

Class II is open to walking ploughs without wheels, and ploughmen who have not taken a prize since 1885: 1st goods and cash amounting to $30, 2nd $22, 3rd $16, 4th $11.

Class III is for boys under 18 years of age; 1st goods and cash amounting to $30. 2nd $21, 3rd $16, 4th $11.

Class IV is for stubble ploughing and open to boys under 17 years of age; 1st prize goods and cash $28, 2nd $18, 3rd $12, 4th $8.

It will be observed that these are extremely handsome prizes and well worth competing for. There should be a large number of entries.

The committee in charge is composed of Messrs. R. Vance, Ida; H. Humphries, Hastings; J. C. Snell, Edmonton; R. R. Palmer, Bellville; with Mr. Wm. Rutherford, chairman, and Mr. Wm. Collins, secretary. Entries should be made at once with the secretary.

Thanksgiving Day.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR.—The Governor-General having proclaimed Thursday, 6th November as Thanksgiving Day, I would suggest that the several ministers of the town arrange, if possible, a Union Service in one of the churches and so, it may be hoped, that instead of having mere "handful" congregations, as has been for many years very noticeable, there may be one large hearty congregation, who shall meet and "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

I think it is worth considering, and I for one shall be glad to know that such a service may be arranged, as on that day, at any rate, all right-thinking people can well lay aside their denominational differences.

Yours truly,
THANKFUL.

Peterborough, Oct. 14th, 1890.

Personal.

Mr. Richard Freeburn, formerly of Smith, and now of Moorfield, county Wellington, has been on a visit to Peterborough and vicinity during the past week. The western atmosphere apparently agrees with him, as he is looking well. The crops through his neighborhood have been very satisfactory. As he intends remaining in the west he wishes to dispose of his farm near Stirling.

Highest Price in Canada.

Peterborough's Prime Cheese Sells at 10 1-2c. for September—Mr. Clurton Gets the Bulk of the Board.

There were nearly nine thousand boxes of cheese boarded at the meeting of the Cheese Board to-day, and the September cheese sold at a higher price than has been or will be secured anywhere in Canada. Mr. Clurton was the buyer at this high figure. He was bound to have the cheese and would not be overbid. His purchase amounted to nearly $50,000. No very high prices were anticipated, as Liverpool quotations were only 48s., but the sale resulted satisfactorily. All of the September cheese was boarded, and the October make offered for contract. Following is the Board:—

The cheese was offered in two lots—September first, and then October, the understanding being that buyers making selections of September should take 500 of each half. Bidding was very slow and the buyers were very wary, as well they might be. Every eighth of a cent offered for the board meant about $700. Mr. Cook started the ball rolling with an offer of 9½c for the board, Mr. Clurton raising to 9¾, and Mr. Cook to 9¾c. Mr. Clurton raised to 10c for the board, and Mr. Cook offered an eighth better for selections. Mr. Clurton was not to be beaten, so he bid 10⅛c for September selections and 10⅛c for October selections. He named Keene, Warminster and Shearer. After some deliberation this offer was declined, and a change was made in the manner of procedure, the September makes being withdrawn and the first half only offered. On this Mr. Cook bid 10c for selections, Mr. Clurton jumping to 10¼c and knocking his opponent out in the first round. He began taking selections at this figure, and ended by taking the whole board, a boldness of enterprise which was loudly applauded. He then offered 10¼c. for selections of the last half of Sept, Mr Cook raising to 10⅜c and Mr. Clurton again raising to 10½c. He took Keene, Warminster, Shearer, Central Smith, Cherry Grove, Warnaw and Missing Link. Mr. Clurton then bid 10½c. for the balance of the board, but this not being accepted, he raised his offer to 10⅝c., which was, of course, accepted. Mr. Clurton had thus bought up the whole September offer, 3,983 boxes, at 10½c. The September section of the Victoria board was then put up, Mr. Clurton offering 10c., Mr. Cook a sixteenth more, and Mr. Clurton advancing to 10⅛c., but this figure was not accepted. The October offering was then taken up, Mr. Clurton offering 9¾c. and Mr. Cook a sixteenth better. This was ruled out of order, and Mr. Cook made his offer 9¾c., but Mr. Clurton again followed up with a bid of 10c., which was not improved on. He took Keene, Warminster, Shearer, Central Smith, North Smith, Cherry Grove and Warnaw. His offer at 9½c for the balance was not accepted, and he then bid 10c for farther selections, Mr. Cook offering 10⅛ for the same. He took Missing Link. Mr. Clurton's bid of 10c for farther selections, taking Norwood and Melrose Abbey, Maple Leaf and Otonabee Union. This left only Peterborough, Pine Grove and South Dummer (October makes) nsold.

The Lindsay section was again put up, Mr. Clurton offering 10⅛c for September. This was declined and the Lindsay men were given leave to sell off the board, as well as those factories on the Peterborough board remaining unsold.

The board then adjourned sine die.

A Habeas Corpus.

A physician was sorely perplexed some weeks ago, when he was asked by a well known lawyer for a "Habeas Corpus" for the delivery of the body of one of his friends from the toils of disease and suffering.

The physician after considerable hesitation understood what was wanted, and said he would be pleased to call and see the lawyer's sick friend.

The doctor arrived at the patient's house while the lawyer was there, and made a careful diagnosis of the malady.

The doctor when asked both by the patient and his lawyer friend, his opinion, smiled, and quickly replied:—"I will issue the 'Habeas Corpus' at once, so that our patient may be relieved from imprisonment.

"But doctor," said the lawyer, "your mode of obtaining a 'Habeas Corpus' is a long and tedious one, and often attended with too much red tapeism."

"My mode of procedure," replied the doctor, "is quite as expeditious as any you could adopt in your regular course of legal work for the release of a prisoner. Your friend here, is a prisoner bound with the chain of nervousness. This chain has many links, which when strongly forged are difficult to break. Some of these links are Insomnia or sleeplessness, unrest, irritability, lassitude, dizziness and headache. All these dangerous links I propose to break up with that simple, yet extremely effective remedy—Paine's Celery Compound. When these links are broken, our friend is free, and then can go on and build up such a constitution that disease cannot readily attack again, if moderate care be observed. I have used this great scientific preparation in my practice for some time for all forms of nervous complaints, and have prescribed it with great success for Dyspepsia and Indigestion, and have always left my patients happy and healthy."

"I am aware of the fact," said the doctor, "that some physicians for the sake of upholding false College theories and medical etiquette, are really afraid to even speak of Paine's Celery Compound; but they know in their hearts, that it is the remedy for the masses. I say, sir, away with false custom and etiquette! Life is too precious, and doctors should be honest and fearless."

The lawyer's friend was in a very short time able to resume his duties in the Division Court again, and now firmly believes, the most effective "Habeas Corpus" the sick man can have granted him, is Paine's Celery Compound.

To Raise Turnips Cheaply.

As soon as the wheat is off plow the land, harrow thoroughly. Sow broadcast one pound of seed to the acre, and go over it with a heavy roller. It is important to sow immediately after harrowing the land, and if the roller is light and can not be weighted down, go over twice. When the turnips are large enough to be take from the drill, set the shovels one foot apart and go through them; or better set cultivator shovels into a long stick like a corn marker, one foot apart. At the end of eight or ten days go through the turnips again crossways and they are as good as hoed. It is easy to raise from one hundred to three hundred bushels to the acre if the land is in good order. If not, put ten to fifteen bushels of hen manure on before harrowing.

Points in Pansy Culture.

Seed to produce plants for early spring blooming should be sown from the middle of August to the middle of September, and the plants wintered in a cold frame. Boards may be used instead of glass to cover with. Plants started in the greenhouse early in January are not quite so early, and if the frame plants are transplanted once as early as spring will permit they are as good in every respect. The plants which have flowered in the spring will do well again in the fall if the long branches are cut back late in June. The plants which have flowered through the summer and fall will usually winter over well if protected with a light covering of straw or leaves, but thorough surface drainage must be provided to prevent water from accumulating around the plants and forming ice about them.

THE WEST INDIA TRADE.

A Large Amount of Goods Awaiting Shipment—The Upper Provinces Well Represented.

HALIFAX, Oct. 14.—Those who survey West India trade through a telescope reversed might do a worse thing just now than pay a visit to the S. S. Lomada's warehouse on the Government pier. The Sun took a stroll through the building yesterday and saw piled high on both sides for a long stretch at the lower end of the long building an immense quantity of goods awaiting shipment per Lomada for the islands. There were fish and potatoes, cheese, butter, beans, drygoods, medicines, glass, varnish, paper, woodenwares, organs and pianos, boots and shoes, oats, wire mattresses, tinware, clothing, show cases and a large lot of goods, including part of the Manitoba exhibit for the great Trinidad show. Besides all that is in the warehouse Mr. Baird says there are some 20 carloads of goods to go forward this trip.

Among the shippers are the following:

William Hamilton, Son & Co., Toronto, boots, shoes and drygoods; Kilgour Bros., Toronto, paper and wooden ware; Lawrence Davies & Co., Montreal, medicine; William Bell & Co., Guelph, organs and pianos; Northrup & Lyman, Toronto, medicines; D. Maurice, Son & Co., Montreal, drygoods; George Gale & Son, Waterville, Que., wire mattresses; R. C. Tait, Shadinc, carriages, horses, oats and potatoes; W. A. Marsh & Co., Quebec, boots and shoes; W. T. Baer & Co., Toronto, medicines; John Macdonald & Co., Toronto, drygoods; E. A. Small & Co., Montreal, goods for the Trinidad exhibition; J. & T. Bell, Montreal, boots and shoes; D. A. McCaskill, Montreal, varnishes; G.F.B. & Co., Montreal, tinware; H. Shorey & Co., Montreal, clothing; W. Millichamp & Son, Toronto, show cases; Manitoba exhibit for Trinidad; C. T. Batson, Campobello, fish; D.C. & Co., Brantford, Ont., wagons; Davis, Lawrence & Co., Torongo, glass; and the following from St. John: Leonard Bros., fish; James Patterson, fish; John Sealy, fish; Andrew Malcolm, fish; D. Dumas, butter; J. & J. D. Howe, furniture; A. J. Lordly & Son, furniture; S. R. Foster & Son, nails; William Parks & Son, cotton; Turnbull & Co., fish; C. M. Bostwick & Co., fish, cheese and beans.

This does not complete the list. Some of these shippers are sending forward very large lots of goods. Then there will be hay and oats, and space has been asked for 30 horses. Application has also been made for space for a large number of sheep. The fact is that between St. John and Yarmouth there is more cargo on hand than the vessel can carry this trip.

It will be seen that there are shipments from Quebec city, Waterville, Que., Montreal, Toronto, Guelph and Brantford in the upper provinces, Montreal and Toronto being largely represented. The shipments cover a wide range of articles and very many of them are shipped on orders received. If there is any further proof needed that the trade with the islands is capable of a very large development, those asking for it must be rather hard to satisfy.

HE LOVED POLLY DEARLY.

Sensational Suicide of a Stranger in Toronto.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—An unknown man committed suicide on a Queen-street car at 1 o'clock this morning.

The man boarded the last car going west at Yonge and Queen-streets last night and when near Dovercourt was taken suddenly ill. He was removed to Ball's drug store, but almost immediately expired.

There was nothing on the body to identify it but in one of his pockets was found this note:

MY DEAR POLLY.—You are the only girl I love outside my own people. Excuse me for the rash act and God forgive me. Signed, A. W.

The dead man has the appearance of being a mechanic and appears to be about 30 years of age. He had a red mustache. He was respectably dressed and wore tweed coat and pants. He was about 5 feet 7 inches in height.

The body was conveyed in the ambulance to the morgue, where it now awaits identification.

He is believed to have ended his life with poison.

All the Sealers at Home.

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 13.—Almost identically with the arrival of the United States revenue cutter Rush at Townsend the last of the Victoria sealing fleet, the Ariel and the Lilly, put in their appearance in the harbor yesterday. Both vessels reported a fair catch but fearful weather. They passed the schooner Triumph on her way to Behring Sea on her experimental trip. The return of the last of the fleet ends all idea of any seizures this season.

Salvator, the King, Will Go West.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Salvator, king of the turf, is about to be retired to the stud and it is not likely that the thousands of Eastern racegoers will ever again see him on the track. Mr. J. B. Haggin, his owner, yesterday directed Mr. John Mackay, who is the manager of his breeding farm at Sacramento, Cal., to start with the horse for that place on Wednesday next. In obedience to this order Mr. Mackay will leave Monmouth Park with Salvator on the day mentioned in the car owned by Mr. Haggin for the transportation of his horses, and will accompany him to the end of the journey.

Salvator has the credit of being the king of thoroughbreds both last year and this, and maybap in the future some of his progeny will reach the same high position on the turf that he has so honorably held.

In his three years on the turf Salvator has won for his owner $114,985, divided as follows: Two years old, $14,865; three years old, $69,620; four years old, $30,200.

Is Russia's Petroleum Giving Out?

The present position and prospects of the petroleum industry of Russia are discussed at some length by the British Consul at Batoum in his last report. At that port all branches of trade not connected with petroleum occupy so subordinate a position that their contraction or expansion is of comparatively little importance. Although the aggregate quantity and value of the petroleum trade for last year considerably surpass those of any of the preceding years, and show an increase of 2½ per cent. in quantity and 37 per cent. in value as compared with 1889, the business was less satisfactory on the score of profit.

On the more important subject of the future of this great trade (amounting last year to over £3,000,000 in value from Batoum alone) the Consul remarks that, so far as the yearly quantities of crude oil yielded during the last decade may serve as a criterion, the Baku petroleum fields can certainly not be said to show signs of exhaustion. What is probably meant by those who assert the contrary is that, upon the whole, within the comparatively limited area of the territory thoroughly explored and actually yielding oil, in order to reach the oil-bearing strata wells have now been sunk to a considerably greater depth than in former years. This is a fact that none of the local well owners deny. The technical difficulties at present, at least, are evidently not insurmountable, and as to the commercial side of the matter, it must be admitted that the prodution of crude oil, owing to the rise in the price of that article, proved a more lucrative business in 1889 than in the preceding years. Occasional deficiencies of supplies at Batoum or the rise of price for petroleum products cannot be properly accounted for by signs of exhaustion of the petroleum wells, but may be more correctly ascribed to greater demand.

Angry Business-Man—"Been trying to find this place for two hours! That's a likely story! The number's on the door. Where's your intellect?"

Messenger Boy—"My what?"

"Your intellect."

"They don't give me none. All I got is this yer tariff-book."

The Coming Thing.

Stranger—"I would like to get a room here."

Hotel Clerk—"All right, sir. Boy! Show the gentleman to——"

"One moment! If I should wish to deposit a few valuables in your safe they would be perfectly secure, I presume?"

"They would, sir."

"Your safe is one of modern construction, is it not?"

"Yes, sir. There is no better safe in the country."

"The combination, I dare say, is one that takes your memory?"

"Why, of course, the combination—what makes you look at me so sharply! Ah, I see!" (Produces revolver.) "My friend, I'll give you just three seconds to get out of here. We don't use this sort of mind-reading."

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit This Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmanship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be big business awaiting him this visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterborough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October. dw

A QUEBEC MURDERER'S INDIFFERENCE TO DEATH.

He Chewed Tobacco While Sentenced to Be Executed and Told His Lawyer He Would Rather Hang Than Go to the Penitentiary.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Oct. 14.—The Sherbrooke court was occupied from Monday morning until this afternoon in the trial of the murder case of Blanchard, who killed with a revolver in November last one Calkins, at Stanstead Junction, in a drunken brawl. There was no premeditation in the case. Both men had been drinking. Blanchard escaped across the border, but was brought back by detectives. He was an American "tramp," and, as he himself says, without relatives. Very little interest has been taken in the case, more particularly as the culprit himself has seemed so indifferent to his position, having stated to his lawyer that rather than plead guilty and run the risk of being sent to the penitentiary for life he would rather hang. This indifference was painfully manifest to the court by the almost constant chewing of tobacco, in which he indulged, even after the jury brought in the verdict of guilty of murder. He has been sentenced to hang on the 12th day of December next.

A QUEBEC MURDER TRIAL.

A Nephew's Alleged Crime. Were Gypsies the Guilty Parties?

THREE RIVERS, Oct. 14.—The trial of young Houle dit Gervais, imprisoned in connection with the Point du Lac tragedy, is going on here before Magistrate Barthe. As yet only the husband of the murdered woman has been questioned and his testimony took up 2½ days of the court's time. All his testimony goes to show that the nephew is innocent, that he was on the best of terms with the deceased, and that he left the house some 20 or 30 minutes before the murder was committed. It appears that young Houle was adopted by the family when he was very young. The witness leans to the theory that the act was committed by gypsies with whom his wife had some difficulty last spring. The prisoner is quiet and hopeful.

KILLED BY A BOY.

Still Another Murder in Quebec. The Victim a Mere Boy.

LA PRAIRIE, Que., Oct. 14.—News comes from St. Philippe, a village distant about three miles, of a quarrel there last night between a young man named Lefebvre and a hired man, in which Lefebvre shot his companion, one Langlois, who died this morning at 5 o'clock. Lefebvre and the hired man are aged 15 and 18 years respectively. The coroner has gone from here to hold an inquest. It is said the gun was loaded with salt. Another account says the shooting occurred at a dance.

The Port Dover Poisoning Case.

PORT DOVER, Oct. 14.—The inquest on the remains of Nettie Trueslale, wife of John Trueslale, was resumed yesterday, but the report of the Toronto analyst not being forthcoming, was further adjourned until Thursday. The dead woman was only 25 years of age, while the husband is 55. The couple are said to have lived most inharmoniously. At the hearing before Coroner Walker to-day Drs. Hayes and Nairn, who made the post-mortem examination, testified that they had found abundant signs of strychnine having been taken or administered. It was also proved that on Aug. 4 last Trueslale had purchased six grains of strychnine at McBride's drug store. This he admits, but says he used it all to kill rats. The Trueslales, father and son, were committed to jail. The stepson, who is about 16 years, had on more than one occasion made threats against his stepmother.

Export Duty on Logs Removed.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—An extra of The Canada Gazette was issued to-day containing a proclamation removing the export duties upon spruce and pine logs, and also the export duties upon shingle bolts of pine or cedar and cedar logs capable of being made into shingle bolts.

By the lumber schedule of the McKinley bill the duty on sawn white pine going into the United States has been reduced to $1 per 1000. This, however, does not apply to countries which place an export duty on saw logs.

FALLEN FROM GRACE.

A Montreal Pastor Found Guilty of Adultery and Expelled.

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—Religious and social circles were shocked to-day when it became known that one of the most popular and polished clergymen in Montreal had been leading a double life and that at last his disgrace had come. Rev. A. B. Cruchet last summer appeared in a French-Canadian village and introduced himself as Mr. Beaujamin. He was accompanied by a girl of 20 years. He left the woman behind and the other day a child was born. Mr. Cruchet has confessed and will accept his punishment quietly; expulsion from the Presbyterian Church.

Lost With All on Board.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—A telegram from Boston confirms the report of the loss at sea of the ship Magellan, which sailed from Boston on May 10 last with a cargo of oil for Valparaiso. The Magellan was commanded by Capt. Marshall and it is believed that everyone on board perished.

THE AUSTRALIAN STRIKE.

ALMOST AS DISASTROUS AS A BOMBARDMENT WOULD BE.

Osman Digna Preparing for Another Attack Upon Suakim—A French Chateau Sacked and Burned by Robbers—Rioting Over the Opium Tax.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Oct. 14.—In a speech in the Chamber to-day Sir Henry Parkes, the premier, declared that the present strike in Australia had been almost as disastrous to the country as a bombardment would be. The country, he said, would suffer less at the hands of an enemy than it had suffered through the strike. He denounced the stoppage of supplies of railroad fuel, and described the action of the strikers as almost tantamount to a revolution. The government, he said, was determined to be supreme.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—At a meeting of the Trades Council to-day it was resolved to call a delegates' meeting on Oct. 23, representing 1,500,000 men, to consider the raising of £20,000 for the Australian strikers.

Osman Digna to Attack Suakim.

CAIRO, Oct. 14.—Osman Digna is preparing to attack Suakim. Arrangements are being made here to send reinforcements to the Suakim garrison.

Thrown Out of a Window.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—George Gibbs was charged in Marylebone police court on Saturday with throwing Gertrude Cooper, an actress, out of her window in the middle of the night. Miss Cooper and her mother lodged in the prisoner's house, and having frequent cause to complain of missing letters, some containing money, expressed the belief that Gibbs had appropriated them. The same night Gibbs entered her room after she was asleep, dragged her from bed, and after a severe struggle carried her to the window and threw her from it, head foremost, to the ground, 50 feet below. In falling she grasped the rails of a balcony and clung to them shrieking "murder," until the police rescued her. The prisoner was committed.

Steamed Up the Zambesi.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Times' Lisbon correspondent says telegrams from Mozambique confirm the report that a British force of 800 has penetrated to Manica and two gunboats have entered the Zambesi. This news has removed all restrictions on the part of the Ministers to Senor Sousa, who had visited the King on Saturday night to decline the task of forming a new Cabinet. Thus the crisis is ended and the papers abuse England with greater violence.

When the British squadron pushed up the Zambesi to break the Portuguese blockade of the river they found a line of wooden boats stretched from bank to bank and chained together. One British man-of-war steamed ahead at full speed and broke through the line, sinking a Portuguese vessel.

Decline the Appointment.

DUBLIN, Oct. 14.—The Irish Times says William O'Brien and Timothy Harrington, who were appointed on the committee to visit America on behalf of the Irish cause, have refused to accept appointments.

From Paris to London in a Baggage Trunk.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Austrian tailor who traveled from Vienna to Paris inside of a baggage trunk has performed the same feat by traveling in a trunk from Paris to London. When he arrived here he was taken from the trunk in an exhausted condition.

The Creditors Recover Something.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The bankruptcy court has issued an order stopping payment on a draft for £1000 drawn against that sum which was deposited with an American banking firm by James P. Field & Co., the London bankers who recently failed. The order was issued at the instance of the firm's creditors.

A Monument to Lessing.

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—Prince Frederick Leopold to-day unveiled a monument in the Thiergarten to Gotthold Lessing, the illustrious author and literary reformer, who died in 1781. Many high officials were present. The clergy refused to take part.

A French Chateau Sacked.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—The Count de La Grange's chateau, near Dom-front, in Orne, has been sacked and burned. The entire building was destroyed. There were many valuable works of art in the chateau, all of which have been lost. The police are seeking the culprits.

A Surtax on Rice.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—The cabinet has resolved to cover the deficit in the budget by means of a surtax on rice and pharmaceutical and hygienic specialties.

Kansas and North Carolina.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The population of North Carolina is 1,617,340, increase 217,590 per cent., 15·56 of Kansas, 1,423,485, increase 427,589, per cent. 42·91.

Still Another Execution in Quebec.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Oct. 14.—The jury in the case of Blanchard, on trial for murder of Calkin in November last, rendered a verdict of guilty. He has been sentenced to be hanged on Dec. 12.

INTERESTING ITEMS BY WIRE.

THE TRAPPINGS OF WOE.

CEREMONIES AT THE FUNERAL OF MRS. GEN. BOOTH.

Fifteen Thousand People Weep and Sing and Pray—Costumed Officers Gather Under the Flags of Many Countries and Celebrate the Event.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—No woman ever had a more curious funeral than Mrs. Gen. Booth, the high priestess of the Salvation Army. The service lasted two hours and was from first to last a singularly strange spectacle, full of carefully-arranged theatrical effects. Still it was wonderfully impressive. Mrs. Booth herself before she died prepared a liturgy which is worth describing in detail.

All day long Salvationists from various parts of Great Britain and the Continent came pouring into London. All the early morning trains were loaded with them, singing, shouting and praying in public, after the manner of their organization. At 3 o'clock this afternoon 20,000 of them were swarming about Olympia, which, next to the immense machinery hall at the Paris exhibition, is believed to contain the largest area under a single roof.

Though the funeral service did not begin till 6 the doors were thrown open at 4, and by 5½ 15,000 people, mostly women, were seated in the immense auditorium. Everything inside was pretty much as during the time of Barnum's circus. The mammoth glass roof was decorated with gaudy streamers, and the galleries were adorned with huge Japanese fans and umbrellas in gorgeous colors.

Catchpenny booths, refreshment bars, inappropriate placards and numerous other things which detracted from the solemnity of the occasion were allowed to remain till within two minutes of 6 o'clock. The place had the appearance of a country fair. Men and women strolled about hawking tea and coffee, buns, sandwiches and whisky, which were greedily purchased by the hungry and thirsty people. Hundreds of boys went about the building trying to sell portraits of the dead woman, copies of her writings, innumerable tracts, copies of The War Cry, till the place was a perfect pandemonium. A brass band of 600 pieces played tune after tune, scarcely pausing for rest, till the din was deafening.

But promptly at the minute of 6 all this changed as if by magic. The doors were shut up, the refreshment bars were closed, the hawkers were suppressed and 15,000 Salvationists fixed their eyes on a weak-looking little man with a baton, who mounted the dais just in front of the colossal brass band. He lifted his baton and instantly every voice was hushed.

At this point the wonderful discipline of the Salvation Army began to be apparent. The man who directed the ceremonies never spoke a word except to five men who were near him. These men hauled up huge painted signs which were worked on pulleys and which told the people hundreds of yards away, quite out of reach of the human voice, when to sing and when to bow in silent prayer, when to rise and when to kneel. Everybody present had a copy of the songs and words of the liturgy, and everything moved like clock-work.

The conductor had simply to lift his baton and the vast audience was either hushed in silence or singing in wonderful unison. Everybody sang and the vast volume of sound seemed as though it would lift the roof off. After several prayers and hymns the funeral procession entered the building. In the front rank of the procession were the officers of the Salvation Army from various parts of Great Britain. These were followed by men and women bearing Salvation Army flags of all nations, the Stars and Stripes, the Union Jack, the German and French Tricolors and the Crescent from the Orient. Almost every nation where the Salvation Army has gained a foothold was represented by men and women in costumes characteristic of their locality. These people were picturesquely grouped on a raised platform around the band.

There was a pause of a few moments and then a plain oak coffin came in sight, borne by 12 men dressed in red jerseys. All the Salvation women in the building sobbed and shrieked. Many of them were carried out in a dead faint to the ante-rooms. Mrs. Booth had insisted that her coffin should be as plain as her Salvation Army bonnet. It could have been bought for $5. Immediately following the coffin was Gen. Booth, who walked with tottering steps, his face buried in his hands. Over his shoulders was draped the Salvation Army flag which hung over Mrs Booth's bed when she died.

After the coffin had been placed in a position where the thousands of eyes could look upon it and Gen. Booth and the members of his family had taken their places on the platform, the services proceeded. Hymns were sung and prayers said in perfect unison, all prearranged by the woman who was lying there in her coffin, and all guided by the men who worked the printed signs on the pulleys.

General Booth and his children clustered around the coffin, and they sang the identical hymn which they sang around Mrs Booth's death-bed. This song was the signal for thousands of sobbing women to rush for the coffin, and to prostrate themselves in the sawdust. There was no sham about it. It was all hysteric devotion to the little woman who was literally the mother of their army.

After the building was cleared the coffin was removed and prepared for the interment to-morrow. This will afford an equally marvelous spectacle.

Toronto Suicides.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—The man who poisoned himself in a Queen-street street car yesterday morning, has been identified as Andrew Wells, a drygoods clerk, aged 35, who came from Scotland 6 years ago. He had been out of employment for some weeks, and claimed that the reason for his discharge was that he had been caught in a compromising situation with the daughter of the proprietor and forced to surrender his trunks and clothes to avoid prosecution. An inquest will be held to-night.

Flora Elliott, a woman of unsavory reputation, made a determined attempt at self-destruction in the cells at headquarters last night. She was under arrest for being drunk and about 10 o'clock when no one was around took her bustle string and looping it round a bar and then round her neck proceeded to strangle herself. The caretaker happened around and cut her down in time to save her life. She was black in the face and did not regain consciousness for half an hour.

James Carroll, a middle-aged man living at 3 Walton street, left his home on Monday night about 9 o'clock without letting his family know where he was going. Yesterday morning his wife received a letter in her husband's handwriting informing her that by the time she received the missive he would be gone forever. The envelope bore the Parkdale post-mark. The affair is being reported to the police.

Found Dead in a Chair.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Hannah Kelly, relict of the late S. Kelly, J.P., was found dead in her chair at Bridgenorth Saturday. Deceased was 80 years of age.

A Light Punishment.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 14.—The Grimsby young men, Couch and March, and their wives were tried before Judge Senkler this morning for the Grimsby Park robberies. They pleaded guilty, but owing to their heretofore exemplary characters received but one month each, wives and all, in the county jail. The quartet have only been married a month.

Suicided with Paris Green.

KINGSTON, Oct. 14.—Mrs. David Stitt, Westbrooke, wife of a well-to-do farmer, poisoned herself last night by taking Paris green. She was demented.

Personal Liberty vs. Physical Slavery.

We are all free American citizens, enjoying our personal liberty; but most of us are in physical slavery, suffering from scrofula, salt rheum or some other form of impure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier which dissolves the bonds of disease, gives health and perfect physical liberty.

A DAUGHTER OF AN EARL.

LADY BLANCHE MURPHY'S ROMANTIC MARRIAGE.

The Death of the Husband for Whom She Gave Up Rank and Fortune Recalls an Interesting Story—Eloped With an Organist.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—"Kind hearts are more than coronets, and simple faith than Norman blood," was the sentiment that inspired Lady Blanche Elizabeth Mary Annunciata Noel, eldest child of the Earl of Gainsborough, one of England's proudest peers, to forsake her eminent social station, a luxurious home in Rutlandshire, loving relatives and warm friends to elope with Thomas P. Murphy, the penniless organist of her father's chapel. She died in a foreign land and the husband for whom she sacrificed everything breathed his last in a Boston hospital last Sunday. Such a genuine romance is rarely found outside the covers of a novel.

The dowager and Murphy's old friends the priests, had him appointed organist at the Church of Brompton Orator, the most influential place of Catholic worship in London. Murphy soon found that he was not strong enough to perform upon the organ. As it was ruining his health he resolved to resign.

At that time the Brompton Fathers received an application for an organist from Lord Gainsborough. Murphy was given the position.

Murphy was born in London, of Irish parents, and was left an orphan at an early age. He was cared for by Catholic clergymen who were interested in his musical talents.

Through the offices of these kind men young Murphy became the protege of a wealthy Catholic dowager in London. She sent him to Leipsic to begin at the root of his art, and later had him schooled in the famous conservatory of music in Brussels.

He was then about 20 years old, short in stature, slender, blue-eyed and with a poll of curling blond hair.

Lady Blanche was the daughter of Lord Gainsborough and the Duchess of Fife, and was the 17th granddaughter of the Earl of Errol. She was a highly-cultivated woman, a fine linguist and skilled musician. When young Murphy came to her father's estate, Huxam Hall, Rutlandshire, she was 24 years old. Many noblemen had paid court to her, but she was fancy free. She led the chapel choir, composed of tenants on her father's estate. Rehearsals gave the musician and his employer's fair daughter ample opportunities for flirtations that ended in lovemaking. They concealed their affection for months, until her father learned the true state of affairs and intimated to Murphy that his resignation would be acceptable. Murphy wanted to explain, but was politely ushered to the family carriage and driven to the nearest railway station, and went to London. Before long the lovers began conducting a clandestine correspondence that finally resulted in the making of a rendezvous in London.

In September, on the Earl of Gainsborough's estate, the annual harvest festival was celebrated with wine and wassail, and he sat at the table for hours with his tenants and neighbors. Lady Blanche had shrewdly fixed on this time of festivity to fly to her sweetheart in London. She left her home attired in a housemaid's frock and cloak, walked three miles across fields to a railway station, and a few hours later joined Murphy in London.

The lovers were found on the eve of their marriage and the earl offered the organist a handsome annuity if he would leave May Ladyship and go to the Continent. This offer Murphy declined, and his wife told her father that if her affianced had consented she would have entered a convent.

They were then married by a Catholic priest of Westminster diocese. Lady Blanche's father held in trust for his daughter several thousand pounds, bequeathed to her by an aunt, but she was too proud to ask for it.

London newspapers were filled with serious and semi-humorous stories of the elopement, and to escape this humiliation husband and wife sailed in the steerage of the ship Plymouth Rock for New York. The captain of the vessel, a generous Yankee, insisted on bringing them over in the cabin without extra cost. They reached this city penniless, and for several weeks were on the verge of starvation. Then, through the influence of some Catholic clergymen, Murphy was made organist at St. James' Church, and later secured a better position at the Church of the Holy Innocents.

Over the signature of Lady Blanche Murphy the wife wrote innumerable stories, sketches and serious articles for Lippincott's Magazine, The Galaxy and The Catholic World and Tablet. Her husband's income was increased through the generosity of "Boss" Tweed, who made him a Twenty fifth building inspector, or something of that kind, for which he drew salary without work.

Tweed and his associates fell and with them went Murphy, who became organist of a church in Yorkville. Lady Murphy in her hour of direst need would not ask the Earl for money, in the hope that he would forgive her husband and herself.

Agents of Baring Brothers in this city frequently notified her to draw on her father through them. Poverty and sickness finally broke her spirit and five years after her marriage she accepted several thousand dollars, with which she bought a farm near North Conway, N.H.

They settled there and discovered that the pastor of the church in which Murphy was to be organist was a Mr. Noel, a relative of her family. Her love for her husband and father never faltered, and she was a devout Catholic. In 1881 her father died, and she only survived a year longer. Her body was shipped to her brother, the present Earl of Gainsborough. After his wife's death Murphy sold the New Hampshire farm and lived recklessly on the proceeds until death called him.

A Keepsake that Came High.

KINGSTON, Oct. 13.—Isabella Enagh has the envied possession of a luxurious head of hair. A youth named Wells not long ago sought and obtained permission to cut off a keepsake, but with fiendish greediness he slashed off more than half of the crop. Miss Enagh then sued him for damages, and in the Division Court to-day recovered a verdict of $13.

Survivors Rescued.

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., Oct. 14.—A rescuing party succeeded in boarding the dismantled and disabled hulk of the bark Melmerby off Little Harbor this morning and the four survivors were brought to shore. Seven in all were saved. None of the bodies of the 16 who were drowned have been recovered. Many other wrecks are reported. The storm is abating somewhat.

A FAITHFUL WIFE.

She Sticks to Her Husband Through Good and Ill Report.

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—Alexander H. Grant, the young man who was arrested on the accusation of stealing $140 from Alexander Dube, was committed to the Queen's Bench and admitted to bail by Mr. Dandurand. The amount fixed was $200. Mr. Grant protests his innocence, and expresses confidence as to the result of the trial at the Court of Queen's Bench. He is a tall, gentlemanly-looking man, slightly bald, and certainly does not look like a person who would blight his future for a trifling sum like the one involved. He is a married man and lives, or more properly lived, at 64 Beaconsfield-avenue, Toronto, His wife, a pretty blonde lady, was in court yesterday, and, needless to say, was much affected by her husband's position. She loyally stands up for his innocence, however, and advises him to fight the case. In conversation with a reporter she said that she did not know of her husband's arrest until she read of it in The World. Her mother, Mrs. Best, accompanied her to the city, and they intend to remain until the matter is settled.

CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

DEFENDING THE MINISTERS' SONS.

Probably on the principle that a blacksmith's horse and a shoemaker's wife are generally ill-shod the popular opinion obtains that ministers' sons are not well-trained, or at all events do not do justice to their training. The popular idea is that ministers' sons are generally "bad eggs," but it does not appear that this idea is justified by the facts. Ministers' sons, like the average boy, are both good and bad, but so much more is expected from them in the way of strait-laced morality, that the slightest slip from canonical uprightness is set down as terrible depravity—a "shocking thing in a minister's son." Being the observed of all observers by Mrs. Grundy and her set, a minister's son, like Cassius, has "all his faults observed, set in a note-book, learned and conned by rote." The ordinary boy's pranks are peccadilloes, a minister's son's freaks are crimes—felonies, etc. The same unreasoning narrowness that requires a minister to be a better Christian than his flock sets up a special standard of morality for the minister's son and holds him to it with a like unreasoning disregard of extenuating circumstances In defence of ministers' sons the Canada Presbyterian says:—

"Ministers' sons came to the front in the great criminal trial at Woodstock. Mr. Osler is a son of the Rev. Canon Osler, formerly of Dundas. Mr. Blackstock is the son of a retired Methodist minister. Mr. Hellmuth is a son of the well-known Episcopal divine of that name. The old slander that ministers' sons never amount to anything is not true of Ontario. It never was true anywhere."

The irreverent Belleville Ontario aims to break the record by remarking in reference to the foregoing:—

"Can the Presbyterian have forgotten that there were other ministers' sons connected with the notorious case than those to whom it refers, namely Felly, one of Birchall's dupes, and the assassin Birchall."

The Hamilton Times (edited, by the way, by a minister's son) comes to the rescue with a vim in which it is not unnatural to suppose a fellow feeling is not absent, and adds the following formidable list of ministers' sons who are not "hard seeds":—

Sir Charles Tupper is a son of the late Rev. Charles Tupper; Sir Richard Cartwright, son of the late Rev. L. D. Cartwright; Hon. J. C. Abbott, leader of the Government in the Senate, son of the late Rev. Joseph Abbott; Judge Strong, of the Supreme Court, son of the late Rev. Dr. Strong; Judge Gwynne, son of the late Rev. Wm. Gwynne, D.D.; Hon. Wm. Hume Blake, was the son of Rev. Dominick Blake; R. N. Hall, M.P. for Sherbrooke, is a son of Rev. R. V. Hall; J. C. Patterson, M.P. for Essex, son of Rev. James Patterson; E. G. Prior, M. P. for Vancouver, B.C., son of Rev. Henry Prior; Hon. W. H. Richey, late Lieut-Governor of Nova Scotia, son of Rev. Matthew Richey; Deputy-Minister of Justice Sedgwick, son of Rev. Dr. Sedgwick; Alfred Selwyn, director of geological survey, son of Rev. T. Selwyn; Robt. Bell, assistant director of geological survey, son of Rev. Andrew Bell; W. H. Smithson, accountant of Post Office Department, son of Rev. W. Smithson; Judge Rose, son of Rev. Samuel Rose

---

COMMENTING upon an article in the Globe on the state of the finances of this city, the Hamilton Times says:—"One would think Toronto had been run by Sir John Macdonald." There really is a good resemblance between the financial condition of the Dominion and the financial condition of the city. The debt of Toronto is $12,775,000. The debt of the Dominion is $238,000,000 and the portion of this debt which falls upon the 170,000 citizens of Toronto is more than $7,000,000. The civic debt of Toronto is $75 per head; the share of the Federal debt which falls upon Toronto is about $47 50 per head These figures, however, give an inadequate idea of the burden of the Federal debt, as owing to the fact that the people of Toronto are very large consumers of dutiable goods, they pay a share of the taxation of the Dominion much greater than is indicated by population.

Ontario Loan Companies.

The fifth part of the Ontario Bureau of Industries for 1889, just issued, is an account of the transactions of the loan and investment companies. The number of these doing business in Ontario in 1889 was 79, with a total subscribed capital of $69 694,221 and total assets of $104 597,143. Of these 29 were in Toronto, 10 in London, 5 in St. Thomas, and 3 in Hamilton, and these 47 did a very large share of the loan business of the Province, their subscribed capital being nearly 90 per cent of the whole, and their assets 87 per cent. of the whole. The companies paid dividends at the average rate of 7.17 per cent. on paid up stock, interest on dividends at the average rate of 4.545 per cent., and interest on deposits at the average rate of 4.017 per cent. There has been a considerable increase in the business of the companies during the last two years. The amount loaned by 57 companies in 1889 was $3 229 456 more than the amount loaned in 1887, and the total amount invested and secured by mortgage at the end of 1889 was $8 676 502 more than at the end of 1887. The amount secured by mortgage at the end of 1889 was $94,502,621.

With regard to 64 of the 79 companies some further information is obtainable. The amount secured by mortgages held for these companies was $91,413,189. They loaned during the year $21,705,423; they received from their borrowers, in principal and interest, $21,330 361; and they declared dividends of $2 201,454; received deposits of $24,721,232 and repaid deposits of $24,580,790. The cost of management of these companies was $441,274, or about 39 per cent. of the dividends.

The most interesting portion of the report is that which deals with the relations between the companies and the borrowers. The first matter to be dealt with is the interest charge. The average rate of interest is not given in the report, but it may be put, with reasonable accuracy, at 6½ per cent. This percentage on the amount loaned would give an annual interest charge of nearly $6,000,000. The report does not tell us how much of this was repaid, although it states that the amount paid for interest and principal together was $21,330,361. The "straight mortgage appears to be the most popular form of borrowing and lending, the amount secured in this way being $62,289,942 while the amount repayable on the instalment plan is $29,132 247. Compulsory proceedings have been taken to recover $1,848,632, the amount of 764 mortgages. The amount of mortgaged property held for sale, by reason of non-payment, is $3 926,619, and the amount chargeable against such property is $2 860,394. The amount thus in default declined about $109,600 between 1888 and 1889, but increased about $250,000 between 1887 and 1889

IRELAND'S LATEST PLAGUE.

The Famine Breeding Potato Rot And its Effects.

The report of the Irish Land Commissioners on the condition of the potato crops all through Ireland shows that the potato blight or rot has spread to all parts of the Island.

What is this potato blight or rot that can bring famine to a nation? It seems to be a disease to which the potato has been more or less subject for many centuries; but only during the past fifty years has it prevailed over such great areas of country as to bring famine. Its prevalence in Canada and Ireland in 1845 made it known in that year to scientific farmers all over the civilized world, and toward the close of the summer of 1845 every one, rich and poor, high and low, learned and unlearned, became aware that the disease had appeared and threatened to destroy the entire potato crop. It was first visible in the Isle of Wight, about the middle of August of that year; about a week afterward it had become general throughout the south of England; early in September it began its ravages in Ireland, and shortly afterward it was discovered in Scotland.

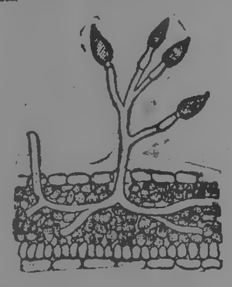
The gradual accumulation of fresh facts and careful microscopic studies have made it clear beyond dispute that the potato disease is not only accompanied by but results only from a growth of mould or fungus. No variety of potato is proof against it; nor is there anything in one species of potato plant more than in another to predispose it to the attack of the fungus: or, in other words, no potato, healthy or unhealthy, new or old, can withstand the attacks of the mould. No remedy for it has ever been discovered. It is doubtful if any amount of doctoring will kill the disease without destroying the potatoes.



MAGNIFIED GROWTH OF THE DESTRUCTIVE FUNGUS ON THE BOTTOM OF A POTATO LEAF.

The rapidity with which the potato rot will ruin a patch of potatoes is sometimes marvellous. Fields that at the setting of the sun were thrifty and gave every promise of a famous crop, may be, before the sun goes down next day, covered with putrid, decaying matter, fit only to be raked in heaps and burned.

Such is the potato rot that once again has brought the Irish people face to face with starvation.

PORT HOPE, Oct. 14.—About 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Frank Grimison and a number of fellow-workmen were pushing a lorry laden with sticks of square timber on the railway, near Barrett's Terrace, when he stumbled and fell, both wheels of the heavily-laden lorry passing over his right leg, tearing nearly all the flesh from the bone from the ankle to the knee. He will probably lose his leg.

Postoffice Burglary.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 14.—A bold and partially successful attempt has been made to burglarize the postoffice at Cobden. The thieves forced two of the planks of the floor upwards and got into the rear store. With a lever they forced the postoffice door. Just at this moment, about 4 a.m., several citizens of Cobden returned from a funeral and the noise alarmed the thieves, who fled with about $6 worth of stamps and silver and a large quantity of silk handkerchiefs, shirts and other dry goods.

What is a Day's Labour?

ONE day's work for a healthy liver is to secrete three and a half pounds of bile. If the bile secretion be deficient, constipation ensues; if profuse, biliousness and jaundice arise. Purify the importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink, nothing is so effectively as the power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

THE CREOLES OF TO-DAY.

THE RARE BEAUTY OF THEIR WOMEN STILL PRESERVED.

The Habits and Traditions of a Charming Race—A Broken Engagement Almost Compromises a Girl—Where Life's Heaviest Burdens are Lightly Borne.

The glory of the creole is not altogether extinguished. Time has wrought many changes in the race, and much of their wealth is gone, but they still cling tenaciously to the memories and the habits that were characteristic of them in their palmiest and most halcyon days.

There were certain customs and traditions faithfully followed by the best creole families. The daughters of the house were sent to convent schools, where, it must be owned, they learned little except embroidery and graceful deportment. The sons fared better, for they were despatched to the universities of France to acquire that polish of mind and manner which made them the courtly, gallant gentlemen they were. Coming out at 14 or 15, in all her blushing rosebud beauty, Mademoiselle was speedily married, the affair being arranged between the parents of man and maid, though there was no forcing of inclination, and the young lady had the privilege of declining the proposed suitor if he appeared unpleasing to her. Once married even if she had been the veriest coquette in Christendom, she usually settled down soberly to the management of her great house, in which she took a housewifely pride—Monsieur, be it whispered, was a decided epicure—and as family cares increased she occupied herself in rearing her numerous olive branches, often ten in number.

A CREOLE BEAUTY.

When the young creoles returned from the war they found society disorganized. It was a new and strange order they were forced to confront, and, be it said in their honor, they met it like men. Face to face with poverty, often with widowed mothers and orphaned sisters dependant upon them, they were obliged to take the first position they could obtain—usually a small clerkship in a bank or in some commercial house. Energy and ambition did not allow them to remain long in the lower ranks, and among those who have worked upward into positions of honorable responsibility one may mention Mr. Jules Tuyes—a veritable type of the chevalier of olden times—who is now President of a well-known New Orleans insurance company, and Mr. Alexandre Landre—who could sign himself Alexandre Landry de Frenecue de Saint Aubin, had not his ancestors deemed such titles unsuitable under a republican form of government—manager of the Southern Oil Company. The fortunes made and rebuilt since the war wrought financial ruin in the South have not been achieved by Americans alone, for the names of Lanaux, Lanata Chaffraix, Aldige, Gelpi, Cassard, Lasende, Lepevre, and Hernandez are synonymous with business enterprise and good luck. That there is no lack of wealth among the creoles of to-day, the handsome mansions upon Esplanade street—now the fashionable creole quarter—bear witness.

Some, it is true, of the old families have sunk into poverty and obscurity; but taken as a whole, the creoles have held their own bravely. Hampered by traditions of luxury and leisure, the struggle of the young men has been a hard one. They are further overweighted for the reason that they have a generous objection to letting the women of their family work as bread winners, and although the latter may perform prodigies of economy, yet, when there is only one wage-earner and many dependents, the strain must necessarily be severe. The sons of the rich are given a university education and the choice of a profession, whereas commerce is the resort of those upon whom the need of an immediate income is pressing.

But society becomes more and more Americanized each year, and the differences between the two races grow less. Studying side by side in school and college, they have learned to know and understand each other, and reciprocal prejudices have vanished. Canal street is no longer the rigid line of demarkation between the creoles and Americans that it once was. Some of the rich creoles have left their "down-town" precincts and moved "up town," and intermarriages have completed what social intercourse began. It is a common thing to find the children of such unions chattering French to mamma and English to papa, or vice versa. The happiest results may be hoped for from the grafting of creole gayety and grace upon American progressiveness and clear common sense.

One of the most marked traits of the creole temperament is buoyancy. They know how to enjoy. They carry lightly that yoke of labor which seems to press so heavily upon English speaking peoples. The wisdom of imbibing the "perfume of the moment" is known to them. They do not go forth on a gala day to push and shove and growl, they brush little annoyances aside with a laugh and a jest; in a crowd they are gay and good natured. Both men and maidens are passionately fond of dancing, and even the warmest weather does not make their enthusiasm flag. The love of music is deep rooted in their natures, it is to be questioned whether they could live without it. Poor indeed must be that creole who forgoes the Sunday opera matinee, and no pinching or stinting is deemed too severe if that pleasure is in view.

In personal appearance the creoles are a good-looking race. The men are usually good looking, sometimes strikingly handsome, in the brunette type, and, though short of stature, they are broad shouldered and muscular. A blonde creole girl is irresistibly pretty, the dark wonder of her great eyes enhanced by a storm-cloud of hair about a low, smooth brow, brilliant white teeth, delicately-moulded features, and a clear olive complexion. Her figure is lissome and rounded: supple and slender without angularity or attenuation, and her hands and feet are small and dainty. Now and then a strain of Andalusian blood produces a milk-white blonde with violet eyes and shimmering golden air, doubly piquant among her darker sisters.

A CREOLE MA'AM.

Though the rigidity of the old system of chaperonage has somewhat relaxed, the creole girl is not allowed as much freedom as her American friends, and in many respects she is more unsophisticated. For instance, she does not understand lovemaking "for fun," for the men of her race do not think it honorable to indulge in such a questionable jesting. If one of them pays certain marked attentions to a young lady, it is understood that he wishes to make her his wife. Such matters are looked upon seriously, and the rupture of an engagement is almost compromising to a girl.

The creole damsel is not tailor made by any means. When money is not plentiful she is her own modiste with very charming results, for her garments are coquettishly feminine and become her as its gay plumage becomes a tropical bird. Feminine!—that is the keynote to her character. She still believes that it is woman's duty to be pretty and pleasing above all things, and her family do their best to shelter her from coarsening influences. Perhaps from this springs the creole prejudice against public schools. It will be remarked that, even when they are poor, they strain a point and send their children to private seminaries

The Old Reliable.

In these days of humbug it is a relief to hear of something that can be depended upon. Wilson's Wild Cherry has been tested as a remedy for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs, for nearly twenty years with such success as to earn for itself the title of The Old Reliable cure for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis and other affections of the respiratory system. THE ONLY TESTIMONIAL HE EVER GAVE.

"If it be well to wash the skin—and we never heard the proposition questioned—it is well also that we should be familiar with the means by which that purpose may be most efficiently attained.

"We once knew a beautiful woman, with a nice complexion, who had never washed her face with soap all her life through; her means of polishing were, a smear of grease or cold cream; then a wipe, and then a lick with rose water. Of course we did not care to look too closely after such an avowal, but we pitied her, for soap is the food of the skin.—

Soap is to the skin what Wine is to the stomach;

a generous stimulant. It not only removes the dirt, but the layer which carries the dirt; and it promotes the displacement of the old cuticle to make way for the new, to increase the activity of change in the skin. Now turn we to Toilet Soaps and there we find a name engraven on the memory of the oldest inhabitant—PEARS.

PEARS' SOAP! an article of the nicest and most careful manufacture, and the most refreshing and agreeable of balms to the skin."

Surplus over all Liabilities, except Capital	656,536 64

The new business of the SUN LIFE was the largest ever secured in the Company's history and was equalled by but one Canadian life company. The surplus accumulated during the THREE years of the current quinquennium far exceeds the amount earned during any previous FIVE years, and the profits to Policy-holders cannot fail to be highly satisfactory. The prosperity of the Sun Life is no doubt largely due to its liberal unconditional policies and paying its claims promptly. Canadians should also remember that by patronizing a Home Institution, which invests all its funds in the Dominion, they are benefitting themselves by reducing the rate of interest here, and are helping to build up our own cities rather than those of foreign states.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,706,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,928	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,620	10.66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,722,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,285	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

New Grocery Firm

Messrs. Ed. and Albert Brown, as already announced in the EXAMINER, have purchased the grocery stock of M. J. Tierney, and will re open the business as soon as possible. The stock will be replenished with the choicest groceries and liquors, so that the public may be certain of receiving entirely fresh goods at lower prices than can be given by tradesmen who purchase their supplies in the regular way. Messrs. Brown Bros. are popular, capable and industrious young men, who will, without a doubt, push their business to the front ranks. Their opening announcement will appear in a short time.

Olde Folke's Concerte.

An Olde Folke's Concerte will be held in the opera house within a few weeks under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Charlotte street Methodist church. The ladies are making preparations for a first class entertainment, and no doubt they will present a most interesting programme to a large audience. Appropriate costumes will be imported for the occasion, and the programme will be all that the title of the concert implies. The date and full particulars will be announced later. The public should bear the Old Folkes' concert in mind. It will be one of the best entertainments of the season. 1d

A Hygienic Social.

The Christian Endeavor Society of St. Paul's church entertained the young people of the congregation at a "bread and butter social" last night. There were about 125 young people present. A short programme was run off, consisting of instrumental solos by Miss Fairweather and Miss Edith Hall; a piano duet by Miss Fairweather and Master Brooks, a reading by Rev. E. F. Torrance, a solo by Mr. John Crane, and a duet by Miss Sophie Cameron and Mr. Crane. Bread and butter, in plain and fantastic variety, with a cup of coffee to assist in its mastication, was served by the young ladies, who are to be commended for introducing this happy hygienic innovation in the refreshment line. A great deal of indigestion has doubtless been prevented by this prudent measure. The social, or reception, was a pleasant success.

Englishmen "At Home."

Peterborough Lodge of the Sons of England held its annual "At Home" last night, and of course it was as pleasant a success as the jolly Englishmen's gatherings always are. There were nearly a hundred members of the lodge and their friends present. The guests were cordially received by Mr. Brundrette, Past President, and Mr. Somerville, President. The latter also officiated as master of ceremonies during the evening. The handsome rooms were supplied with parlor games for the entertainment of the guests, and at intervals musical selections lent pleasing variety of the proceedings. Among the numbers in the impromptu programme were a couple of solos by Miss Brundrette, a solo by Mr. Varnes, a reading by Mr. A. Clegg, a solo by Miss Davidson (sister of Rev. J. C. Davidson), a duet by Miss Brundrette and Mr. H. Stevens, and an instrumental selection by Mrs G. A. Smith, who also also acted as accompanist for several of the singers. About 10 o'clock the dining room doors were thrown open and the guests invited to test the good quality of English cookery, as served up by Messrs. Long and Hooper. After this most satisfactory conclusion of the proceedings the gathering dispersed, highly delighted with the hospitality of Peterborough Lodge S O E

Home for the Old and Infirm.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Protestant Home was held Tuesday afternoon, and the deep interest taken by the ladies in the management of this charitable institution was evinced by the large attendance. Reports were read and officers elected, but as the auditors had not finished their labours, a full account of the proceedings is held over until another issue. We may state, however, that the reports were quite satisfactory. The Home has been successful during the past year. There are at present 19 inmates, which is about equal to the limited capacity of the building. Mrs. Dillon, the matron, with her two young lady assistants, keeps the Home in apple-pie order—warm, bright, clean and comfortable. There have been no alterations in the building this year, nor is it likely any radical changes will be made until a new Home is erected—a possibility which, in view of the munificent bequest of the late Mrs. Nicholls, will become a strong probability in the near future. The Committee of Management request a continuance and increase of the liberal support which they have received in the past. There is a pressing need for contributions of old clothes for the male inmates, who must be kept supplied with clean and comfortable wearing apparel. Cast-off suits can be made good use of at the Home, and the ladies ask the public to bear the Home in mind when they have any old clothing that they wish to dispose of.

A Proposed Fish Hatchery.

Why Not Establish a Hatchery for Maskinonge—Our Inland Waters Need Fish Supplies.

A project is on foot, fathered by Mr. H. Calcutt, for the stocking of the rivers and lakes in this district with maskinonge fry. Mr. Calcutt intends circulating a petition asking the government to establish a hatchery in the Otonabee river or Rice Lake, or any other suitable place, for the propogating of maskinonge. Mr. Calcutt's idea is to enclose a portion of marsh so as to prevent inroads from eels and large fish, and within this enclosure place the spawn for hatching. At present the great drawback to fish breeding is that bass and eels gobble up nearly all the small fry before they are big enough to take care of themselves. It is proposed to keep the fry in the Otonabee hatchery for a year or so under the charge of Mr. Gilchrist, Inspector, until they reach a fair size. Then they may be turned into the river and Rice Lake, and transplanted in Stony Lake and its tributaries.

The cost of the thing would be trifling. Inspector Gilchrist says he can easily procure all the spawn required, and the building of the enclosure would be a small matter. The whole cost would be more than defrayed by the fees paid by American sportsmen for the privilege of fishing in these waters. The addition of a million maskinonge fry every year would in the course of a few years sensibly increase the value of our fishing grounds and attract more visitors, while affording our own people better sport. The minnows would not be set at liberty until they were the length of a finger, so that a very small proportion would become prey for the larger fishes.

The Government encourages the breeding of whitefish and bass, but as yet no attempt has been made to propogate maskinonge. It is to be hoped Mr. Calcutt will be heartily supported in his efforts towards this end. He has already received considerable encouragement from the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Hon. Mr. Tupper, who, during his visit to Peterborough a few weeks ago, promised to give any such scheme his support. As the cost would be small, there is great hope that the Government will establish the hatchery.

Mr. Calcutt's petition will be circulated in the town and county of Peterborough. All sportsmen will feel an interest in it, and those devoted to piscatorial pleasures will be doubly interested in the success of the appeal. The petition will, no doubt, be warmly supported.

Scene in a Mining Camp.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—The following story was given to your correspondent by Mr. Wm. Irwin, of Harvey, and having obtained permission from that gentleman, he begs leave to present it to you with the hope that you will deem it entertaining enough to claim a space in the columns of your interesting paper. I ask your readers to accept the incident on Mr. Irwin's veracity.

The "Ida May" is a mine situated at the summit of one of the Rockies in Montana, near the town of Rimini. Messrs. Irwin (a brother of the relator of the tale) and Metcalfe (formerly of Woodville, Ont.) are owners of this and several other claims. They have working for them a gang of right merry fellows of different nationalities, whose wits and energies, combined with an abundance of silver and lead, serve to cheer the hearts of their genial masters. Chief among them is the cook—a Chinaman—who looks after the larder and tries to satisfy the cravings caused by the keen mountain air of Montana.

One morning during the visit of my friend the Celestial came into the camp with a rather rueful expression on his face. He had come from the storehouse, where he had found that a large piece of bacon had been stolen from its place. He was loud in his curses upon the blasted Cornishman for being the thief, but the others surmised differently. The Mr. Irwins went out and, after searching a while for traces, they discovered the tracks of a large common bear. Having concluded that undoubtedly he was the thief, they commenced forming plans for catching him when he returned. The door of the storehouse was boarded half way down, and an upright slide placed for the other half open space. This slide was fastened by a rope, at the other end of which hung a piece of the coveted bacon. This ingenious trap was completed by instituting an alarm system to connect with the cabin. In the absence of telephone and telegraph, necessity again proved herself the mother of invention. Our friends knowing that bruin would burrow a way out of the roothouse on finding himself trapped, arranged a means to know instantly when he was caught. A string was fastened to the slide and run over to the hut, with a gun attached to it in such a way that when the meat was touched the gun was discharged. All being completed the men awaited the coming or his bearship.

That night passed, and with it a heavy snow-storm, leaving fourteen inches on the ground next morning. The next night all had retired, when bang! went the gun overhead. Everyone jumped from his bed and, with revenge in his eye, seized a large revolver. The cook laid hold of a long-handled frying pan, and filled it with kerosene. A match was touched to it, and we believe the light produced must have rivalled the electric light at Peterborough. With all their determined revenge the miners must be credited with the resolve on their part to give the bear a fair chance for his life. They would not kill him in his trap, but would have him run the gauntlet. Let your readers picture to themselves the following nocturnal scene: Our friend stationed on top of the root-house, rope in hand, ready to lift the slide at the word of command, the cook holding his improvised elec tric light, and the hardy miners ranged in a row with revolvers presented, their gum boots (rubber boots with leggings) dragging around their ankles, contrasting strongly with their bright red underwear—their outer clothing being left behind in their haste to have the encounter over. Presently the slide is lifted; Mr. Bruin approaches the opening, looks out, and scents danger before him. He makes a sudden bound, but with that bound is heard the report of several pistols, and the huge animal drops dead with several bullet holes in his body. The bear when weighed tipped the scales at over 500 pounds. We here leave our readers, feeling pleased that our Chinese cook had revenge on his Cornishman.

P. S.—If your correspondent can persuade Mr. Irwin to overcome his modesty, to permit an account of his (Mr. Irwin's) travels being published, he will be most happy to be able to present them to you.

SMITH.

"Cleopatra."

Bernhardt to Produce it in Gorgeous Style.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—The gossip of the boulevards of Paris runs almost entirely on the subject of "Cleopatra," which, however, seems not likely to be produced until the middle of next week. According to all accounts the dresses will be magnificent. Antony's costumes alone cost $3000, and among them is one of white leather, the cuirass of which is of most excellent workmanship.

Mme. Bernhardt's own dresses are remarkable, and the one in which she first appears almost beggars description. It consists mainly of a loose robe of light blue crepon de sole, embroidered with wild marguerites in yellow and white pearls, and is bound with a sash of similar material, but of darker hue, which forms the train, the whole of which is almost entirely concealed beneath masses of gold embroidery, amethyste and turquoises.

No fewer than seven jewelled girdles of genuine antique workmanship will be worn with this dress, to which also belongs a coronet of interlacing serpents in gold, one of which, the sacred cobra, raises in the middle its enamelled head, the eyes of which are formed of rubies.

A correspondent paid a visit to Mme. Barnhardt. She seems to be only moderately satisfied with the play as a whole, though her own part undoubtedly provides her with very fine opportunities, of which she thinks she will be able to make good use. Her favourite passage is this from the third act:

"Yes, yes, return; return to this Memphis once so joyous. Everything waits for thee, everything calls for thee, from the gods of Ga, dreaming with their hands upon their knees, even to the sphynx, who crouches far away on the horizon.

'Return! Thou wouldst, couldst thou know how I adore thee. Hasten so take pity on me or I shall die while calling on thee night and day—calling on thee in vain."

Church Opening.

Interesting Ecclesiastical Event in Smith.

Not very long since the EXAMINER made extended reference to the construction of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church, in Smith, and it has the pleasure of announcing that the opening services of the completed church will be held on Sunday, Oct. 26th. Sermons will be preached at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., by Rev. J. F. Barker, of Ingersoll, at 3 p.m. a mass meeting of Sunday school children will be addressed by Rev. J. B. Huff. Collections in the interest of the building fund will be taken at each service. On Monday evening a public tea will be held. Tea served from 5 to 7 o.m. to be followed by addresses by Rev. Messrs J. F. Barker, J. B. Huff, D. S. Houck, P. C. Parker, J. Willoughby, J. Frazer, J. R. Stratton, M P P., and others A choice programme of music will be presented by the choir. Tickets, 25 cents; children, 15 cents The services on Sunday and the entertainment of Monday evening will be of unusual interest. On Monday evening facilities for Peterborough people reaching the church will be made. Busses will leave the old post office corner, Brock and George streets, at 6 30. Fair both ways only 25 cents.

Obituary.

In the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Lang Anderson, of Otonabee, which took place on Tuesday, that township loses one of its very earliest settlers, she having been a continuous resident of that township for about 58 years. She was in her usual good health up to last winter, when an attack of the epidemic influenza weakened her, and though she rallied during the summer, old age pressed heavily upon her and she succumbed to the inevitable, death closing the scene on Tuesday, Oct. 14 h. The deceased lady, who was relict of the late James Anderson, who died about 14 years ago, was a native of Renfrewshire, Scotland, where she was born over 90 years ago—her exact age at the time of her death being 90 years and 28 days. She with her husband came to Canada in 1832, and settled on the farm where she ended her days, lot 28 in the 7th concession. Mrs. Anderson was the mother of six children, four of whom are living—three boys, Mr. William and Mr. John Anderson, of Otonabee, and Mr. Alex. Anderson, of New Mexico, and one daughter, Miss Agnes Anderson, who lives at the old homestead. The deceased lady was highly respected in all walks of life, and was a faithful member of the Presbyterian church, worshipping at Keene. The funeral took place on Thursday at 1.30 p. m., from the family residence to Keene Cemetery.

ENGLISHMEN, THESE.

Their Doings Are the Subjects of Comment Just Now in London.

The Earl of Yarborough's acceptance of the post of Captain of the Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms means, of course, that he has finally joined the Conservative party. Lord Yarborough, who succeeds Lord Romilly, separated himself from Mr. Gladstone when the leader of the opposition declared in favour of home rule. He was born in 1809, and succeeded his father in 1875. The family is descended from an eminent military commander of the reign of Elizabeth. Lord Yarborough is the patron of seventeen livings, and his influence in Lincolnshire is very large. He married the Hon. Marcia Lane-Fox, and both the Earl and Countess are very popular in the county.

Almost unnoticed, the newest member of the House of Commons took his seat for East Carmarthen. It was expected that he would wait until November, but the honorable and learned gentleman preferred to present himself at the table in the dying days of the dead session. Mr. Abel Thomas is a very extreme Radical, who was called to the bar in 1875, and practices on the South Wales circuit. He is a Baptist with a strong dislike for the Church of England, and he will be one of the most persistent opponents of the Tithes bill. He is a graduate of London University, but is quite unknown in political circles outside a narrow circle in the principality.

Mr. Horace Cox, who is the principal proprietor of the Field, the Queen, and the Law Times, and has managed the business since the death of his well-known uncle. Sergeant Cox, is a very able man who understands details, and personally interests himself in all that takes place in the establishment. It is said that he and his partners are spending £100,000 on the new premises, and that the profits of their three papers are from £30,000 to £50,000 a year.

A Lively Cricket.

A fast young pacing mare is Cricket, whose "counterfeit presentment" appears below Although but 5 years of age she has won many notable pacing contests, and her owners can point with pride to a record of 2:11¾. Cricket is a native of the glorious climate of California. She is the progeny of Steinway (whose 3-year-old record was 2:25¾) and a thoroughbred mare named Dolphin. Cricket's first victories of importance were a Jackson, Mich., July 3, 1890, where she won the 2:30 pace, her best time being 2:20¼.

At Saginaw July 9 she won in straight heats and reduced her record to 2:19¾. Three days later she won again, making new record of 2:17¼. At Detroit July 2 she won the extra $500 for the horse beating 2:15 by pacing a heat in 2:14¼.

Like most pacers her development of speed was rapid and steady. At Cleveland Aug. she paced against a field of seven cracks, including Dallas, and carried off the honor by pacing the second heat in 2:15¾. Since July 15 Cricket has paced thirteen heats lower than 2:20. Five of the thirteen were faster than 2:15. At Buffalo she was defeated by Dallas but won the first two heats, the second of which she paced in 2:13¾, the 5-year-old records of Bessemer and Arrow.

Babies Burned in Their Bed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Mrs. James Aldridge left her twin babies asleep in their cradle in her house, No. 104 Sullivan-street, Brooklyn, yesterday, and went to a neighbor's for a few minutes. During her absence a two-year-old lad who had also been left in the house set fire to the cradle and the twins were burnt.

No Change in the School Book Tariff.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The treasury department has decided that books imported for the use of colleges, schools, etc., are admitted to this country under the new tariff law substantially as they were admitted under the old tariff law and subject to the same restrictions.

A "Green Goods" Dealer Convicted.

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—At the assizes yesterday, F. Attwood was found guilty of attempting to purchase counterfeit money. The only evidence given was that of Detective Rogers and Grier who trapped the prisoner. The outline of the case is this: A letter, addressed to H. S. Young, Fort Lee, N.J., and signed by F. C. Atwood, Carleton Junction, Ont., proposing to buy counterfeit money of Young, found its way to the dead letter office at Washington.

It was forwarded to the Attorney-General and Detective Grier went to Niagara Falls, wrote Atwood over the name of Young to meet him at the Rossin House on June 30 last. Grier then went to the Rossin, registered as "H. S. Young" and received Atwood. He showed him some Bank of Commerce bills which were purported to be counterfeit and Atwood expressed his wish to buy, when he was promptly arrested.

Will Decline to Federate.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 14.—Chauncey M. Depew has accepted the invitation to address the international convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers here Thursday. The convention will open to-morrow. It is given out semi-officially that the convention will reject all offers of federation with any other labor union or organization of trainmen. Delegates to the number of 600 are here from all parts of the United States and Canada.

Newfoundland Will Make a Deal.

GLOUCESTER, Mass. Oct. 14.—Hon. Robert Bond, Colonial Secretary for Newfoundland, held an audience to-day at the board of trade with President Smith and other prominent men connected with the fisheries. The object was to submit a proposition admitting products of the Newfoundland fisheries free in return for which American fishermen would have free access to bait and other outfits in Newfoundland.

A Boy Robs a Stage Coach.

UKIAH, Cal., Oct. 14.—The overland stage was robbed on Sunday night, 18 miles north of this place. The Wells-Fargo treasure box and the United States mail sacks were taken. The robber was caught at Cloverdale yesterday afternoon. He proved to be a boy about 18 years old and a stranger.

Survived the Campaign.

Another '37 veteran to report is Mr. Wm. Howson, of Otonabee, near Keene, who resided at Peterborough and took part in the famous march to Toronto. He remained in the militia until the close of the war, most of his time being occupied in guarding the prisoners, over whom he was one of the overseers.

Mr. John Tully, of Monaghan, and his two brothers, David and William, were among those who enlisted for service in the '37 rebellion. Mr. John Tully on the first draft got a substitute to take his place, but later on he was again drafted, and this time joined the forces with his brothers. They started for Toronto, but were stopped en route and soon after returned home.

The Northumberland Railway.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 14.—The proposed route of the Cobourg, Northumberland & Pacific Railway is being gone over, and the following gentlemen were in town to-day:—Ex-Judge Clark, C. P. R. solicitor; B. W. Leonard, engineer, Brantford; and R. R. Pringle, Cobourg. It is understood that they report no engineering difficulties, and the prospects for the building of the road are good, if the expected aid from the municipalities affected is forthcoming. It is proposed to have a by-law is submitted to the ratepayers at the January municipal elections.

BIRCHALL'S LIFE HISTORY TO BE SOLD BY TENDER.

It Will Consist of 100 Pages of Manuscript and the Proceeds Are to go to His Wife—An English Hangman Heard From.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 15.—Birchall expects to have the sketch of his life on which he is now engaged completed within a week, as he wants to see it in print before he dies. The manuscript will cover about 100 pages of foolscap. The first part, which is already written, contains an account of some of the more interesting incidents of his early life, youthful escapades, narrow escapes, etc., but what his account of the last year or so of his life and the incidents associated with it will be it is impossible to say. He is at present in negotiation with a number of publishers who are willing to put the sketch in print and pay him for it, including The Police Gazette, New York.

Whatever sum he receives for the sketch Birchall intends handing over to his wife. The manuscript will likely go to the highest bidder.

Sheriff Perry has received an application from a death artist in England. The communication is dated "Victoria Mansions, Westminster, London, Eng." The writer says that he has achieved a world-wide fame in his business and is prepared to do a neat job either with guillotine, electricity or the gallows.

By way perhaps of testimonial he adds that he is about to go to France to "treat a subject" according to the guillotine method, and he volunteers the information that the subject so to be treated is to be cremated after the "treatment" is over, except some parts of his body, which owing to their abnormal development are to be retained by a medical school. The ashes of the "subject" are to be bottled and sent to Turkey, as the man had some Turkish blood in his veins.

PETITION FOR BIRCHALL.

The Reasons Advanced for Executive Clemency.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 15.—Birchall has some sympathizers — how many will shortly be known — who believe he was not altogether fairly dealt with. They have prepared a petition to be presented to the Governor-General in behalf of the prisoner, which was sent out for signatures yesterday. The petition is neatly printed, and reads as follows:

To His Excellency the Right Honorable Lord Stanley of Preston, G.C.B., Governor-General of Canada.

The petition of the undersigned, resident in the Province of Ontario, humbly showeth:

1. That John Reginald Birchall was, on the 29th day of September, 1890, sentenced to be hanged on the 14th day of November next for the murder of one Frederick Owens alias Bennell.

2. That the evidence adduced against the said John Reginald Birchall, and upon which a verdict of guilty was found, was wholly circumstantial.

3. That the press of Canada, and particularly of the Province of Ontario, had prior to the trial, by their articles, comments and accounts, so inflamed and prejudiced the mind of the public of Ontario against the said John Reginald Birchall, that it was impossible to obtain a jury to try the matter impartially and without bias.

4. Your petitioners believe the said John Reginald Birchall was not dealt with fairly by the public press, and that much that was alleged in the newspapers against the said John Reginald Birch all after his arrest, but of which no proof was given at the trial, must have had an influence upon the minds of the jury prejudicial to the prisoner.

Your petitioners, therefore pray that Your Excellency may be pleased to commute the sentence of the court to such term of imprisonment as to Your Excellency may seem meet.

And your petitioners will ever pray.

TOOK LEG BAIL.

Two Prisoners Escape From Kingston Penitentiary Hospital.

KINGSTON, Oct. 16.—Two prisoners escaped from the penitentiary this morning. The fugitives are:

Frank Leslie Cork, sent from Toronto in February, 1886, for highway robbery, after serving a previous term for stealing a registered letter while employed as a letter carrier. His sentence was 10 years and he has served only four years and a half.

James Maguire came from the county of Essex and was a resident of Windsor, Ont. He was sentenced April, 1889, to five years for indecent assault.

Cork had been employed in the hospital ever since he entered the penitentiary as orderly assistant to the hospital overseer. He held this position because he possessed a knowledge of drugs. Maguire was also an ordinary orderly in the hospital. In addition to the night orderly a guard is on duty in the hospital. Last evening Guard Doyle was in charge. About 2½ o'clock this morning Convict Maguire, on duty, went to Doyle and told him an Italian patient, suffering from typhoid fever, was dying and asked him to unlock Cork, who was in his cell, so that he might render Maguire some assistance in caring for the patient, as at times the Italian was too weak to take care of himself. Cork was unlocked by Doyle and he conducted both men to the sick convict's cell. Doyle in a short time returned to see how the orderlies were getting on. He found both orderlies missing, and discovered that the men had escaped through a northeast window in the upper story of the hospital. One of the upright iron bars in the window just above the top of the horizontal bar was cut and was reached by a stool. The bar had been sawn and then broken off by means of a lever. A piece of the iron bar was found in a flour box inside. It is thought the window was sawn by the blade of a knife which had been nicked.

The officers searched along the inside of the walls, and found tackle near the northeast tower. On the end of the rope was a triangular anchor made of gas pipes which hung on the wall when found. By means of it the wall was scaled.

No trace of the convicts has yet been obtained. Twelve or fifteen years ago two convicts, Josie and Webb, escaped from the hospital through the same window and in the same way as Maguire and Cork.

It Must be Reciprocal.

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—Representatives of American railways which have connections in Canada desire to import new car wheels to replace those broken, free of duty. This privilege is not given to Canadian railways doing business in the States. The Minister of Customs intimates that if the arrangement can be made reciprocal he will grant the request of the American railway companies.

Another Ocean Race.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The steamers City of New York and Teutonic sailed from here today on another ocean race to Europe. Their time of passing the lightship was New York 7:4 a.m., Teutonic 7:34 a.m.

"THE ARMY'S MOTHER."

FUNERAL OF MRS. GENERAL BOOTH IN LONDON.

The Music of Brass Bands and Salvation Army Hymns Mounted Police Charge the Crowd — The Ambulance Takes Charge of the Wounded.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The final ceremonies to-day attending the interment of Mrs. Gen. Booth, "mother of the Salvation Army," were as rowdy and vulgar as yesterday's obsequies in the Olympia were impressive, in spite of their grotesque surroundings.

A count by the doorkeepers shows that 24,000 people found seats in the Olympia last night, while 4000 more were admitted to find standing room as best they could. This is four times the number that Westminster Abbey will hold, and three times as many as can be placed within hearing at St. Paul's Cathedral.

The long procession which followed the coffin was made up of men and women of the working class. The throng in the streets was enormous. Time and again the crowd outside the Army's headquarters made a determined rush, but the police gallantly held their own. The police were reinforced, the fog grew denser, and above all resounded the crash of Salvation Army bands. Banners were but dimly discerned. As the head of the column emerged through the fog and approached the headquarters of the Army a tremendous cheer was raised. Then ensued a fearful crush, in which it was long doubtful whether the police would be able to keep control over the crowd which behaved in the roughest manner possible. The victory was decided in their favor by the arrival of a small body of mounted police. All efforts to keep clear a space in front of the hearse were, however, futile. In the struggle which followed this attempt of the police to keep a pathway clear several persons were injured, and the ambulance was called into requisition.

For nearly an hour Salvation Army officers, men and women in the well-known dress, filed past their headquarters, headed by their district bands, playing selections from Salvation hymnology. A hymn was sung, and then the coffin, covered with a red pall, on which rested the deceased woman's bonnet badge, was borne on the shoulders of the chief officers to the hearse, reverently deposited there, amid a cry of "hats off" from the crowd. This request was at once complied with amid respectful silence. Then a loud cheer greeted the General as, bareheaded, he took his place alone in the chief mourner's carriage.

Gen. Booth looked wan and haggard, but stood up and acknowledged the salutes of the onlookers. He was followed by the female members of the family, who were all respectfully greeted, but the appearance of a fair-haired individual clad in the flowing robes and turban of an Arab sheik bestriding a restive horse was too much for a London crowd, and the pseudo Oriental was made the recipient of considerable chaff. At the spectacle of an utterly impossible Salvation Highlander all semblance of gravity was thrown to the winds, and roars of laughter followed hard upon the wake of the hearse. More bands, more Salvationists, and then a strong body of police brought up the rear of this remarkable funeral pageant.

At the cemetery the fog was so dense that only a few people gathered around the grave could see or hear the ceremony. Gen. Booth continued to make a few farewell remarks without breaking down. The body was lowered into the grave and this altogether remarkable funeral service was over.

ONTARIO TRAGEDY RECALLED.

Similar Case in France With a Somewhat Different Ending.

BORDEAUX, Oct. 15.—The city is horrified to-day by a domestic tragedy, induced by one of the most revolting acts imaginable. A policeman named Pourquerett was shot yesterday by his own daughter, aged 18. In order to spare her mother's feelings the girl had kept her trouble secret; and tried in every way to avoid going into her father's presence. At 6 o'clock Pourquerett renewed his attempt. A terrible struggle ensued, and the girl managed to reach a loaded revolver which was hanging with some other weapons on the wall of the room. Then she turned and fired it point-blank at her father, who fell dead on the spot, the bullet having passed through his temple. Later on the girl went to the police station and gave a full account of the affair. As soon as the news leaked out the people almost went wild with rage and horror, and strategy had to be resorted to by the authorities in order to convey the body to the morgue without its being attacked.

Three or four years ago a wealthy miller of Aylmer, Ont., named George Goodfallow, was accused by his 16-year-old daughter of the same horrible crime. Goodfallow, who was one of the most prominent citizens of the town, was arrested, and asked permission to enter his house for a few moments. His request was granted and entering the parlor he picked up a revolver which he had placed on the piano in readiness and blew his brains out, dying instantly. He left an estate valued at $8,000.

A Remarkable Case Reported From Near Montreal.

MONTREAL, Oct. 15.—Particulars of the shooting affray at St. Philippe show that the 14 year old son of Phileos Lefebvre, a wealthy farmer, was teased by the farm hand named Bergevin. Finally young Lefebvre, who had been accustomed to use a gun for some two years past, took it up and told Bergevin that he "would salt him." Suiting the action to the word he filled the gun with salt and in a laughing, joking manner pointed it at the man, who, standing some 30 feet distant, replied, "I laugh at your gun and your salt." The gun went off and the charge of salt entered the man's side, he crying out, "You have touched me." He was taken into the house and Dr. Savoie was called in. He pronounced the patient to be in no danger, but recommended him to remain perfectly quiet. This he did during the night, but early yesterday morning rose up against the doctor's orders, and, partaking of a hearty meal, dropped dead. Before he expired, however, he acknowledged that the wound he had received was his own fault.

Another Suspected Murder.

KINGSTON, Oct. 15.—Some new facts have come to light concerning the death of Charles Rogers at Bath last week. The body has been exhumed and a post-mortem examination will be held. From rumors afloat about the village it is thought that there was some violence in connection with the death. An inquest will also be held.

Alabama's Increase.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The population of Alabama is 1,508,070, increase 99,359.

O'BRIEN AND DILLON.

STORY OF THEIR ESCAPE AS TOLD BY O'BRIEN.

Armenians Tortured by the Turks—All Sorts of Cruelties Inflicted Upon the Captives—The Portuguese Cabinet and the British Occupation of the Zambesi River.

DUBLIN, Oct. 15.—The United Ireland prints an account of the escape of Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien, written by O'Brien himself. O'Brien says: "We rowed from Dalkey Wednesday night to a yacht two miles off. Not an enemy was in sight. Next day found us 90 miles away toward the coast. Friday and Saturday we had a dead calm. On Sunday morning we sighted Land's End, when the wind again fell. A Trinity House cutter passed quite close to us and the crew of the Royal Adelaide off Falmouth actually exchanged greetings with our sailors. A Dublin steamer also passed close to us. A heavy fog buried us from sight Sunday night, four steamers blowing fog horns around us during the night. We cleared the Lizard in the morning and darted across for the French coast to outtrick British shipping. We were becalmed again on Monday, and were obliged to beat up the channel. A brisk gale sprang up Monday night in which the yacht behaved magnificently. While passing Guernsey after midnight we were apparently pursued by a revenue cutter, which, however, was unable to weather the gale and abandoned the chase. In the morning we were running free before the wind for Cherbourg, where we landed at 11 o'clock. We had reached our last day's supply of fresh water. All the arrangements worked perfectly, thanks to the prominent Dublin citizens who superintended them, and we had unparalleled good luck. Mrs. O'Brien left Dublin this evening to join her husband.

Tortured by the Turks.

VIENNA, Oct. 16.—A despatch from Constantinople states that arrests of Armenians are still being made, and many of those who have been taken into custody have been shockingly maltreated and tortured. Among other cruelties to which the prisoners have been subjected is the withholding from them of all food. They have also been deprived of sleep. Persons suspected of disloyalty are arrested upon information lodged against them by any spy. The Armenian recently arrested for attempting to murder an archpriest in the Koom Kapou quarter of Constantinople was to-day found dead in his cell. It is alleged his death was the direct result of tortures inflicted upon him. The officials at Van, Armenia, are still arming the Turks, and outrages upon the Armenians there are of frequent occurrence.

The New Portuguese Prime Minister Outlines His Policy.

LISBON, Oct. 15.—In the Cortes to-day in the presence of all the ministers, Senhor Sousa, the new Prime Minister, read a statement of his proposed policy. He said he was unable to recommend the sanction of the convention with England, but did not desire to prevent the execution of the clauses already sanctioned. The Government identified itself with the national sentiment on this question and would willingly accept modifications which, while preserving the dignity and interests of the nation, would facilitate restoration of harmony with our old ally, but he feared if the Zambesi reports were true it would be harder than ever to arrive at an equitable agreement, which Portugal always sincerely desired. The nation's credit has been attacked by private interests, but not shaken. The Government would devote itself to economical measures in order to reduce the national expenses. The Premier asked Parliament to sink political passions and give the Government the support it needed on these two important subjects.

This Strike a Failure.

BRISBANE, Oct. 15.—There is plenty of non-union labor to be had here and the strike is collapsing. Many members of the unions are applying to be reinstated in their old positions.

A Clergyman's Great Affliction.

ST. JOHN, Oct. 15.—Some two years ago Rev. J. Embree, a Methodist clergyman, was transferred from the Newfoundland conference to this province and was stationed in Albert county. A year ago his wife died. Recently diphtheria broke out in his household, his five children and servant girl all being stricken. Finally Mr. Embree was himself attacked with the disease, and word comes to-day of his death last evening. The orphan children are still down but may recover.

Hope for the Exiles.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 15.—The Russian Government will shortly introduce a reformed judicial system in Siberia and the Russian possessions in Central Asia.

Thought to Escape Foreign Service.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The detachment of the East Surrey regiment, recently ordered from Guernsey to India and which at first refused to obey the order, sailed from Portsmouth for India to-day. The embarkation was marked by no disorder. The men stated they objected to doing foreign service and wilfully misbehaved, thinking they would be punished in England.

Extraordinary Conduct of the British Stock Market.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Standard, commenting on the fluctuations, says it has not been equaled since the Crimean war, and the argument that the market is unsound is possible but shallow. Consols are weak for the same reason that colonial stocks are weak, because they are now among syndicate securities. Mr. Goschen has dislodged them from the investment nooks and crannies, where they had been stored for perhaps generations, and the masses of stock thus thrown upon the world have never found a home. Again, dear money and the high rate of interest obtainable elsewhere have compelled temporary holders to sell.

A Colonial Council.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—The Reichsanzeiger publishes an imperial order creating a colonial council, whose duty it shall be to give advice on all colonial affairs. The Prince of Hohenlohe-Langenburg will be president of the council.

Drowned in the Accident at Prague.

PRAGUE, Oct. 15.—The city was visited by another calamity this morning, when the wall of the Karl bridge, which was partly destroyed during the last great flood, collapsed and 40 laborers were thrown into the river. Twenty-three of them were drowned, and though the rest were rescued many of them were badly hurt. Captain Rauch, the superintendent of the works, lost both his legs.

Now Subject to the New Tariff.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The Treasury Department has notified collectors of customs of the action of the Canadian Government in removing the export duty on lumber and instructed them that hereafter lumber from Canada will be subject to the duty fixed in the new tariff bill.

This Appears to be Official.

CHERBOURG, Oct. 15.—Messrs. Dillon, O'Brien and Clancy arrived at the Hotel Angle at noon to-day and started for Paris at 6 o'clock this evening.

An Entente Effected.

NAPLES, Oct. 15.—Lord Dufferin had a cordial interview with Premier Crispi to-day with reference to the Red Sea territory. It is stated that a complete entente was effected.

ANOTHER HOTEL FIRE.

TWENTY-FIVE LIVES LOST IN SYRACUSE THIS MORNING.

By the Destruction of the Leland House—Terrible Scenes of Death and Despair—A Woman's Leap for Life—Nine Fire Companies Battling With the Flames.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 16.—What proved to be the most disastrous fire that has visited Syracuse for many years was discovered in the Leland Hotel at 1:34 this morning.

It is now 2 o'clock and the fire is still burning fiercely, though the entire fire department, consisting of nine engines, are working hard to save further loss of life and limb.

An eye-witness of the fire says he is positive that at least 25 persons have lost their lives and many more have been more or less injured.

One woman was being lowered from a window by the aid of a rope. She had reached a point opposite the third story, when the rope became ignited from a burning sill, the rope parted and the woman fell to the pavement, her brains being dashed out and her body flattened into a shapeless mass.

So great is the confusion and excitement that the identity of those killed and injured is wholly unknown.

Undertakers' ambulances are flying in all directions, and the streets in the neighborhood of the ill-fated hotel are thronged with excited crowds of people.

BEHEADED HIMSELF.

Sensational Suicide of a Man Whose Life Was Insured.

BARRIE, Oct. 15.—Monday morning David Cochrane, aged 70, of Midhurst, near here, left home immediately after breakfast to dig potatoes in a field. At noon he did not return when expected and a search was afterwards instituted with the result that his remains were found in a fence corner with the throat cut so deeply that the head was almost severed from the body. He was an intelligent and well-read man and formerly lived at Copetown, near Hamilton. There is no suspicion of foul play but that the old man took his own life while laboring under temporary insanity. His life was insured. The affair caused a sensation in the neighborhood.

Selected the Rope Route.

HAMILTON, Oct. 15.—Shortly after 7 o'clock last evening the caretaker at No. 3 police station, happening to look through one of the ground floor cell windows, discovered the inmate suspended from the top of the bars on the door and entering found Tom Lanning, a big, powerful man, 50 years of age, slowly strangling to death, his legs on the floor. Around his neck were the sleeves of an undershirt, and the body of the shirt was fastened in the spikes at the top of the door. He was cut down and resuscitated.

AN UNPRINCIPLED SCOUNDREL.

How Macrae Hoodwinked the Directors—Took $6000 the Last Day.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 15.—Further particulars of the Macrae defalcations show that Macrae asked permission to go away on Wednesday of last week, giving as a reason that he wanted to attend the wedding of a friend in Niagara. It appears that he had on that day and during the fore part of the week drawn about $4000 out of the bank and had changed $1000 of this amount into American currency in another bank in the city. That is the last that has been seen of him. The first knowledge the directors had that anything was wrong was on Sunday, when Mr. Macrae's brother-in-law from Toronto came over bearing a letter from Mr. Macrae stating that his accounts were short and he was afraid to meet the board. The letter was postmarked Washington, D.C., but it had evidently been sent there to be mailed as a blind. Enquiry was made at Hunt's ticket office and it was found that a ticket for Mexico had been purchased by a woman about ten days ago. The defalcations were made possible without detection by the manipulation of mortgages.

Toronto Topics.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—The jury in the case of A. W. Wells, the dry-goods clerk who suicided on a street car, returned a verdict in accordance with the facts.

Mr. Thomas Tracy, bursar of the Toronto Asylum for the Insane, has resigned his position, it is said, on the score of ill-health. Mr. Tracy has been in possession for the last 14 years at a salary of $1400 a year.

John Smith, the first white man born in Toronto, whose death occurred a few days ago left an estate valued at $600,000.

At the sale of paintings of artist Paul Peel here yesterday, the 60 canvasses brought $2000, an average of $50 each. The highest price realized was $325 for the "Venetian Bather," a study of a nude girl of 14 or so.

John O'Connor, proprietor of the O'Connor House, Simcoe and Adelaide-streets, and brother of Oarsman William O'Connor, died yesterday.

Richard Teskey of No. 9 Alexander-street, grave-digger in St. James' Cemetery, was yesterday arrested on a warrant charging him with insanity.

Conviction of a Common Scold.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 15.—If the old-fashioned ducking stool were still in vogue for the punishment of common scolds Catherine Walters, who has just been convicted here of that offence, would be immersed in the presence of a host of witnesses who testified that her tongue was a terror. But the ducking stool is obsolete in Pennsylvania and there is a statutory law under which the common scold is punished. She was sent to jail for three days.

A few weeks ago a woman was charged in Toronto with the same offence, but the grand jury threw out the bill.

The Christian Scientist Acquitted.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—At the Assize Court yesterday the grand jury in the case of Isabella MacMillan Stewart returned "no bill." She was charged with manslaughter in practising the Christian Scientist method of treatment on the late John Kent. No bill was returned in the case of Thomas Tait, superintendent of the C.P.R., on the charge of manslaughter in connection with the Brock-avenue fatality.

The Mimico Tragedy.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—The time of the Assize Court to-day was taken up with the trial of John Byron, charged with manslaughter. It will be remembered that in March the deceased, the prisoner and a party of laboring men and mechanics were going from Toronto to Mimico on a late train one Saturday night, when the prisoner, who was very much under the influence of liquor, quarrelled with the deceased and used filthy language to him. Afterwards on the platform at Mimico the prisoner offered an apology, but deceased refused to accept it. While the parties were walking along the track home deceased struck Byron and Byron struck back, after which it was discovered that Wade had received a wound, from which he died. The jury disagreed on a previous trial. To-day they acquitted the prisoner, evidently believing that Byron used the knife in self-defence.

Claims Insanity Made Him a Thief.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Oct. 15.—The trial of John Spellman, son of millionaire Ed. Spellman of Peoria, is going on in the court. He is accused of robbing a gun store here. Inspector Fleming of the postoffice department is here and wants Spellman for robbing a mail pouch. Sheriff Stalter of Fekin also wants him for safe-blowing, and the authorities of Terre Haute are ready to put him through for robbing a ticket office. He does not deny the acts but claims emotional or impulsive insanity.

Fell Under a Train.

HAMILTON, Oct. 14.—Thomas Lang of this city attempted to board the fast west express at the G.T.R. station while it was in motion and slipped and fell between the cars. His left foot was completely severed below the ankle. Lang was formerly an employe of the G.T.R. and was starting for California.

CREEPS ON US

We naturally begin to think of Underwear and the kind to buy. We look first for an article that is Comfortable, then Durable and not liable to shrink very much in washing. We mention more particularly to-day Ladies' Underwear. It is gratifying to be able to state that our manufacturers have made marvellous strides lately towards perfecting of these goods. We show to-day a full range of what is known as Boltonian Underwear.

They are made of fine natural Cape Wool and are in wide and narrow ribs like boy's hosiery. One of the chief points in their favor is that they are being sold by us at the same price as ordinary common stuff.

Our range of men's and boys Underwear is also very large. We know we have the best and cheapest in the country. Having examined carefully the products of all the leading mills before making selections, as we want our customers to feel when they come to trade with us they do not need to look around to see if they can find anything better or cheaper.

Our Millnery, Mantle, Dress-Making and Tailoring departments are now in full operation.

All the new Materials and Trimmings are to be seen.

We have an immense stock of Mantles of all descriptions, both ladies and children.

We show some very pretty shades in Beaver Cloths in Light and Dark Fawns, Greens, Grenat and Browns.

WINS THE HEAT AND RACE

Exceptionally Excellent Exhibition.

The East Riding Society's Big Success at Norwood—A Splendid All-Round Exhibition—A Formidable List of Entries—Every Department well Filled—Magnificent Weather—Large Attendance—A Thoroughly Successful Show.

The annual exhibition of the East Riding Agricultural Society, held at Norwood on Tuesday and Wednesday, was in all respects the most successful ever held under the auspices of the energetic Board of Directors. The exhibition was characterized by the best weather, the largest list of entries in all departments, the closest competition, the largest attendance, and the greatest all-round success. The directors who have managed the affair with rare judgment and tact are jubilant over the big success, and were kept busy congratulating each other over it, and the members, and inhabitants of the stirring village were not behind hand in their jubilation.

THEY WERE FULLY JUSTIFIED

in their rejoicing, for, in every way, their show was a model success. The total number of entries was greatly in excess of other years—reaching the very high figures of 1,958, greater than the Central Exhibition the present year.

On Wednesday the weather, being Norwood's luck, was beautiful. The East Riding Society seems to be a favorite with the clerk of the weather. Whatever rain and mud he may bestow on other societies, he seems to reserve a couple of fine days for Norwood. During the existence of the Society rain has interfered with the success of the exhibition on only two occasions. With fine weather always on tap, with an energetic directorate, with a model secretary, with a membership loyally devoted to the Society, with a splendid agricultural and stock district tributary to the show, with wide-open arms of welcome from the village, with a vigorous popular patronage of the show, it is no wonder that it is the success it is.

The first day of the exhibition was of course devoted to the placing of the exhibits and the judging of the inside departments. On the second day the and it was followed by visitors who kept the turnstiles humming. It is estimated that at the least three thousand visitors were on the grounds on Wednesday, and they were well repaid for their pains.

The show of stock was very good. There was an excellent exhibition of horses of all classes and in cattle there was a very fine display, the local breeders mustering in strength. It is not necessary to enter into details; the prize list which will afford fuller particulars and present the results of the opinions of competent judges. The show of sheep was exceptionally good and the competition exceptionally stiff. Pigs were numerously and creditably represented and the exhibition of poultry was much above the average.

The manufacturers of agricultural implements, etc., had a very creditable display.

Mr. W. G. Harrison, of Norwood, exhibited a collection of Force and Lift Pumps.

MODEL PUMPS.

Mr. Henry Owens, of Peterborough, whose reputation as a manufacturer of superior pumps is both high and wide, was represented by three of his celebrated pumps—two Model Force and Lift and one Cone pump. Mr. Owens' New Improved Cone Pump has a superiority in design, construction and operation that places it out of reach of all competition in Cone Pumps. Mr. Owens' Model Force and Lift Pump has proved itself so satisfactory in actual use, and stood the test of six years' actual working by thousands of patrons, under the most trying circumstances, that it sustains the claim of its manufacturer of being "the best combined pump in the world. As a lift pump it has no superior, and its construction presents many advantages that make it indeed a "model" pump, defying frost and ordinary wear and having a most convenient and effective hose coupling, and being sold at an exceedingly low price, considering the fact that it is two perfect pumps combined in one.

Mr. John Thompson, of Norwood, had one of Turner's tents for a head office and displayed a Frost & Wood binder, an Eagle Sulky Company seeder, a sulky harrow, champion ploughs, Daisy churn and haytork, besides a collection of buggies, carriages and cutters.

Mr. C. C. Macdonald was on hand with a large collection of Chatham fanning mills.

Mr. W. Plant, of Norwood, exhibited a vertical knife root slicer, straw cutter, the Norwood mower, four ploughs, harrow, land-roller, turnip seeder and gang plough.

Mr. J. Herring, of Norwood, showed two very tasty and neat road carts.

Mr. A. Nicholls had charge of the fine exhibit of the Peter Hamilton Agricultural Works, comprising a Hamilton Light Steel Binder, Daisy seeder, IXL plough, champion plough, No. 7 plough, No. 4 plough and a scuffler.

The inside exhibit was a very fine one. At the very threshold Mr. C. N. Garrison had in operation a spring churn, and once past this a display of fruit of very extensive character challenged admiration. The quality was excellent and the large number of exhibits prevented the possibility of a walk-over for any one or two exhibitors. The show of fruit occupied nearly the whole length of the west-run side of the building.

A RENAISSANCE IN ROOTS.

But the display of roots and vegetables was where the exhibition, like Mark Tapley "came out strong." The humble scribe who inscribes these words, has attended every exhibition held in the county of Peterborough for the past half dozen years, but he has never seen such a display of roots and vegetables as he saw at Norwood, on Wednesday. Some of the mangolds and other roots looked as if a good sized fence post could be planted to the regulation frost proof depth, in the hole they left when they were withdrawn out of the earth, while one would think a stumplifter would have to be used to harvest the Graystone turnips. Verily in the raising of roots the East Riding of Peterborough "goes the whole hog,"—and of the large breed, too. The vegetables were also numerous, and the grains, in both quality and variety, simply superb.

The ladies had a fine representation in the inside exhibit. There was golden butter galore, worthy to be spread on the snowy breast, on exhibition, there were preserves, pickles and honey, worthy to flank

SUCH BREAD AND BUTTER;

There were home made flannels, blankets, quilts, counterpanes, stockings, socks and mitts, rugs and carpets; and there was a wonderful and daintily spread of fancy work, with names as bewildering as the variety—altogether a splendid display.

Mr. T. Howard and Mr. F. Tyler, of Hastings, had elaborate spreads of harness for horses, single and double, strong and fancy.

Mr. H. P. Matthews, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was in charge of the Manitoba and North-West exhibits of grains, grasses, etc.

Mr. J. Hendren, Norwood, had a space devoted to two specimens of the celebrated Kerr cabinet organs.

Mr. J. S. Patterson had a very creditable display of turned work in cedar and other fancy woods, which was warmly admired.

NOTES.

The East Riding won the last heat of the exhibition races of 1890 in a canter.

The Norwood brass band was on the grounds and liberally furnished good music.

The ladies of St. John's (English) church supplied excellent meals on the grounds and received a very generous patronage. They gave dinner and tea and it was tea, too.

There is talk among the directors of improving the buildings for next year.

A very large number of visitors went down to Norwood on the train—at single fare rates for the day.

There were no fits observed in the neighbourhood of the Norwood Exhibition.

Live Stock Markets.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—At the cattle market to-day the run was 63 loads of fresh stock, with none held over. The market was hardly as firm as last week. The cables were favorable to fat export cattle, but the market yesterday was not correspondingly good. There was hardly as many fat cattle in as last Friday, and 4½c. per pound was the best price offering, except for extra good lots. For a load of choice 4½c. per pound was paid. The increase in freight rates which is coming with the end of the season may have had some effect, as well as the large shipments of North-west cattle. There was some buying of prime fat cattle for the Montreal syndicate and Mr. John Rogers shipped 400 cattle to Montreal last night. The buying of stockers was good, and feeders for distillery purposes were being picked up readily at from 3½ to 4c. per pound. Well-bred steers weighing from 1,000 lbs. to 1,050 lbs. were selling for 3½c. per lb. There was a good run of butchers' cattle, and they dragged a little. The quality of butchers' cattle has not improved, and a good deal of coarse stuff is being put on the market. Good export cattle may be quoted at 4c. to 4½c. per lb.; medium and bulls, 3½c. per lb. to $3 87 per cwt. Butchers' extra, $3 75 per cwt.; choice $3.50 to $3.60, and medium to good, $3.25 to $3.50 per cwt.

There were about 500 hogs on the market. The highest price was $4.85 a cwt. for a double-decker for Montreal. The general price was from $4 25 to $4 50. Stores are not wanted, but a lot was bought at $4 25 per cwt. 42 mixed hogs, weighing 169 lbs. each, fetched $4.50, and 32, weighing better than 125, sold for $4 25.

There were quite a few springers in, but they were not selling as readily as last week. Prices ran from $35 to $45 each, 3 sold for 36 each, 2 for $87.50 each, and 4 for $41 each.

The Dairy Market.

INGERSOLL, Oct. 14—There was very little change in the cheese market held here to-day from that of last week. Offerings to-day 1,200, principally September make. Sales, 200 August at 9½c; 350 September at 10c.; market quiet.

UTICA, Oct. 14—An improvement was looked for in the cheese market yesterday, but it was not realized. Prices were substantially the same as a week ago. There was a trifle more firmness manifested, but there was not sufficient strength to cause any boom. Transactions—4 lots, 400 boxes, at 8½c.; 48 lots, 5,087 boxes, at 9c.; 29 lots, 2,160 boxes, at 9⅛c.; 15 lots, 1,167 boxes, at 9⅜c.; 7 lots, 776 boxes, at 9½c.; 1 lot, 125 boxes, private; 14 lots, 889 boxes, commission. Total, 118 lots, 10,584 boxes; ruling price, 9c. Transactions same date last year aggregated 13,843 boxes; ruling price, 9⅜c.

Purify Your Blood

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is hereditary and transmitted from generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. Thousands testify to the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier. Full information and statements of cures sent free.

THE COURT OF ENGLAND.

HER MAJESTY QUEEN VICTORIA AND HER DAILY LIFE.

Some of the Secrets of the English Courts—The Queen's Private Life—Her Business Engagements and Her Private Fortune—Duties of Attendant Ladies.

How tiresome must be the life in which is no chance of even mild bohemianism. What pleasure of contrast is missed when one never knows what it means to lack the few dollars necessary to complete some much desired purchase. What delights are gone when one may not sometimes, a-weary of life and its struggles and trials, fly off on some improvised excursion, forgetful of trouble, to drink in great draughts of health and spirits. Bohemianism is good for the brain. It is a tonic that restores energy and hope to the fagged will and tired heart.

The Queen, unhappy lady, knows naught of all this unless in the far-off younger days the stolen half-hour flights beyond the ken of the governess and "lady in waiting," and the delicious momentary reveling in freedom may be called bohemianism. It is a mild form, but as all things are relative perhaps it was as great a delight in its way as we ordinary people can have.

In the secluded and monotonously regular life led by the Queen there is only thing tending to subversal of the ordinary rules. Her majesty has always been something of a night owl, and the habit of late retiring clings to her despite the progress of years and the coming of those infirmities that years bring with them. She seldom retires before 1 o'clock in the morning, and it may sometimes happen that it is close on "cock crow" before the royal eyes have closed in sleep. This means, of course, late rising. The Queen seldom leaves her room until 11 in the morning. By this time she has been heard to say with more of truth perhaps than originality, "the early is properly aired." It by no means follows, however, that she has not already done an hour or two's good work before she left her room.

Let us with all due decorum and respect follow the sunbeams as they peep into her morning room at the hour for rising. We are specially privileged to be able to do this, for the "fierce light that beats upon a throne" does not shine so fiercely of these later days, and kings and queens are by no means such demi-gods as were the Stuarts. Who, to read Pepys or Evelyn's diaries it seems that the "merry monarch" lived his whole life in a blaze of publicity, enjoying before the gaze of many eyes even the blandishments of the various ladies, whose generous belief in the divine right of kings resulted in the foundation of the now still existing dukedoms. It is no longer possible for anybody with energy and a few shillings to procure access to a gallery from which he may watch royalty down below gracefully consuming its dinner; nor is the closet open to the importunate gentlemen. It would be a natural thing to suppose that the eight women of the bed-chamber who serve her majesty at salaries of £1,500 each would be near to aid in the royal toilet. But no! they serve in turn for two weeks each, so that each of these ladies—for they are all "dames of high degree"—serves two weeks in every four months. At least she is liable to thus serve. As a matter of fact, however, she is not called upon excepting for state occasions, so her office is practically a sinecure.

It was not always thus. In the quaint correspondence of Henrietta, countess of Suffolk, the curious nature of the duties of the bed-chamber women is thus set forth: "The bed-chamber woman came into waiting before the Queens prayers, which was before she was dressed. The Queen often shifted in a morning. If her majesty shifted at noon, the bed-chamber lady being by, the bed chamber woman gave the shift to the lady without any ceremony, and the lady put it on. Sometimes likewise the bed-chamber woman gave the fan to the lady in the same manner; and this was all that the bed-chamber lady did about the Queen in her dressing. When the Queen washed her hands the page of the back stairs brought, and set down on the side table, the hand water. Then the bed chamber woman set it before the Queen and knelt on the other side of the table over against the Queen, the bed-chamber lady only looking on. The bed-chamber woman poured the water out of the ewer upon the Queen's hands. The bed-chamber woman pulled on the Queen's gloves when she could not do it herself. The page of the back stairs was called in to put on the Queen's shoes. When the Queen dined in public the page reached the glass to the bed-chamber woman and she to the lady in waiting. The bed-chamber woman brought the chocolate and gave it without kneeling. In general, the bed-chamber woman had no dependence on the lady of the bed-chamber.

All this absurd and cumbrous etiquette is swept away in these more common sense times, and the Queen makes her toilet, assisted by willing maid servants, in the same way as any other English gentlewoman. But the women of the bed-chamber still continue to hold their positions and to draw their yearly salaries for their arduous labors, their duties after all being summed up in this one sentence. They are part of that pomp and pageantry without which a court is no court and royal persons are seen to be only human beings.

Besides the women of the bed-chamber the ladies of the bed-chamber are also retained. These are always ladies of the very highest rank. For instance, at the present moment the dowager duchesses of Athole and Roxburghe, the marchioness of Ely and others equally important in the peerage are included in the list.

In the early days of this reign, when the Queen was young and supposed to be easily influenced by her surroundings, and when the wings were detested on the Jamaica hill and Lord Melbourne resigned the premiership, Sir Robert Peel refused to construct a ministry unless the ladies of the bed-chamber were changed. So Melbourne remained in office. It was only a few years before that "Old Hickory" in Washington was dismissing a cabinet because the wives of its members refused to extend social attention to the wife of a newly appointed secretary. So that on both sides of the Atlantic women had in one decade the satisfaction of openly controlling two ministries.

The ladies of the bed chamber are in attendance for a fortnight, each thrice a year. The lady in waiting for the time being is regarded something in the light of the officer of the day, and recourse is had to her for information and the Queen gives her directions. She is understood to be the "mistress of the room," and in the absence of the duchess, who is head of all these ladies under title of "mistress of the robes," the lady in waiting is occasionally obliged to give an order. To assist her in this labor there are two "maids of honor." There are eight of these serving two at a time for four weeks. They are in effect, as are the ladies of the bed-chamber simply companions to the Queen, and they have practically no other duties than would devolve upon the companion of the mistress of a large and wealthy household. The maids of honor as would naturally be expected in the court of an aged Queen, are ladies of a certain age who have left behind them the frivolities of youth and the probabilities of a husband. The favorite perhaps, if one can say that so diplomatic a Queen has a favorite, among the maids, is the Honorable Harriet Phipps, a charming lady who abundantly deserves the confidence she has won. She was, not long since, the victim of what is considered in a land where precedence is of such importance, a most dreadful experience. A friend of hers, a lady of excellent social position, had a son whom she was desirous of putting into the secretaryship of some company. To cajole a self-made man, who had his pockets full of such plums, the mother promised to bring to dine with him the Honorable Miss Phipps. This was a great honor, and the rich man chuckled. The night came and so did the dinner and all the guests. Now, however much the host might stand in awe of a lady who was maid of honor to the Queen, he had strong notions as to the dignity of the married state. He therefore, instead of extending his arm to Miss Phipps, conducts into dinner the mother of "Young Hopeful," remarking genially to the honorable lady that, "being an unmarried woman, she would not mind coming into dinner alone." Tableau! Angry maid of honor, discomfited mother, secretaryship floating off in the dim distance.

After her late breakfast in her own private apartments, a simple meal according to our substantial American ideas, her majesty gives attention to public business. Whether she be at the ancient castle of Windsor, or at the lovely spot in the Isle of Wight that overlooks the waves and the white-winged yachts, or amid the pines and firs of rugged Balmoral, there constantly follow her, great dispatch boxes, full of documents requiring inspection and signature. She remarked to Minister Lincoln not long ago that "a change in the American presidency always meant more work for her, as there were so many new exequaturs for American consuls to be signed." All such acts she does personally in her firm signature, which has not varied in years, and which shows power and dignity. Her majesty's private secretary assists her in this work, the well-known and popular Sir Henry Ponsonby, as he does also in the opening of her letters. This is no light task, for she receives an enormous mail. She has a good deal of assistance with her letters from her daughter Princess Beatrice, whose ornamental husband and children are not permitted to take her entire attention. During these hours the Queen is bright and cheerful. She is greatly loved by those immediately about her. This is the best testimony of character that she could have. She is always kindly and considerate. Her health is robust for her age, though she suffers somewhat from twinges of rheumatism. The princess of Wales, younger, much vainer and more impatient, is not always so greatly beloved by those immediately around her as her royal mother-in-law.

(Concluded To-morrow.)

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ON SOAP,

IN RELATION TO THE COMPLEXION.

FROM AN ARTICLE BY

Dr. ANDREW WILSON, F.R.S.E.,

Lecturer on Health under the "Combe Trust;"
Lecturer on Physiology at the Edinburgh University;
Editor of "Health."

"One important caution should be given, and that is concerning the use of soaps. I would strongly advise all who care for their skin to eschew the use of common soap, which simply roughens and injures the skin, and, if you will be advised by me, I would say never buy those artificially coloured and odoriferous abominations commonly sold under the name of 'Scented' or 'Fancy Soaps' which are the frequent causes of skin eruptions. If I am prepared to recommend any one soap to you, as a satisfactory and scientifically prepared article, I would certainly advise you to buy and use 'Pears' Soap.' Not merely from personal use can I recommend this soap, but I am well content to shelter myself under the names and authority of the late Sir Erasmus Wilson, F.R.S., President of the Royal College of Surgeons; of Doctor Stevenson Macadam, or of Professors Redwood and Attfield, the eminent analytical and chemical lecturers at the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, who testify to its entire purity. Furthermore, I believe it to be very economical, for it contains no free water, and in this respect differs from all other soaps; hence a cake of 'Pears' is really all soap and not soap and water. I know cases of irritable skin which the whole tribe of much-vaunted 'Fancy Soaps' failed to allay, but which disappeared under the use of Pears' Soap, and for the nursery and for the delicate skin of infancy no better or more soothing soap can possibly be used. There can be no doubt that in respect of the care of children, attention to the skin is specially required. If common soaps are irritating to the skin of the adult, (as they unquestionably are), they are doubly and trebly injurious to the delicate skin of the infant and young child. I can vouch that the soap I am recommending is not merely a safe but an advantageous one. It does not irritate the skin; but, while serving as a detergent and cleanser, also acts as an emollient."

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,204, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	6.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	3,470,020	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.54
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,722,100	30 19
London Life	1,644,285	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their hamlier competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

"Helpful Words."

The EXAMINER acknowledges with thanks the receipt of a very neat little brochure entitled "Helpful Words," the joint authorship of the Misses C. B. and E. Sanderson whose literary instincts are widely known as well as their hearty devotion of them to the promotion of moral movements. This little booklet contains a great many tender and helpful thoughts woven into graceful sentences and no person can peruse it without feeling an added impulse to striving after higher spiritual and moral attainments.

Just One More Drink.

Jimmy Cash last night fell a victim to his intemperate habits, and, at the same time, to the majesty of the law, as represented by the stalwart gentlemen in helmets and bright-buttoned blue uniforms. In the police court he was very penitent. He was allowed to go unfined on condition that he left town immediately. This he readily promised to do, and as he was leaving the prisoner's box he raised his hand and very impressively said, "I'll not take another drink, either." Instantly he retracted his rash vow, and, stepping back into the box, said, "Yes, I'll take just one more drink. I won't tell any lies about it." With a cheery "God bless you," Jimmy left the court room.

Market Mutations.

The market square is undergoing an extensive reconstruction. It is intended to lay down a cedar block paving on the north side of Charlotte street, from George to Water streets, over which wagons may be driven at any point. When this is done no wagons are to occupy that side—it is to be open as a thoroughfare. As soon as the site of the old market building is levelled, the walk from the Opera House arcade will be extended to Water street, and the scales removed to the south side of the market square, which will be known as the hay market. New walks have been built along Water street and behind the new market building. Altogether the market will be greatly improved by the alterations to be made.

When the Leaves Begin to Fall.

A pall of smoke hangs over the town, and the air is impregnated with the stifling fumes of immense bonfires which may be seen blazing brightly at all hours of the day evening upon the streets. A prominent citizen, with tears in his eyes (from the smoke), said to the EXAMINER last evening that habits of tidiness and cleanliness are admirable qualities at all times, but when these objects are attained at the sacrifice of the public convenience and safety, it is time to call a halt. He refers to the practice of gathering dead leaves in piles upon the streets and getting rid of them by burning. Clouds of smoke ascend from these miniature volcanoes, which, driven by the wind in all directions, choke up the eyes and lungs of pedestrians, fill all the houses in the neighborhood, and frighten horses into running away, and perhaps doing serious damage. When a score of these fires are burning at once in different parts of the town the effect is intensified. A question is raised whether the building of fires upon the public thoroughfares is not a breach of the law in spirit, if not in letter. The EXAMINER'S attention was also called to the circumstance by a legal gentlemen, who gave it as his opinion that it was contrary to the statute which prohibits nuisance and obstructions upon the streets. People may fire up to a reasonable extent in their own yards, but the streets are common property and must not be interfered with by individuals. In any case, he argues, the unpleasantness could be abated by the carting of the leaves to some out-of-the-way place for burning.

St. Luke's Ladies' Social.

A successful social was held at the residence of Mrs. Orde, Ashburnham, Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the ladies of St. Luke's church. There were about a hundred people present. The feature of the evening was a brace of presentations to Mr. F. Saunders, who leaves town in a short time to take a preparatory course at college before undertaking missionary work in China. Mr. Saunders was a teacher in St. Luke's Sunday school, and the pupils, through one of their number, Mr. Roberts, presented Mr. Saunders with an address and portmanteau. On behalf of the choir, of which he was also a member, Mr. Saunders was further presented with an address, a handsome plush-covered dressing case and manicure set, and a double ink stand. The address expressed the warm wishes of his friends for a successful and useful career in the missionary field. Mr. Saunders replied that St. Luke's church had become as a home to him, and he felt sorry at having to leave his good friends. He would always remember them with feelings of pleasure in his far away home or wherever he might be. A short musical programme was rendered, solos being sung by Miss Sophie Cameron, Miss Barlee and Miss Hall, and instrumental selections performed by Mrs. Peck and Mrs. Orde. During the evening refreshments were dispensed, for a slight extra charge, in the lunch room. The result of the evening's entertainment was gratifying, both financially and socially. The attendance was drawn from different denominations. Rev. J. W. McCleary was among the guests, all of whom were loud in their praises of their hospitable entertainment.

"Anglo Israel."

Among the people there has been comparatively little interest shown in the subject indicated by the above title, yet it has engaged the attention of the most learned scholars and diligent archaeologists of the age. In the book just published, "Anglo-Saxon Israel, or the Saxon Race Proven to be the Lost Tribes of Israel," by Dr. Poole, the subject is treated with great clearness. In the course of a book of about seven hundred pages, the author, who was about thirty-five or forty years ago pastor of the George street Methodist church, gives the result of many years of careful research, which goes to show very clearly that there is a very distinct and clear connection between the Saxon race and the lost tribes of Israel. The author proceeds to point out the real relation between the Jews of the present day with the House of Israel, the glorious future awaiting that people when they come to Shiloh and accept the Messiah Jesus; the union of Israel and Judah, and the conversion and salvation of the Gentile nations through their instrumentality; the perpetuity and stability of David's throne, and the great work which "that battle axe of the Lord" has to do in clearing the way for the gospel chariot; the fate that surely awaits the despotism, superstition and idolatry of of the Gentile nations, as our Anglo-Saxon language, civilization and Christianity roll on their conquering way. Dr. Poole covers the ground of the discussion with great thoroughness, and takes especial pains to buttress every position he assumes with Scriptural proof. The book is profusely illustrated with maps, engravings, etc., which are full of interest to every Bible student as well as to those who take an interest in the special subject forming the raison d'etre of this interesting book. Its merit in this respect may be judged from the following testimony of Dr. Wild, the Bond street seer, who is an enthusiast on the Anglo-Israelitish cult. He says:—"Last week I had the pleasure and profit of reading Rev. Mr. Poole's new book, 'Anglo-Israel, or the Saxon Race.' Every point is clearly proved. I would to God a copy could be placed in the hands of every minister, and in every home. I cannot see how anyone reading it can remain indifferent, or fail to be persuaded." Rev. Dr. Poole is at present in town introducing his invaluable work to our citizens, to whose courteous attention the EXAMINER commends him.

Woman's Intuition.

Nearly Always Right in her Judgment in Regard to Common Things.

An old gentleman over seventy, came into the city from the farm, without his overcoat. The day turned chilly and he was obliged to forego his visit to the fair.

To a friend who remonstrated with him for going away from home thus unprepared, he said:—"I thought it was going to be warm; my wife told me to take my overcoat, but I wouldn't. Women have more sense than men, anyway."

A frank admission.

Women's good sense is said to come from intuition; may it not be that they are more close observers of little things. One thing is certain, they are apt to strike the nail on the head, in all the ordinary problems of life, more frequently than the lords of creation.

"According to Dr. Alice Bennett, who recently read a paper on Bright's disease before the Pennsylvania State Medical Society, persons subject to bilious attacks and sick headaches, who have crawling sensations, like the flowing of water in the head, who are 'tired all the time' and have unexplained attacks of sudden weakness, may well be suspected of dangerous tendencies in the direction of Bright's disease."

The veteran newspaper correspondent, Joe Howard, of the New York Press, in noting this statement, suggests: "Possibly Alice is correct in her diagnosis, but why doesn't she give some idea of treatment? I know a man who has been 'tired all the time' for ten years. Night before last he took two doses of calomel and yesterday he wished he hadn't."

A proper answer is found in the following letter of Mrs. Davis, wife of Rev. Wm. J. Davis, of Basil, O., June 21st, 1890:—

"I do not hesitate to say that I owe my life to Warner's Safe Cure. I had a constant hemorrhage from the kidneys for more than five months. The physicians could do nothing for me. My husband spent hundreds of dollars and I was not relieved. I was under the care of the most eminent medical men of the state. The hemorrhage ceased before I had taken one bottle of the Safe Cure. I can safely and do cheerfully recommend it to all who are sufferers of kidney troubles."

Personal.

Rev. Mr. Smythe, of Harriston, is in town to-day, and gave the EXAMINER a call. His many friends in Cavan and vicinity will be glad to welcome a former citizen, who has gained a large popularity as a preacher and a pastor, though they deplore the sad necessity that called him to this neighborhood, the death of his niece, Miss Crowe.

Mr. Richard Sheehy returned to town last night from Hamilton, where he has spent the spring and summer. He had the contract for the excavation, stone-work and brick-work of the new St. Lawrence R. C. Church in that city. He completed it to the entire satisfaction of Rev. Father McEvay, rector of the parish, and the church authorities. Mr. Sheehy also built a coach house and stables for the parochial residence.

Business Situation at Chicago.

From Irwin, Green & Co.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The decrease of 2,168,000 bushels of wheat on passage was the chief feature in wheat to-day, and started the market with a strong feeling, which was well maintained by firmer cables and small stocks east. Shorts covered freely, and this with heavy local selling caused a weak closing. Without continued strong news tomorrow the outlook is lower.

Messrs. Pellatt & Pellatt, Toronto, received the following despatch from Munnie, Bodman & Co:—On strong cables and two million decrease on passage, wheat opened and has ruled about a cent higher, closing very unsettled. Heavy local longs fed the market steadily, the property being absorbed by fresh bulls and the shorts. The character of the selling and buying was equally good. Oats strong, active demand for cash at fancy prices. Corn and provisions tame. May wheat $1.07½, corn 52½, oats 43½c, pork $12 30.

Professor Dorenwend's Only Visit This Season.

In another column of our paper will be found the announcement of a visit by Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto. We were somewhat at a loss to understand how it was that he did not visit us sooner, but enquiries made at the Paris Hair Works, Toronto, bring the information that on account of the vast increase of business at Toronto it is not possible for him to make as many visits to outside places as formerly. So our ladies and gentlemen who patronize the Prof. will have to make it a point to see him this time, as his visit will be the only one of the season. He has always proved himself to be up to the times, his goods in style and workmanship have always given the highest satisfaction. There should be big business awaiting him this visit. He has some new styles which both old and young will admire. His stay is limited, as he has many places to visit, so call on him early. He will be at Phelan's Hotel, Peterborough on Friday and Saturday, 17th and 18th October. dw

Taking Time by the Forelock.

Mr. W. J. Morrow, the grocer, with his customary enterprise, has adopted a very novel and striking mode of advertising his business. The dials of the old town clock are to be converted into immense bill-boards, and Mr. Morrow's name and business painted in large letters upon the four faces. This unique sign board will attract the attention of people from far and near. The painters at work now and in a few days Mr. Morrow's advertisement will stand out prominently and attractively, like a revised edition of Liberty enlightening the world.

The Last Sad Rites.

The funeral of the late Jos. Buller, jr., took place this afternoon. A long procession of Foresters accompanied the remains to the cemetery, where the funeral obsequies were conducted under the auspices of the Order. Deceased was a member of Court Little John, C.O.F., in which he had a life insurance for $1,000.

What is a Day's Labour?

One day's work for a healthy liver is to secrete three and a half pounds of bile. If the bile secretion be deficient, constipation ensues; if profuse, biliousness and jaundice arise. A ROYAL LADY STUDENT.

THE DUCHESS OF EDINBURGH AND HER HOME LIFE.

She Devotes many Hours Daily to Literature—A Glimpse at Clarence House—Her Husband Commands England's Navy—A Daughter-in-Law of Queen Victoria.

Clarence House, St. James's, is the town residence of Her Royal and Imperial Highness Maria Alexandrovna, Duchess of Edinburgh, the only daughter of His Imperial Majesty Alexander II., Emperor of Russia. Part of every year is spent at Cobourg, to which Grand Duchy His Royal Highness succeeds after the demise of the reigning Grand Duke, his uncle. Their family at the present time consists of four children, a son and three daughters. Prince Alfred of Edinburgh is now nearly sixteen years of age. He is a fine, manly boy, admirably brought up, studious and well informed, popular with his professors and school colleagues. He is already an officer in the German Army, as befits the probable heir to the Grand Dukedom of Cobourg.

The Princesses of Edinburgh may be frequently met riding in the neighborhood of Cobourg, the Duchess's favorite residence being the beautiful Schloss Rosenau, the birthplace of the Prince Consort, and one of Her Majesty's favorite resorts in former years. Here the Duchess, although accustomed from infancy to all the elaborate ceremony and splendid ritual of the Russian Court, leads a most healthy, unostentatious life, her chief amusements being picnics in the lovely woods. Highly educated in every respect and possessing intellectual capacity far beyond the average, Her Royal Highness watches her children's progress with keenest interest.

Devoting many hours daily to literature, few subjects worthy of study escape her observation. An excellent linguist, she speaks and writes fluently Russian, English, German, French and Italian, has a thorough knowledge of music, and performs admirably on the piano.

Her Royal Highness clings naturally to the orthodox religion of her own country, the "Greek Church," in which she was educated, but her children are scrupulously trained in the religion of their father, and she may often be seen accompanying them to the English Church.

The promotion of His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh to the rank of Admiral, and the command of the Mediterranean Squadron, necessitated, as in duty bound, the return of the Duchess and her children to Malta, where they spent the Winters of 1886, 1887, 1888. During the time their Royal Highnesses made occasional visits to Italy and Sicily, and the Duchess was able to gratify her taste in the study of art and antiquity in general, and more particularly on the subject of ecclesiastical architecture, a matter on which she is unusually well informed.

Her Royal Highness became quite attached to Malta, and her departure is yet a subject of personal regret to all classes, especially to the large circle of naval friends who frequently enjoyed her friendship and hospitality. In conclusion, it may truly be said Her Royal Highness is a model wife and mother, charitable, generous and, like the Princess of Wales, ever ready to co-operate in any good work, and a liberal patroness of art in every branch.

The accompanying interesting illustration of Clarence House give but a faint idea of the richness and beauty of its internal decorations. His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh possesses some of the finest collection, of arms and weapons of every description, interesting and valuable souvenirs of his extensive travels, as well as the rarest collection of old Venetian glass and lustre ware in existence.

FOOLED HER HUBBY.

A Mid-Air Performer's Pretty Wife Tried to Skip With His Funds.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 15.—Achille Philion, the daring mid-air performer, was neatly outwitted by his wife here Saturday, but he has got more than even with her. His wife was treasurer of the Spiral Tower Combination. She was married about four years ago. Her stage name was Aimee Herebt. She is about 21 years old. Towards the end of the London engagement, which terminated last Saturday, there was a quarrel between Philion and his wife. Just what the reason was has not transpired. On Saturday Mrs. Philion fell in the passageway of the hotel where the pair were stopping. Her husband was with her at the time. She was carried upstairs complaining that her ankle was sprained. Philion rubbed liniment on the ankle and did everything he could to stop the pain. Finally he went away to attend to his business. Then Mrs. Philion jumped nimbly out of bed, went down to the hotel office, paid the company's bill, wrote her husband a note inclosing $50, packed up personal belongings and fled. She had $300 in her possession that morning, and when she got away it was reduced to about $225. She went to St. Thomas and caught the Michigan Central mail train, which arrives in Buffalo at 8 p.m. When Philion learned of his wife's flight he promptly applied to the police. Messages were sent to different points. Officer Griffin of Fort Erie espied Mrs. Philion on the Michigan Central train at 7¼ last Saturday evening. She had a ticket for New York. Officer Griffin promptly arrested her, and she promptly went into hysterics. Officer Hyder of the London detective force was at once despatched to Fort Erie to take charge of the prisoner. Philion followed, arriving at Fort Erie yesterday. There were tears, explanations and a complete reconciliation. The husband withdrew the charge at once.

WAS THIS A MURDER?

Mysterious Death of Jack McAuliffe's Alleged Wife.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Jack McAuliffe, the champion light-weight pugilist of America, was arrested in Brooklyn this morning on suspicion of having caused the death of Katie Hart, the well-known soubrette, in the Westside Hotel at Fifteenth-street and Sixth-avenue yesterday afternoon. It had been known for some time past in the theatrical profession that McAuliffe was engaged to marry Katie Hart. She was a young woman of remarkable physical beauty, about 18 years old, and apparently deeply in love with the boxer. She was playing here in "The Natural Gas Co." McAuliffe entered the Westside Hotel about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, accompanied by the young woman, and called for a room. Towards 5 o'clock McAuliffe rushed down the stairs of the hotel and told the clerk that his wife had just died and begged him to send for a physician. When the latter arrived he found the young woman lying dead on the bed. When the police saw the body a slight wound on the nose and a swelling of the upper lip were noticed. The cause of death as given by the physician in attendance was heart failure. An inquest will be held.

The autopsy since held showed that the actress died from heart disease. The body was removed to her mother's home, and McAuliffe will be released.

J. C. Rykert's Case.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 14.—At the Police Court yesterday the charge of breach of trust and perjury preferred against Mr. J. C. Rykert, M.P., by Rev. Mr. Tompkins was re-opened and partially investigated. The case was dismissed a short time ago by Magistrate Comfort in the absence of documentary evidence. The history of the case is briefly as follows: During the progress of a trial in the Supreme Court of New York City, Andrews v. Tompkins, the defendant's veracity was questioned, and he then swore to an affidavit which stated that Mr. Rykert had been his solicitor but he had been dismissed for infidelity. Mr. Rykert then took affidavit that he had never acted in the capacity of solicitor for Mr. Tompkins. Mr. Tompkins lost his suit, as he claims, through the affidavits of Mr. Rykert and others reflecting on his character, and is thus trying to get even with the defendant. Mr. Rykert stoutly maintains that it was Mrs. Tompkins and not Mr. Tompkins who was his client and that all the legal bills were settled by her. The evidence was long and prosy, lasting several hours and involving a number of nice technicalities.

A Strange Fungus.

Once, while sitting in the woods by the edge of a stream, a young companion called my attention to an orange-colored cone about three-quarters of an inch in height protruding from a bed of green moss at my elbow. I discovered it to be the cap of a small mushroom, whose stem penetrated deep into the moss. With much care I succeeded in separating the moss, being curious to discover upon what the fungus had grown, and to my astonishment, when I drew it to the surface, found it attached to a chrysalis an inch and a half in length. The branching roots of the fungus penetrated the interior, and a dissection of the chrysalis showed the perfectly formed moth ready to emerge, but now being transformed from an insect into a fungus by the absorption of the plant. What do we infer by this? I have never seen this species described, except in my own paper in the Scientific American some years since, but it is safe to assume that if it is ever seen again, in the moss or elsewhere, the same chrysalis will be drawn to the surface with it, for it plainly belongs to a genus of fungi of which several species are known, and one or two of which are among the most remarkable of their tribe. In New Zealand, for instance, there is a similar species which has a fancy for the head of a certain caterpillar. It grows rapidly to the length of several inches, gradually absorbing the body of the insect and at length takes root in the ground and continues its growth.

In the Chinese apothecaries' shops we may obtain a queer bundle, like a small bunch of crooked dried faggots, about four inches in length. They are powdered and used as medicine by the innocent Celestials, and are a regular article in their pharmacopoeia. It needs but a second glance to see that these dried sticks consists of a long-stemmed fungus attached to the head of a wrinkled dead caterpillar, a species known as the Sphaeria Chinensis in the technical words.

These are only one or two of the typical eccentricities of this wonderful tribe of fungous growths. Almost any half-hour's walk in the country will show us many equally as curious.—William Hamilton Gibson, in Harper's Young People.

THE FATAL CRUISE OF A TURKISH MAN-OF-WAR

Tales of the Survivors. Hundreds of Brave Men Drowned Within Sight of Land—Graphic Description of the Wreck.

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 25.—The waters of Japan have recently been the scene of a most tragical disaster. Not the loss of the Eurydice, nor of the Atalanta, nor even the recent disaster at Samoa, has resulted in so many deaths as has the wrecking of the Turkish man-of war Ertogrul in the typhoon of September 18. The Ertogrul left the harbor of Yokohama on the forenoon of September 15, and, firing a parting salute of twenty-one guns in honor of the Japanese flag, shaped her course for the south. On Sept. 18 telegrams were received from Kobe announcing that the Ertogrul had been wrecked off Oo Shima light, which marks the north side of the entrance to Kii channel, and that of the 655 persons on board only 69 had been saved. Rear Admiral Osman Pacha, the son of the Turkish Minister of Marine, perished with the vessel.

The Ertogrul was a wooden frigate and was built by the Turkish Government at Constantinople in 1863.

She carried a large battery of broadside guns and four 7.5-inch breech-loading rifles, was full ship rigged and was supplied with auxiliary steam power, her horse power being about 600.

The lesson of this disaster, like that taught at Samoa, would seem to be that a little steam power, like a little learning, is a dangerous thing

It seems that the Ertogrul was steaming along the coast, probably with the intention of sighting Oo Sima light. Suddenly the steam pipe burst, disabling the already weak engine. The vessel was rendered helpless and quickly became a wreck.

The full nature of the accident will probably never be known, as the destruction was so complete that those who were in possession of the facts are not alive to bear witness. According to one account the ship was so close to shore that she struck a rock, and, either by the working of the ship or owing to her inertia the boilers were carried away from their fastenings and at least one exploded, shattering the ship into fragments and hurling the crew maimed, mutilated and dying, into air and sea.

Though the survivors can explain them selves in nothing but Turkish, enough has been gathered to give a faint idea of the horrors of the scene. The captain of the ship, Ali Bey, appeared on the bridge and gave orders to lower the boats, but as soon as they reached the water they were either swamped or carried away by the heavy sea which was running. Those of the crew who were not killed outright by the explosion crowded up the hatches to the upper deck, where a scene of wild confusion reigned. Many seemed to be crazed by fright or bodily injury, and the completeness of the wreck and the apparent inability to discover any chance of rescue turned the heads of the stoical and brave Turks.

The scene must have been a perfect pandemonium, for Ali Bey, finding that there was no means of escape for the crew, gave the order to "save yourselves," and after reiterating it several times plunged overboard. He was not seen again, and apparently made no effort to save himself. In less than five minutes the shattered wreck sank, leaving the sea full of struggling men. Although the distance from shore is only 1½ miles, the sea was so heavy that none but the strongest swimmers could reach it, and of the hundred who made the attempt but few succeeded. Osman Pacha, who was striking out bravely for the shore, was struck on the head by a spar and sank. One by one the exhausted swimmers gave up until the morning light showed that only 69 men were alive, and many of them with broken legs or arms or other injuries received in getting ashore through the heavy surf.

The condition of the survivors was pitiable, but they received from the Japanese fishermen every help that their limited means would permit. A passing Japanese steamer, the Bojt-Maru, was signalled on the day after the wreck, and as the vessel was too small to take all the survivors two were sent aboard to go to Kobe, about 100 miles distant, and seek relief. They arrived on the evening of the 18th, and brought the first news of the almost unprecedented disaster which had befallen their ship.

Over 100 bodies have been washed ashore at Oshima and buried by the Japanese. The completeness of the destruction is shown by the fact that there appears to be hardly any wreckage and by the mutilated condition of many of the bodies, some coming ashore in fragments. The survivors are now being cared for by the Japanese Government and will receive every kindness and attention until arrangements can be perfected for their return to their native land.

Shortly before the Ertogrul sailed from Yokohama cholera broke out on board and about 40 deaths were the result. The ship was taken to the quarantine station, where, in spite of all disinfectants, new cases broke out each day. It was just after leaving the quarantine station and while en route for Kobe that the fatal accident occurred.

Fourteen Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Old Dr. McGonegal who murdered pretty Annie Goodwin, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Fitzgerald, in the Court of General Sessions, to State Prison for 14 years. McGonegal is now more than 70 years old and a pretty vigorous old man. It is possible that he may be alive and strong enough to walk out of prison in April, 1904, if he shall have been perfect in his behavior up to that time.

Judge Fitzgerald said: "McGonegal, I do not know of any case where circumstantial evidence proved the case of the prosecution more clearly. It appears from the facts that you are a heartless, cruel old man. I have been put in possession of facts about your career that show that you have more than likely committed other crimes. The only thing that entitles you to clemency is your age. Under the statute I might sentence you to from 5 to 20 years in State Prison. You are over 70 years old. The sentence of this court is that you be confined in State Prison at hard labor for 14 years."

Jay Gould's manners are coming to the front. One of them says: "I have always had a warm side for the little man since I learned what he did for Jim Fisk's widow. Fisk was the dress parade member of the old firm of Gould & Fisk, while Gould was the money-maker. Fisk left absolutely nothing, but Gould gave his widow $2,000,000 in Government bonds."

FOR LOVE HE DIED.

Fatal End of a Duel in a North Carolina Town.

LEXINGTON, N.C., Oct. 16.—In a duel that was fought near this place last evening John McRary, a young man of considerable social prominence, shot and killed Oscar Barringer, whom he suspected of undue intimacy with his young wife. For some time McRary has suspected that Barringer and Mrs. McRary were on terms of more than ordinary intimacy. Saturday last a boy handed him in mistake a note intended for Mrs. McRary, asking her to meet him that evening. After reading the missive the young husband sent the messenger back with a letter challenging Barringer to meet him in a duel to the death, which invitation was promptly accepted. At 5 o'clock last evening the two men met in a secluded spot, accompanied each by a friend, who acted as his second. Both were armed with a revolver, and without delay the word was given and firing commenced. Five shots were exchanged, and, as the fifth report sounded from McRary's pistol, Barringer fell dead with a bullet through his breast. McRary is not thought to have been hit, as he made his escape and has not yet been located.

IN SEARCH OF HUSBANDS.

The Mayor of Montreal Mistaken for a Matrimonial Agent

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—The impression has gone abroad that the mayor of Montreal is a matrimonial agent. Some weeks since the mayor received a letter from a bachelor in the west, asking him to send to Arizona young Canadian women who wanted husbands. The mayor's reply that he did not keep a matrimonial agency got into the press, and now he is receiving letters from young marriageable women in France and England, no less than three coming to hand yesterday.

The first is from Marseilles. The fair writer says she is ready to come to Montreal and then go west. All she asks is money to pay her fare and she will leave at once. The two other letters are from London and are written by an Anglo-Irish girl and a French girl. The former says she is 20, of graceful proportions, with dark and expressive eyes, and she is willing to send her photograph in exchange to any young man who means business.

The French girl says she is 24, and would like to marry a man of 30 to 40. According to her modest pretensions her only attractions are a tall, elegant form, dark hair and dark eyes. She promises to be a good wife and is willing to exchange photographs.

OMAHA EXPRESS HELD UP.

Passengers Compelled to Hand Over Their Valuables by Bandits

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 16.—The Omaha express on the Missouri Pacific, which left the Union depot at 8¼ last night, stopped at the state line station. Three robbers, without masks or disguise, entered the first chair car. One pretended to be selling papers. They covered the passengers with revolvers and compelled them to hand over their valuables, and then escaped. There were only six passengers in the car.

WIFE, HUSBAND AND CHILD.

The Woman Poisoned Herself and Babe, the Man Shot Himself.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., Oct. 16.—Perth Amboy is greatly excited over a double suicide and child murder. Gador Showdash has long been jealous of his wife, apparently without cause. They had one child, a babe in arms. Yesterday Showdash and his wife had a terrible quarrel, during which he accused her of infidelity.

The woman brooded over the charge and when he went to work steeped some matches in water and drank the stuff. Her moans attracted attention, but nothing could be done to relieve her and she died last night. Showdash, when informed of the deed, shot himself in the head and died this morning. In the excitement nothing was thought of the babe, and later it was found dead. It is supposed that the mother gave the child some of the poison.

ELOPED ON A LOCOMOTIVE.

The Pair Were Married by a Squire and Returned on the Engine

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 16. An elopement on a locomotive was the romantic way a young couple of this city chose to bring a courtship that had been fairly smooth to a close. William A. Trudeau, a Main-street clerk, and Miss Beatrice Harrig, daughter of a railroad engineer, were the participants in the novel affair, which occurred about 3 o'clock this morning. There was no special objection to the young couple marrying, but they wanted to do something out of the ordinary way, and they did. Mr. Trudeau, when he made his Sunday night call, suggested that an elopement would be nice, and Miss Harrig agreed. Then they put their heads together and devised a novel plan.

The groom to-be was to hire a locomotive and they would go whirling toward Gretna Green at the darkest hour of the night on the iron steed. The idea was carried out fully. About 3 o'clock this morning Miss Harrig slipped from her home in Eighteenth street, and was met by Trudeau at the gate. Hurriedly they walked to the Pennsylvania station, where a big black locomotive puffing and blowing, stood on a side track. Miss Harrig mounted, taking a seat on the fireman's box. Mr. Trudeau joined the engineer. The signal was given, the throttle pulled, and away they sped across the bridge, up the river and into Jeffersonville. A squire was roused from his bed, the knot tied and the panting steed once more mounted. A quick return to Louisville was made, where the new wife roused her parents and introduced her husband.

Fell to His Death

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—The mangled remains of a well-known builder and contractor, Andrew Thomas, are lying at his late residence, 261 Seaton-street awaiting an inquest. His end was a tragic one. Yesterday morning shortly after 6 the body was found at the bottom of the ravine under Rosedale railway bridge. The indications are that he fell off the bridge in some way or another. When the deceased's body was carried into the house by the police his wife and family received the news for the first time.

Deceased was well-to-do. He was about 48 years of age. His family consists of two daughters, aged 18 and 16. He was a Methodist and a member of the Home Circle Benevolent Association. He had lived in this city for seven or eight years, coming originally from Oshawa.

There is no suspicion whatever of foul play, death was caused by a broken neck

THE SYRACUSE HORROR.

MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH.

Sights That Almost Beggar Description—Husband and Wife Die in Each Other's Arms—Dashed to Death on the Stone Sidewalk—The Death List.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Oct. 16.—By the burning of the Leland Hotel the total loss exceeds $125,000. The hotel cost $80,000, and the furniture is all destroyed. The American Express Company, in the building adjoining the hotel, suffered considerable loss. The individual inmates of the hotel lost heavily in personal effects. Flames were first noticed coming from the kitchen on the second floor. Immediately the blaze was communicated to the dining-room and from there it spread in a very few moments to all parts of the great building. The bells sounded a warning to the guests in every room in the building, and from the windows heads of frightened people were thrust. Then the guests came down the elevator and stairs, many with hardly any article of clothing upon them. One man jumped from the fourth story to the top of the American Express building. Several other guests, including ladies, sprang from their windows. There were perhaps one hundred guests in the hotel. The people injured were taken in ambulances to the hospitals of the city.

One woman jumped from a fourth-story window and was killed. Cora Tanner, actress, and company were guests at the hotel. Miss Tanner slid down a fire-escape and was cut and burned by the rope on her hands.

The Leland Hotel was erected at a cost of $200,000 some four years ago. It was six stories in height. The loss will not be less than half a million of dollars to the Everson estate, Mr. Leland and the proprietors of stores on the first floor.

The frightful shrieks of girls and the crackling of the flames could be heard for blocks away. The building burned so rapidly that most of the people in the upper floors were obliged to use the fire escapes or jump. One woman appeared at a window in a room on the north side of the building with a baby in her arms. Her pitiful cries were heard as the flames gathered around her. The firemen tried in vain to raise a ladder. The woman was told to throw out the fire escape rope or jump from the window. She threw out the rope, and as she was climbing out of the window the flames enveloped her and she fell back into the building and perished. Seven or eight men and children jumped from upper stories on a shed in the rear of the building.

Several policemen stood on the sidewalk holding nets ready to catch the guests as they jumped. Two persons, a man and a woman, jumped into one of the nets almost at the same moment, and escaped with broken limbs. Next to jump was a woman, who appeared in a window on the fifth floor in her nightclothes. She leaped out of the window and, missing the net, was dashed to pieces on the stone pavement. She was picked up and removed to the morgue.

How the fire originated is not yet definitely determined, and it is doubtful if it ever will be, so rapid was the progress of the flames. It is thought, however, that it started in the bakery adjoining the kitchen.

Died in Each Other's Arms.

The cries of the men standing in the upper windows and of the excited crowd below were deafening, and, added to this, the roar of the many fire engines created a mass of confusion in and around the hotel.

At 1.12 a.m. a man and woman were seen locked in each other's arms at a window on the fifth floor in the northeast corner of the building. Below them was a perfect sea of flames. No possibility of escape except by the window was open to them, and that seemed to lead to inevitable death. No assistance could reach them. The woman seemed to be anxious to jump, but her husband was earnestly entreating her to desist. The crowd below waited with bated breath. The woman made one effort to jump and was restrained by her husband. Then the cry of the crowd signalled the awful end that must have befallen them as they dropped backward into the room, which was a mass of flames. At a window on the fourth floor, almost directly under this, a woman appeared. She was surrounded on all sides from the interior of the room by fierce flames. She seemed irresolute whether to jump to the pavement or to face the fiery foe that was fast encroaching upon her and life. She stepped upon the sill of the window and placed her hands above her head. The people in the street below shuddered and turned their faces to shut out the horrible sight that must meet their gaze should the woman jump to the ground. The woman did not jump, but seemed to be withheld by either fear or the feeling that escape would come from some other source. She leaped from the sill into the room, but remained at the window one brief instant. Then the whole room became enveloped in flame and the woman sank back from view.

The Scene of Desolation.

The huge funeral pyre which mirrored a sea of blood upon the skies in the early morning hours to-day at Franklin and West Fayette-streets is now but a smoking, hissing mass of embers, brick and stones. The number of the dead burned within the structure of the Leland Hotel, the charred remains of whom lie buried beneath the great heap it is now impossible to state definitely. Of the guests registered on the day before the holocaust not one is now unaccounted for, but of the others who were within the building, of the servants and non-transient guests, of those who fell back from the windows exhausted in the sight of hundreds of horrified spectators, the accounting is all. Those who witnessed the horrifying and sickening spectacle believe that there are numbers yet beneath the ruins of the building.

Brick by brick and stone by stone will the remains of the structure be pulled apart until what is left of each unfortunate is recovered. Of the known dead there are 7.

The wreck, upon which the firemen played to-day their streams, was sadly lacking in picturesqueness—all was a flattened mass save the elevator shaft, which now rises a blackened monument to the dead to the height of 80 feet, and the ragged edged northeast corner of the building, which remained standing until a few minutes after 4 o'clock, when it toppled over and fell with a mighty roar into the midst of the debris, sending up great clouds of dust, smoke and sparks.

The Dead

Mary Doyle, aged 18, domestic, burned to death.

Frank Carrey, Glen's Falls, guest, burned to death.

Annie Cummings of New York, aged 24, jumped from fifth floor, killed instantly.

Bridget Doyle of Marcellus, N.Y., cleaner, aged 25, jumped from sixth story window, died in patrol wagon while en route to hospital.

Rose Schwartz, aged 24 years, hotel domestic, jumped from the fifth floor and died from the shock and internal injuries.

Lucky Premier Mercier

MONTREAL, Oct. 16.—Yesterday was Premier Mercier's fiftieth birthday. To celebrate the more favored members of the Parti National purchased a pair of horses at a cost of $1,300 and a carriage at a cost of $1,500, which last night they presented to Mr. Mercier at a meeting in the government rooms. The funds were raised by subscription, the number of them being of $100 and the balance $25. The presentation was made by His Worship Mayor Grenier.

His Arm Cut Off

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 15.—About 9½ this morning, while Alexander Kennedy of Kennedy & Sons, Owen Sound, was lubricating the machinery in connection with the new waterworks pumps, he got his right arm caught between the connecting rod and wheel. The arm was cut off two inches above the wrist. To-day was the last day he was to remain in charge.

A Ray of Hope

For all who are held by the chains of scrofula or other diseases of the blood comes from Hoods Sarsaparilla, which by imparting the elements of good health and strength to the vital fluid, dissolves the bands of disease and sets the captive free. No other remedy in existence combines the positive economy, the peculiar merit and the medicinal power of Hood's Sarsaparilla.
